The mosquito carries the tetanus bacillus along with other germs, and in localities where the bacillus is plentiful cases of lockjaw for which no cause could at first be found have been traced to mosquito bites.

In violent cases of lockjaw the poison toxin may develop and produce alarming symptoms within a few hours after the entrance of the bacillus into the blood, but in most cases the development is slow at the outset. The trouble shows first in a soreness and stiffness of the side neck muscles, and gradually slight spasms of the muscles appear.

These spasms increase in violence and extend to the muscles at the back of the neck, and then to the entire spine and trunk. The abdominal and chest muscles become rigid, and the spine is ordinarily curved. The face takes on grimaces, with the forehead furrowed, the angles of the mouth drawn back into a grin and the jaw firmly set, and this facial expression, in connection with the hoarse noise made by the sufferer, renders a case of violent tetanus poisoning one of the most frightful sights in the range of medical experience. Chronic convulsions sweep over the body, at intervals more and more frequent, as the case becomes more violent, the slightest noise or jar or even a current of air being enough to bring on one of these spasms. It is only during these convulsions that the patient suffers pain.

Mild cases may last several weeks, but in acute cases death occurs in from one to seven days, and the mortality is very high. It is estimated that about 90 per cent of the cases end fatally, and among infants there is no recovery. The mortality from lockjaw is, however, decreasing, as a knowledge of the nature of the disease becomes more widespread and physicians learn how to treat it.

Analysis has shown that tetanin poison is much like strychnine poison in its effects, though much stronger, and various experiments have been made to find an antitoxin that will neutralise the poison. While the results have not been thoroughly satisfactory, prompt inoculation with tetanin antitoxin is undoubtedly valuable in many cases and should always be tried, if that is possible.

Thorough cauterization of the wound is necessary, and, if done promptly, will ordinarily prevent danger, but the difficulty is that the wound is often too slight to occasion any notice or alarm until after the toxin has developed and the harm is done.

When the disease is once fully developed, the physician has a difficult proposition on his hands. The patient is relaxed by the use of chloroform and hypodermic morphine and bromide injections are given. Hot applications are sometimes beneficial. The patient is kept in a dark room and absolutely quiet, the slightest excitement being enough to bring on convulsions. If there is no tooth missing in the patient's closed jaw, it is not unusual to extract one, so that a stomach tube may be passed through the opening and nourishment given in that way. Artificial respiration is often necessary. A case developing before the sixth day has chances of recovery, but if the trouble does not appear until after the twelfth day there is comparatively little hope for the patient.—New York Sun.

WELLAND CANAL OPEN.

Str. Algonquin Was the First Vessel to Enter at Port Dalhousie.

Port Dalhousie, Ont., April 25.—The Welland Canal was opened at 6. p. m. yesterday. The first boat to lock up was the Canadian steamer Algonquin, but the water was not high enough to allow her to proceed farther than lock three. The locking commenced in general about 5. p. m., but very slow progress was made. There are a very small number of boats waiting for the opening, the smallest for years, principally because of the engineers' strike. The propeller Arabian came off Muir's dry dock and had her boilers tested by Government Inspector Dodds. The steamer Cuba went into dry dock last night.

Decapitated by Trolley.

St. Catharines, April 24.—As the car of the N., St. C. and T. R. R., Conductor North in charge, which left Niagara Falls at 2.30 o'clock, reached Lobb's Crossing, a man was sighted on the track. The motorman gave him warning, and he stepped off the track and immediately stepped back again. Before the car could be stopped it had passed over him, severing his head completely from his body.

The dead man was A. B. Gould, of Flint, Mich., a boarder at the Russell House. The deceased was a first cousin of Mr. Edward Graves of this city.

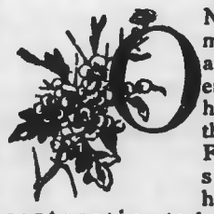
CURE SICK HEADACHE.

A LOCKMASTER CURED.



ONE of the most remarkable incidents that has happened in the county of Frontenac in some time has been the restoration to health of Mr. Thomas Todd, Lockmaster at Bæwer's Mills, Ont. Mr. Todd suffered for twelve years with rheumatism in his shoulder. So extreme was the pain that he was unable to perform his daily labor, or even dress himself. During the last year the pain was particularly acute. He used all sorts of patent medicines, recommended for the cure of rheumatism, without obtaining relief. Finally he was persuaded to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial. The contents of the first bottle gave him ease. He continued the treatment, taking the contents of eight bottles, which effected a perfect cure. To-day he is as well and sound as ever—free of pains and aches—and gives the free use of his name in the hope that it will be the means of other rheumatic sufferers finding a cure, as he did.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE STONY LAKE COTTAGERS MEET.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Mr. Jas. Davidson, Norwood.

3rd Vice-Pres.—Mr. Payne, Lakefield.

Secretary-Treas.—R. F. McWilliams.

Executive Committee—Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, R. B. Rogers, George Cochrane, Wm. Graham, G.M. Roger and the officers.

Regatta Committee:—Mr. Arthur Piper (Chairman) and Messrs. Harry Brock, George Cochrane, W. G. Morrow, Thos. Barrie, Rev. Frank Roxburgh, Dr. Piper, and F. Strickland.

Sunday Committee:—Messrs. T. W. Robinson, D. W. Dumble, Sheriff Hall, Wm. Graham and George Cochrane.

Musical Committee:—Mr. Jno. Crane, (Chairman), and Messrs. Rev. Jas. Davidson, Arthur Piper, A. L. Davis, G. M. Roger.

The matter of the date on which the annual Regatta should be held was then taken up and it was decided to hold the same on Peterborough's Civic holiday as on former years.

Considerable discussion was aroused over the manner in which the funds received from Sunday Services should be disposed of. Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards favoured leaving the matter in the hands of a committee to deal with. However, after nearly all the members had expressed their views on the matter, it was decided on motion of Mr. G. M. Rogers, seconded by Mr. D. W. Dumble, that the church collections be kept as separate funds to be held at the disposal of the Sunday Committee to defray expenses and the balance to be given to the Children's Aid Society of the County of Peterborough and that notice to this effect be posted in the pavilion.

Mr. John Crane reported that he had audited the accounts and found them correct.

The Regatta Committee was authorized to collect subscriptions for prizes, etc., for the regatta, and on motion of Messrs. D. W. Dumble and R. B. Rogers, Messrs. Shortly, McBain, Morrow, Piper, and the Secretary-Treasurer were appointed a committee to collect the fees.

The manner in which the fees should be collected evoked a good deal of discussion and it was considered that the best way was to divide the lake into districts, each one of the above named gentlemen to look after a portion of the lake alloted to him.

Mr. Piper brought up several important matters, which received due consideration.

The first of such matters was a motion by Mr. Piper to this effect:

"That the Cottagers' Association of Stony Lake endeavour to have the Government remove or buoy out several rocks and shoals which are dangerous to all classes of boats."

The matter was left in Mr. R. B. Roger's hands to deal with.

The second of Mr. Piper's resolutions was:—

"That steps be taken to procure a more commodious landing for small boats at Jumper Island."

Many opinions were expressed as to the manner in which the wharf should be built. Finally the Association voted $15 to be appropriated towards constructing a new wharf for small boats, and Messrs. Shortly and McBain were appointed a committee to supervise the construction of the same.

Mr. T. W. Robinson who was present offered to add $10 to the amount, which was accepted with thanks.

Upon motion, it was decided to procure the services of the 57th Regimental band for a band concert on a Saturday evening and a sacred concert on Sunday afternoon.

The meeting then adjourned.

COMING LIBERAL MEETINGS.

SERIES OF GATHERINGS TO BE HELD IN JUNE.

Cabinet Ministers will Address Meeting in Every County of the Province — Premier Ross will Also Speak.

Mr. Alexander Smith, the Liberal organizer, 34 Victoria street, is in correspondence with Liberal members and candidates throughout the Province with a view to arranging a series of meetings to be held during the month of June and at which the Ministers will deliver addresses. For greater convenience the Province has been divided into two sections, two Cabinet Ministers being allotted to each section. The western section comprises the Counties of Bruce, Huron, Oxford, Perth, Waterloo, Wellington, Wentworth, Elgin, Essex, Kent, Lambton, Middlesex; speakers, Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary. The centre section includes the following counties and districts:—Dufferin, Grey, Halton, Muskoka, Parry Sound, Nipissing, Peel, Simcoe, York, Brant, Haldimand, Lincoln, Monck, Norfolk and Welland, and the speakers will be Hon. J. M. Gibson, Attorney-General; Hon. F. R. Latchford, Commissioner of Public Works, and Mr. G. P. Graham, M. P. P., Brockville. The counties comprised in the eastern section are Addington, Algoma, Carleton, Dundas, Durham, Frontenac, Glengarry, Hastings, Lanark, Leeds, Northumberland, Ontario, Peterborough, Prince Edward, Prescott, Russell, Stormont and Victoria, and the speakers, Hon. Richard Harcourt, Minister of Education; Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands; and Mr. Andrew Pattullo, M.P.P. Premier Ross will, during the same month, address two meetings in each of the sections. It is expected that these latter meetings will be in the nature of a general demonstration or picnic for each section. The place of all the meetings and the particular dates will be fixed next week.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

BASEBALL.

The first practice of the season will take place on the P.A.A.A. grounds to-morrow afternoon. All those who intend to figure on the diamond this year are asked to turn out.

The following has been handed to the Sporting Editor:—The annual meeting of the Coal Heaver Baseball Club (the champions of the City League of 1900) convened last night in the rotunda of the People's Coal Co.'s palatial buildings, and the following resolutions were read and passed unanimously, amid tremendous applause, which doubtless will have a stimulating effect on next year's prices, as the very coal itself glistened with enthusiasm. The capacious buildings were elaborately decorated for the occasion, and the seating capacity was sorely taxed, in many cases honoured members having to rest on a bag of coal. The secretary of the club informed those having to sit on the bags of coal that newspapers would be supplied. This course was hotly opposed, and the secretary severely censured by members Bradley and Laidlaw, who had anticipated a large sale of trouserings. The following resolutions were then put to the meeting:

Resolved—That the club desires to place on record its confidence in the Laurier Administration.

Resolved—That our sympathies be extended to all the census men, whose trials and tribulations have been many, especially in cases of maiden ladies, some of whom must have used great tact and strategy in touching that very delicate subject, which it is not necessary to mention.

Resolved—That an information bureau be opened at once by the census enumerators.

Resolved—That our sympathies be extended to Capt. Spence, of the Moss Backs, for his heroic attempts to capture the City League Hockey Championship.

Resolved—That this club appreciate the success of "Scuddy" Phelan, Sam Reade, "Sax" Davidson and others, who have left to seek their fortunes in regions more congenial to their ambitious natures.

Resolved—That our sympathies be extended to the coal men, and our congratulations to the ice men.

At this stage of the meeting one of the members jumped up from his seat and stated that he had been grossly abused and imposed upon by his mother-in-law, and wanted to know if there was a clause in the club's by-laws which could give redress to a man in his position. This was promptly ruled out of order by the chairman and led to a very animated discussion. Some of the members warming up to the occasion became very confidential and confided to the meeting startling facts, throwing great light on the burdens of a married man.

Resolved—That we extend our sympathies and support to all men living under such circumstances, and think it is time that the marriage laws were revised, thereby making it impossible for a man to marry the whole family.

These resolutions were put and carried without a dissenting voice.

The chairman then announced the election of officers for the ensuing year. All last year's officers having proved efficient and competent they were re-elected by acclamation.

Attention was called to Code III, By-Law 863, which says all members, who by negligence, over-sight, or lack of ability to pay, are liable (without notice, written or otherwise,) to be black-balled and subjected to ejection from all meetings, privileges, and benefits, that are attached to the club.

This announcement caused many to blush and look for holes in the floor to drop through, but the treasurer seeing the opportunity to swell the club's finances, said he had a list of the members in arrears with him, and was about to read it, when one member who was blessed with an unlimited amount of immaculate gall, coupled with a gift of gab, arose and stated that he thought it was very unfair of the treasurer to look so hard at him, as he had always been in good standing, but this last year had been a very expensive one for him, as his generous nature had roped him in for a marriage license and the other expenses which necessarily follow, and requested to be put in good standing, as his financial resources were severely taxed at present. His appeal was put and carried and sympathies extended.

Others had excuses too numerous to mention, but the meeting was fairly remunerative to the treasurer, and the club starts out with a handsome surplus.

As the lamps were beginning to flicker for the want of oil it was necessary to suspend further business and the meeting adjourned for a week when several hot discussions as to the constitutional rights and privileges of citizenship, coupled with local option, Carrie Nation practice and woman's suffrage will take place. The singing of God Save the King ended the meeting.

THE WHEEL.

Mr. W. J. Wells of the National Cycle and Automobile Company was in town to-day in the interest of his firm. He is enthusiastic over the proposition to hold a road race in Peterborough, and offers to donate a handsome trophy as one of the prizes. Mr. Vanderwater has also offered to donate a pair of Dunlop tires. Of course both the offers are open to riders of the National Co's wheels. The race may be run in series, the first to take place on the first Saturday in June. The hearty co-operation of all bicyclists is asked in the matter.

Y.M.C.A. ATHLETICS.

The executive of the Y.M.C.A. Athletic Club met last night and transacted considerable business. Monday and Wednesday nights will be devoted to football, Thursday and Saturday to track athletics. The lacrosse evenings will be be decided later. Tennis every morning, afternoon and evening. (Sundays excepted.) There will be a short run-out on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Let all come and start getting into shape for the out-door work.

JUST IN TIME!

Without going into details, we wish to say that we have opened out another large lot of excellent Tweeds and Serges, bought direct from the Maple Leaf Woollen Mills at unheard-of reductions. Nothing better of the kind was ever priced so lowly in this town before.

Among these are a lot of splendid pick ups in Remnants from one to five yards, as well as in regular long piece lengths. The goods are good goods and will be sold at 25c., 35c. and 40c. per yard. No chance to go wrong with all wool tweeds and serges at these prices! See our window of new English worsted trouserings, which we are making up to order for $3.50 and $4, well worth $5 and $5.50. Now's the time to leave your measure.

H. LEBRUN.

THE FIRST OF MAY.

To move, or not to move?
That is the question
Which I am up against;
To move and hunt a house?
To tramp the paves with eagle eyes,
Peel'd keen for each "To Let;"
To pore with aching head
The columns of "For Rent;"
And when the house is found
To move!
To tear assunder carpets and
To put them down straightway;
To struggle with the stovepipe 'till
The fittest shall survive;
To bow the servile hinges of
My knees
To her who rules this domcile—
The boss;
To move or stay?
To stay—and pay the rent!
"The rent?" The rent!"
Alas, that sordid cry
Doth haunt my soul;
Between two fires am I,
And from this knotty problem may
The gods deliver me.

A Sad Death.

The following is clipped from the Creemore Star, of the 11th of April. The family referred to were former residents of Norwood:—Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. J. Pengelly, Mulmur, in the loss by death of their daughter, Mary, a young woman of nearly twenty years of age, which occurred on Thursday last from an attack of acute pneumonia. The deceased had not been in the best of health for some time, though nothing serious was anticipated, until she was stricken with this painful ailment, which her weakened constitution was unable to withstand. The funeral took place to the Banda Cemetery on Good Friday. It is only a few months since Mr. and Mrs. Pengelly were bereft of their son, a young man of high character, and this second bereavement comes to them with peculiar force.

DOWAGER'S DODGE.

How Empress of China Proposes to Escape Responsibility.

BOARD OF ADMINISTRATION.

News of Importance, as It Indicates Empress-Dowager Relinquishes Arbitrary Powers She Has Hitherto Exercised—Her Practical Retirement Will Make It Easie: for Foreign Ministers.

Washington, April 27.—The following cablegram has been received at the State Department from Mr. Squier, the United States charge at Pekin, dated yesterday:

"The Empress Dowager has appointed a Board of National Administration to relieve her of her public functions. They embrace three members of the Cabinet now with the Empress at Siang Fu, and Prince Ching, Viceroy Li and Prince Kung, who are now in Pekin."

This news is regarded as of importance, indicating, as it does, the relinquishment by the Empress Dowager of the arbitrary powers she heretofore has exercised. It also is apparent that she has placed herself in a position to avoid direct responsibility to the foreigners, for whatever may happen in the future, the board will have to bear the brunt of any complaint. It is felt that the appointment of this board will make it much easier for the foreign Ministers to transact business with the Chinese Government.

Chinese Troops Reappear.

Pekin, April 26.—The Chinese regulars who retired beyond the Great Wall have reappeared to another point within the international area. Strong representations have been made to the Chinese plenipotentiaries in regard to the necessity for their immediate retirement. The French force is in readiness to renew the operations, but has been ordered to await the result of the Imperial edicts.

To return to Pekin as soon as possible in order to pacify the people, who are looking eagerly westward for their Emperor's return. The censor is certain there is danger, and if the Emperor is doubtful he can return as far as Ka Fung Fu, where he can better examine the conditions and arrange for the foreign evacuation. But, he adds, an early date for His Majesty's return should be announced immediately.

Serious Famine in China.

New York, April 27.—The following cablegram was received by The Christian Herald yesterday:

"Pekin, April 25.—Very serious famine spreads over the whole Province of Shan Si, over 11,000,000 people affected. Urgent relief necessary. Conditions warrant immediate appeal.

"Li Hung Chang."

The Christian Herald has announced its purpose of raising a fund to relieve the sufferers in the famine stricken district.

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

Body of a Dead Man Found Six Miles West of North Bay.

North Bay, Ont., April 27.—The dead body of a man, supposed to have been killed, was found along side of the railway track yesterday morning, about six miles west of here. A photo of a woman, supposed to be his wife, two cents and a bottle of wood alcohol were all that was found on him. The photo has the following written on the back: "Mrs. J. S. Brennen, Hamilton, Ont."

Nothing Learned in Hamilton.

Hamilton, April 27.—The Brennen Manufacturing Company received word yesterday afternoon regarding the finding of the body of the man at North Bay, but as none of that firm were in the district, the message was turned over to Police Chief Smith, who wired for a description of the body. In reply, the following message, which is not clear, was received:

"On body of man found dead here was photograph endorsed Tillie—Mrs. J. S. Brennen. Cochrane, photographer. Trace parties if possible and advise."

The police made enquiries at the various families of Brennens, but got no clue up to midnight.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS.

Charles White of Brantford, According to Analyst Ellis, Died From Strychnine—Developments Expected.

Brantford, April 27. — Charles White died of strychnine. The analyst's report amply bears out the diagnosis of Dr. J. A. Marquis, the physician called in before the Dominion analyist, Toronto, to whom the stomach of deceased was sent, has made his report to the coroner, Dr. Heath. The coroner read the report of the jury Thursday night. It states that, judging from the symptoms observed by the medical man who attended the deceased just prior to death, a search was made for strychnine. The contents of the stomach revealed the presence of strychnine in sufficient quantities to cause death.

This fact, with the percentage and other technical information, is the substance of the Dominion analyist's report.

The inquest continues to be held in secret.

At Thursday night's inquest the jury took matters in their own hands a little, and, as the coroner commenced to sum up the case, told him they were not through hearing evidence. It was clear from the analyist's report that deceased had demised from strychnine poisoning, but whether by accident, self-administration or otherwise they had not heard. They thought some evidence should have been led along that line.

The Attorney-General's Department declined to give out any information on the matter and refused to sanction the publication of Analyist Ellis' report. The general opinion is that some serious developments will ensue.

Ice Blockade Broken.

Port Huron, Mich., April 27.—The ice blockade at the foot of Lake Huron, which has been blocking navigation for a week, was broken yesterday by the combined efforts of the steamers City of Berlin, Hadley and Fedora, releasing about 20 vessels. LORD KITCHENER'S REPORT.

About 300 Boers Were Taken by the Various Columns in One Day—Gen. Kitchener Took 180 Prisoners and a Quantity of Cattle, Sheep and Wagons—Mr. Hay Resigns.

London, April 27.—The War Office has received the following from Lord Kitchener:

"Pretoria, April 26.—Since yesterday the columns report the Boer losses to be 12 killed, 20 wounded, 47 captured and 42 surrendered.

"In addition to the foregoing, Lt. Reid with 20 bushmen captured, southeast of Coomassie Drift, Oliphant's River, Commandant Schoeder and 41 Boers, together with a Maxim. Reid's men crept up and surrounded the enemy before dawn and opened fire, the Boers immediately surrendering."

In a later message, forwarding advices from General Kitchener, his brother, the Commander-in-Chief, says:

"General Kitchener reports from Paardeplatz four Boers killed, 180 taken prisoners and 3,000 cattle, 6,000 sheep and many wagons captured."

The Penitentiary Shaken.

Stoney Mountain, Man., April 27.—Thursday night the wind got up to a terrific rate, blowing from the south, when almost instantly it changed and came from the north and turned into a regular cyclone, uplifting nearly everything in its course. The Manitoba Penitentiary had the weigh scale building, windmill, chimneys, fences and large flagstaff blown down, and the timber and woodwork carried two and three hundred yards away and broken into slivers.

Dominion Live Stock Dealers.

Toronto, April 27.—The Executive Committee of the Dominion Live Stock Dealers' Association met here yesterday. The following resolution was passed: Moved by T. O. Robinson, seconded by John Brown of Galt, that, on account of the large amount of business which is now transferred at the Cattle Market, we find the accommodation furnished by the city of Toronto inadequate for the requirements of the trade, which is bound to still grow to larger proportions. And we also find the yards entirely too small, which is injurious to the cattle placed in them.

Resolved.—That as the city of Toronto has taken no action to meet the requirements of the trade, we, as an association, pledge ourselves to give our sympathy and support to any joint stock company that will undertake to provide suitable accommodation for the requirements of our growing trade.

The origin of the fire is not known. The loss of the Baxter-Galloway Milling Company is estimated at $35,000.

ASPHODEL COUNCIL.

Town Hall, Westwood, April 1st, 1901.

Council met pursuant to adjournment; all the members present.

Minutes of last meeting read and signed.

Communications received as follows:

From H. C. Elmhirst, offering to sell road rooter.

From F. W. Wilkins, agent for Mrs. Geo. Grover, asking for compensation for the forced road leading from Norwood to John Knox's line.

Left over to give Council an opportunity to find out what title the Council have to the road at present.

From J. B. Pearce, Esq., Norwood, stating that the Hon. Mr. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals, had fixed upon Wednesday, April 3rd, at 11 a. m., as the time to receive a deputation on the matter of granting a subsidy to the Norwood & Apsley Railway, and asking the Asphodel Council for their assistance in helping to secure the subsidy.

The Council after consideration agreed to go down to Ottawa in a body on Tuesday night's train.

Tenders for operating the road grader were received as follows:—

Donald McNaughton, per day	$5 00
Wm. Garvey, " "	6 00

Thomas McMillen, per day	5 00
Jas. F. Doherty, per day of 10 hours work	4 50

The Council agreed unanimously to give the operating of the road grader for this season to Jas. F. Doherty at his tender, namely, $4.50 per day of 10 hours work, he to furnish one operator, teamster and two teams, to board themselves and carry around a road rooter and crow bar if found necessary.

Mr. Healy refused to accept this offer.

Council adjourned till the last Monday n May, to meet then as a Court of Revision and other general business.

TRICKS IN THE SILK TRADE.

How Shoppers Are Fooled—Tests Which Show the Pure Material.

Pure silk, when it has been through all the processes necessary to bring out all its good qualities, is worth its weight in silver, said an expert the other day. Therefore the women who expect to buy pure silk at little more than the price of cotton must expect to be fooled, and there are lots of ways by which the manufacturer gets even with them.

They make stuff that is called silk and passes for it with credulous persons who don't know any better ont of nearly any old thing now. One favorite imitation silk is made of cellulose treated with chemicals. It isn't a good material to get on fire in. Then there are south sea island cottons and some mercerized cotton which after treatment look something like silk, though of course they wear very differently, and their silken appearance soon vanishes.

But it is in adulterating goods which really have some silk in them that the greatest skill is exercised to deceive the buyer. To obtain the required rustle and body rough floss is often used for the woof of the material. This soon causes it to wear shiny.

Another trick is to increase the weight and apparent solidity of a flimsy silk material by using metallic salts in the dye vats. Pressing with some kinds of silk increases the weight also, but at the sacrifice of strength. Cheap, crackly, stiff silk which has heavy cords is good silk to avoid. It won't wear.

There are several tests which reveal readily the purity of a piece of silk. The microscope of course will show it at once, even to an unpracticed eye. Pure silk has the appearance of fine, smooth tubes. Another good test is by burning. Pure silk burns slowly, with a slight odor. Cotton flares up quickly and would throw off a decidedly disagreeable smell.

Then the tongue will readily reveal the presence of metallic salts. There is no mistaking their taste. But all these may be disregarded, said the expert, when silk is offered for the price of cotton. You need not bother to test that stuff

Methods of Curing Jungle Fever.

I got over my attack, but it was a marvel that I did. One morning my doctor bled me till there was scarcely a drop of blood left in my body. He then gave me 40 grains of calomel, and in the evening, as the fever was still raging, he ordered me to be taken out to the yard of my quarters, laid on a bare rattan couch and buckets of cold water thrown over me for about 20 minutes! I was then put back to bed and fortunately fell asleep for several hours. After some weeks on the sick list, I was able to return to my post at Korpegalle.—"Fifty Years In Ceylon."

A LIFE SAVED.

Marvellous Recovery of Little Minnie Gallagher from Malignant Diptheria.

Statement made by Mr. H. Gallagher. of Toronto, regarding the case.

He says: "Minnie Gallagher is my niece and with four of the other children was prostrated with a malignant type of diphtheria, Minnie was much worse than any of the others, and her life was despaired of, in fact, the physician in attendance had given up all hope, and before leaving for the night expected that her death would occur before morning, and had given directions for the disposal of the body. It was at this crisis I advised the family to try Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills. I had used them before, with excellent results in my own family, and owing to their germ killing properties I felt confident they would do more to effect a cure than any other methods of treatment. The most wonderful results followed. During the night we administered Seven Pills in all, and by morning the girl was able to take nourishment. Within two days more she was able to be about, and at the present time is in splendid health." (Signed) H. Gallagher, 78 Gerrard street West, Toronto.

The above are the actual facts of this most wonderful cure, and besides the testimony given by Minnie's uncle, a dozen others in the neighborhood who are familiar with the circumstances can vouch for every word stated here.

Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills are sold by all druggists, large box 75c., small 25c., or sent postpaid on receipt of price by the Arnold Chemical Co., Limited, Canada Life Bldg., 44 King St. West, Toronto. Booklet sent free.

MR. RITCHIE SUMS UP.

Not a Jot of Evidence Against Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

COUNSEL'S CHANGE OF FRONT.

Is Now Disposed to Connect Sir Richard Cartwright With Mr. Cook—His Explanation of the Criminal Law Episode—Mr. Ritchie About Mr. Preston's Treatment—Committee Adjourns.

Ottawa, April 26.—When Mr. Ritchie rose to address the Cook Investigation Committee yesterday morning, Senator Dandurand expressed a doubt whether any argument from this counsel was necessary. He said that Mr. Ritchie had been retained to conduct the procedure for the committee, but it almost looked as though he had been acting as counsel for Mr. Cook. The committee had heard the argument pro and con, and there was no necessity for argument by Mr. Ritchie, but if any question arose upon which they needed his advice they would call him. Mr. Ritchie defended himself from the imputation of having been partial or one-sided in his conduct, and claimed to have acted solely with the desire to get at the facts. He said if the inquiry had closed when he at first expected it would the evidence would have fallen short of connecting Sir Richard Cartwright with Mr. Cook. Since then, however, evidence of a most material character had been brought before the committee, and counsel could no longer say that. Counsel justified his conduct of the case and repudiated the idea that he had been at all one-sided or partisan in his course. Mr. Ritchie thought the case had been fully discussed by the opposing counsel, but there were one or two matters to which he desired to call attention. In connection with the "criminal law episode," as Mr. Marsh had styled it, there was a direct conflict between Messrs. Cook and Biggs. Cook said the criminal code was consulted after the interview with Cameron, while Biggs swore that it took place some time previous, when Cook told him he had been offered a Senatorship for $10,000, and had positively declined. Reverting to Mr. Preston, counsel thought that gentleman had nothing to complain of. He had been allowed to be represented by counsel and to make a statement before the committee. The effect of Mr. Ritchie's comments upon the alleged tampered letter to which Mr. Preston had drawn attention was that there was nothing of importance in it. Finally Mr. Ritchie said it was for the committee to judge whether Sir Richard Cartwright was aware of what was going on between Cook and Cameron. He certainly did think now, no matter what view he might have expressed before, that there was evidence which affected Sir Richard. As to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Ritchie was bound to repeat there was not a tittle of evidence to connect him with the negotiations. It was all very well for Mr. Marsh to say that Sir Richard was the agent for the Premier in these appointments for Ontario. Technically this might be so, but the committee was bound to look at the moral aspect of the case, and, viewed in that light, there was nothing to connect Sir Wilfrid with this matter.

The committee then adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

Profits in Fractions of Cents.

It is most astonishing that trade in these days is making its enormous profits in the fractions of a cent. In one of the cities of the country there was a bank president who gave his millions for philanthropic purposes. During his life, even on the days when he was almost too infirm to walk, he would trudge sadly and brokenly to his home. One day a man met him on the street and said:

"Why don't you take the street car?"

He instantly replied, "My dear friend, do you appreciate the fact that a hundred dollars would have to work half a week to pay that fare?"

And yet he gave two millions to a library and another million to a hospital. That is the spirit of modern money making. On the one hand it gets the millions through the fractions of cents, and with the other it spends the millions without regard to decimals

Dyspepsia

Is difficult digestion, due to a weakened condition of the stomach and its inability to properly churn the food; or to unhealthy condition of the gastric juice, too much or too little acid, too much or too little pepsin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla relieves all the distressing symptoms of dyspepsia because it promotes the muscular action of the stomach and intestines, aids nature in the manufacture of her own digestive secretions, which are far better than any artificial pepsin, unlocks the bowels, stimulates the kidneys and tones up their mucous membranes.

So prompt is its effect in many cases that it seems to have almost a magic touch.

Begin to take it NOW.

CHILD LOVE.

Two little arms were clinging,
And a little head was pressed
(The rosy face all hidden)
Closely against my breast.

"What is it, dear?" I questioned,
Caressing the golden head.
Whispering sweetly and shyly,
"I love you!" the darling said.

What had I given to win it—
This offering pure and sweet?
A story told in the twilight,
A merry word when we meet?

Oh, child love, so gladly offered,
So easily won, I pray
Through life I may find this treasure
Mine, as it is today!

There are trials to meet and vanquish
And sorrows crowned with the years,
And lips curve less to smiling,
And eyes fill oft with tears,

But the heavy heart grows lighter,
Half of its grief beguiled,
When love, with a heaven born impulse,
Speaks from the lips of a child!

SPECIFIC SYSTEM covers as wide a range of disease as it is safe for a layman to treat. A few of the most used cures are:

GRIP AND COLDS.—The use of "77" starts the blood coursing through the veins until it reaches the extremities, when the feet warm up and the Cold is broken.

RHEUMATISM.—The use of No. 15 neutralizes the uric acid in the blood, and the poison passes off through the kidneys.

DYSPEPSIA, Indigestion, Weak Stomach. The use of No. 10 stimulates the gastric juices, the food assimilates, the digestion is perfected.

MALARIA is prevalent owing to the upheaval of the streets. The use of No. 16 "breaks up" the Chills and Fever, while its tonicity sustains the system.

SENT UP FOR TRIAL.

Toronto, April 26. — The preliminary investigation into the charges preferred by the county authorities against Frank Rutledge, Fred Lee Rice and Thomas Jones was concluded yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Ellis at the old Court House, the prisoners being committed for trial at the General Sessions, which opens at the City Hall on Tuesday, May 14. It was charged that the three men, on the night of May 22, or early on May 23, 1900, broke into the postoffice at Aurora and stole stamps, $55 in cash and mining stock certificates of the mines Golden Star, Monte Cristo, Lillie May, Nest Egg, Vulcan, Silver Bell, Rossland, Red Mountain and California Consolidated. It was further charged that they had stolen the horse Altoneer, a cart and a harness from Philip G. Button of Stouffville, and that they had robbed the private bank of J. L. Ross at Aurora of $581.85.

Bright's disease, diabetes, liver complaint, rheumatism, neuralgia, blood diseases and functional irregularities can have no terrors if Paine's Celery Compound be promptly and honestly used.

We proudly point those who are sufferers to two most important points; first: that Paine's Celery Compound cures promptly and surely; second: that the cures effected by Paine's Celery Compound are lasting and permanent. These established truths should cheer the despondent and [illegible] everywhere.

[illegible] Smythe, a well-known resident of Manvers, Ont., used the great medicine with most happy results: he says:

"For two years I was in a low condition of health, suffering from nervousness, fainting spells, pain in the head, stomach troubles and loss of appetite. I was under the care of two doctors, but received no benefit from their treatment. I was advised by a neighbor to use your wonderful medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. The use of this marvellous preparation soon produced the very best results. I am glad to report that my health is improved in every respect; I am stronger, sleep better, and my appetite is good and natural. OCEAN LOG RAFTING.

HOW THE INDUSTRY WAS DEVELOPED ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

The Towing of Monster Timber Rafts Down the Coast From Seattle—A Great Business—Inventor of the Method Had Many Troubles.

This is the time of year when the log rafters of the Pacific coast, especially at Seattle, are very busy men. Log rafting on the high seas is one of the great industries of the coast, and, although the birthplace of the business was on the Atlantic side of the continent, it has reached its highest development in the west, where hundreds of thousands of feet of timber are rafted annually.

The rafts are simply mammoth bundles of piles chained together and towed to their place of destination. The inventor and patentee of the methods now in vogue is Captain H. R. Robertson, and no history of the industry is complete without mention of him.

The first raft ever constructed under the Robertson methods was built at Port Joggins, N. S., in 1886. An unsuccessful attempt to launch it was made that year, the ways breaking under the enormous weight of the raft. In 1887 it was launched all right and taken to sea. The hawser connecting it with its tug snapped near Boston, and for months the raft, 400 feet long, drifted around the sea, a menace to navigation, until it finally went to pieces on the Azores islands.

While Robertson was the inventor of the method under which this great raft was built, credit must be given to James D. Leary of New York, for he it was who came to the inventor's aid when his financial resources were at an end, and he has been to Atlantic rafting what Robertson has been to the industry on the Pacific.

Immediately upon the loss of the raft of 1887 Mr. Leary announced his unshaken confidence in the feasibility of the enterprise and declared his determination to launch another raft. He and Robertson were out about $50,000 on their first venture, and it was considered foolhardy to again risk such a sum. They went ahead, however, contracted for the logs to be delivered at Port Joggins in the winter of 1888, and this raft was successfully built, floated and towed to New York, where its arrival created a sensation.

The pile rafts now built on the Pacific coast are constructed with the greatest care. The piles are placed in a huge cradle in the form of a gigantic vessel's hull. This cradle costs $8,000. When the load is complete, one and a half inch chains are passed around the body of the raft every 12 feet of length. Running fore and aft through the center are two two inch chains, one holding the bulkheads at each end in place and the other fastening to the hawser.

From this tow chain are lateral chains running out from the center to connect with the encircling chains. This makes a steady strain in towing, and the heavier the pull the tighter are the piles held in place.

In all there are 41 encircling chains, each 150 feet long, two fore and aft chains of 600 feet each, 1,000 feet of lateral chains, 75 fathoms of 1¾ inch tow chain and 150 fathoms of 14 inch manila hawser.

San Francisco takes the great part of the piles rafted on the coast, and since Captain Robertson took to the coast his rafting appliances there has been a great reduction in the price of piling to consumers, which is of direct personal interest to every wharf owner and renter in San Francisco or any port where piles have to be brought from a distance. Prior to the rafting era the sticks sold for 16 to 20 cents a lineal foot, and even then it was difficult to get all the piles that were needed, but now there are plenty of them to be had for 10 to 12 cents a foot. As the consumption of San Francisco alone is 30,000 piles a year, the annual saving is not far from $150,000, estimating the length of piles to be 70 feet each.

Attempts have repeatedly been made to secure legislation at Washington prohibiting rafting on the high seas as a menace to navigation. A bill to this effect was introduced at the first session of the Fiftieth congress, 1888, by Representative Dingley and has been repeated frequently of late years. The Dingley bill was read twice, referred to the committee on merchant marine and fisheries and ordered to be printed, and then the committee went to the United States attorney general for his official opinion as to the legality of the proposed legislation.

The attorney general spent some time investigating the matter and then stated that a raft had as much right on the high seas as a barge or sailing vessel or steamship and that congress had no power to enforce contrary rulings.

Apparently the chief agitators against rafting are members of the firemen's, sailors' and engineers' unions, who see in it a menace to their employment. As each raft consists of timber enough to load from five to ten vessels the seamen believe that the manufacture of many of them would result in that number of craft being withdrawn from the trade, which would force them to seek other work. Farmers and loggers are in favor of pile rafting, because it clears the land and prevents the waste of enormous quantities of timber.

COUNTERFEIT ART.

Americans Are Easily Swindled on Pictures by "Old Masters."

There will doubtless never come a time in the history of the art world when the discovery of "old masters" will cease, certainly not as long as American picture buyers possess the almighty dollar and are willing to be swindled.

Nearly every week in New York for the last year there have been auction sales of "rare old masters." Some of them are rare, indeed; one that was shown at the Macbeth gallery and also in Detroit some time ago, supposed to be a study of an old man by Rubens, the left hand of which was nearly twice the size of its mate, and the term "rare" did certainly apply very aptly to the flesh tints.

Do people ever stop to think how many of these "old masters" there are in existence? Any one may have an "old master" these days who has the "price to pay the dealer to find one or go abroad and get one 'made.'" There are many artists in Paris and elsewhere who make a good living, or what they consider a good living, copying "old masters" in the various galleries to sell to dealers for little or nothing, and they in turn bring them to America and clear hundreds by selling them to some moneyed art lover who in some cases is doubtless in the possession of more money than judgment in art matters.

One well known New York art collector some time ago paid a large sum for a certain painting that an enterprising dealer had "discovered" and who represented it to him as very rare and the only one in existence. The same gentleman while on a recent tour through Spain was shown the original painting upon the walls of a certain monastery. The sequel of the story does not say what he did with the dealer. If there be a hereafter for these discoverers of "old masters," their consciences, which seem very elastic, will have to do a deal of rubbering to get back to the required shape to fit them for their celestial abiding places or to meet the frowns of the shades of departed masters themselves

A Boasting Epitaph.

The following epitaph is to be found in Dalkeith churchyard, over the grave of Margaret Scott:

Stop, passenger, until my life you read,
The living may get knowledge by the dead.
Five times five years I lived a maiden's life;
Ten times five years I lived a widow chaste.
Now, weary of this mortal life, I rest.
Between my cradle and my grave have been
Eight mighty kings of Scotland and a queen.
Four times five years the commonwealth I saw;
Ten times the subjects rose against the law.
Twice did I see old prelacy pulled down,
And twice the cloak was trembled by the gown.
An end of Stewart's race I saw; nay, more—
My native country sold for English ore.
Such desolations in my life have been;
I have an end of all perfection seen.

This lady was born in 1613 and lived to the age of 125 and, therefore, must have lived through the following list of rulers: James I, Charles I, the commonwealth of Oliver Cromwell as protector, Charles II, James II, William III and Mary, Anne, George I and George II.—London Chronicle.

'Tis Easy to Feel Good.

Countless thousands have found a blessing to the body in Dr. King's New Life Pills, which positively cure Constipation, Sick Headache, Dizziness, Jaundice, Malaria, Fever and Ague and all Liver and Stomach troubles. Purely vegetable, never gripe or weaken. Only 25c at Jas. Lynch's drug store.

Antiquity of Man.

From a review in Science of De Mortillet's great work on prehistoric times the following is condensed. Twelve chapters are devoted to the question of tertiary man. It is concluded that while man did not exist during this period, precursors of man more intelligent than any of the living anthropoids did exist.

Pithecanthropus erectus is considered as the immediate precursor of man. The Calaveras skull is rejected. The paleolithic period is considered as corresponding to the early quarternary, and 222,000 years is assigned as the length of this period. Add to this number 10,000 years for the protohistoric and neolithic periods and 6,000 years more for the historic period, and we have 238,000 years, which is, according to the authors, a moderate estimate of man's antiquity.

Drugging will not Cure Catarrh.

Doctors say so. Victims of snuffs, ointments and tablets tell the same story. Catarrh is a germ disease. The germs excite disease in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes. Germs are hard to get at, but destroy them and you cure the disease. How can it be done? By carrying powerful medication with the air you breathe direct to the diseased parts. You must be sure, also, that the medication will kill the disease germs. Catarrhozone is guaranteed to do this. That's why it has created such a sensation in the medical world. You simply breathe Catarrhone; it destroys the germs—it heals—in a word it cures. Now you know everything about Catarrhozone, except what you can learn by using it. Catarrhozone never disappoints and is guaranteed to cure Catarrh. Price $1.00; Small size 25 cents, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

SMOOTH SEWING SILK.
Corticelli sewing silk is twisted on automatic machines which stop when a break or knot happens in any one of the hundred strands it is twisted with.
It is therefore perfectly smooth.
Being smooth it is strong—free from knots or flaws.
Better than cotton or linen because it lasts longer, goes further, and won't fade.

THE CLOSING EXERCISES

IN CONNECTION WITH THE LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

A Great Many Persons Witness the Annual Event—The Special Features.

The closing exercises in connection with the boys' classes of the Y. M. C. A. were held last night and were attended by a large number of parents and people in general who take a deep interest in the physical work of the Association. The exhibition of general gymnastics was fairly well put on, although perhaps the work of the senior class was not quite up to that of last year. However, the entertainment was most interesting and highly appreciated by those who were in attendance.

The affair opened with a drill by the junior class composed of about 50 boys between the ages of 10 and 13 years. Their class work and marching which was a special feature was admirably done and at times produced much applause from the spectators.

The Indian Club race was a very funny sight to witness and appeared to be thoroughly enjoyed by the boys themselves.

The Senior Class gave a very pretty exhibition of horizontal and parallel bar gymnastics in which Claud Rogers proved to be a shining light. The Pick-a-back wrestling, a new feature in gymnastic work, was a most amusing number. This was won by Mr. Horace Ayres, with Mr. Ross Dobbin a close second.

The basket ball match between the Junior Intermediates and the Brownies was won by the latter.

The entertainment closed with the Junior Class giving an exhibition of marching in which the maze, the figure 8, and triangles were leading features.

Miss Annie Macdonald presided at the piano and rendered excellent music for the marching, etc.

Altogether the exercises were most interesting and reflected much credit upon the Physical Director, Mr. J. M. McLeod, and his able assistant, Mr. Horace Ayers. Mr. Frank Trollope assisted Mr. McLeod in last night's performance.

OUR BAND IN LINDSAY.

The 57th Regimental Band returned this morning from Lindsay where they gave one of their popular band concerts in the academy of music last night. The attendance was large and it consisted of the very best class of Lindsay's citizens. They were highly appreciative and insisted on no fewer than five uncores. The programme rendered was of the gilt edge variety and included a trombone solo by Mr. Harry Clark, who rendered the "Holy City" and for an encore gave the "Palms" in the same delighful manner as has been heard in Peterborough. At the conclusion of the entertainment Mr. Gliddon and the members of his band were heartily congratulated by the citizens of Lindsay on the excellent musical organization Peterborough possesses

CEREAL WORKS NOTES.

Engineers Think they have Struck Bed Rock at Last.

Engineer Kearns has returned from a flying trip to Montreal and Ottawa. Mr. Kearns expects a portion of his family from the United States to arrive early in May. Manager Scott, who has been in Ottawa, all week, preparing to move his furniture to Peterborough, is expected back early next week.

Judging from the points where the men have been drilling for the table rock on which to build the foundation for the big concrete dam, it will be located to the rear and a little north of the Peterborough Light and Power Company's power house, and run in a slightly diagonal direction to a point a little lower down on the other side of the river. A small raft is anchored off the end of the big heap of slabs and sawdust comprising the Dickson Company's dump., A churn drill operated by hand, was tried here as well as at several points on both sides of the river, supposedly indicating the site which the engineers would prefer selecting for the dam. These churn drills are often used in connection with the work over on the canal, and consist of operating a bar inside a small pipe containing water. The contents of the pipe can be drawn off at times in order to ascertain the nature of the soil through which the drill is being driven. Many wells are bored in this manner in Cavan township. It is understood that rock has been struck in one place at a depth of twelve feet and a number of other holes will be sunk in the vicinity in order to ascertain whether or not bed-rock has been reached. This is on the west side of the river, and at a point where Lieut.-Col. Rogers states that he would not be surprised if bed-rock was not found nearer the surface than forty feet. Of course if this is the case the prospective location of the dam would have to be shifted. The site which has apparently been chosen is a most desirable one from many standpoints. For one thing the high banks of the river just here would permit of an enormous amount of water being reservoired. No statement is made as to whether the old Dickson Company's dam will be done away with or not, but it would presumably be abolished after serving the purposes of a coffer dam, whilst the new structure is being built.

Few can comprehend the stupendous outlay involved in erecting this new dam. It is to be of solid concrete and will have tracks laid across in order that cars may be easily transferred from one side of the river to the other. The cost, it is said, has been estimated at a quarter of a million dollars. Another quarter of a million is to be expended on the buildings.

$500 IS NEEDED.

The efforts of the several committees which have been placed in chaage of the demonstration on Victoria Day should be well backed up by the Town Council. The Mayor last evening stated that he thought there would be no trouble in getting a grant of $300. This sum, however, is not sufficient and the Council is urged to be liberal in the matter. Lindsay, Millbrook, Campbellford, Norwood and other neighboring towns and villages are holding celebrations and unless a first-class programme is arranged for the day in Peterborough numbers of the citizens will naturally go to some of these other places. While the object of the demonstration is primarily to observe the day fittingly, an important secondary consideration is to keep the citizens at home and attract as many outsiders to the town as possible. Under these circumstances the ratepayers will stand by the Council, if a grant of $500 is given towards assisting in putting on first-class attractions.

AN INTERESTING EVENT.

Marriage of Mr. Jack Martyn to Miss Percy Gordon.

A wedding of much interest was celebrated on Tuesday evening, the 23rd inst., by Rev. Father Scanlan, when Mr. Jack Martyn, one of Peterborough's popular young men was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Percy Gordon. Miss Albena Gordon, sister of the bride was bridesmaid, while Mr. Max Martyn, of Toronto, brother of the groom was best man. After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the residence of Mr. C. Gordon, Lock street, where an excellent wedding dejuner was partaken of by the most intimate friends of the contracting parties. There were many rich and beautiful wedding presents showing the high regard in which the young people are held by their many friends. Among the presents received was a handsome dinner and tea set of dishes from the employees of Mr. Thos. Barrie's, George street, of which place Miss Gordon was forelady. Mr. and Mrs. Martyn will take up their residence in Peterborough, with the hearty good wishes of a large circle of friends.

MUD LAKE BRIDGE.

The Old Structure and the Work on the New One Inspected by the Committee Yesterday.

A sub-committee of the Town and County Joint Committee composed of Aldermen Shortly and Best, representing the town, County Councillor Anderson and Warden Fitzgerald, with County Engineer Belcher, drove out yesterday to inspect the work which was done on the new Chemong bridge during the winter.

When at Bridgenorth they found Mr. Kelly busy with his steamer and a gang of men repairing the old bridge which had been somewhat damaged by the wind on the 19th inst. Before the committee left the bridge was repaired in a satisfactory manner and it was decided that future repairs should be left in the hands of the caretaker, until such time as the new structure is ready for traffic.

The Committee then proceeded to examine the thousand feet of road approach to the new bridge in Ennismore, which was found satisfactorily completed. Both shore fills were found in exactly the same condition as they were left earlier in the spring, when the ice became too weak for the teams to work on.

The new piers were intact, having withstood the pressure of the ice splendidly, and not having moved or shifted a particle. Not a pound of clay or even a pebble had been disturbed by the ice, although as certain low sections of the filling are under the water it would appear to the unpracticed eye as though breaks had been made. As no grading was done on the work, this can be understood.

The committee was eminently satisfied with the progress which has been made on the work this winter and the manner in which it has been done.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Town Clerk is kept busy issuing dog tags.

A prompt return to the owner will save unpleasantness.

Miss Alice, it will be remembered, was taken down with an attack of appendicitis, and was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where she underwent an operation quite successfully.

A TRIBUTE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—The Shaksperean Circle of this town has done a noble work in presenting to the citizens of Peterborough "The Merchant of Venice." It is a remarkably healthy sign of municipal or local public life when young people can undertake and successfully carry out a work of such magnitude. There are some, of course, who will never in any country get beyond the amoebic or feeding stage, in which the lowest and simplest forms of animal life is catered to through the medium of the necessaries of existence, but that the impulse of the day should lead people in our little and obscure town so far on the road to true art is a matter of profound congratulation. The "Merchant of Venice" as put on upon Thursday evening was an intellectual and aesthetic treat, and it would be a public benefit to have it repeated. This successful rendition marks an epoch in our local life above the pots and pans of the commonplace of mere business.

Yours, etc.,
GRATITUDE.

CELEBRATION ON VICTORIA DAY.

There Will be a Great Demonstration on May 24th.

NARROW TIRES TO STAY.

The Bylaw Providing for the Introduction of Wide Tires is Given a six Months Hoist—Ratepayers to Vote Upon it.

A splendid turnout of the citizens was the result of the proclamation calling a public meeting for the purpose of deciding what course to pursue in regard to the adoption of wide tires, and in making arrangements for the proper celebration of the 24th of May.

The Mayor took the chair and explained that the object of the meeting in the first place was to discuss the question of wide tires. He read the bylaw, which was passed two years ago and enacted that all vehicles with their load weighing from 1000 to 2000 pounds should have tires three inches in width, and those weighing over 2000 pounds, four inches in width. As the date mentioned in the bylaw on which the provisions were to be enforced was at hand, the Mayor asked to hear the opinions of the citizens as to the wisdom of putting the various clauses into effect.

An Absurd Idea.

Mr. Ed. Brown urged that it was impossible to put the bylaw into effect, stating that it was absurd to expect the merchants to put three inch tires on their light delivery wagons.

Mr. T. F. Matthews asked how the bylaw compared with those of other municipalities. He believed that in Ottawa tires two inches wide were required for all vehicles carrying between one and two thousand pounds.

Mayor Denne stated that he had opposed the passage of the bylaw when it was first introduced. He had always maintained that the town could not afford to pass such a bylaw unless all the neighbouring municipalities did likewise. He believed in wide tires, but thought that the only way to get rid of the narrow ones was for the Ontario Legislature to pass a general law governing the entire province.

Ald. Jos. Batten stated that when the town passed the bylaw in question, the matter of narrow streets could not have been taken into consideration. A wagon with four-inch tires could not be turned around in some of the streets of the town without being driven around the entire block. It would be a great hardship, he thought, to ask men who could ill afford it, to invest $20 for new rims to their wheels, and $5 more for new axles. Such a bylaw would do a great deal of injury to the town by keeping a number of farmers away. It would drive them to do their business in the villages, and thus ruin the Peterborough market. Much had already been done to injure the market by the same council which passed the bylaw in question, when the members insisted on making the farmers weigh their potatoes.

Preserve the Market.

Mr. W. A. Kindred agreed with all that the previous speakers had said, and made a strong plea for the preserving of the market by not passing such legislation as would tend to antagonize the farming community.

Moved by Mr. W. A. Kindred, seconded by Mr. Ed. Brown, "That this meeting of the citizens of Peterborough is of opinion that the by-law of the said town respecting tires on vehicles should not be enforced, and that the Town Council should repeal it, but at the same time this meeting believes that the Ontario Legislature should enact a law regarding the width of the tires of vehicles that would protect the roads and be operative over the whole Province, and that in doing so the Legislature should give sufficient notice so that the users of vehicles of burden would have an opportunity of changing the tires of their vehicles with as little expense as possible, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Council of the Town of Peterborough and to the Hon. J. R. Stratton, the member for this constituency in the Legislature."

Favoured Wide Tires.

Ex.-Ald. Wm. White was in favour of wide tires. He spoke of the manner in which the narrow tires cut up the streets and pointed out that a wagon with four inch tires would be as good as a roller on the roadways and would tend to greatly improve them. It would be to the interest of the ratepayers at large to have wide tires introduced. Ottawa and Montreal had passed such by-laws.

Mr. Ed. Brown stated that there was a big difference between Ottawa and Montreal and the Town of Peterborough, as the aforementioned cities had paved streets, whereas in some places in Peterborough the roads were so heavy that wide tires could not be used on them.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn was entirely in accord with Mr. White's remarks. He pointed out to Mr. Brown that where a narrow tire would sink to the hub in soft ground, a three inch tire would carry a load safely over the place. Seconded by Mr. White he moved in amendment a six months hoist of the by-law with the understanding that the matter be left to a vote of the ratepayers at the next municipal elections.

Mr. Bradburn's amendment was carried.

The question of wide tires being thus disposed of, the mayor called for an expression of opinion as to the manner in which the 24th of May should be observed in the town.

Victoria Day Celebration.

The meeting was unanimous in agreeing that a celebration should be held.

It was moved by Messrs. J. S. Knapman and W. A. Kindred, that a celebration of Victoria Day, the 24th of May, be held in Peterborough this year and that the celebration include a procession made up of trades, military, bicycle, calithumpian and other features, and sports and pastimes.

The resolution was carried.

Messrs. Ed. Brown and D. H. Burritt moved that the following committee be appointed to perfect arrangements for the celebration:—Messrs. W. H. Bamford, J. S. Knapman, H. C. Winch, M. H. Halpin, J. A. Yelland, Thos. Rutherford, F. J. R. Mitchell, members of the Town Council, R. F. McWilliams, E. B. Edwards, M. L. Henry, W. H. White, Archie Moore, Jas. Haggart, T. A. S. Hay, John White, W. A. Kindred, D. H. Burritt, A. Gibson, Dickson Hall, Dickson Davidson, Wm. Menzies, Ed. Brown, T. Drew, R. Mulligan, T. F. Matthews; R. McWhinnie, R. B. McGill, J. E. Hutchinson, W. J. McCallum, F. H. Dobbin, Alf. Terrill, F. D. McKay, W. H. Robertson, R. A. Dutton, John Irwin, F. W. Miller.

The motion was carried and Mr. Bamford was requested to act as chairman.

A Grant Promised.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn stated that as a number of Aldermen were present, he would like to have them pledge themselves to give a substantial grant towards the funds needed for the proper observance of the day.

The Mayor, in answer, said that he thought there would be no trouble about a grant of $300, being secured, this being the amount which was given for the same purpose last year.

A Finance Committee was appointed, composed of Mayor Denne and Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, Peter Campbell and R. M. Dennistoun.

The Procession Commttee will be composed as appended: Messrs. H. C. Winch, T. F. Matthews, M. H. Halpin, J. H. Yelland, Archie Moore, Jas. Haggart, Jas. English, F. H. Dobbin, J. S. Knapman, D. H. Burritt, T. Rutherford, R. A. Dutton, A. Gibson and Ed. Brown.

On motion, it was decided that the afternoon programme of sports be left in the hands of the 57th Regiment and the display of fireworks in the evening be given over to the Fire Brigade to manage.

General applause greeted Mr. Brown's motion that no fee be charged for any part of the day's programme.

Mr. R. A. W. Hay, secretary-treasurer of the Baseball Club, stated on behalf of that organization that the team would be willing to play an exhibition game with Port Hope if the expenses of the latter club were defrayed. The Peterboroughs would charge nothing for their services.

Mr. Hay's generous offer was received with applause and referred to the Sports Committee.

At the close of the general business of the evening, the several sub-committees met to organize and start in on the details of the celebration. Enthusiasm characterized the proceedings and the members got down to business as if they were in earnest. After a brief discussion respecting their plans, the several committees adjourned until Thursday evening, May 2nd, for a grand rally in the Council Chamber.

MISS COLLINGS HONOURED.

The Popular Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. Receives an Address.

At the regular meeting of the Sunshine Society held in the Y.W.C.A. rooms last night, Miss Collings, secretary of the Y. W. C. A., was presented with the following address, accompanied by a handsome gold ring:

Dear Miss Collings.—We, the undersigned, desire to take advantage of this time to express in a small way our regret at your removal from among us. As a member of our boarding home we will miss you as we would a sister; as a member of our Sunshine Society words cannot express how we will miss you. We have spent many hours together since our Sunshine Society and Literary Class have been formed. We feel that we lose one of our best friends and helpers. We have always found you ever ready and willing to assist and to answer every call.

We wish at this time to thank you for the interest you have taken in us as individuals, and we hope that, while we may never be associated together in the same way again, we may all look forward to a reunion in our home above, where parting is no more.

As a token of our esteem and appreciation we ask you to accept this ring.

Signed on behalf of the patrons of the Home, Literary Class and Sunshine Society,

Allie Whiten, President. Margaret Chambers, Secretary.

The address was read by Miss Brooks, and the presentation made by Miss Matchett.

Miss Collings, who was taken entirely by surprise, found difficulty in finding words to express her feelings of gratitude and pleasure.

Since Miss Colling's residence here, she has endeared herself to all the members of the Association and associated societies, and her departure from Peterborough will be sincerely regretted.

During the evening refreshments were served and an enjoyable time spent.

YOU CANNOT CURE PILES
By Internal Remedies.

The only sure way to cure every form of piles is to use a remedy like the Pyramid Pile Cure, which is applied directly to the parts affected and its wonderful healing effects are apparent from the first application, because the medicinal properties are rapidly absorbed by tissues and sensitive membranes of the rectum, and the cure is made speedily and almost before the patient is aware of it every trace of piles has left him.

This is one of the reasons why the Pyramid Pile Cure has been so uniformly successful. It is applied directly just where it is needed and where it will do the most good—not by the roundabout way of the stomach, nor by the harsh, barbarous methods of various surgical operations and so-called systems.

Direct applications to the seat of disease is the only rational way, and this is fully accomplished by the Pyramid Pile Cure.

If the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried this remedy is worth anything, then no sufferer has any excuse for longer delaying in giving it a fair trial, knowing that when you do so The Pyramid Pile cure will have made one more friend, the best possible advertisement we can have. The chief advantages of the remedy are: It cures without pain, the cure is lasting, it contains no poison, and lastly, it is the cheapest and quickest cure yet found. Your druggist can tell you what it has done for others.

Testimonials of cures from all parts of the United States will be sent on application to the Pyramid Drug Co., of Marshall, Mich.

Ladies! If you would be strong and healthy and have good complexions, take Miller's Compound Iron Pills. Sold by W. Madill, Druggist.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

GOLF.

The members of the Green Committee deserve a great deal of credit for the zealous manner in which they are taking hold of the work this season. Before the field has an opportunity of becoming hard it is all being well rolled and the greens are being put into A1 condition. The green at the ninth hole, which has always been an eyesore to the players, has been ploughed up and levelled off and will be made the best on the links, as it should be.

At present the members are not using the greens and "putting" is therefore frequently attended with disastrous results.

The old stand-byes will be pressed hard this year to hold their places on the first team, as a number of last year's novice men are playing a marvellously good game. Quite a number of them have already gone over the nine holes in 50, 51 and 52, and by allowing for the difference which will be made when the greens are used, it is evident that there will be a great many players eligible for the "95 or better" class.

The membership should easily reach the seventy-five mark among the men players this season as there are to be a large number of new beginners. The ladies division will boast of about 30 members.

Turnbull's will give Double Stamps from April 27th to May 11th.

THE DEADLY COBRA.

How Venomous Creature Is Handled by Hindoo Snake Charmers.

The creatures were on the defensive, but not one of them attempted to strike at the master, who sat serenely in front of them, so long as he did nothing to annoy them. Kullan talked to them as if they were his dearest friends. After a time one or the other of them would lower its head, collapse its hood and begin to try to wriggle away. Whereupon Kullan would give it a smart little rap on the tail with his stick and bring it instantly to attention again. Whether this man possessed any special magic over these cobras or whether the description given below of how he could handle and play with them was simply due to his method I cannot say. He himself repudiated the idea of magic and asserted positively that any one who had the necessary nerve and dexterity could do exactly the same.

He used no reed instrument or music of any kind to propitiate the reptiles. He would simply squat on his haunches in front of them, and, after they had been hissing and swaying their uplifted heads backward and forward for a few minutes, he raised his hands above their heads and slowly made them descend till they rested on the snakes' heads. He then stroked them gently, speaking all the time in the most endearing Hindoostanee terms. The serpents appeared spellbound. They made no effort to resent the liberty, but remained quite still, with heads uplifted, and seemed rather to enjoy it. Presently his hands would descend down the necks about three inches below the heads, his fingers would close loosely around the necks, and he would lift them off the ground and place them on his shoulders. The looseness of the grip appeared to be the main secret. The snakes, being in no way hurt, would then slowly crawl through his fingers and wind themselves round his neck, his shoulders and his arms. They appeared to realize that no harm was to be done them, and they made no effort to resent the handling. He would pick them gently off one arm and place them on the other and, in fact, stroke them and pet them as if they had been a pair of harmless worms.

A TIGRESS WITH A GRUDGE.

She Gets Furious at Sight of a Keeper Who Once Beat Her.

There is a lean tigress in the Central park menagerie who spends a part of the day beating her head against the iron bars of her cage in a vain attempt to spring upon one of the keepers. Ordinarily the animal is quiet enough. It is only when this keeper passes that she ceases to be a purring cat and becomes a fiend incarnate. The other morning the tigress was in an extremely bad temper. When her fancied enemy stuck a mop in through the bars to clean her cage, she sprang at him, growling in thunderous bass. Nearly everybody in the crowd stepped back involuntarily. The keeper placed an iron bar in the cage at the great cat's feet and went on with his work, while the animal snarled in impotent rage and drew back her upper lip over two gleaming white fangs.

"She doesn't seem to be fond of you," ventured a bystander.

"No, there isn't much love lost between us," replied the keeper. "Her tantrums show that animals treasure grudges just like people. That tigress came here eight years ago. A day or two after she arrived I had to punish her, and she has never got over it. She watches me all day out of the corner of her eye, and every time I go by the cage she makes a jump. I suppose she thinks she'll get me some time. If she does, I might as well say goodby."

While the man talked the tigress looked at him with hate plainly stamped on her face. When he went away, she watched him until he was lost to view. Then she resumed her nervous tramp, tramp.—New York Mail and Express.

KICKED BY A HORSE.

ROBERT HALL, OF ARKONA, ONT., NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH.

Struck Twice in the Same Place—The Kidneys Turned Out of Their Natural Position—Doctors Said He Would Die, yet Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

FOREST, ONT., APRIL 25 (Special).—Probably the best known man in the Townships of Warwick and Bosanquet, is Mr. Robert Hall, of Arkona. Mr. Hall says:—

"Five years ago last April, I was kicked by a horse in the left kidney. The doctor that treated me said that the kidney had turned out of its place, and I passed blood for several days.

"I did not get quite well from that until I got another kick, which caused me to pass blood again from my kidneys.

"I continued to doctor until last fall, when they told me I could not get well, and that I would die, so I quit taking their medicine.

"I lost the power of my legs, and had to be lifted in and out of bed. I was so low that I was not expected to live from one day to the other.

"I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and from the first I commenced to improve, and by the time I had taken five boxes, I was quite well. Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my life."

No more startling case has ever taken place in the neighborhood of Forest, and many questions have been asked of Mr. Hall, in explanation of the very startling statements made above.

He has but one answer—"Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life, and that after all the doctors had told me I could not get better, and that I must die."

Mr. Hall is certainly a living monument to the wonderful curative properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only remedy known to science that has ever cured Bright's Disease, Diabetes, or Dropsy. They never fail.

Victoria's Proposal.

It was at Windsor castle that Queen Victoria, then only a girl of 20, did what she described as "the most nervous thing a woman was ever called on to do"—when she summoned the young Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha to a private interview and "proposed" to him. She had first met him when as a boy of 17 he came with his father to England, and when, three years later he "made no secret" of his love for his fair cousin "no one was surprised and every one was delighted."—London Tit-Bits.

PIG HEADED MAN ON A CAR.

First He Wouldn't Pay, and Then He Insisted on Paying.

He looked just as pig headed as he turned out to be. There was no doubt about his being a stranger in a strange land, for while his clothes were not rustic in appearance there was an unfamiliar cut about them. And then he carried a traveling bag and wore spats.

When the conductor of the Fourth avenue car called for his fare, the stranger dug down into his pocket and drew out a bill. The man in blue, who bore on his right sleeve three gold service stripes as proof of wonderful forbearance with all kinds and conditions of people, squinted at the bill and shook his head.

"That ain't no good in this country," he said.

"Of course it's good," said the stranger, still sticking it forth. "It's a Canadian $5 bill."

"Can't take it," repeated the conductor. "They won't take it off me at the office."

"Well, you've got to take it," said the stranger, "or stop the car and put me off. It's money and good money."

The conductor acted like a human being. He took the bill and looked it all over again. Then he referred it to a passenger.

"I never saw a bill like that before," he said. "What do you think of it?"

The passenger told him that he was right in not accepting it because it was not a legal tender in this country and because he could not get rid of it except at a discount even at a bank. So the conductor passed it over to its owner once more.

"You're in America now," he said good naturedly. "You'll have to pay American money. If I took that, I'd be stuck with it myself.

Still the passenger was pig headed.

"Well," he said, "you'll have to stop the car and put me off. That's all."

Then he settled back doggedly and scowled. The controversy had attracted great attention in the car. Every one was looking at the stranger, and a man who sat across from him, thinking that the $5 bill was all the stranger had, gave the conductor a nickel for the fare, and the other passengers took it for granted that the controversy was all settled.

But not so. The pig headed young man arose with a grunt and again dug into his trousers pocket. This time he pulled out several American $1 bills. One of these he offered to the conductor.

"I got your fare," said the conductor.

"No, you haven't," insisted the stranger. "I haven't paid."

"But this man paid for you."

"He's not me. Change the bill."

"I ain't got the change," insisted the conductor.

The man with the spats was getting red in the face. He offered the $1 bill to the man who had paid his fare. The man would not take it.

"I can pay my way," exclaimed the stranger. "Give me the change."

"Haven't got any," said his benefactor, with a grin. "It's all right now. Sit down."

But the stranger would not. He went from passenger to passenger, asking for change, poking his $1 bill into their faces. They all thought it was Canadian and examined it closely, while the stranger rocked around the car.

At the end of the line he found a man who could give him four quarters for the bill. He offered a quarter to the man who had paid his fare. The man would not take it. Then the stranger started up the line to get change for one of his quarters.

At last he got five nickels. He gave one of them to his benefactor, drew a deep breath and sat himself down again, glaring at every one. After two minutes' thought he remarked:

"I'm pretty pig headed when I get started."

No one in the car undertook to deny this assertion.

A BRITON'S IDEA OF FREEDOM.

It Was to Roll Himself on the White House Lawn, and He Did It.

"I never go to Washington that I do not think of a young Englishman who went around the city with me a dozen years ago," said a man who frequently visits the capital. "We saw everything that there was to be seen. He was pleased with everything, and he said so, but the things that impressed him most were the lack of formality and the absence of guards.

"He never tired talking of this and comparing the simplicity of the arrangements in Washington with the way the rulers of Europe are guarded. Particularly he was impressed by the fact that any one who wished to was allowed to go into the White House grounds and wander around without showing any passes or credentials of any kind.

"Well, one day we were wandering around, and we went up past the White House. The Englishman stopped and watched the stream of men and women going into the grounds.

"'By Jove,' he said, 'it is wonderful, and no mistake. Why, they let you do just as you please. Do you know, I think that if a fellow wanted to he could go in there and roll over on the lawn, and there wouldn't be a person who would think of speaking to him about it.' 'Of course no one would speak to him about it,' I said. 'What's more, if you want to do it I'll stay here and watch you, and if any one does say anything about it I'll help you lick him.'

"'Will you?' he said.

"'I mean it,' I said.

"He looked at me for a minute, and then he walked into the White House grounds. There was a crowd there, but no one paid the least attention to him. He went out on the lawn, right in front of the main entrance to the building, and lay down flat on his back. Then he rolled over three times, slowly and deliberately. Then he got up and walked out of the grounds as happy as though he had found $10.

"No one looked at him, and no one spoke to him. To roll over on the White House lawn might have been the proper thing to do so far as the attention that it attracted went. The Englishman said that if he had acted that way in any of the capitals on the other side he would have been locked up as a dangerous character. He was very proud of his exploit, and I suppose that he is still telling the story of it in England."

TESTIMONIALS

February, 1900.

"I cannot express in a letter how I suffered during the past five months with Salt Rheum. My face was covered with running sores, and my hands were in such a condition I could not do anything. After trying various remedies I at last took BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, which completely cured me." MRS. LUCY BRONTMIRE, Brinston's Corners, Ont.

February 22, 1898.

DANIEL MCNAMARA, Buckingham, Que., writes: "About a year and a half ago I was very much run down and was suffering from eczema. I tried several doctors, but instead of getting better I became worse, the disease gradually spreading all over my head and body. I went to the hospital, but the doctors there told me recovery was impossible. I came home, and was then told by a friend to try BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, which I did. I took three bottles, when I was entirely cured; not a speck is left on my body or head, and I have enjoyed the best of health ever since.

GRANDMAS OF TODAY

THEY KEEP IN THE RACE WITH THE YOUNG PEOPLE TO THE END.

The Old Fashioned Grandmother, the One Who Placidly Sat In the Chimney Corner Darning Stockings, Is a Thing of the Past.

I was bemoaning the fact that I had never known my grandmothers. One died before I was born and the other when I was a few months old. I thought it would be so comforting to have a grandmother because they always regarded their grandchildren as being incapable of doing wrong. At least they were sure to multiply one's virtues and minimize faults. Their chief object in life, as I picture them, was to minister to their descendants' comfort, to make the crooked places straight. The grandmother of my fancy would keep my clothes in repair, darn the stockings, knit plenty of washrags and silk mittens, surprise me with my favorite dishes, laugh at my jokes and generally submerge her life in the affairs of mine. What was I going to do in return for all this unselfish devotion? I would be her granddaughter. That, according to the old traditions, was quite enough compensation.

I was holding forth, exploiting my views and desires on the grandmother question in the presence of one of those people who delight to take a person down and make him feel cheap, especially if they imagine one is posing as younger than the family Bible records. This individual spoke up and said: "Why, if your grandmothers were living they would be so aged that they would be mummified. Instead of darning your stockings, knitting your mittens, they would be blind, deaf and imbecile. You would have to tend them with greater slavishness than a mother a newborn babe, and without the sweet recompense in the latter case.

When people become imbecile with age, they grow repulsive, and the prolonging of this state is dreadful, while each day the unfolding of a budding life is filled with mysterious delights."

Of course I did not want a grandmother that was deaf, blind and imbecile. I thought I would drop the subject, as it appeared to be getting personal. But my companion continued: "Besides, could it be possible in the order of things for you to have a vigorous, industrious, capable grandmother, she would not be sitting at the chimney corner darning your stockings. She would be out attending to her lodge or club business, visiting the millinery openings, ordering a fashionable gown, playing cards or attending a high tea. The old fashioned grandmother is as much a thing of the past as the spinning wheel, the canalboat, stagecoach, making candles and family rendered soap."

I protested that I did not believe my grandmothers would be of the modern pattern. I had heard my mother tell often of how completely her mother lost her taste for society and outside affairs after she had grandchildren. She had raised a large family, but these reproductions were just as much a delight as had been the originals. She infinitely preferred their society to that of grown people. Their prattle, school experiences, little ambitions, filled her life completely. She was constantly planning surprises for them by making animal cakes, individual pies, candy, aprons, hoods, doll clothes.

"Yes, but if she lived now she would be different. The air she would breathe is filled with assertive germs which declare that every woman owes it to herself to have a career and stand at the helm and steer it to the very end. She must not allow her life to be submerged in that of her own children, as they make their appearance rather unwelcome frequently, but must have outside missions. As soon as her offspring is married off, which is accomplished with as great dispatch as diplomacy can secure, then she is free to carry out pet schemes and natural desires untrammeled."

"Perhaps you are right," I replied. Such a grandmother as this would be no comfort to me as a grandmother, while she might be a most helpful friend, and I could be proud of her position in the literary, artistic or philanthropic world as her tastes might dictate her pursuit.

A grandmother of my acquaintance said to me not long ago: "It would be a great trial to me to have my grandchildren or any children in the house with me now. I could not adapt myself to their demands and interruptions. I have raised my family and now want my time for individual pursuits." This woman has especial talents and necessities for using them, and in her case these feelings may not seem unnatural. But this is much the sentiment that possesses the grandmothers of the age who have no special missions or avocations outside the domestic circle. If they have means, they buy handsome gifts for their grandchildren and wish them to have all the advantages possible that do not represent personal self sacrifice or curtailment of freedom of action.

Women are imbued with the spirit of the age, which demands that there shall be no old ladies with caps and shawls who stay at home and guard the fireside, but that they must keep in the race with the young people to the very end.—Susan W. Ball in Terre Haute Gazette.

DOGS ON THE STAGE.

Leaping For the Villain's Neck—A Very Sensitive Animal.

Four legged animals in drama are of course a very common sight today. Although they are often of far more importance than the mere super, they have an affinity to that class, for theirs is no speaking part, unless one counts the bark of a dog as such.

A little time ago the writer met an actor who was taking the part of a villain in a play wherein a big mastiff seizes him at the back of the neck just as he (the villain) was about to murder the heroine. "Nasty part, that of yours. How do you manage to escape nightly being bitten by that big brute of a dog?" "Not a nice part, it is true," he answered, "but the dog is well trained. He is kept without food for a few hours before the show. A piece of cooked liver is tied to my neck. He is held in the wings till the cue comes, then he rushes on to me for his supper, and the curtain goes down on a very effective tableau. I don't object to the dog. It's the liver."

The mention of stage dogs brings to mind an amusing incident that occurred in a well known theatrical agent's office last summer. In came a rough looking little man wearing a check suit that once used to speak out for itself, but was now silenced by the heavy hand of time. The man was followed by a dog of attractive appearance. The visitor said he did a "tramp act," assisted by the animal. Then they gave an exhibition of themselves and were certainly above the average. "What are your terms?" the agent queried. "Ten pounds a week." "I'll give you two." The imitation tramp—but he was not far from the real thing—looked with a sad, reproachful eye at the agent and silently backed out of the office, the dog meekly following. However, within a few seconds the man returned, quickly closing the door to exclude his partner, who clamored to get in. "I'll take it," he said in a hurried whisper. "Where's the contract? I'm real broke, so it's a clear case of push; but, for heaven's sake, don't mention the price where the dog can hear you."

MISERY AND HEALTH

A STORY OF DEEP INTEREST TO ALL WOMEN.

Relating the Sufferings of a Lady Who Has Experienced the Agonies That Afflict So Many of Her Sex—Passed Through Four Operations Without Benefit.

Throughout Canada there are thousands and thousands of women who undergo daily pains—sometimes bordering on agony—such as only women can endure in uncomplaining silence. To such the story of Mrs. Frank Evans, of 33 Frontenac street, Montreal, will bring hope and joy, as it points the way to renewed health and certain release from pain. Mrs. Evans says: "I feel that I ought to say a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, in the hope that my experience may be of benefit to some other suffering woman. I am now twenty-three years of age, and since my eleventh year I have suffered far more than my share of agony from the ailments that afflict my sex. At the age of sixteen the trouble had grown so bad that I had to undergo an operation in the Montreal general hospital. This did not cure me and a little later I underwent another operation. From this I received some benefit, but was not wholly cured, and I continued to suffer from pains in the abdomen and bilious headache. A few years later, having with my husband removed to Halifax, I was again suffering terribly and was taken to the general hospital where another operation was performed. This gave me relief for two or three months, and again the old trouble came on, and I would suffer for days at a time and nothing seemed to relieve the pain. In February, 1899 I was again obliged to go to the hospital and underwent a fourth operation. Even this did not help me, and as the chloroform administered during the operation affected my heart I would not permit a further operation, and was taken home, still a great sufferer. In 1899 I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to do so. I have used the pills for several months and have found more relief from them than from the four operations which I passed through, and I warmly recommend them to all women suffering from the ailments which afflict so many of my sex."

Writing under a later date Mrs. Evans says: "I am glad to be able to tell you that not only has the great improvement which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effected in my condition continued, but I am now perfectly well. I had given up all hope when I began the use of the pills, but they have restored me to such health as I have not before known for years. I feel so grateful for what your medicine has done for me that I gladly give you permission to publish my letters in the hope that other women will follow my example and find health and strength and new happiness through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

No discovery in medicine in modern times has proved such a blessing to women as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the blood and nerves, invigorate the body, reinstate the functions and restore health and strength to the exhausted patient when every effort of the physician proves unavailing. Other so-called tonics are mere imitations of these pills and should be refused. The genuine bear the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around each box. They are sold by all dealers in medicine or can be had post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BEWARE! CONSUMPTION FOLLOWS CATARRH.

No One Can Afford to Treat Catarrh Lightly----Catarrh is More Than a Cold in the Head----The Seeds of Consumption are There.

The Steps are These: (1) The Head. (2) The Throat. (3) The Lungs. (4) The Grave.

Head off These Diseases by Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, Endorsed by Senators, Members of the Commons, University Chancellors and Scores of Canada's Best Known Clergymen.

The serious blunder made by thousands, and only realized when too late, is due to their indifference to a cold in the head.

This develops in little time to catarrh and each added cold in the head aggravates the catarrhal trouble and soon make it chronic.

The catarrh does not stay in the head, uncomfortable and dangerous as this may be.

The throat is next attacked, and then comes this continual dropping into the throat, distributing the germs of disease.

This second step is bad enough, for with it comes shattered health, the power of speech is affected and a general broken-up feeling prevails all the time.

From the throat these droppings pass into the lungs, and once there seeds of consumption have to be counted in the battle.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder will give instant relief in the most desperate cases. But why leave results until they become desperate?

Have you a cold in the head? Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder will give instant relief. It will clear the throat and purify the lungs.

We repeat again, take this trouble in its incipient stages and banish it from the system by the use of this wonderful medicine, Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, which has received the endorsement of Canadian citizens as has no other medicine of the kind. We have long lists of members of the Senate, House of Commons and prominent clergymen that we can send to anyone asking for corroborative testimony.

Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills are really the most effective. 40 doses for 10c.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives relief within thirty minutes, and has cured the most desperate cases of heart trouble.

Dr. Agnew's Ointment cures eczema and all stubborn skin diseases. 35 cents.

A MANY COURSE DINNER.

Its Effect on the Orator Who Has to Speak After It.

I think that one of the worst instruments of torture that were ever invented is the custom which makes it necessary for a speaker to sit through a 14 course dinner, every minute of the time feeling sure that his speech is going to prove a dismal failure and disappointment.

I rarely take part in one of these long dinners that I do not wish that I could put myself back in the little cabin where I was a slave boy and again go through the experience there—of getting molasses to eat once a week from the "big house." Our usual diet on the plantation was cornbread and pork, but on Sunday morning my mother was permitted to bring down a little molasses from the "big house" for her three children, and when it was received how I did wish that every day was Sunday!

I would get my tin plate and hold it up for the sweet morsel, but I would always shut my eyes while the molasses was being poured out into the plate, with the hope that when I opened them I would be surprised to see how much I had got. When I opened my eyes, I would tip the plate in one direction and another, so as to make the molasses spread all over it, in the full belief that there would be more of it and that it would last longer if spread out in this way. So strong are my childish impressions of those Sunday morning feasts that it would be pretty hard for any one to convince me that there is not more molasses on a plate when it is spread all over the plate than when it occupies a little corner, if there is a corner in a plate.

At any rate I have never believed in "cornering" sirup. My share of the sirup was usually about two tablespoonfuls, and those two spoonfuls of molasses were much more enjoyable to me than is a 14 course dinner after which I am to speak. —Booker T. Washington in Outlook.

When Irving Forget Himself.

Ben Webster, an English actor, told a good story of how he held his own when Sir Henry Irving happened to be absentminded. In the "Lyons Mail" there is a touching scene between Lesurques (played by Irving) and his daughter Julie, of which Didier (Mr. Ben Webster) is a perfectly silent witness.

One night Sir Henry, instead of making his long speech, appealed in trembling tones to Mr. Webster: "Speak to her, Didier; speak to her!" Didier was dumfounded. There was an awful pause. Irving, quite unconscious of his own mistake, frowned wrathfully at the young actor, but Mr. Webster, equal to the occasion, gave way to a burst of tears and exclaimed, "I cannot; you know I cannot speak!" and turned his back on the audience.

Then Sir Henry picked up his lines with a start, and it was observed that Didier's shoulders shook with emotion!

Nervousness and Nerve.

The more nervous a man is, the less nerve he has. That sounds paradoxical—but it isn't; for nerve is stamina.

Hood's Sarsaprilla gives nerve. It tones the whole system, perfects digestion and assimilation, and is therefore the best medicine a nervous person can take.

If you get tired easily, mentally or physically, take it—it will do you good.

As to Gushers.

"My dear," said a careful mother to her daughter, "don't gush."

"Very well, mamma," replied the dutiful girl, "but you know that in the oil regions it is the gushing wells that are thought the most of."

"But you must also bear in mind that it is the unrefined oil which gushes."

THE "CITY" AND THE "WATER" LILY

The Peterborough Navigation Co's New Boats.

NEARLY READY TO LAUNCH.

The "City" is no Longer a Side Wheeler —The "Water Lily" Lengthened.

Ship building has become a very important industry in Ashburnham, and at any time during the past four or five months a visit to the yards at the end of Mark street has proved of much interest. However, a visit to the shipyard just now is of more than ordinary interest, and the visitor's attention is at once attracted by the two beautiful steamers, at present up on land, but which will in the course of a few weeks, be churning the Otonabee and Rice Lake waters. To Mr. H. Calcutt, the President and Manager of the Peterborough Steamboat and Navigation Company, may be given the credit of placing at the disposal of the public two such beautiful steamers as are about to be launched. Realizing the great possibilities for passenger and freight traffic on the lower waters, and believing that his efforts would be appreciated in a suitable manner by the public at large, Mr. Calcutt last fall began making arrangements for a reliable steamboat service from Peterborough to points on Rice Lake. Of course he was well aware that the foremost feature in this regard was a line of comfortable and reliable steamers. The old City of Peterborough was hauled out of the water and work with a view of rebuilding her was immediately commenced. As a result the steamer City of Peterborough will, in the course of a few weeks, for accommodation, speed and attractiveness of appearance, eclipse anything on the Trent Valley waters.

There may be many who think that the City of Peterborough is a very old boat, the date of its first launching being in the memory of only a few of the oldest steamboat men. In this, however, they are greatly mistaken. During the last ten years the City of Peterborough, which had navigated the lower waters under the name of the Golden Eye, has been transformed into a completely new boat. This was almost entirely accomplished six or seven years ago, when the name of the boat was changed, and what was not rebuilt then has been so on the present occasion.

The contract of rebuilding the City has been under the care of Mr. Wm. Hickey, whose record as a shipbuilder is of more than local repute. He has had associated with him a skilled staff of workmen, and slowly but steadily the City of Peterborough, the last of the old side wheelers on these waters, has been transformed into an up-to-date twin screw steamboat. In length she is the same as before, 105 feet over all, with 21 foot beam. The old paddle wheel houses, so conspicuous on the sides in times past, have fallen a victim to the ship carpenters' axe, and there is now a promenade around the sides of the vessel. The rear cabin is going to be an attractive portion of the boat. By the removal of the old machinery, which was very heavy, a dancing cabin has been secured, 15 x 35 feet in size.

The machinery that will be placed in the City is of the most up-to-date kind. Twin engines, 4½ compound, 6, 9, 12, made by F. J. Drake of Belleville, will be placed in the boat in the course of a few days. The boilers will be twin boilers, 200 horse power, and the twin screws will be 42 inches, capable of driving the steamer along at from 12 to 14 miles an hour. About 9 miles was formerly her speed.

As she stands propped up on the ground with her immense hull in full view the City presents an imposing appearance. Men are now engaged caulking the hull, while a number of painters are losing no time in decorating her in the most elaborate manner. The hull is being painted a pretty shade of green whilst on the upper portion, white as usual is the predominating colour, relieved here and their with colours of a harmonizing shade. In a day or two as previously stated the engines will arrive and be placed in position and then the City in all her majestic appearance will be gently slipped into the water and travel her old course as one of the finest boats on the inland waters.

The Water Lily,

Only a few feet away from the City is the steamer Water Lily formerly the Eclipse. It too has been undergoing very extensive repairs during the winter season.

Capt. Charles Calcutt now declares that he has the neatest looking and fastest boat on the Rice Lake waters. His boat has been lengthened from 65 feet to 85 feet and its beam increased from 10 to 12 feet. She is now capable of carrying from 175 to 200 passengers. She is having placed in her a 20 H.P. engine by the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., an increase of 8 H.P. over last last year, and with the 40-inch screw will send the Water Lily along at a rate of fifteen miles an hour.

The boiler is being supplied by the Drake Co., of Belleville. The handsome cabins both fore and aft, the spacious promenade deck and the neatly fitted up apartments in general tend to make the Water Lily a very stylish craft. She is now being painted and decorated, and in the course of a few days she will be launched and ready for traffic.

Capt. Calcutt is very proud of his new boat, and is impatient to get started on his summer's trade. He has again secured the services of Mr. Andy Young as engineer, and a bright future is undoubtedly in store for a boat so constructed and equipped and manned as to meet the requirements of almost any class of trade. The Water Lily will run her regular Saturday trips to Peterborough, and outside of this she will be open for charter for small excursions.

DOES NOT DISAPPOINT.

The New Discovery for Catarrh Seems to Possess Remarkable Merit.

A new catarrh cure has recently appeared which so far as tested has been remarkably successful in curing all forms of catarrh, whether in the head, throat, bronchial tubes, or in stomach and liver.

The remedy is in tablet form, pleasant and convenient to take and no special secrecy is maintained as to what it contains, the tablet being a scientific combination of Guaiacol, Encalyptol, Sanguinaria, Hydrastin and similar valuable and harmless antiseptics.

This safe and effective catarrh cure may be found at any drug store under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Whether the catarrh is located in the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or stomach, the tablets seem to act with equal success, removing the stuffy feeling in head and nose, clearing the mucous membrane of throat and trachea from catarrhal secretions, which cause the tickling, coughing, hawking and gagging so annoying to every catarrh sufferer.

Nasal catarrh generally leads to ulceration in some cases to such an extent as to destroy the nose entirely, and in many old cases of catarrh the bones of the head become diseased. Nasal catarrh gradually extends to the throat and bronchial tubes, and very often to the stomach, causing that very obstinate trouble, catarrh of the stomach.

Catarrh is a systematic poison, inherent in the blood, and local washes, douches, salves, inhalers and sprays can have no effect on the real cause of the disease. An internal remedy which acts upon the blood is the only rational treatment, and Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is the safest of all internal remedies, as well as the most convenient and satisfactory from a medical standpoint.

Dr. Eaton recently stated that he had successfully used Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in old chronic cases, even where ulceration had extended so far as to destroy the septum of the nose. He says: "I am pleasantly surprised almost every day by the excellent results from Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. It is remarkable how effectually they remove the excessive secretion and bring about a healthy condition of the mucous membranes of the nose, throat and stomach."

All druggists sell complete treatment of the Tablets at 50 cents, and and a little book giving the symptoms and causes of the various forms of cattarrh will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart & Co., Marshall, Mich.

BRUTALITIES OF CZARISM.

Russian Correspondents of Berlin Newspapers Comment on Tolstoi Incident.

Berlin, April 27.—The National Zeitung yesterday prints Russian special correspondence which contains another version of the letter Count Leo Tolstoi of April 10 addressed to the Czar and the Cabinet. The letter protested against the system of forcibly suppressing intellectual and political progress, counselling the liberation of the peasants from despotic treatment, the removal of all barriers of enlightenment, and the free profession of any faith. The letter concludes:

"This appeal have I, Leo Tolstoi, written not as a personal conviction, but as the conviction of millions belonging to Russian intelligence."

The correspondent adds:

"The letter has made the deepest impression throughout Russia."

The Cologne Volks-Zeitung prints a St. Petersburg special, which says the university situation has again suddenly grown worse. From Moscow University, word has been given to persist in passive opposition until all the sentenced students have been pardoned.

The Vorwaerts publishes a point protest from the Proletariat to the world, bearing the signatures of the leaders of the Socialist movement, including those of the United States, dated from Brussels, against the brutalities of Czarism.

The Horse Show, of course, is the special cause for Their Excellencies visit at this time.

THE CHINESE FORCED

To Evacuate Province of Sue Lu by the German Forces.

CHINESE LOSSES WERE HEAVY.

The Germans Engaged the Enemy While Retiring and a Sharp Action Was Fought—The Chinese Were Driven Through the Passes — Four Flags and Four Old Guns Captured.

Berlin, April 29.—Count von Waldersee reports, under Pekin date of 27th, as follows:

Colonel Hoffmeister, commanding the 4th Infantry and two companies of mountain artillery, attacked the enemy April 23 by the Great Wall, ten kilometres south of Shan-Hai-Kwan, and forced them to retire with heavy losses into Shan Se. We lost four wounded and captured four flags and four old-fashioned guns.

General Voyron intimates that he intends to evacuate the neighborhood of Shahe Ting and return to Pao Ting Fu. His extreme outposts remain at Sin Lei. I am keeping a force at Ansuling Pass.

The field marshal also reports that marauding has increased near Ho Si Wu and Ma Tu, and that junks used as transports between these places have been attacked. Lieut.-Col. Arnstadt has been sent from Tien Tsin to the disturbed district in command of a composite column.

A DIFFERENT ACCOUNT.

Which Shows That the Chinese Put Up Strong Resistance.

Pekin, April 28. — The report of Gen. Mettler, received here from Suo Lu, differs from the other reports concerning the German-French expedition previously received. Gen. Mettler's report shows that the Chinese troops did not leave the province until they were forced to do so. The entire brigade, commanded by Gen. Mettler, met the enemy on April 23, and inflicted immense losses upon them. The report did not give this loss. The Germans had one officer and three soldiers killed, and 28 soldiers wounded. The Chinese were forced to leave the province, and were fully demoralized. The French authorities stated that the Chinese had crossed the border of the province on April 19, in which case they must have subsequently returned. Li Hung Chang says it is impossible to believe that Gen. Lui Wang Ting would have so flagrantly disobeyed his orders, and anxiously awaits the Chinese report of the encounter referred to by Gen. Mettler.

Li Hung Chang Returns Calls.

Li Hung Chang paid return calls to the different legations Saturday.

Nine Chinamen will be executed tomorrow in the American district for highway robbery and violence. The men in question were tried and sentenced according to Chinese law, but they are the first of such sentences to be approved of by Gen. Chaffee.

Gen. Gaselee, the British commander, the officers of his staff and the entire British contingent, gave a farewell entertainment to the American officers last night. All officers who were not actually on duty were present, and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed. Speeches were made by Gen. Gaselee and Gen. Chaffee only. It is said at German headquarters that the brigade of Gen. Mettler is returning to Pao Ting Fu.

GERMANS KILLED BY CANNIBALS.

Millionaire and His Secretary Murdered and the Latter Eaten.

Sydney, N. S. W., April 29.—Herr Mercke, a German millionaire, who was cruising in his yacht, and Herr Caro, his private secretary, were recently murdered by natives of the island of New Britain, off the northeast coast of Pappau, Herr Caro's body was eaten.

Berlin, April 29.—Emperor William has ordered Capt. Paschew of the German second-class cruiser Hansa to command a punitive expedition from China to avenge the murder of Herr Mercke.

GLASGOW'S SHOW NEARLY READY.

Every Nail Will Be in Place For the Formal Opening on May 2.

Glasgow, April 29.—There was great local congratulations yesterday over the announcement that not a single nail will remain undriven when the International Exhibition opens on May 2. The preparations are so far complete that the management this week invited a large party of home and foreign newspaper men to inspect the show, which is certainly the best of the secondary exhibitions that have been given in Europe in the last half century.

In the first place non-essentials are so completely eliminated that the show can be thoroughly inspected and becomes a pleasure instead of a task. Secondly, the magnificent Fine Arts Building contains the best collection of British owned pictures ever assembled under any roof except the National Gallery.

The American exhibits are very creditable, but are limited and practically confined to machinery and tools. The Glasgow people are wondering how Buffalo's preparations for the Pan-American Exhibition will compare with theirs.

YUKON GOLD ROYALTY REDUCED.

Canadian Government Decides to Make It Only Five Per Cent.

Washington, April 29.—Consul-General Dittinger, at Montreal, reports to the State Department that the Canadian Government has decided to reduce the royalty on gold mined in the Yukon from 10 to 5 per cent. The rush to the Yukon and Alaskan gold fields for the season has begun, and will be continued, says the Consul-General. Already over a thousand claims have been recorded near Clear Creek, a branch of the Stewart River, which runs into the Yukon, where important new finds are reported.

Adam Laidlaw Dead.

Hamilton, April 29.—A most respected citizen, Adam Laidlaw, died about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, after a long illness, he having suffered for some time from locomotor ataxia. The deceased was born at Bedrule, Roxburgshire, Scotland, on March 18, 1833, and came to Hamilton in 1855. He was associated with various business enterprises from 1866 to 1894. The deceased was a prominent Liberal, and unsuccessfully contested the Hamilton constituency with William Doran in the Dominion election of 1891.

Gen. Cailles Got Away.

Manila, April 28.—Captain Wilson Chase, with a detachment of the 21st Infantry, on April 26, surprised the camp of the insurgent Gen. Cailles at Bugol, situated nine miles east of Cavinti, in the Province of La Guna. Cailles was at his camp at the time of the American attack, but managed to escape. Captain Chase's force captured his adjutant-general, five other of his staff officers, 14 men, 20 rifles, a large amount of ammunition and stores and all the papers and personal effects of the Philippine general.

CAPTURED AND FREED

Boers Take and Strip 25 Prince of Wales' Light Horse.

BRITISH TAKE BOER OFFICIALS.

Boers in Cape Colony—Boers Appear Again in the Richmond District—Col. Plumer's Force Has Captured the Notorious Munnick and His Father, Together With 40 Men.

London, April 29.—Lord Kitchener continues the process of wearing down the Boers, who, however, are very active in the Kroonstad district, where they recently derailed two trains and also captured, after a severe fight, 25 men of the Prince of Wales' Light Horse, whom they stripped of their horses and accoutrements and then liberated.

Col. Plumer's force captured a laager of 45 men, including the notorious Transvaal State Engineer, Munnick, who planned the destruction of the Johannesburg mines in the spring of last year, and his father, who was formerly landrost at Boksburg.

Mr. Cummings, who is visiting Durban on behalf of the Canadian Government, is favorably impressed with the trading possibilities between Canada and Natal.

BOERS IN CAPE COLONY.

The Invaders Have Appeared Again in the Richmond District.

Cape Town, April 28. — The Boer invaders have appeared again in the Richmond district of Cape Colony. Among the prisoners captured in a fight at Honeynest Kloof, which resulted in a complete defeat for the Boers, was a cousin of Mr. Sauer, the former Commissioner of Public Works.

The Treason Court is sitting at Dordrecht for the trial of minor cases of Cape rebels. Only one out of a batch of 50 cases was defended. All those convicted were disfranchised for five years.

At a meeting of the Diamond Fields branches of the South African League to-day, at which Cecil Rhodes and Gen. Brabant were present, it was resolved to urge on the home Government the importance of making English the medium of instruction in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony. It was asserted that this was for the best interests of the Dutch-speaking colonists. Sir Alfred Milner, the Governor of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, replied that this subject was receiving his earnest consideration.

Kruger May Come in June.

London, April 29.—A despatch from Amsterdam announces that Mr. Kruger will start for the United States at the beginning of June.

Hurt in a Runaway Accident.

Whitby, April 29.—On Saturday afternoon a runaway accident occurred near the machine shops of Major Harper & Son. Mr. Dent, science teacher at the Collegiate, was driving with Miss Copeland, an Ontario Ladies' College teacher, when his horse took fright and ran into a tree, completely destroying the buggy and throwing the occupants out with terrific force.

Miss Copeland was carried on a stretcher to the College and is severely bruised.

Mr. Dent was terribly wounded in the top and back of the head. Dr. McGillivray was called in to both cases, and it will be a few days before it can be seen clearly how serious their injuries are.

Landing Walter Taylor and his daughter were also thrown out of their buggy during the afternoon, and Taylor had three ribs broken.

THE COOK CHARGES.

Toronto Globe.

Mr. Cook's case, in brief, is that a Senatorship was offered to him for $10,000 by the late Mr. M. C. Cameron, acting as agent for Sir Richard Cartwright and the Government. As the charge has been made that the accused persons sought to relieve themselves by blackening the memory of Mr. Cameron, it should be stated that it was Mr. Cook who brought up Mr. Cameron's name and that his case rests mainly on interviews and correspondence with Mr. Cameron. The defence, on the other hand, does not rest on any theory of Mr. Cameron's guilt. Nor was it the fault of Sir Richard Cartwright that the charge was not made until Mr. Cameron was dead. On page 23 of the evidence Mr. Cook says that he had an interview with Mr. Cameron at the Union Station, Toronto, and that Mr. Cameron showed him a letter in a handwriting which he recognized as Sir Richard Cartwright's. The letter contained the expression, "Our friend Cook must surely do something in this connection." Cook asked Cameron what this meant, and he said ten thousand dollars. Mr. Cook was very indignant, and said he would not give a cent. This was in October, 1896. On the 6th of October, 1896, Mr. Cameron wrote to Sir Richard Cartwright, saying that Mr. Cook was indignant, but attributing the indignation to the fact that Sir Oliver Mowat had treated him in a supercilious way. If this letter, as we suppose, refers to the same interview, there is a very serious discrepancy between Mr Cook's account of it and Mr. Cameron's letter. There is nothing in the letter which suggests corruption.

The next thing we hear of the corrupt offer is that Mr. Cook, one, two or three years afterwards saw Sir Richard Cartwright and said: "By the way, Sir Richard, Mr. Cameron demanded from me for one of the other appointments $10,000. Is that correct?" Sir Richard is said to have replied that Mr. Cameron wanted to get some money for party purposes We are obliged to leave the date very indefinite, because Mr. Cook mentions December, 1897, May, 1898, and the time of the appointment of Mr. Kerr, which was March, 1899. However, whatever the date was Sir Richard Cartwright expressly denies that Mr. Cook ever mentioned to him that such an offer had been made (p. 71); Sir Richard also testifies (p. 70) that the statement that an agent was sent to Mr. Cook to offer him a Senatorship was "absolutely untrue". If this were all, what would a jury do with the case? There is one testimony against the other; and surely the burden of proof is on the person making the charge.

But there is something more. Mr. Cook says that a corrupt offer was made to him, that it apparently came from Sir Richard Cartwright, and that he rejected it with indignation. But by his own account he apparently never mentioned the matter to Sir Richard Cartwright until one, two or three years afterwards, when he introduced the topic quite casually, with the expression "By the way." He went on corresponding with Sir Richard as if nothing had occurred to disturb their friendly relations. On October 23, 1896, he wrote to the Premier, expressing his surprise at being asked by Sir Richard to withdraw his claim. Why should he have been surprised if he had been asked to give $10,000 for a Senatorship and had refused? He says in the same letter that he knows no reason why he should not have been appointed. How can he reconcile that with his present assertion that there was a corrupt reason? In letters to the Hon. David Mills he expresses his confidence that Sir Richard Cartwright would support him. How could he have that confidence if Sir Richard had made him a corrupt offer, which he had refused? On October 11, 1898, he writes to "My dear Sir Richard," reminding him of his expectation. On June 25, 1898, Sir Richard writes to Mr. Cook that he had been "fighting his battle," but had met with some opposition. There is a large batch of correspondence, all of the most friendly character, and all based on the assumption that Sir Richard was Mr. Cook's strong friend in the matter of the Senatorship. And yet, according to Mr. Cook, all these letters were written to a man who had sent an agent to him with a Senatorship for sale. Appointment after appointment had been made in the face of Mr. Cook's claims. What was his natural attitude? Surely we should expect to find him reproaching Sir Richard with neglecting him because he would not buy his way into the Senate. Instead of that he writes to him in the most amicable manner, as one honorable man to another. He carries his accusation locked up in his breast for four years, and gives it to the world after the death of the man who ought to have been his principal witness. It would surely be a very partisan tribunal that would condemn the Minister under such circumstances.

It ought to be distinctly understood that the vindication of Sir Richard Cartwright does not depend on any theory which asperses the character of the late Mr. Cameron. Mr. Cameron's name was not brought into the controversy by the Minister. Sir Richard simply says, "I know nothing of any corrupt transaction in regard to the Senatorship." That is as far as it is necessary for him to go. He is not bound to explain the actions of other people or Mr. Cook's allegations in reference to them. If Mr. Cameron were alive he would be entitled to be heard. It would be an act of gross injustice to pronounce judgment against him on a charge which he never had an opportunity to answer.

An Honest Tired Feeling

There is an "honest tired feeling," caused by necessary toil and cured by natural rest.

But very different is "that tired feeling," from which so many complain and which may even be classed as a disease.

That tired feeling takes you to bed tired and wakes you up tired.

You have no appetite, have bilious taste, dull headache, are nervous and irritable, blue, weak and discouraged.

In such conditions Hood's Sarsaparilla does a world of good.

It begins in the right place—in the blood, purifying it and imparting vitality, then its tonic effect is felt by the stomach, kidneys and liver; appetite comes back, all waste is removed naturally, headaches cease, that tired feeling departs and you feel like a new person.

This has been the experience of thousands.

It will be yours if you take

A BIG LABOR COMBINE

Project For Consolidating All the Unions of the U. S.

2,000,000 MEN UNDER ONE HEAD

A Meeting, Preliminary to a Big Convention in July, Held in Pittsburg on Saturday—Plan Is Under Way as a Secret Movement—Idea Got From Morgan's Billion Dollar Steel Combine.

Pittsburg, April 29.—With the idea of forming one big labor union with 2,000,000 members by consolidating all the unions in the United States, a preliminary meeting was held in Knights of Labor Hall here on Saturday.

The object is to put labor in a position to resist attacks by combinations of capital like J. P. Morgan's billion-dollar steel trust. It is proposed to form the big union at a convention to be held in Chicago about July 1.

Among the Pittsburg leaders who attended Saturday's meeting were National President L. R. Thomas of the Pattern Makers, National President Simon Burns of the Window-Glass Workers, National President John Kunzler of the Flint Glass Workers, National President T. J. Shaffer of the Iron and Steel Workers, and Secretary J. W. Pryle of the Structural Iron Workers.

President Thomas in opening the meeting said that for some time there had been under way a secret movement to bring all the trades unions together and that, while it started with the object of merely amalgamating the allied metal trades, it had now gone further, and artisan and ordinary laborer had come to the conclusion that nothing in the way of organization was impossible. The example for consolidation, he said, had been furnished by J. Pierpont Morgan.

Mr. Thomas said delegates representing 200,000 trades unionists—machinists, iron moulders, boiler makers, ship builders, electrical workers, blacksmiths, patternmakers, core makers, brass finishers, metal polishers and stove mongers—had already been chosen to the Chicago convention.

He added that recently the building trades had been organized in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo, Rochester, New York, Detroit, San Francisco, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Scranton and Hartford. He said these trades were essential to the movement. Labor, Mr. Thomas declared, could be brought under one head that would, if present plans were successful, be operated on the same principle as the combines.

National President Shaffer said he favored one big organization with one federal head, but he did not think it should go outside of the industries controlled by the United States Steel Corporation. He said the workingmen had just as much right to organize as the manufacturers to combine, and for their personal protection, as well as for the protection of their fellowman, they should become identified with the organization.

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, General Master Workman John N. Parsons of the Knights of Labor, and all the heads of the other great labor organizations in the United States and Canada, will be invited to the Chicago convention.

Gompers Against the Scheme.

Washington, April 29.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, gave out the following statement regarding the Pittsburg project for the organization of a Central Labor Union:

"It seems to me that it is useless to attempt the formation of a new general organization of labor, for, as a matter of fact, never in the history of labor has there been such a union of the workers as there is today under the banner of the American Federation of Labor. Anything that the organized workers can do, can be done most effectually through the already equipped American Federation of Labor. It is simply a question whether the members and organization will it so."

FOR A NINE HOUR DAY.

A Hundred Thousand Machinists May Strike on May 20.

New York, April 29.—One hundred thousand machinists throughout the United States may strike on May 20 for a nine-hour day.

Notice to all machinery manufacturers in the country was sent out by the International Association of Machinists yesterday, to the effect that 100,000 machinists will demand a nine-hour work day on May 1. The employers will be given until May 20 to make known their intentions.

An arbitration agreement exists between the National Metal Trades Association of Employers and the International Association of Machinists, referring all grievances to a permanent Board of Arbitration.

The Metal Trades Association of Employers has nearly sixty thousand workmen, and it is believed that there will be no strike among these.

More than ninety thousand other union and non-union machinists have no arbitration agreements with their employers, and strikes are expected in all shops and factories in which the demand for a nine-hour day is not granted.

London Is Afraid.

London, Ont., April 27.—On Sunday afternoon and Monday morning a G. T. R. locomotive will pass through London on its trial trip from Sarnia to the Bridge. If the trial is successful over the 180 miles, it is thought here that London will be but a whistling station, and that express coaching will be done on the frontiers.

Perhaps Only 25 Dead.

Frankfort, Germany, April 27.—It now appears that the statement of The Anzeiger of this city that 80 bodies had been recovered was greatly exaggerated. The fact is that the number of killed is much under the early estimates, some now placing it as low as 25. Nothing definite, however, can yet be ascertained.

EPIDEMIC of Sore Throat.

Sometimes your throat gets so sore that your neck swells up and it does hurt so when you swallow. If you gargle it with one part of glycerine and three parts Powley's Liquified Ozone, and take the Ozone hot, you will get cured quickly. It is splendid preventive preparation. Sore throat is epidemic just now. You can catch it as easily as you can scarlet fever or any other germ disease. A raw throat is most favourable for a germ attack, and the condensed oxygen in Powley's Liquified Ozone will stop that almost immediately.

50c and $1.00 at all druggists. Write the Ozone Co., of Toronto, Limited, 48 Colborne Street, Toronto, for their Health Booklets.

PAPER FOR MOHAWKS.

First Venture in Canada to Be Printed in Indian Tongue.

Ottawa, April 29.—The Mohawks of Canada and New York State are to have a newspaper. It will be edited by Charles A. Cooke, a full-blooded Idian employed in the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa.

Some time ago Cooke began publishing The Onkwoonwe, a semi-weekly magazine, printed in the Mohawk language, and it was so successful that he has decided to turn it into a newspaper, the first of its kind in Canada and the second in America. There are other Indian publications, not newspapers, but the majority of them are issued by missionary societies and they are edited by white men. The Cherokee Advocate, published in Indian Territory, is the only other Indian newspaper in North America.

CARNEGIE WORKED FOR HIM.

Later Was U. S. Consul to Dumfermline at Steel Magnate's Suggestion.

New York, April 29.—James Douglas Reid, known to telegraphers as "the father of the telegraph," died yesterday afternoon at his residence in this city. He had been ill for many weeks.

James Douglas Reid was born at Edinburgh, Scotland, March 22, 1819, and came to America in 1834. His entrance into the telegraphic service was in 1845, when he assisted in the organization of the Atlantic a. ' Ohio Telegraph Company for the construction of a series of lines connecting Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Detroit, Cincinnati, St. Louis and New Orleans, the most extensive series projected at that time. In 1889 he was appointed United States Consul to Dunfermline, Scotland, thru the influence of Andrew Carnegie, who as a boy had served as messenger and telegraph operator under Mr. Reid at Pittsburg. He relinquished this office in 1897.

A MURDER AT WHITEMOUTH.

Redka Chased Blenk With an Ax, and Latter Shot Pursuer Dead.

Winnipeg, April 29.—A murder took place Saturday at Whitemouth, 60 miles east of Winnipeg. The principals in the affair are foreign immigrants, J. W. Blenk and Adolph Redka, farmers, have been on bad terms for some time. Blenk was crossing Redka's property, when the latter attacked him with an axe. Blenk, in defence, shot him dead, and then took the train for Winnipeg and surrendered to the authorities.

TAPS FROM THE WIRE.

The water in the Ohio at Cincinnati was just below the danger line on Sunday.

A gang of negroes broke into the house of Hiram McMillan, a white man, near Oliphant, Pa., and killed the man and brutally ravished his wife. The people are infuriated, and a posse has been organized and is searching for the murderers.

Messrs. Sire of New York have made a contract with M. Rigo, the Hungarian violinist, who was supposed to have died in Cairo, but who, together with the Princess de Chimay, was lately discovered. M. Rigo will be accompanied by the Princess, but she will not appear upon the stage.

William J. Archer, aged 85 years, was so terribly burned in a fire which occurred at his home, 97 Brunswick avenue, Toronto, Saturday night, that he died shortly afterwards in the Emergency Hospital. Mr. Archer lived with his granddaughter, Mrs. Jennie Warner, and of late had not been able to get about, owing to paralysis, from which he had long been a sufferer.

Nervousness and Nerve.

The more nervous a man is, the less nerve he has. That sounds paradoxical—but it isn't; for nerve is stamina.

Hood's Sarsaprilla gives nerve. It tones the whole system, perfects digestion and assimilation, and is therefore the best medicine a nervous person can take.

If you get tired easily, mentally o phy'sically, take it—it will do you good.

London Lawyers Engaged.

Winnipeg, April 27.—Mr. Campbell said yesterday that the Government had retained Harrison & Powell, solicitors, of London, England, to represent the Government in the appeal of the Liquor Act before the Privy Council. The necessary instructions have been issued, but it is not yet known when the case will be argued.

Where Ignorance Was Bliss.

"But, after all, don't you think a good education is an essential in business success?"

"Not much," replied the wealthy man. "It was my poor education that gave me a start. I done a job o' work for a rich fellow and made out my bill for 'too dollars.' Besides the bad spellin, I forgot to cross the 't.' He sent me a check for $100."—Philadelphia Press.

Then She Had to Explain.

"How does it come," she asked, "that you haven't named any of your sons after a great man? You have no George Washington or Henry Clay or U. S. Grant in your family, have you?"

"N-no," he answered, "but you know our oldest boy is named after me."—Chicago Times-Herald.

HATS

SNARES FOR THE SIMPLE

WHAT the brand,—"Joseph Rodgers, Sheffield,"—signifies on a knife blade, the slate frame brand of—"The Slater Shoe"—signifies on a shoe sole.

But don't confuse mere personal names with registered brands!

The advantage of a brand, depends entirely upon its record for merit, established by the years certain goods have been publicly tested under that brand.

And, when such a brand has become a passport to people's confidence, there creeps in a species of piracy, which trades upon that confidence, by the selling of unknown goods, at a long profit, under some name which sounds like that of the brand.

This is how heedless Consumers are snared, and sold, and laughed at.

No purchaser should accept a blind excuse from a Retailer for the absence of the advertised trade mark, and the presence of something which resembles it superficially, but is not it legally.

There are thousands of men named "Rodgers," but there is only one standard brand of "Rodger's Cutlery," as there is only one standard brand of "The Slater Shoe."

If these words—"The Slater Shoe," are not stamped on the sole in a slate frame, it is not a genuine "Slater Shoe," and you buy it at your own risk.

The Slater Shoe Co. do not stand behind any but their own make—the shoe with a five year record of fixed value and uniform quality.

When you get the slate frame brand of "The Slater Shoe," stamped on the soles with the Makers price, you get the responsible, Goodyear Welted article.

Confidential Clerk Gone.

Montreal, April 27.—A despatch from Quebec says:

The discovery of an alleged shortage of from $20,000 to $30,000 in the books of A. Picard, confidential clerk of D. Arcand, broker and harbor commissioner, caused a sensation here yesterday. Picard left the city Thursday, and his whereabouts are unknown. Mr. Arcand does not believe the missing clerk has much money with him, but is of opinion that the alleged shortage is due to surreptitious speculation on the part of Picard.

Drugging will not Cure Catarrh.

Doctors say so. Victims of snuffs, ointments and tablets tell the same story. Catarrh is a germ disease. The germs excite disease in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes. Germs are hard to get at, but destroy them and you cure the disease. How can it be done? By carrying powerful medication with the air you breathe direct to the diseased parts. You must be sure, also, that the medication will kill the disease germs. Catarrhozone is guaranteed to do this, that's why it has created such a sensation in the medical world. You simply breathe Catarrhone; it destroys the germs—it heals—in a word it cures. Now you know everything about Catarrhozone, except what you can learn by using it. Catarrhozone never disappoints and is guaranteed to cure Catarrh. Price $1.00; Small size 25 cents, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

He leaves a widow and three children.

WEDDING BELLS.

Marriage of Miss Marie Brennan and Mr. M. J. Yates.

The Gravenhurst Banner of Thursday, April 25th, refers as follows to the marriage of Miss Marie Brennan, formerly of Ashburnham:

St. Paul's church was filled yesterday morning with a large crowd to witness the marriage of Mr. M. J. Yates, one of Gravenhurst's popular young men, to Miss Marie Brennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brennan of "Algrada Park," the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Collins. Promptly at 8 o'clock the bride, who was charmingly arrayed in white silk with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations, walked up the aisle leaning on the arm of her father. The bridesmaid was Miss Lilian Hurley of Peterborough, who looked very becoming in pink organdie trimmed with black, and a large picture hat, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was assisted by Dr. Joseph C. Moore of Orillia. The ushers were Messrs. William and Robert Moore. The church was profusely decorated with Easter lilies and palms and reflected much credit on the ladies, Mrs. Moore, Miss Moore and Miss Dowd. The wedding march was played by Miss Lafranier and the choir under the leadership of the Misses Dowd, rendered special music for the occasion. Mr. P.J.Trainor sang "Lead Kindly Light" with much expression. A wedding "dejeuner" was served at the home of the bride's parents. Among those present were: Miss Yates, of Orillia, dressed in heliotrope organdy trimmed with white chiffon; Miss Maggie Yates, in white organdy with black chiffon trimmings; Mrs. Moore, in black silk grenadine; Mrs. Clairmont, in black silk with mauve trimmings; Miss May Clairmont, in gray checked silk; others present were Mr. and Mrs. Jos.Clairmont, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Brennan, Mr. and Mrs. R. Moore and Mr. Wm. Yates, Sr., of Orillia. The happy couple left on the 10.20 train for Toronto and other points.

The Bazaar and Entertainment under the auspices of the Junior Auxiliary of St. Luke's Church will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock. Admission 10 cents.

WIDE TIRES.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Of the many speeches made at the meeting to consider the propriety of introducing wide tires, Alderman Batten, a practical man, made the most sensible speech. He pointed out in a practical manner how the council of that day were stupid enough to place our permanent walks far out in the streets which were thereby made so narrow that a wagon with wide tires could not be turned around in them without being driven around the entire block. Nor is this the worst feature of that stupid or sinister handed transaction, for with our ever increasing population and expansion, and from the fact that electric roads are becoming less expensive with the march of science, it is only a matter of a short time when these streets or some of them will be needed for the purpose of an electric road, but which, alas, are too narrow to be used for that purpose and for a general highway at the same time, when it will become an absolute necessity to tear up these walks and remove them to their original position. Let Alderman Batten and others of our aldermen see to it that this stupidity be not repeated. As it is our streets are too narrow and comment is made upon that fact by strangers when they visit us. The Town of Lindsay with its 100 foot street did not think it prudent to narrow it when they put down their permanent walks. Then how much more it behooves us to keep our streets intact and free from encroachments, apart from the expense involved in replacing the walks rendered necessary by the march of time.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

The West Peterborough Board Met This Morning.

A meeting of the West Peterborough License Commissioners was held this morning with the following members present, Messrs. Robt. Walton, M. H. Halpin and Robt. Graham.

Rev. Messrs. Gunton and Nicholl appeared with a largely signed petition praying that a license be not granted to the Chemong Park Hotel. Mr. R. M. Denhistoun was in attendance on behalf of the park property owners.

Without giving a decision as to the weight of the evidence put in on both sides, the Commissioners pointed out that the petition was received at too late a date to be considered, as the proper time for such evidence to be presented was on April 22nd, as advertised in the papers. They were pleased, however, to have an opportunity of listening to both sides of the case.

Mr. Brown received his license for the Park Hotel and Mrs. Bowman was granted one for the Oxford Hotel.

Owing to the fact that only half the license fee is required at the time of the issuance of the license, it is imperative that the money be paid in to the inspector by May 1st, for all hotels.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

Mr. Wm. P. Crombie began his evangelistic campaign last evening and made a very favourable impression. The congregation was large; the music unusually excellent. The promise of fruitfulness was very encouraging. Mr. Crombie took for his text, the familiar verse, I Tim. i, 16, "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners." He made the way of salvation very plain. His illustrations, drawn from nature and everyday life, especially his own experience, helped to throw life and light and interest upon the subject.

Mr. Crombie is an interesting speaker. He speaks fluently, forcefully and sympathetically. He will continue to preach every night, except Saturday, services commencing at 8 o'clock. All who attend will be sure to be interested and profitted and a cordial welcome will be given to all.

ODDFELLOWS AT CHURCH.

THEY ATTEND DIVINE WORSHIP AT ST. JOHN'S.

Rev. J. C. Davidson Delivers a Very Interesting Address to Them—Defines Their Duty.

The annual church parade of the members of the two Peterborough Lodges of Oddfellows, (Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, and Peterborough Lodge, No. 111), took place yesterday evening to St. John's church. There were also a number of visiting brethren in attendance. The turn out was large, the centre row of seats being almost filled with a compact body of men, whose fine appearance was generally commented upon, and the proceedings were in every way creditable to the Order.

The large procession reached the church shortly before seven o'clock, being marshalled by Major Miller.

Copies of the service had been distributed through the pews, enabling all to take part, which effect was clearly attained, the well-known hymns selected being sung with the soul-inspiring enthusiasm which can only come from a large body of men's voices.

The address given by Rev. J. C. Davidson, and couched in plain, homely language, with many illustrations, did not lack in pointed application, and the frequent references to the ritual and procedure of the Order, recognized only by the members, provoked occasional smiles. The address was based on the text—"Honour all men * * * Honour the King." These words, said the speaker, fresh, frank and wholesome, offer a concise compendium duty, here presented under three heads to all fellows, our rulers and our God; or duties Social, Political and Religious.

He took it for granted that those before him recognized the claims of their responsibilities as men interested in knowing what their obligations were, in order that they might be able to discharge them aright. The text would guide them in this matter.

First we are to honour all men, a useful check to our natural inclinations to overestimate some and under-estimate others. As made in the image of God, every man is worthy of a certain honour, even if he has allowed himself to become degraded, and we are to cultivate expressions of this honour, in polite and courteous deportment towards all men.

Secondly, Love the Brotherhood, i.e. the Christian brotherhood, all baptised members of Christ's church, and at this united service, said the speaker, every one of us felt the present reality of his brotherhood, and many will resolve to prove its realization. As Oddfellows they felt called upon to realize their brotherhood in a special degree towards all members of the Order, upon the success of which its progress and prosperity largely depended. And Christian brotherhood is not confined to earth. We are still linked to former comrades and fellow Christians in Paradise, and this noble Order had emphasized this point by unstintingly and splendidly maintaing decoration day.

Our third duty was to honour the King. Rev. Mr. Davidson deemed it unnecessary to plead in this town and community for loyalty to the to the throne, but the speaker thought other practical expedients were called for. Honour the King, said he, by recognizing and doing your duty to your country and your town. Was it a genuine loyalty when men would throw up their hats for King and country and perhaps the same day sell their votes or toss them away to the first applicant without any regard for the country's welfare. Was it truly patriotic for men to band together to intimidate the Government and to get their hands down deep into the country's purse. Let a practical patriotism, said he, go hand in hand with the sentimental. In every way stand by your town, your country and your King. As a last department of duty all men are to fear God. The strong and pointed words of the preacher, under this head, in which he referred to the ritual of the Oddfellows and other secret societies, is held over till to-morrow.

MILITARY NOTES.

What Lt.-Col. MacNaughton Thinks of His Boys.

The Port Hope Times says: "At the military banquet Friday night, Col. MacNachtan, the new commanding officer of the 14th Field Battery, said that he had the promise of the first new guns that arrived in the country for this battery. That it was his desire and intention to make the 14th the most efficient and best in the Dominion. The Colonel has the reputation among military men of being the most efficient and capable military officer on the force, and we hope soon to see the 14th Battery take its position as the crack battery in Canada. To have such a battery, with headquarters in Port Hope, will be a great honour, as well as advertisement, for the town. It is, therefore, advisable to do all within reason to keep the headquarters here."

The stores of the 14th Field Battery which were recently moved to Peterborough, have been entirely exhausted already, so anxious are the men to enlist. The first drill of the season will take place in the drill shed this evening.

FLANNELETTE UNDERWEAR.

The public are reminded of the Peterborough Baseball Club's Assault-at-Arms, which will take place on Thursday evening next. The programme promises to be most interesting.

THE TURF.

T. D. Fallon, Kingston, has sold his running mare Wroxey to T. A. Kelly, of Millbrook. Wroxey has been entered by her new owner to take part in the Napanee races on July 1st.

As the result of an application for the identity of Looking Glass, the Canadian Sportsman publishes the following very interesting career of this horse, over which there has been much doubt, and which will be read with interest by many local horsemen:

"In February, 1899, during the winter meeting at Ottawa, a bay gelding named Looking Glass won two races. His identification was asked for. L. G. Bennett of Port Hope, the nominator of the gelding, stated he had purchased him from Charles E. Tinney, of Albany, N. Y., being assured that he had no mark and was by Lancelot, a son of Messenger Duroc. The papers in the case were submitted to the Board of Review at the May meeting in 1899. It ruled that the evidence filed was not sufficient to identify the horse. Being unable to secure additional evidence in regard to the horse, L. G. Bennett withdrew him from the turf and sold him to W. P. Taylor of Buffalo, N. Y. Prior to making the sale, Bennett succeeded in balancing Looking Glass and driving him several fast miles. A short time after he sold the gelding the parties from whom he had purchased him expressed a desire to repurchase. On learning that he had sold the horse they told Bennett that Looking Glass had a name and record before he started him. They also advised him that his name was Herald, 2.24¼, by Lord Harold, dam by Redfield. Upon tracing Herald it was afterwards learned that he was bred by J. Amos, of Bushville, Ind., and passed to C. Gosnell, of Cambridge City, Ind. He was then consigned to Lackey's sale at Cambridge City, Ind., where he was purchased by Norman F. Black, of Gilman, Ind. In 1896 Black started Herald at a number of places in Indiana, giving him a record of 2.24¼ at Bourbon. In 1897 he started him at five places in Ohio and two in Pennsylvania, but failed to win a heat with him. At the time he was in Ohio, Black had Tar Tartar in his stable, and he sold Herald before shipping west. C. Gosnell also went to Hamilton, Ontario, and identified Looking Glass as Herald. It is held that the horse Looking Glass now owned by W. P. Taylor, of Albany, N.Y., is fully identified as Herald 2.24¼. The recording fee for change of name having been paid and $302.50, unlawful winnings, having been returned, the disqualification of said horse is hereby removed; provided, however, should it hereafter appear that there are other claims against said horse that have not been paid the same shall be paid on demand, else this reinstatement shall be void.

THE WHEEL.

Soon after the pneumatic-tired bicycle made its appearance, the world suddenly awoke to the fact that it was in possession of a new and wonderfully convenient means of locomotion, and began to make use of it with all possible haste. The modern wheel came upon humanity like an unannounced comet, and the subsequent pell-mell rush to take advantage of the benefits it offered, has, in view of more recent conditions, has been rather inaptly termed a craze. It is true that the newly-found instrumentality which made the human body a source of motive many times stronger than that available in walking, proved irresistibly fascinating to multitudes of people, men and women, young and old; but its sudden spring into popularity was hardly of the crase character, if by crase is meant that sort of deranged enthusiasm which, without sense or reason, blindly takes up with this or that passing whim or freak or faddism.

It was natural enough that the attraction of wheeling should have proved so alluring that a great many young persons of both sexes for a time were more inclined to live to cycle than to use the cycle as an aid to improved living. There was some over-doing, no doubt, and there certainly was an inordinate amount of "wheel talk;" but time has checked that overflow of enthusiasm and the wheel has apparently settled into its permanent place among those necessary things of the mechanical kind provided to meet the increasing complexities of modern life.

The lessened noise and stir over the bicycle and things pertaining thereto seems in some quarters to have created the impression that there has been a marked decline in its use. Close observation does not, however, sustain this view. In fact, the reverse appears to be the case. Information from reliable sources indicate that more bicycles are ridden now than at any previous time and that the number in use is increasing at a rate that is very satisfactory to all who are appreciative of the numerous advantages derived from the wheel as a light, speedy and comparatively inexpensive vehicle adapted to many practical uses.

The bicycle long since became too widely popular to remain a prescribed toy of society, but it is noticable that many of the ultra fashionable still take their cycling as a matter of course for its own sake, and for the heathfulness of the exercise. Entirely regardless of questions of social standing, age or sex, the wheel as an instrument of necessary use, recreation and healthful exercise is in evidence throughout the length and breadth of the land. In some of the larger centres of population, where cycling gained its first foothold, the riders are less conspicuous than formerly, fewer of them are seen together on parkways and boulevards; there is less of parade and show in their doings as a class, and less century running and other extravagances on the part of individuals; but because the wheelmen of the present are less gregarious and more restrained than their predecessors it does not follow that there are not more of them in the aggregate.

THE PAPER COMBINE.

Government Decides to Authorize an Investigation.

FIRST CASE OF THE KIND HERE.

The Canadian Press Association Does Effective Work for the Craft of the Dominion—The House of Commons Takes a Day Debating the Census—Work is Now Well On.

Ottawa, April 27.—The Government has decided to grant an inquiry into the charge preferred by the Canadian Press Association, that a combination exists among the paper manufacturers of the Dominion to unduly enhance the price of paper. This action is taken under a clause in the Customs Act of 1897, giving the Government power to deal with trusts or combinations, and the present is the first case of the kind which has yet been instituted in Canada.

The clause in question reads as follows: "Whenever the Governor in Council has reason to believe that with regard to any article of commerce there exists any trust, combination, association or agreement of any kind among manufacturers of such articles or dealers therein to unduly enhance the price of such articles or in any other way to unduly promote the advantage of the manufacturers or dealers at the expense of the consumers, the Governor in Council may commission or empower any Judge of the Supreme Court or Exchequer Court of Canada or of any Superior Court in any Province of Canada to inquire in a summary way into and report to the Governor in Council whether such trust, combination, association or agreement exists. The Judge may compel the attendance of witnesses and examine them under oath, and require the production of books and papers, and shall have such other necessary powers as are conferred upon him by the Governor in Council for the purposes of such inquiry. If the Judge reports that such trust, combination, association or agreement exists, and if it appears to the Governor in Council that such disadvantage to the consumers is facilitated by the duties of customs imposed upon a like article when imported, then the Governor in Council shall place such article on the free list or so reduce the duty of it as to give to the public the benefit of reasonable competition in such article."

The Canadian Press Association some months ago made a written complaint to the Minister of Finance that a combination existed, and stated that they were prepared to submit evidence in support of the charge. A few weeks ago a deputation came down to Ottawa and interviewed Hon. Mr. Fielding and the Minister of Customs, when the charge that a paper trust existed and was squeezing the newspaper publishers was made in the most direct manner and supported by a seeming array of facts. The Minister of Finance, after a careful consideration of the matter, has taken the view that the statement by the association contains sufficient ground to call for an enquiry under the terms of the statute, and accordingly one has been ordered. The investigation will be made by Mr. Justice Henri Taschereau of Montreal, a Judge of the Supreme Court of Quebec, who was notified yesterday afternoon of his appointment.

IN THE COMMONS.

The Item of $250,000 for the Census Passed in Supply—Work Advanced Beyond That of 1891.

Ottawa, April 27.—The House went into supply immediately after routine as the Agricultural Department estimates yesterday. The item of $250,000 for the census being up, Mr. R. L. Borden asked when the census would be completed. It was supposed to be taken on the first of April, and on the 26th of the month it was not completed. Mr. Fisher replied that in the settled portions of the Dominion it was practically completed, but in the unorganized sections it was not so far advanced. As to the work of preparing the returns, Mr. Fisher stated that the department has already received eight times as many returns as were received in the whole month of April in 1891. It was only fair to state that there were two and a half times as many enumerators employed as in 1891. The work of calculating the population was the first undertaken in the department, and would be pushed as rapidly as possible, but it would be some time yet before any definite information could be given. There have been received to date 383 returns from 48 counties, as against 59 returns at the end of the month of April, 1891.

In reply to Dr. Sproule, Mr. Fisher said that the district commissioners came to Ottawa, received instructions, and returned to their districts, where they gave instructions to the commissioners for the electoral divisions, who in turn assembled their enumerators and instructed them as to their duties.

Mr. Wallace said that the Minister must be mistaken as to the date returns were made by the enumerators in 1891. The work was all completed during the month of April.

Mr. Fisher quoted from the records of the department, showing that in 1891 59 returns were received in April, 1,816 in May, 1,877 in June, 625 in July, 98 in August, and 44 in September and later.

The item was finally passed after a long discussion in committee and the House adjourned at 1.30 a. m.

"STOMACH VERY BAD."

Mr. H. Bouchard, of Quebec, Suffered Extreme Agony for Two Years—Having Found a Remedy in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, He Feels it His Duty to Tell the Public.

H. Bouchard, of 300 St. Valier St., Quebec, says:—

"It is my duty to tell the public that I have been cured of a violent malady of the back caused by Dyspepsia, by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. My stomach was very bad, and I suffered very greatly for two years.

"I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and am now well. I would not be without them."

What has cured Mr. Bouchard will certainly cure anyone. His was a very bad case, and he had little hope of ever leaving behind him the dreadful pain caused by Dyspepsia. He is very grateful for his recovery, and is recommending Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all his friends.

There is nothing to be wondered at in this, and anyone who is suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia and Indigestion, can understand how very thankful they would be for a delivery such as Mr. Bouchard has attained.

They may have just such a cure. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure them.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets never fail to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sour Stomach, or any other stomach trouble (except Cancer).

If you are a sufferer from any of these troubles, be guided by the experience of Mr. Bouchard, and you too, will very soon be singing the praises of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

You are doubtful. You have been disappointed so often, that perhaps you have reason to be cautious.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have convinced many a sceptic, and delighted many a doubter. They never disappoint.

The proof:—Mr. Bouchard, whose letter appears above; Mr. Geo. Arthurs, of Toronto, (122 Argyle street); Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby County, N.S.; Mr. D.G. Ross, farmer, Dundas P.O., Ont.; Miss Maggie Gallant, Summerside, P.E.I.; Mr. Ademard Coderre, of St. Jacques, Quebec, and thousands of others, the list of whose names and addresses will fill the columns of this paper for weeks.

washed down a telegraph line which Chas. C. Ellis, of Lisbon, Ia., had to repair. "Standing waist deep in icy water," he writes, "gave me a terrible cold and cough. It grew worse daily. Finally the best doctors in Oakland, Neb., Sioux City and Omaha, said I had Consumption and could not live. Then I began using Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles." Positively guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung troubles by Jas. Lynch. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free

LIFE WAS A MISERY FOR FOUR OR FIVE YEARS.

The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont. Montreal, Oct. 17th, 1900.

Dear Sirs,—For the last four or five years life was a misery to me.

The pains in my back have been terrible. For some time I could not stoop over to tie my shoes. At last I got so bad that I could not go up stairs and had to sleep on a lounge in the dining room. I had to raise myself by a cord attached to the end of the lounge.

I used to swell up terribly, my urine was scanty and highly colored and had a very offensive odor.

If I eat a hearty meal I would suffer agony for hours after. The several physicians whom I consulted advised me to go to the hospital and have an operation performed, as they said I was suffering from womb trouble.

I was told about Doan's Pills, so procured a box, and I thank God every day for the good they have done me.

After the third dose I began to feel the benefit of them, and eight days after starting I could urinate freely and without the scalding sensation, the swelling has all disappeared, and I do not know what a backache is since I took the first box of Doan's Pills.

I can now attend to my household duties without any trouble, and can enjoy a good night's sleep, things I have not been able to do for five years.

I am now 57 years old, but feel like 30, and never felt better in my life, thanks to Doan's Pills. I cannot praise them too highly and trust this will meet the eyes of some poor suffering woman.

Yours gratefully.
MRS. J. WILSON.

THE WILLOWS.

With trunks adust the willows stand
And o'er the river lean;
They seem to pour their foliage down,
A cataract of green.

Their whirl apart branches downward flow
To mingle with the stream;
The lapping hand to kiss the waves,
The dearest friends they seem.

And this is why the willows weep
And mourn, as well you ken—
The little waves all say "goodby,"
But ne'er come back again.

A Policy Approved.

"No," said the policeman kindly, but firmly, "you cannot photograph that statue."

"Why not?" asked the tourist.

"Because it is against the law."

The tourist looked at the statue in question, a massive piece of contract work, and then answered:

"Well, I don't blame you. It's always decenter for people to keep their troubles to themselves instead of letting them be advertised all over the country."

Cured.

"No," said the man in the mackintosh, "my wife doesn't give away any of my old clothes or sell them to the ragman any more. I cured that habit effectually once."

"How was that?" they asked him.

"When I found that she had disposed of a coat I hadn't worn for several weeks, I told her there was a letter in it she had given me to mail the last time I had it on. And that was no lie either." he added with deep satisfaction.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine that will cure Diabetes. Like Bright's Disease this disease was incurable until Dodd's Kidney Pills cured it. Doctors themselves confess that without Dodd's Kidney Pills they are powerless against Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the first medicine that ever cured Diabetes. Imitations—box, name and pill, are advertised to do so, but the medicine that does cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Diabetes

Dodd's Kidney Pills are fifty cents a box at all druggists.

FOUR PHYSICIANS FAILED.

One who speaks in terms of the highest praise of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is Mr. J. P. H. Ferris, Kingston, Ont. It cured him when all other remedies failed, and after four physicians had exhausted their skill upon him. He suffered with rheumatism in the legs and shoulders for over a year, and for six months the pain he endured was excruciating. For three weeks it confined him to his room. Happening to read of some of the remarkable cures effected by Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure, he was induced to give it a trial. Almost from the time he began taking the first bottle he was relieved, and after using seven bottles, he found himself as well and free from pain as ever he was. He declares the medicine is a wonderful remedy, and recommends all rheumatic sufferers to give it a trial. He says if the directions are carried out faithfully, a cure is sure to follow.

MR. J. P. H. FERRIS

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

De Big Fool Tree.

Oh, dere's beech, an dere's maples
Dat is waitin feh de spring
An de'ain feh de sout' win'
To come a-whisperin,
But de one I sparly notice
Is an ouster in his lot;
It grows out by de gyahden;
It's de big fool tree!

De fustes' glimpse of sunshine
Dat comes peekin froo de cloud
Will bring de buds a-smilin
So kyahless an so proud.
De fustes' froo' dat hits it
Demolishes its glee,
An de col' wave shakes wif laughtes
At de big fool tree.

It 'minds me of some people
Who jes' trifles life away;
'Stead of waitin feh dah chances
An a-workin day by day,
Dey blossoms out of season,
An it's mighty sad to see
How de chillin froo' dese hatch 'em
Like de big fool tree!

And Now They Never Speak.

Mr. Parkslope—When a lady tells me it is her birthday and I know she is past 35, I find it is best to change the subject instead of asking her how old she is.

Miss Babylon—What a coincidence, your speaking of it! This happens to be my birthday.

Mr. Parkslope (quickly)—Oh, indeed! What lovely weather we are having!

Must Yell.

"What is the use of a man getting into a crowd and yelling, as he does at a baseball game?"

"Great heavens!" exclaimed the enthusiast. "He's got to do it in a crowd. If he were to go away by himself and yell in that manner, they would have him in a lunatic asylum in less than a week."

The Glowing Future.

"The greatest song has not been sung,"
Nor has the finest star been found;
The brightest jewel still is hid
In silent darkness underground.
The gladdest peal is yet to ring,
The fairest blush is still to glow;
The greatest day is yet to dawn;
The reddest rose is still to blow.
The fondest sigh has not been heard,
The sweetest draft has not been quaffed;
The greatest ship has never sailed,
The happiest laugh has not been laughed.
The fairest city yet shall rise,
The strongest wall has not been stormed,
And even now, perhaps—who knows—
The greatest trust may not be formed.
The kindest word has not been heard,
The sweetest flower is still to bloom,
The swiftest steed is yet to run,
The greatest gun is still to boom,
And let us not, oh, fellow men,
Forget, in this connection, that
We never have as yet been up
Against the costliest Easter hat!

An Indulgent Father.

"Her father is a Chicago packer, isn't he?"

"Yes, and very wealthy. Why, he gave his daughter a specially built piano playing attachment with an extra large pedaling surface."

"What was that for?"

"Her feet."

No Suggestions.

"I must say," remarked the physician, "your husband is in a bad way. Any arrangements you may want to make"—

"Oh, doctor," she cried, "I could never think of marrying again!"

Musical Note.

Those girls who play pianos have one trick they should omit.

We coax to get them started; then they never want to quit.

Its Western Profile.

"What state is this?" asked the teacher, pointing it ont on the map.

"Illinois," answered Tommy Tucker.

"How do you recognize it?"

"It always looks as if it was makin a face at Mizzoory."

Helpful Advice.

"I sent a postage stamp for a pamphlet which was to tell me how to succeed."

"What did it say?"

"It said, 'Make better use of your postage stamps.'".

A Secret Grief.

Madge wears a sunburst on her breast,
But she's not happy—no;
The bauble cost, be it confest,
Just thirty cents or so

Might Be Cheaper.

Tess—So he jilted her, eh? That must have made her feel cheap.

Jess—Not as cheap as he might wish. She computes the damage to her heart at $25,000.

Seized the Opportunity.

Rakit—I wonder why Grumpaigh's wife deserted him?

Tellit—She had a new going away gown and wanted an excuse to wear it.

A Wish.

"Life's but a dream," the fairy declared.
"We wake not till we die."
"If so, I wish that you'd wake up,"
The other made reply.

Just Like Dick.

Easyman—Your brother Dick did me out of $10 last night.

Miss Wearie—That's just like Dick. He is always doing some ridiculous thing.—Truth.

MOST PEOPLE LOPSIDED.

Differences Between the Legs, Eyes and Ears of Men and Women.

The two sides of a person's face are never alike. The eyes are out of line in two cases out of five, and one eye is stronger than the other in seven persons out of ten. The right ear is also, as a rule, higher than the left.

Only one person in 15 has perfect eyes, the largest percentage of defects prevailing among fair haired people. Short sight is more common in town than among country folk, and of all people the Germans have the largest proportion of shortsighted persons.

The crystalline lens of the eye is the one portion of the human body which continues to increase with the attainment of maturity.

The smallest interval of sound can be better distinguished with one ear than with both. The nails of two fingers never grow with the same rapidity, that of the middle finger growing the fastest, while that of the thumb grows the slowest.

In 54 cases out of 100 the left leg is shorter than the right. The bones of an average human male skeleton weigh 20 pounds, those of a woman are six pounds lighter.

That unruly member, the tongue of a woman, is also smaller than that of a man, given a man and a woman of equal size and weight. It may be appalling to reflect, but it is nevertheless true, that the muscles of the human jaw exert a force of over 500 pounds.

The symmetry which is the sole intelligible ground for our idea of beauty, the proportion between the upper and lower half of the human body, exists in nearly all males, but is never found in the female. American limbs are more symmetrical than those of any other people. The rocking chair, according to an English scientist, is responsible for the exercise which increases the beauty of the lower limbs. The push which the toes give to keep the chair in motion, repeated and repeated, makes the instep high, the calf round and full, and it makes the ankle delicate and slender.—Exchange.

How a Sprain Does Hurt!

But it isn't the pain alone that is dreaded, just think of the loss of time and wages. Sprains without number have been cured by rubbing Polson's Nerviline well into the pores of the skin surrounding the joint. No matter whether it is a sprained wrist, ankle, knee or back, just try Nerviline on it, and see how quickly it will cure. There is only one liniment that can be depended upon to cure sprains, strains and swellings, and that is Polson's Nerviline. Large bottle 25 cents.

Miss Nobility.

"It was very noble of you, Willie, to plead that your brother be spared a whipping."

"I guess I know my business. Every time he gets licked he turns around and licks me."—Indianapolis Press.

Evidence to the Contrary.

"I told Uncle Simon that he was getting too old and feeble to attend to business."

"Did he take it kindly?"

"He threw me out of his office."

Pinical.

"When do you intend to start for the south?"

"We shall probably leave Tuesday."

"Expect to take the rest of the week with you?"

The first great fire in an American city occurred at Boston Aug. 8, 1679. By this conflagration 150 buildings were destroyed, the loss amounting to over £90,000.

BRYAN OUT OF THE RACE.

In Leading Editorial of "The Commoner" He States His Plans.

Lincoln, Neb., April 27.—In the leading editorial of to-day's Commoner, under the head "A Bit Personal," William J. Bryan states with considerable frankness his future plans and policies, intimating that he will not again be a candidate for the presidency, but, as an editor, will have something to say as to who shall be the nominee.

"I am not planning for another presidential nomination," he says. "If I were I would not be editing a paper. If I ever become a candidate again it will be because it seems necessary for the advancement of the principles to which I adhere, and that does not seem probable."

Disappointed the Farmer.

"That city man that was visiting me is an overrated cuss," remarked the farmer.

"How so?"

"Oh, the papers all said he was a great hand at watering stock, but I found he couldn't work the pump five minutes without lanning his arm."

Ah!

He—Cissie, I've heard it said that a kiss without a mustache is like an egg without salt. Is that so?

She—Well, really, I don't know. I can't tell, for, you see, I've never—

He—Ah, now!

She—Never eaten an egg without

Your Footing for Spring

Fine Weather and its Shoe Possibilities.

We're done with Winter—six months, and enough. Spring and summer are now before us. This opens the possibility of shedding our heavy garments and footwear that have done us good service, and donning something lighter and easier. It's these climatic facts and their application that makes us keep two stocks of Shoes, that we may suit the needs of customers for the two seasons.

Just now we are putting before you Summer Shoes. The heavier goods are sent aloft—not so far up that they cannot be reached if needed, but crowded out by their timely successors. So now for summer.

Here's a few seasonable lines—and the prices tell their cost, the cost well represents good value.

Men's Dongola Kid Balmoral, Goodyear Welt..... $3.00
Men's Box Calf Balmorals, in Tans and Blacks, Goodyear Welt.. $3.00
Men's Chocolate Dongola Kid Balmorals, extra value..... $2.50

WHAT MAN SHOULD EAT.

A PHYSICIAN TELL THE EXACT AMOUNT FOR HEALTHY PERSON.

Scientific Diet for One Day—All Meat Can be Digested.

(New York Journal.)

A famous physician has made up a new system of what people should eat to be healthy. He figures this out in as exact a scientific way as an engineer calculates, that a persen needs three and one-third pounds of solid food daily.

But the knowledge of what weight of food a person should consume in one day, does not settle the diet question, which is one of the most important things in life to every person.

A set of this great physician's diet tables, while not so luscious looking as a French chef's table d'hote menu, will result in better digestion. In these tables this physiologist shows the different degrees of nourishment in the various kinds of meats, cereals and vegetables.

Among meets, beef stands at the head of the list for its proteids, or albuminous qualities, with the exception of fowl. But, as the percentage of fat is less in beef than in fowl it is more easily digested. The presence of fat in meat tends to retard digestion by preventing the digestive fluids from making their way in between fibres.

Eggs are to be regarded as complete natural food, as they contain all the necessary food principles.

Milk is the natural food for the young of all animals, as well as of man. Under a microscope milk is seen to consist of a clear fluid filled with small oily globes one-millionth of an inch in diameter. These globes contain the nourishing quality of milk, called casein. When taken into the stomach it is coagulated, but passes on easily through the digestive organs of children.

That the cereals are most important and useful food is shown by the fact that they contain such large percentages of sugars, starch and gums, called carbohydrates, as well as a considerable amount of proteids or albuminoids. But, owing to the cellulose or woody fibre which covers the kernels they are somewhat difficult of digestion.

Vegetables vary greatly in nutritive value and digestibility. The cellulose in them, however, tends to retard digestion. For this reason nearly all vegetables require cooking. When subjected to heat and moisture not only is the texture of the vegetable softened, but the starch grains are partially converted into sugar and other substances easily assimilated. Potatoes, when well cooked, are easily digested because they contain but little cellulose.

Ripe fruits, oranges, lemons, grapes, pears, peaches, cherries, apples, and berries generally, have but little nourishing quality, as they consist of 75 to 85 per cent. of water. But the sugars and acids which they contain make them invaluable in making up a healthful diet.

There is a constant discussion about the relative value of meat diet, as contrasted with that of cereals and vegetables. Dr. Brubaker has calculated the actual value of animal and vegetable diet in plain figures. He shows that one-quarter the vegetable food taken into the system remains undigested, while in meats the undigested portion is only one-tenth.

As neither animal nor vegetable foods contain the nutritive elements in proper proportions to satisfy the human system man's instinct has led him to make a combination of the two kinds of diet.

To construct a scientific diet it is only necessary to combine two or more foods in sufficient quantities to furnish the amount of nitrogen and carbon required by the body in twenty-four hours. Here is what Dr. Brubaker considers a "scientific" amount and assortment of food per day.

Meat	Half pound
Bread	One pound
Fats	One-quarter pound
Potatoes	One pound
Milk	Half pint
Eggs	Quarter pound
Cheese	One-third pound

This makes a weight of three and a third pounds of solid food. But to thrive upon this diet a person must add the amount of acids, sugar, or salts, which his particular system needs. The natural craving of the appetite is a pretty good guide in this matter.

Corn Sowing

Mute Evidence of Wreck.

Charlottetwon, P. E. I., April 29.—Five hundred seal pelts drifted ashore at Summerside on Saturday evening, at Curtain Island, and 300 at St. Eleanor's Island. They are probably skins belonging to one of the Newfoundland sealers. A lot of wreckage also drifted ashore, among which was a brass rail, steamer's deck, plank and a cabin.

WILL CANADA WIN?

A GIGANTIC INTERNATIONAL RACE.

Every Nation Represented—The Most Remarkable Contest in the History of Man.

Owing to the success of the recent expeditions in search of the North Pole, all nations are alert. In all parts of the world scientists have risen to the emergency, and now with victory in sight it will be a struggle to the death to plant the flag at the earth's axis. No less than seven expeditions are being fitted out and will sail from as many different ports. Practically unlimited means have been placed at the disposal of the explorers in other lands. Russia has placed unlimited means at the disposal of Admiral Makaroff, William Zeigler, a millionaire of New York, is willing to spend one million five hundred thousand dollars to enable E. B. Baldwin to plant the Stars and Stripes at the pole. The Duke of Abruzzi, who spent five hundred thousand dollars on his first expedition is prepared to spend twice as much, if necessary to accomplish his purpose.

Undoubtedly the greatest factor in the world's race for the Pole is the expedition of Captain J. E. Bernier, of Quebec, a Canadian by birth, who has offered his services to his King and Canada gratuitously. The Captain's plans are unquestionably the best that have been conceived. They have been endorsed and approved by the Geographical Society of Quebec, the Colonial Institute of London, England, the Dominion and Provincial Governments, and have received the commendation of such authorities in arctic research as Sir, Clements Markham, Dr. Bell of the Dominion Survey, J. W. Tyrell, chairman of the Committee on Polar Research of Toronto, and the late Dr. G. M. Dawson of the Geological Survey.

The strongest testimony that can be brought to bear in favour of Captain Bernier's expedition is the fact that his plans are fully in accord with nature while those of his competitors are in direct opposition to nature.

In view of the great interest manifested by Canadians in Canadian Polar Expedition, it has been decided by the committee in charge of the Expedition, of whom His Excellency the Earl of Minto is Patron; Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, President; Sir Clements Markham, 1st Vice-Pres.; and Hon. R.R. Dobell, M.P. P.C., 2nd Vice-President and Chairman, Lt. Col. De La C. T. Irwin, Hon'y A. D. C. to the Gov.-Gen., Treasurer, to immediately appeal to the Canadian Public for assistance in the shape of a popular subscription to supplement the grant given by the Dominion Government.

Subscription lists have been opened in all the banks and newspaper offices in Canada, and it is earnestly requested that the necessary funds be supplied with as little delay as possible; you are, therefore, asked to subscribe now, and any amount you may feel disposed to contribute will be most acceptable. Funds will be deposited as received in the Bank of Montreal, Ottawa, and every sum received will be duly acknowledged, and the name of the subscriber will be recorded in the official records of the undertaking.

Subscriptions may be sent to the nearest bank or newspaper office, or may be mailed direct to the Polar Expedition Committee, 117 Bank street, Ottawa.

Veteran Soldier Disappears.

Chatham, Ont., April 29. — Where is John O'Phee? He has been absent from his home for two weeks. John O'Phee is a veteran soldier of the rebellion of 1837 and the Fenian Raid of 1866. Two weeks ago yesterday he left his home in Cedar Springs and came to Chatham, and called at the office of Lieut.-Col. Rankin. He was around the city during the day, but since then has not been seen by his relatives. Some persons think he may have met with foul play.

Awarded $10,000 Damages.

Vancouver, April 29.—Mrs. Mary Jane Bigger, who was among the passengers rescued from a watery grave in the Point Ellice bridge street car disaster in Victoria in 1896, was on Friday awarded $10,000 damages for shock to her nervous system. Her husband and four children were on the car with her, two of the children being drowned. Her husband is suing for $50,000 damages and $10,000 for the loss of each child.

A New Steel Co.

New York, April 29.—Word comes from Philadelphia that the new steel company, to include English and Canadian interests, which has been rather indefinitely hinted at in the papers for several months past, is organizing under the name of the International Steel Iron & Pipe Co. It is to have a capital of $50,000,000. It is proposed to build steel mills on both sides of the "Soo" Canal, to have a capacity of 400,000 tons.

New Regiment at Quebec.

Quebec, April 40.—It has been practically decided at headquarters to organize a new regiment of eight companies out of the remains of the 70th and 81st Regiments, Champlain and Portneuf County corps, with headquarters at St. Anne de La Perade, in which case Major J. A. Rousseau, M. P. for Champlain County, will be the commanding officer.

On Two Days Running Enemy Was Thoroughly Thrashed.

A FIGHT SOUTH OF WEPENER.

Lord Kitchener Reports 15 Boers Killed and One Briton Hurt—One Hundred and Eighty-Seven Put Out of the Fight for Good—Supplies Galore Brought in by the British.

London, April 30.—Lord Kitchener reports to the War Office from Pretoria, under date of April 28, as follows:

"Kitchener's fighting scouts, under Grenfell, have surprised and captured Van Rensburg's laager at Klipdam, north of Pietersburg. Seven Boers were killed, and thirty-seven taken prisoners. Eight thousand rounds of ammunition and all the wagons, carts, oxen, horses and mules were captured. Our only casualty was one wounded.

"The other columns report three killed, fifty-eight taken prisoners, fifty-seven surrendered, and one quick-firer captured."

Railroad Blown Up in Three Places.

Cape Town, April 29.—A party of Boers blew up the railroad between Graspan and Belmont, Cape Colony, in three places, April 27, apparently with the intention of intercepting a train carrying Mr. Cecil Rhodes. The damage done was slight, and was quickly repaired.

A Fight South of Wepener.

London, April 30. — Another despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, April 29, says:

"Gen. Blood has discovered at Rossenkal, South African Republic, Government documents and a large number of bank notes.

"Byng had a fight with Boers on the Basutoland border, south of Wepener, and killed five.

"Grenfell, in addition to the captures reported, got 38,500 rounds of small arms ammunition.

"At Lydenburg twenty Boers have surrendered."

DIED ON THE VOYAGE OUT.

Four Canadians For B. P. Constabulary Failed to Reach the Cape.

Ottawa, April 30.—Private letters received in the city convey the sad news that three deaths occurred amongst the Canadian recruits for the South African Constabulary while en route to the Cape. The victims were Ollie Mann of Ottawa, Ernest Hulme Paton of Toronto and Sergeant Edwyn Llewellyn Purdom. Mann's death took place on Friday and the others' on Easter Sunday. Two others were not expected to recover at the time of writing.

Later—Ollie Mann's father has received a letter from Capt. Fall, temporarily in command of the South African force, stating that his son died from cerebro spinal meningitis. Paton died of pneumonia and Purdom succumbed to brain fever.

A fourth man named Wilcox also died on the Montfort.

Paton Is All Right.

Ottawa, April 30.—A letter was received in the city yesterday from Pte. Ernest Paton of Toronto, who sailed with the South African Constabulary. It is dated April 8, and its receipt relieved the feelings of his friends here, who were apprehensive lest his name should have been confounded with that of Pte. Padden of New Brunswick, whose death on shipboard had been previously reported.

Frank Davis For Africa.

Windsor, Ont., April 30.—Frank Davis, son of Windsor's Mayor, has enlisted with Baden-Powell's Constabulary. He left London, and will join the force at Durban.

Col. Steele's Superannuation Blocked.

Ottawa, April 30.—The Auditor-General has blocked the granting of superannuation to Lieut.-Col. Steele. Superannuation, the statute says, may be granted on account of old age, broken health or retirement for motives of economy. Neither of these applies to the case of Lieut.-Col. Steele, but the Treasury Board recommenaed superannuation for special reasons. The Auditor-General declines to recognize this as coming within the meaning of the act, and there the matter stands for the present. Lieut.-Col. Steele is 52 years of age, and has served for 22 years as an officer in the Mounted Police. For this term of office his superannuation allowance would be $582 per annum.

G. T. R. Kills a Bicyclist.

Aurora, Ont., April 30. — A young man named Ivan Peregrine, only son of James A. Peregrine of this place, was killed yesterday morning by the 10 o'clock Grand Trunk train at the crossing, about 1¼ miles south of Aurora. The young man had been in the city on a visit, and was returning home on his bicycle, and somehow failed to see the approaching train before it was too late. He was employed in J. M. Walton & Co.'s private bank. He was highly respected here.

A Shipowner's Suicide.

Vienna, April 30.—A despatch to The Neue Frei Press from Bucharest, says Caracvali, one of the largest shipowners and grain exporters at Braila, has committed suicide by shooting himself. His alleged liabilities are 5,000,000 francs. The affair has caused intense excitement at Bucharest and in Braila, the principal port of Roumania.

Chas. M. Hays a Radical.

San Francisco, Cal., April 29.—It is stated in railroad circles that President Hays of the Southern Pacific is about to inaugurate a radical change in the management of the system. He will form a cabinet of advisers, to be composed of the heads of practically all the principal departments of the road, with the single exception of the law department.

A SHIPPING COMBINE.

J.P. Morgan & Co. Purchase the Leyland Line of Steamers.

AN EXPECTED CONSOLIDATION.

Will Likely Be United in Interest With the Atlantic Transport Line, Making It the Biggest Transatlantic Shipping Concern in the World—What City of Quebec Fears.

London, April 30.—The first step in the direction of the consolidation of some of the biggest Transatlantic shipping interests has been accomplished by the purchase by J. Pierpont Morgan and Company of the Leyland Line of steamers. A deposit on the purchase money has been paid.

The Leyland line of steamers at present operates between Liverpool and Boston and Liverpool and New York. Some time ago negotiations for the consolidation of the Leyland and the Atlantic Transport Company's interests fell through, owing to a difference of opinion regarding how the stock should be issued. The fleet of the Leyland Line is now composed of 55 steamers, and has contracts for several others now under way. The purchase of the Leyland Line is tantamount to its consolidation with the Atlantic Transport Line.

The Leyland officials in confirming the sale said an official statement would be issued to-day. It is announced that the shareholders will receive £14 10s for each £10 share. The Leyland Line, whose fleets will thus pass into the control of Americans, is one of Great Britain's greatest shipping institutions, and the result of the consolidation will be a steamship company with the largest tonnage in the world.

Divert Trade to Boston.

Quebec, April 30.—Expectations which Quebec has had of a great boom as a result of the coming here of the Leyland Line of steamers, have been generally spoiled by a notification that Pierpont Morgan has got control of this line of steamers. It is feared that this will mean diverting trade from this port to Boston or New York.

MR. C. E. KYLE HONOURED.

A TRIBUTE FROM THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

Past-President Presented with a Portrait of Himself and an Illustrated Address—Testimony to His Excellent Services.

The Toronto Globe publishes the following news item concerning one of the best known and most popular commercial travellers on the road. Mr. Kyle has many friends in Peterborough who will read the appended paragraph with pleasure:

"On Saturday afternoon members of the Commercial Travellers' Association presented the retiring President, Mr. Charles E. Kyle, with a portrit in oils of himself, and an illuminated address. The ceremony took place in the rooms of the association, and was largely attended. Mr. M. C. Ellis, the recently elected president, who occupied the chair, read the address and made the presentation. In a brief speech he referred to Mr. Kyle's work in the interests of the association, first as a member, then as Second and First Vice-President, and later as President during 1899 and 1900, in both of which years he was elected by acclamation. Mr. Kyle made an appropriate reply, and concluded by following the custom adopted on former occasions of handing the portrait back to the association to take its place on the walls of the general meeting room. Short addresses were also delivered by the following past Presidents of the associations:—Messrs. Warring Kennedy, Hugh Blain, A. A. Allan and J. C. Black; and Wm. Cauldwell, First Vice-President; Thos. McQuillan, Second Vice-President; Wm. Bremner, President of the Hamilton section; E. Fielding and W. F. Smith. All united in warm tributes to the ability displayed by Mr. Kyle in the various offices held by him, and agreed that the commendatory terms of the illuminated address referred to only barely touched upon the good results of the recipient's work. Mr. F. McGillivrary Knowles, who painted the portrait, was also referred to by all in flattering terms for the excellence of his work, and in response to repeated demands for a speech briefly addressed the gathering. The portrait is three-quarters length, and a perfect and striking likeness.

THE LAST ELECTION.

Return Presented in the Commons—Fewer Ballots Were Rejected.

The return of the clerk of the Crown in Chancery on the general election of last November has been presented to Parliament. The number of rejected ballots in the election was 7,718, as against 13,871 in 1896, which would tend to show the superiority of the existing ballot form over the disc ballot of 1896.

The total vote by provinces was as follows:

Ontario	426,083
Quebec	237,259
Nova Scotia	107,836
New Brunswick	68,340
Prince Edward Island	21,129
Manitoba	41,780
British Columbia	26,451
Northwest Territories	23,618
Total	952,496

In the general election of 1896 the total vote cast was 835,600.

The largest majority, 2,772, was secured by the Prime Minister in Quebec East, and the smallest majority, 1, in North Bruce.

Sunspots and Rainfall.

At the last meeting of the Toronto Astronomical Society, Mr. R. F. Stupart, Director of the Observatory, read a paper on the relation of sunspot periods and variations in rainfall. The result of Mr. Stupart's observations tended to show that there was an increase of local rainfall about the time of sunspot minimum, and also two or three years after maximum. Mr. Stupart is still carrying on his investigations, and it is hoped that further light will be thrown on the interesting subject of the effect on meteorological conditions of the present unknown causes of sunspots.

Canada's Unique Hansard.

Speaking of the Canadain "Hansard," The Montreal Witness says: "We have the most efficient and probably the only correct and promptly issued report of public debates published in the world." Canada's system is certainly unique. Every day Parliament gets an exact reproduction of its discussions of the day before. For historical purposes and for the necessities of the future, in so far as explaining the purpose of legislation and the policy of public men, Hansard is invaluable. It supplies a want that the newspapers cannot possibly cover.

Drugging will not Cure Catarrh

Doctors say so. Victims of snuffs, ointments and tablets tell the same story. Catarrh is a germ disease. The germs excite disease in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes. Germs are hard to get at, but destroy them and you cure the disease. How can it be done? By carrying powerful medication with the air you breathe direct to the diseased parts. You must be sure, also, that the medication will kill the disease germs. Catarrhozone is guaranteed to do this. That's why it has created such a sensation in the medical world. You simply breathe Catarrhone; it destroys the germs—it heals in a word it cures. Now you know everything about Catarrhozone, except what you can learn by using it. Catarrhozone never disappoints and is guaranteed to cure Catarrh. Price $1.00; Small size 25 cents, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

EXPORT COAL TAX MUST STAND.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach Claims Extra Cost Will Fall on Buyers.

London, April 30.—A representative delegation from the miners of the United Kingdom met the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, yesterday and asked for the withdrawal of the export tax on coal. The Chancellor, replying, controverted the suggestion that the tax would injure the export coal trade. The tax, he said, would ultimately be paid by the foreigner, and therefore the colliery owners could not pretend it was necessary to reduce the miners' wages on that account.

Many South Wales miners enjoyed a holiday yesterday as a protest against the tax. Demonstrations took place at various points.

Won't Pay British Coal Tax.

Genoa, April 30.—A meeting was held here yesterday of Italian coal importers. FOR CANADIAN UNITY.

Leading French-Canadian Thinker Speaks of the National Destiny of His Compatriots.

In answer to the question, "What will be the destiny of the French-Canadian people during the twentieth century?" put by a French-Canadian newspaper, H. C. St. Pierre, K. C., one of the leading French-Canadian thinkers, says: "The French-Canadian race will be what it is to-day, with the following modifications: The French-Canadians will become more Canadian, more 'Britishers,' more united to their compatriots of the English tongue, but in a hundred years from now they will still be French-Canadians, that is to say, Canadians speaking the French language and faithful to their origin, their constitution, their laws, and their religion. But let us be understood, over the name of French-Canadian a nation cannot have two allegiances. No one can serve two masters at the same time. The people of Canada can never hope to form a distinct nation and to lay the foundation of a great country so long as the Canadian of French origin places France in the first place in his affections. He must feel that his country is here in this beautiful Canada, which God has given him as a heritage, and I have no need to add that the same law applies to Canadians of English, Scotch, and Irish origin as well."

One of Sothern's Jokes.

That inveterate joker, Sothern the actor, had made an appointment with Toole, the comedian, to dine at a well known London restaurant. The hour of meeting was fixed and Sothern arrived some few minutes before the appointed time. An elderly gentleman was dining at a table at some little distance from that prepared for the two actors. He was reading a newspaper which he had comfortably arranged before him as he was eating his dinner. Sothern walked up to him and striking him a smart blow between the shoulders said:

"Hello, old fellow! Who would have thought of seeing you here? I thought you never"— The assaulted diner turned around angrily, when Sothern exclaimed: "I beg you a thousand pardons, sir. I thought you were an old friend of mine—a family man whom I never expected to see here. I hope you will pardon me."

The old gentleman growled a reply, and Sothern returned to his table, where he was presently joined by Toole, to whom he said:

"See that old boy? I'll bet you half a crown you daren't go and give him a slap on the back and pretend you have mistaken him for a friend."

"Done!" said Toole, and done it was immediately with a result that may be imagined.

A LOVABLE JUDGE.

How Sir Thomas Galt Unconsciously Worked Into Lawyer's Hands.

The following is from the New York Tribune of recent date:

"Sir Thomas Galt, Chief Justice of the Court of Commons Pleas of Ontario," said a prominent Canadian barrister at the Waldorf-Astoria last evening, "is a most engaging and lovable man. Sir Thomas is a brother of Sir Alexander Galt, who was formerly Canadian High Commissioner to England. Sir Thomas has many peculiarities, the most prominent of which is that he hates to have anything read to him in court. He believes it destroys the effect. I remember once when a fellow-barrister and myself were one evening to dine with Sir Thomas I said to the other man: 'I'll bet you anything you like that within forty seconds of the time we land in the room Sir Thomas will remark on the different points of view from which the Judge and the barrister regard the docket.' The other man thought a moment, and then took the bet for $5, saying: 'Well, no matter what happens, I can stop Sir Thomas for at least forty seconds by doing all the talking myself.' His figuring was incorrect, however, as the outcome proved. As soon as we got in I said to the Judge: 'Sir Thomas, I am sorry to see so small a docket.' 'Ah! my dear John,' he made instant reply, 'it's strange the different view a Judge and counsellor will take of the size of a docket.' As soon as we got to one side I queried of the other lawyer: 'Well, he said it, didn't he?' 'Yes,' he growled in reply, 'he said it all right enough, but you dropped a nickel in the slot to make him do it.'"

Railroading in Ireland.

A somewhat nervous English tourist vouches for the genuineness of the following incident of Irish traveling: The train arrived some 20 minutes late at a small station, and the engine driver inquired of the station master, "Did the express go by yet, Tim?" "It did not," was the answer. There was indecision on the part of the engine driver for a moment when he cheerfully exclaimed, "Ah, well; we must chance it!" as he blew the whistle and started off on the single line.

Boiled Water in Ancient Times.

Now that the use of boiled drinking water has become common, it is interesting to be reminded that a similar method of guarding against disease was practiced in ancient times. Herodotus tells how Cyrus had his drinking water boiled and carried in silver vessels, and Pliny the elder relates that Nero had water boiled and afterward cooled for drinking by placing it in glass flasks surrounded with snow.

HOLIDAY ON THE 24TH

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Announcement in the House.

ELECTION ACT IN COMMITTEE.

Judges' Salaries—Mr. Maclean Advocates an Increase All Round—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Reply—The West Durham Election Discussed—Form of Ballot Paper in Elections.

Ottawa, April 30.—The House yesterday considered the Elections bill and reported it with amendments providing that the stamp shall be retained and a number placed on the counterfoil to prevent substitutions; the resolutions providing salaries for an increased number of Judges in Quebec, and for the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in the Northwest Territories. The greater part of the afternoon was taken up with private bills. The House rose at 11.40 p. m.

On the opening of the House Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced that it was the intention of the Government that the 24th of May should be observed as a public holiday. He said: "I stated some time ago that I would make the announcement this day upon the celebration of the 24th of May. The Government, I think, is right in assuming that it is the general, if not the unanimous, wish of the people of Canada, that the 24th of May, which has long been celebrated as a national holiday, should continue to be so observed as in the days of Queen Victoria. I therefore move that the order, 'House in committee on bill respecting Victoria Day,' be transferred from public orders to general orders." This means that Dr. Horsey's bill is adopted by the Government.

Dawson Telegraph Line.

In reply to Mr. Ganong, the Minister of Public Works, said that the Dawson telegraph line to Ashcroft, on the C. P. R., would be completed in July. The average number of messages per month since the opening of the line to its present terminus was 2,681; receipts, $3,702. The line so far had cost $430,000, and when completed would cost $460,000.

Our Imports From United States.

Mr. Charlton was informed that Canada's imports for consumption from the United States from July 1, 1900, to April 1, 1901, were $78,702,440. The total amount of dutiable goods inspected in the same period was $37,484,382.

West Durham Election.

The House went into committee upon the bill to amend the Dominion Elections Act, 1900. Mr. Maclean asked whether the Government intended to make the clause amending the provision that the deposit of a candidate should be in legal tender retroactive, so that Mr. Thornton could take his seat for West Durham.

Mr. Fitzpatrick explained that the bill before the House would make an accepted check a legal deposit, but it would be contrary to practice and custom to make it retroactive, so that it would apply to cases before the courts.

The clause was finally passed without amendment.

Form of Ballot Paper.

The section of the Election Act dealing with the form of the ballot evoked a protracted debate.

The ballot is to be in three parts—a stub, a counterfoil and the ballot paper proper. The stubs and counterfoils are numbered with corresponding consecutive numbers, upon the back, and the section also provided that before handing the ballot to the voter the deputy returning officer shall place upon the back of the counterfoil a number corresponding to the voter's number on the poll book. This will enable the deputy to identify the ballot upon its return to him by the voter. Having verified it, the deputy shall tear off the counterfoil and destroy it, and deposit the ballot in the box. The deputy, by the section, is also obliged to initial the ballot paper upon the back of it.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier agreed with the multiplicity of safeguards, and Mr Borden falling in with this suggestion, the section was amended to require the ballot to be stamped as well as initialed.

A number of suggested amendments were made, and they may be considered before the bill is again taken up in committee.

C. P. R. Bill.

In committee on the bill respecting the C. P. R., to extend a branch of the C. P. R. from Toulon to Sifton's Landing, Man., a move was made by several of the Northwest members to attach an amendment compelling the C. P. R. to extend the Great Northwest Central Railway 60 miles from Portage La Prairie.

After protracted debate the bill passed without amendmnet, and was read a third time.

The Salaries of Judges.

The House went into committee on the resolution to increase the salary of the Circuit Judge in Montreal from $3,000 to $3,600; also to provide that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Northwest Territories shall receive $5,000 instead of $4,000, and that the salaries of the 17 Puisne Judges of Quebec, who reside at Montreal and Quebec, shall be $5,000 each per annum.

Mr. Maclean urged upon the Government the desirability of increasing the salaries of the Superior Court Judges in Ontario and other Provinces.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the subject of the salaries of the Judges of the land was not new by any means. Sir John Thompson had twice introduced a resolution to increase the salaries of the Judges, but after introducing the resolution he did not proceed with the resolution for some reason which he did not state to the House, but which, he supposed, arose from within the ranks of his own party, as he Sir Wilfrid Laurier) had stated he was prepared to approve of it. There is a pretty general opinion that the present salaries of the Judges, which have been established in the Provinces for some 40 years, are inadequate to the conditions which prevail now, but whenever the subject has been discussed in the House there has been a conflict of opinion expressed upon it.

The resolution was finally reported and the House rose at 11.40 p. m.

Steamship Line to France.

Ottawa, April 30.—In the House yesterday Sir Richard Cartwright gave notice of the following resolution:

"That it is expedient to make provision for a subsidy, not exceeding a sum of $100,000 per annum, for a steamship service between a port or ports in Canada and a port or ports in France."

A Conscience-Stricken Woman.

Ottawa, April 30.—The Minister of Customs received yesterday a letter from the High Commissioner in London, England, stating that a lady called at his office and left in an envelope without name or address £50 conscience money, for the Customs Department, Canada. This was on account of jewelry and other articles sent into Canada on which there was either no duty, or insufficiently paid. Lord Strathcona sent the cheque to the department here.

A DOG'S SWIM.

He Tried To Cross the Otonabee But Couldn't.

The big Newfoundland dog owned by Mr. Joseph W. Steelbrook, a foreman in the Auburn Woollen Mills, and who lives at No. 846 George street, had a rather exciting experience yesterday morning. The noble animal was on the east side of the Otonabee river, and attempted to swim across at a point only a short distance above the dam near Inverlea Park. The current was too strong, however, and the dog went over the dam with his head pointing towards Auburn. He passed through the eddy and was finally compelled to make for the eastern shore some distance down. Mr. Dog then chose the more sensible way and crossed the Smith street bridge in an exhausted condition.

AN ADDRESS.

Expressing Regret at the Resignation from Office of Mr. A. J. Raddon.

At the regular meeting of the Murray street Baptist Young Peoples Union last evening, Mr. A. J. Raddon, president of the society, was presented with a handsomely bound volume of Tennyson's poems, on behalf of the Union, by Miss Bella Mann, while the following address was read by Miss Ada Bradshaw:

Mr. A. J. Raddon, President B.Y.P.U. of C.E., Murray Street:

Dear Mr. Raddon.—The members of the Baptist Young People's Union of Christian Endeavour of the Murray street Baptist church learn with very great regret that your high sense of duty has, in view of your inability to give the necessary time, led to your resignation of the position of president you have so long and so efficiently filled, and we desire to give expression to the great sense of loss that we all sustain by your retirement, and at the same time our appreciation of your services. For the three years in which you have been our president, you have, as we can all testify, been faithful at all times, and you have ever sacrificed a great deal more valuable time than a less conscientious incumbent of the office might have reasonably thought necessary. Your regular attendance at our meetings on all occasions, stated as well as special, has not only been commendable in itself, but has been a living example of fidelity to service to every member of our Union, as also have your daily walk and conversation been a creditable living exposition—the great religious principles which our Union seeks to promote.

Our regret is, however, softened by the knowledge that though your official relations with us have changed, there is no change in your connection with our Union or in your devotion to its interests. As a token of our esteem and appreciation we ask you to accept this book of poems.

In conclusion we trust that you may long be spared to the life of usefulness in the Master's service, which your past work and zeal have shown you to be so eminently fitted for and so earnestly inclined to.

M. L. STRATTON,
Cor. Secretary.
MARY GARBUTT,
Rec. Secretary.

Mr. Raddon, who was taken completely by surprise, found difficulty in expressing his thanks. His few words, however, were feelingly spoken in language that left no doubt of his sincere appreciation of the honour accorded him.

Rev. Mr. Davidson's Sermon.

The conclusion of Rev. J. C. Davidson's Sunday sermon to the Oddfellows will be published in to-morrow's issue.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED.

THE 57TH REGIMENTAL BAND

WHAT THE LINDSAY POST SAYS OF THE BOYS.

Music Highly Appreciated by the Citizens of the Scugog Town—Favourable Comment.

The Lindsay Post, in reporting the band concert, by the 57th Regimental band, in Lindsay on Friday night last, after making reference to the failure of that town to secure a first class musical organization of their own, says:—

These reflections are a natural result of the visit of the 57th Regiment Band, of Peterboro', to this town last Friday evening. We had heard much in praise of that organization from travellers and others, but candidly admit that all we had heard, read or imagined failed to impress us as did the rendition of the first number on the programme, and we are stating a fact when we say that the appreciation and enthusiasm of the audience gained in volume as the programme progressed, until at the close the hearers were in a most eulogistic mood. On all sides, as the people passed out, could be heard expressions such as "Just splendid"; Peterborough has reason to be proud of its band"; "Good enough to go anywhere"; "Could have listened another hour": Conductor Gliddon has the appearance of a leader," and so on.

The band arrived on the 6 o'clock train, 40 strong, and every member in uniform by permission of their Colonel. The concert opened about 8.30, by which hour a fair-sized audience, comprising the leading people of the town, had gathered to enjoy the expected treat. Large as is the stage of our pretty Academy, it just served to accomodate the bandsmen, who were seated in neat array fronting the platform of their leader, Conductor Gliddon, who was accorded a hearty reception as he took his stand, baton in hand.

It is not necessary to refer critically to every number—in fact the manner of rendition left little room for criticism. Throughout there was true melody and an entire absence of dissonant tones—no jarring or slurring of notes, no gaps between the parts, no "slips" in shading; the instruments blended beautifully, and the attack was sharp and full wherever required and the pauses well defined. The trombone solo, "The Holy City," by Mr. Harry Clarke, with band accompaniment, was one of the gem selections of the programme and was heartily encored. Another beautiful number was "My Old Kentucky Home," the variations producing a grand effect. The anvil chorus from Il Trovatore was rendered with fine spirit, and it had to be repeated to satisfy the delighted audience. The descriptive number "A Hunting Scene," was a good test of the band's ability, and their work in it gave keen pleasure. the rollicking hunting chorus being not the least enjoyable feature. In all the band gave four encores, "Freaks of Blackville," "Alabama Rose," "Lake Cadets," and "Master Miner."

Conductor Gliddon's appearance and manner made a most favourable impression. He has reason to be proud of his band; we know the members are proud of him; and Peterborough has good cause to be proud of both band and leader.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Several Cases That Were up This Morning—Cow By-law.

At the Police Court this morning Mrs. McIntee, of Reid street, was fined $5 for allowing her cows to run at large. The fine is to be paid within ten days, and in default of payment distress, and in default of distress, imprisonment for ten days, etc.

A number of Mrs. McIntee's neighbours gave evidence as to the manner in which the town bylaw is being broken by the accused. The Magistrate held that the offence was one that should be severly dealt with as the public could not afford to have their lawns and parks destroyed by cows.

A case that took up a great deal of time and brought out a rather alarming mass of contradictory evidence was that in which Bert Craig charged George Taylor with assault and George Taylor charged Bert Craig with a like offence. The little incident occurred at about eleven o'clock Saturday night in front of Kennedy's Meat Market, George street. From the evidence it would appear that the two men have not been on friendly terms and the climax was reached on this occasion, There was no doubt that the assault was committed by Taylor, but he had two brothers who were near by at the time and who swore that there was provocation. That Craig provoked him into it, although Craig had two or three witnesses that swore to the contrary. However, Police Magistrate Dumble could not see how that a man apparently attending to his own business would strike another man without sufficient reason. He therefore fined them both $5.

VICTORIA DAY.

Communications signed by Mr. D. W. Dumble and "A Ratepayer," appear in another column of this issue, setting forth various reasons, in the opinion of the writers, why the 24th of May should not be marked this year in Peterborough by a demonstration, including a kalithumpian procession. Both letters are drafted on similar lines, and the arguments advanced by Mr. Dumble and "Ratepayer" can therefore be dealt with at one and the same time.

Taking Mr. Dumble's last argument first, we find that he objects to the Town Council contributing money towards the fund that is being raised for the purpose of assisting to defray the expense which will be incidental to the demonstration. This question is one that has been dealt with many times by different Councils of the Town of Peterborough, as well as by the Councils of almost every village, town and city in the civilized world, and, in a nutshell, the matter resolves itself into the question as to whether it is not false economy to allow a public holiday to pass without providing such amusement and entertainment as will tend to keep the citizens at home. It is a well known fact that on holidays when there is nothing going on in town, every outgoing train and boat bears away its quota of pleasure-seeking citizens, the majority of whom, especially those who go by train, will easily spend between five and ten dollars each, which money could have been kept in the town had attractions been provided of a nature to keep the citizens at home.

Again, looking at the cost—is it so very much? What does a grant of $500 amount to? The average property holder in Peterborough pays $20 a year in taxes, say $25 at the very outside, and that is a high estimate. Well, a grant of $500 would just cost the average taxpayer ten cents, and for the expenditure of this sum he and his entire family can witness the morning procession, the afternoon sports and the fireworks in the evening. Nobody can very well object to expending so small a sum of money, when the results will be a day of enjoyment, incidentally, as well as a substantial benefit to the town occasioned by keeping the money in town which would otherwise be spent in other places.

Of course the splendid programme which is being arranged cannot be carried out on a grant of $500, but this sum is being largely augmented by most liberal donations from the leading citizens, and besides this fact, many are equipping their own floats for the procession without asking the committee for any monetary assistance whatever.

Looking at the matter of a demonstration as objectional from a sentimental standpoint, that view of it seems to be slightly overdrawn. The 24th of May is the anniversary of the late Queen's birth, not of her death. It would seem unnatural to hold a demonstration on the occasion of the anniversary of Her Majesty's death, but surely no objection can be made to the citizens' marking the Queen's Birthday by joyous festivities.

Those present at the public meeting called for the purpose of deciding whether to hold a demonstration were unanimously in favor of doing so and the largest taxpayers in the town are taking the most active part in the preliminary arrangements.

There is no more loyal or patriotic society in the British Colonies than that of the "Sons of England" and yet no word of disapproval comes from them concerning the demonstration, but on the contrary, the local lodge has cancelled its out-of-town excursion in order to participate in the local celebration.

Public sentiment seems to be in favour of holding a big demonstration and the Council can rest assured that the ratepayers will view with approval the granting of a substantial donation to the Celebration Committee.

VICTORIA DAY.

The Editor of the Daily Examiner.

Sir:—I believe I am voicing the opinion of a large number, I may safely say the majority of the ratepayers of the town, in protesting against the grant of $300.00 or indeed of any sum of money by the Council to enable a noisy show to be made on the 24th of May, assuming that that day will be a public holiday, which it is not at present.

Now that our beloved Queen has passed to her reward, I approve of marking our reverence for her memory by observing the 24th as a holiday, and as a recognition of our lasting regard for that great and good woman. but in a sober and decorous manner, because of the sorrow all feel at her death and particularly that her death has been so recent and while mourning is still outwardly shown in many quarters and is inwardly felt by all reflecting people

Under these circumstances the grant of money and the taxation of the people to give a buffoonery exhibition on the streets is not a proper way to spend the people's money and shows a disregard of proper feeling and public sentiment. Surely the pledges of the Mayor for strictest economy should count for something and bear fruit. One mill on the dollar has already been added to our taxes and when other usual grants have been made and the Duke and Duchess of York have been entertained, I fear that even this addition will not meet all demands. If we are, out of the increased taxation for this year, to have money to spend, let it rather be used in paying the taxes or in some way relieving the poor who are always with us and whom our beloved Queen never forgot, and many of whom are struggling for existence, and let it not be given to help light-headed or thoughtless people to engage in grotesque antics on the public streets, on this, the first anniversary of the birth of our late sovereign, since her death.

Your obedient servant,
RATEPAYER.

24TH OF MAY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I notice that there is a movement to celebrate the approaching 24th of May as a public holiday, with sports, kalithumpian processions, etc.

Now, sir, this day has for so many years been a joyous day, the first glad holiday after the breaking up of winter, generally accompanied with "Queen's weather," and associated with the great and glorious woman whom we so proudly called our Queen, that there is, I think, a universal feeling in favour of making it a national holiday, to be called Victoria Day. With the recurrence of the day there comes, however, sorrow to every loyal heart when it comes home to us that our great Queen is dead.

On that day millions would spread flowers on her grave, if in their power. Does it appear to you, sir, a seemly thing to celebrate this day with a kalithumpian procession?

Is this first anniversary of her death since she went to sleep a fit time for buffoonery? I am as much in favour of sport as anyone, but there is a time for everything—and surely this first 24th since her death is not the time for such rude and boisterous sport.

Then there are other phases of this matter. Do the taxpayers approve of their money being spent in this way? There are miles of rotting sidewalk in the town; there is a prospective large expenditure in connection with the Duke of York's visit, if he should come to us. Have we any money to throw away at this time? Would not half a mile of new sidewalk be better for us than an hour's foolery at a cost of $500?

Let our good Aldermen consider this matter carefully before committing the people to what under the circumstances will be repugnant to so many.

Yours truly,
D. W. DUMBLE.

THE RELIEF OF LUCKNOW RECALLED.

MR. WM. JOHN TRAINER, 12 Bond Street Toronto, age 55 years, endorses Burdock Blood Bitters. He says:

I served in the British army eleven years, and was through the Indian Mutiny under Sir Colin Campbell and Gen. Havelock.

I had the bone of my left leg shattered by a splinter of shell at the relief of Lucknow.

The wound never healed up properly and was continually breaking out and discharging matter.

It was of such a size that two fingers could be laid in it.

In the year of 1881 I took Burdock Blood Bitters and used Burdock Ointment as a dressing. This treatment gradually healed up the sore until at the end of six months it was completely cured.

The cure has been a permanent one to this day (Jan. 15th, 1901), the sore has never broken out. The skin is perfectly smooth and clear and only a slight scar remains. WM. JOHN TRAINER.

MR. JOBSON'S TRIP.

IT WAS PLANNED TO COVER SEVERAL WEEKS.

He Left Home to Break the Monotony of Married Life, but Cut His Trip Short on Account of a Telegram From the Office.

When Mr. Jobson had finished looking at the pictures in the papers a couple of Sundays ago he walked up and down for awhile, occasionally surveying Mrs. Jobson out of the tail of his eye, and then he said:

"I'm going away."

Mrs. Jobson looked up from her study of the cooking recipes in one of the supplements.

"Going away?" she said. "When? Where?"

"Tomorrow morning. Any old place," replied Mr. Jobson. "Just want to get away for awhile—that's all."

"Has anything gone wrong?" inquired Mrs. Jobson.

"Nope," replied Mr. Jobson. "Everything's all right. Everything's bully, in fact. But I just want to get away on a little trip, and I'm going. Did you ever read or hear, Mrs. Jobson, that married folks ought to be separated from each other at least one month in every year?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Jobson, "but it always seemed to me to be a foolish sort of theory, and"—

"There's nothing foolish about it," cut in Mr. Jobson oracularly. "On the contrary it's about the wisest theory in connection with marital life that's ever been propounded. It's a great theory. When married folks are constantly in each other's society, outside of business hours, they're bound in the course of nature to pall more or less upon each other—sort of get tired and long for the sight of other countenances in such close contiguity."

"Where do you meditate going, and how long do you intend to be away?" inquired Mrs. Jobson.

"Don't know," replied Mr. Jobson. "I'm just going to take the trail and let it lead me whither it will. I've got an idea, though, that I'll get on a boat and go somewhere or other. Might take a steamer over in New York and run down to Florida or to the Bermudas or to Cuba or to Porto Rico—don't much care which. I don't think I'll be gone more than a month or six weeks, but my stay may be protracted to two or three months. As you know, that last little deal of mine panned out pretty well, and I've made arrangements down at the office to be gone as long as I like, and I'll have no worry about my affairs. You can either close up the house during my absence and go and visit your folks, or you can stay at home."

Mrs. Jobson cogitated.

"Do you know," she finally said, "I think that is a real good plan of yours to go away and seek a change, I"—

"Didn't I say awhile back that you were just aching to get rid of me?" broke in Mr. Jobson a bit testily. "I knew it all the time. You're so anxious to see my back that you can barely wait till I get on the train."

"Now, you know differently," said Mrs. Jobson. "But I think, as you said, that a man needs a change after having been a home body for a long time, and I am certain that when you come back you will appreciate your home all the more."

So it was arranged. Mr. Jobson spent the remainder of the day pointing out the things to Mrs. Jobson that he wanted to have packed, and the things he pointed out included enough clothes to fill two big trunks and two valises and to last him for several years in many different climes.

Mrs. Jobson decided to remain at home during Mr. Jobson's tour. She went down to the station to see him off on the New York train on the following afternoon.

"Don't worry," said Mr. Jobson offhandedly as he waited for the train gate to open. "I'll write to you frequently, wherever I may be. I don't want you to think," he added a bit woozily, as the time for separating drew pretty close, "that I'm going away because I've any fault in the world to find with you. But you understand—it's just because the home surroundings began to wear on me a good deal, and I feel that a little trip of a week or two will"—

"Why," said Mrs. Jobson, "I thought you said that you'd be gone a month at the least and perhaps two or three months"—

"Who—me?" inquired Mr. Jobson, "Never said such a thing in my life. Stay away from home a month? Not if I know it! Well, there's the gate open. Goodby!"

There was a suspicion of hoarseness in Mr. Jobson's voice and more than a suspicion of moisture in Mr. Jobson's eyes when he went through the gate, but Mrs. Jobson smiled as she waved her hand to him.

"I'll give him two days," she said to herself as she returned to the Jobson domicile on the car.

About 10 o'clock two nights later Mrs. Jobson, who hadn't as yet heard from Mr. Jobson at all, was gossiping with a woman friend in the dining room of her home when there was a well known tread on the front steps. She hastened to the front door, and Mr. Jobson gave her a hug, looking somewhat sheepish.

"Got a telegram from the office calling me back," was all he said, and 15 minutes later, after the departure of Mrs. Jobson's woman friend, he was sitting in front of the dining room latrobe in his smoking jacket and slippers, elaborately explaining to Mrs. Jobson the nature of the important business that had necessitated the abandonment of his "tour."

And Mrs. Jobson smiled inwardly while she listened with every evidence of deep interest.—Washington Star.

CANADIAN NICKLE IN DEMAND.

They Are the Standard Weight Used by Tea Brokers in Sampling Tea.

Canadian five-cent silver pieces are in great demand in the tea trade, and people who have some of these coins can, if they want to, easily dispose of them at any tea broker's office.

A Sun reporter who visited the office of a tea merchant recently, was surprised to see one of these coins lying in one of the scales in which tea is weighed when a sample is to be tasted. He picked the coin up and examined it. The manager quietly remarked:

"I hope you won't take that for a pocket piece. We have quite a lot of difficulty in getting those coins and keeping them."

"What are they used for?" asked the reporter.

"A Canadian five-cent piece is the standard weight in the tea trade in this country for weighing tea sufficient to make one cup. Where the custom originated I don't know, but when we make a sample cup of tea we just take enough to balance this coin in the scales.

"We have lots of trouble in keeping them. Every one who comes in looks at the coins, and, probably not realizing what we use them for, takes one away.

"Some of the brokers use a piece of lead of just that weight instead, but the weight of a piece of lead may be questioned when the tea is weighed. Others stick a piece of paper on each side of the coin to disguise it.

"It is one of the old trade customs and I suppose will last as long as tea is bought and sold."—New York Sun.

"STOMACH VERY BAD."

Mr. H. Bouchard, of Quebec, Suffered Extreme Agony for Two Years—Having Found a Remedy in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, He Feels it His Duty to Tell the Public.

H. Bouchard, of 300 St. Valier St., Quebec, says:—

"It is my duty to tell the public that I have been cured of a violent malady of the back caused by Dyspepsia, by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. My stomach was very bad, and I suffered very greatly for two years.

"I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and am now well. I would not be without them."

What has cured Mr. Bouchard will certainly cure anyone. His was a very bad case, and he had little hope of ever leaving behind him the dreadful pain caused by Dyspepsia. He is very grateful for his recovery, and is recommending Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all his friends.

There is nothing to be wondered at in this, and anyone who is suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia and Indigestion, can understand how very thankful they would be for a delivery such as Mr. Bouchard has attained.

They may have just such a cure. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure them.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets never fail to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sour Stomach, or any other stomach trouble (except Cancer).

If you are a sufferer from any of these troubles, be guided by the experience of Mr. Bouchard, and you too, will very soon be singing the praises of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

You are doubtful. You have been disappointed so often, that perhaps you have reason to be cautious.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have convinced many a sceptic, and delighted many a doubter. They never disappoint.

When Corks Float Upright.

A cork which is longer than it is broad, which is the case with all ordinary corks, floats upon its side, so to speak. How can we make it float upon its head?

Place one on end upon a table and around it place six others. Seize them all together and plunge them under water so as to wet them completely. Then remove your hand gently and let them take their own position in the water. when you will find that they will stand upright, as if supporting one another This is because the water that penetrates the cork will make them cling together.

ALFRED THE GREAT

ENGLAND TO CELEBRATE THE MILLENARY OF A GREAT MONARCH.

Elaborate Ceremonies Will Mark Event—Permanent Memorial Will Be a Colossal Statue of King Alfred at Winchester—An Exhibition of Objects Pertaining to the Alfred Period.

England is going to celebrate the millenary of King Alfred the Great next summer, and elaborate ceremonies will mark its observance at Winchester, the monarch's place of burial and the ancient capital of the country.

As a permanent memorial of the event there is to be erected a colossal statue of King Alfred, by Hamo Thornycroft, R. A., the design of which is shown in the illustration.

This striking figure, says The Graphic, is now complete in plaster and in the hands of the founders to be cast into bronze. It measures over 16 feet in height, and some idea of its colossal size may be gleaned by a comparison with the sculptor who stands by its side. It is, moreover, of Mr. Thornycroft's best work, and will be one of the largest statues ever cast in bronze in England.

In connection with the celebration the British Museum authorities have announced their intention of holding an exhibition of objects pertaining to the Alfred period during the early part of the summer.

An interesting relic was bequeathed to the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford, in 1718, by Mr. Thomas Palmer, of Fairfield, Sussex. It was found in 1693 at Newton Park, near the junction of the Parret and the Thone, and some distance off Athelney Abbey, in the County of Somerset. This region was often visited by King Alfred. He returned to it when defeated by the Danes in 878, and there he afterward founded a monastery. Round the setting of the jewel is the inscription, "Aelfred mec heht gewyrcan." (Alfred me ordered to be wrought.) Its length is 2 inches, breadth 1.23 inches, and thickness .46 inches.

THE MAD MONARCH.

King Otto of Bavaria Has Suffered a Severe Relapse.

King Otto, the mad monarch of Bavaria, is suffering from a serious relapse of his old bodily ailments. He has been attacked with convulsions and hemorrhages, and his condition is critical.

King Otto ascended the throne of Bavaria on the death of his elder brother, King Ludwig, in 1886. No sooner had he succeeded than he became insane, and his uncle, Prince Luitpold, was made regent of the realm. The crazy ruler has been confined in a private asylum for fifteen years. His mania is sometimes homicidal. This makes him all the more dangerous, for he is a giant in stature, above six feet tall, and possessed of great physical strength. He has killed three of his attendants at the Castle of Furstenried, his present retreat. At times he fancies himself a stork, stands on one leg and gathers twigs as if for a nest. Ludwig, his brother, was afflicted also with homicidal mania. He killed several of his servants, and was himself finally drowned while trying to drown his physician.

A SEALING SCHOONER

DR. MACWILLIE DESCRIBES HIS TRIP WTH ST. JOHN'S FLEET.

ABOUT THE SLAUGHTER OF SEALS

Vivid and Interesting Account of a Day's Hunt—The Start From the Ship—A Great Slaughter—Picking Up the Men at Close of the Day—A Perilous Job.

Dr. John MacWillie, one of the Toronto medical men who accompanied the St. John sealing fleet this spring, has returned with some interesting spoils of the chase. In addition to the two young hood seals which he sent alive to the Zoo, but one of which has unfortunately since died, Dr. MacWillie has a young white harp seal stuffed, the skin of a small hood and also the hide of one of the largest hoods killed this year, an animal which weighed about 900 pounds, and measured nine and one-half feet in length.

The hoods, or as they are sometimes called, sea-lions, are the largest species of seal, and the doctor says that although he has seen a good many seals with circuses and other collections of live animals, those which he sent to Riverdale Park, Toronto, are the first of this variety he has ever seen in captivity. They derive their name from the hood of the male, a great bag on the top of his head, which he blows up when attacked, and all the pounding you can give him will not have the slightest effect. The male weighs upward of 700 pounds, and the female a hundred or so less. Their color is bluish or dirty grey, with many black spots, and their commercial value is the least of all seals.

The fur of the seals caught in the Atlantic is, of course, useless, and though the hide is used as leather, the fat from which the famous seal oil is made, is the most valuable part of the animal.

A Day's Hunt.

Dr. MacWillie gives a most vivid and interesting account of the way in which the hunt was carried on by the crew of the Algerine, to which he belonged.

"We were on deck at dawn. Here and there, from one-half to two miles away, were six or seven other vessels. We had all struck the herd together, and were in the midst of them. We could hear the bawling of hundreds of young white harps—the babies about two weeks old. The hair of the young harps, or common seals, is pure white, until it is old enough to take to the water. Dozens were seen within fifty yards of the ship, as many as five on a 'pan,' many of them accompanied by the mother seal, a great grey and black, ungainly object, small, snakelike head, with big sack-like body, wabbling along the ice, assisted by its two flippers, or gliding gracefully off the 'pan,' or block, of ice into the water—only to poke its serpentine head above the ocean as its baby bawled more plaintively for it. The whole ocean is covered with ice in pans or sections from a foot to 40 feet square,

The Start From the Ship.

"Tom Green's watch, consisting of about 60 men, is called first, and these all clamber over the side of the vessel, and stand upon logs tied up, about two feet from the water, waiting for the word of command. At last, as a good piece of ice slides by, they jump, scramble, or fall onto it, headed by the master of the watch, who leads the way, selecting the path. They walk, run, jump from pan to pan, while the ship speeds on as fast as the ice will permit. Very soon we see them separating into groups of eight to twelve, and then again into twos. They keep in pairs, however, so that if either fall in, which most of them do, once to six times a day, they will then have assistance.

"Our watch to-day makes a circle, ever widening, because it's a good field, and another company from a rival vessel is also trying to preempt as large an area as possible. It's all 'fair field and no favor,' but if one vessel circles in an area of limited size, another very seldom encroaches.

A Great Slaughter.

"And then commences the slaughter. A blow on the head with the end of the gaff is all that is required. Then out comes the razor-like knife. A slit down its front, from end to end, through the skin and two or three inches of fat—the skin and fat is cut from the skeleton and lean meat adhering to it; and the seal, or what is left of him, is ready to be hoisted aboard. The mother and father have by this time waddled into the water, comparatively safe from the destroyer. All the seals within a couple of hundred yards are piled together, and the ship's flag—ours is red and yellow—set up. And by this time the ship is a mile or two off, sending more men 'ashore.' The first party then goes on to further slaughter—until the whole ice for miles around looks like a huge slaughter house.

Picking Up the Men.

"The ship may stay away from the men, three, six or even twelve hours; may have gone miles out of sight, but back she comes, picking up her 'pans' of seals and her men, most of whom will have killed and skinned from 75 to 300 seals in the day.

"The rapidity of these men in jumping off or on board the vessel can neither be kodaked or described. You will have to imagine how you would move if on floating ice, and an edge of it touched the ship's side for less than one minute, and you the last man of twenty or thirty.

"It is now 11 p. m., and most thankful we are that all our men are aboard. Some men were sent away about noon, provided with torches and a bag of biscuits slung over their shoulders. About 5 o'clock it got foggy. No ships were to be seen, and ten men were missing. After steaming here and there, zig-zagging in the path they had taken, we at length descried three torches, all far apart, and about 9.30 we came up to them. They were preparing to spend the night, were drying their clothes by a fire made of seal-fat, gaff poles, etc., and it was no small relief to them to see the ship again."

ARE YOU PLUMP

or thin? red cheeks or sallow life in your step or feel your weight? are you comfortable or hoping to be so next spring or summer or fall?

One is health; the other is not-quite health.

This condition of not-quite health can be turned into health with Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

It is a pity to get in the habit of thinking of health as a thing to be hoped for; why not go for it now!

There is only one way to make strength: by food. You want appetite first, then food. The emulsion will give you food-rest, to master your food with.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

MY COUNTRY GIRL..

I have not seen thee for many a moon;
Girl with the freckled nose and down cast eyes,
You stand before me, thou, a part of June,
Rose-leafed, red-lipped, winsome, wild and wise,
Did I forget thee, little one so fair?
Behold, I place this red rose in your hair!

Small hands so hard and brown, I hold them fast,
Girl with the tawny mane and sun-browned cheek;
Alone, I'm with you, once again at last,
To tell you that I love you, maiden meek,
You checked a sob, I heard your bosom sigh,
Thou little doubting one so frail and shy.

Hold up thy chin and look me in the face,
Girl with the solemn eyes and lashes long,
The tears upon you cheek have left no trace,
Thou art so very weak and yet so strong;
And did you wonder, in your lonely pain,
If I would ever, ever, ever come again?

The grass-fat cows come winding 'round the hill,
The cow-bell tinkles o'er the meadow lea,
And there you stand, so silent, grave and still,
Beneath your print sun-bonnet, watching me,
Haste, little one, before the setting sun,
I'll wait thee here until your milking's done!

In Case of Fire.

In case of fire if the burning articles are at once splashed with a solution of salt and nitrate of ammonia an incombustible coating is formed. This is a preparation which can be made at home at a trifling cost and should be kept on hand. Dissolve 20 pounds of common salt and 10 pounds of nitrate of ammonia in 7 gallons of water. Pour this into quart bottles of thin glass, and fire grenades are at hand ready for use. These bottles must be tightly corked and sealed to prevent evaporation, and in case of fire they must be thrown near the flames so as to break and liberate the gas contained. At least two dozen of these bottles should be ready for an emergency.

In this connection it is well to remember that water on burning oil scatters the flame, but that flour will extinguish it. Salt thrown upon a fire if the chimney is burning will help to deaden the blaze.

If a fire once gets under headway, a covering becomes a necessity. A silk handkerchief moistened and wrapped about the mouth and nostrils prevents suffocation from smoke. Failing this, a piece of wet flannel will answer.

Should smoke fill the room, remember that it goes first to the top of the room and then to the floor. Wrap a blanket or woolen garment about you, with the wet cloth over your face, drop on your hands and knees and crawl to the window.

Bear in mind that there is no more danger in getting down from a three story window than from the first floor if you keep a firm hold of the rope or ladder. Do not slide, but go hand over hand.

Nervousness and Nerve.

The more nervous a man is, the less nerve he has. That sounds paradoxical—but it isn't; for nerve is stamina.

Hood's Sarsaparilla gives nerve. It tones the whole system, perfects digestion and assimilation, and is therefore the best medicine a nervous person can take.

If you get tired easily, mentally o physically, take it—it will do you good.

Corn Sowing

Is a process excited by vanity, backed up by good tight boots—you may lack the vanity but you have the good tight boots—you may wear any size boots you please up to three sizes too small, if you use Putnam's Painless Corn and Wart Extractor. Druggists sell it.

Costly Unfinished Mansion.

The incompleted mansion at Silverton, Exeter, which was commenced fifty years ago by Earl Egremont, is for sale. It has 250 marble mantel pieces, door knobs of amber, and a bath tub made of a solid block of marble. It cost £250,000 so far as completed.

A Census Curiosity.

As a curiosity of the recent German census it is recorded that the returns showed the village of Reutenbourg contained 444 inhabitants, 222 being of the masculine and 222 of the feminine gender.

PROF. HUTTON.

Sketch of the Man Appointed Principal at University College.

Prof. Maurice Hutton, M. A., has just been appointed Principal of University College, a position created by the University Act of last session. Prof. Hutton is a graduate of the University of Oxford, where in 1874 he gained an open scholarship at Worcester College. In 1877 he secured his first-class in classical moderations, and in 1879 an open fellowship in Merton College. He came to Toronto as Professor of Classics in University College in 1880, and on a rearrangement in 1887 was assigned the chair of comparative philology in the University of Toronto, still remaining professor of Greek in University College. Professor Hutton has been a member of the Council of University College, and in 1895 was elected to the Senate of the University. The successful productions of the Greek play, "Antigone," in 1882, and again in 1894, was largely due to his efforts, as was also the success of the production last autumn of another Greek play. Professor Hutton married in 1885 a daughter of the late Rev. John McCaul, for many years President of University College. Delving in Greek roots, in the case of Professor Hutton at least, has not tended to dullness. Readers of "Varsity" in days gone by have been greatly entertained by contributions from him.

Cases of Queer Revenge.

In England, where men have more time for everything, including revenge, some queer methods of playing even have come into the courts.

Albert Bewdley of Leeds had a dog that howled at night. A naturalist next door did not like it, but had no legal recourse.

One day ants of the minute red variety began to overrun Bewdley's house. Nothing that could be done headed them off. They grew worse and worse. He had made up his mind to break his lease and move when one night he heard a noise in his dining room. Slipping down, he found the naturalist emptying a bag of ants on the floor.

In court the naturalist paid damages, but he did it smilingly.

Rowley, the late English violinist, was hard to beat on his perseverance against one who had incurred his ill will.

Rowley had a quarrel with a horse dealer named Brant. It was a trivial matter, but Rowley took the next house to Brant, set up a piano, bought a cornet and proceeded to make insomnia for Brant.

After one or two assault cases in court Brant moved. Rowley bought out the next door neighbor and followed with piano and cornet. Brant went to law, but found he could do nothing. Failing, he took a detached house. Then Rowley hired brass bands and organs and assailed him. This was actionable, and Rowley paid £1,000 for his revenge.

PLAY ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

THE FIRST PRACTICE OF THE SEASON, LAST NIGHT.

The Game to be Revived in Peterborough This Year—Many Rugby Men Into the Game.

Association football gives promise of becoming exceedingly popular in Peterborough this summer, and the boys have started into the game with a determination to make it a leading feature in sporting circles in the town.

Association football has, for the past number of years, been practically dead to a great number of our leading towns and cities, but a revival of the game is now a foregone conclusion. It is being played in many of the high schools of Toronto and other cities, and a movement is on foot to have an association formed so as to constitute a governing body, such as in hockey, lacrosse, Rugby, and other sports. At the present time Association football is in a disorganized state throughout the country. It is, in fact, wrongly named Association football for, strictly speaking, there is no Association to govern it.

As to the respective features of Association football and Rugby there is a diversity of opinion as to which is the better game. Both lines of sport have their admirers, and perhaps the popular sentiment has been with the latter, which fills in the sporting season in the fall. However, there is no denying the fact that the very best members of Rugby teams throughout the country were first trained in the game of Association football. Peterborough, by the way, is no exception to this rule.

The Y. M. C. A. Athletic Association have undertaken to boom the game here this summer, and the first practice of the season took place last night. It is the intention of the boys to practise on the Nicholls' Park Oval, but this not yet being in condition, through the kindness of the management of the Baseball Club, the footballers have been granted the use of the P.A.A.A. grounds for a week or so. Last night, as before stated, the first practice was held, and it must have been encouraging, indeed, to the promoters. Judging from the turnout and the quality of the material, Peterborough will turn down almost everything that comes in its way.

Mr. A. W. McPherson, who is taking a great interest in the success of the game here, was formerly captain of the Scots of Toronto, and later a member of the Norwood team. He is one of the best halfbacks in Ontario, and it did his heart good last night to witness the turn out. Mac., it will be remembered, is one of the Rugby fifteen's half-backs. Andy Scott, the clever full-back player of the Rugby team, was also out last night, and is booked for right wing. He is an Association player of many years standing and was one of the swiftest men on the Dental College fifteen.

George Revell, also of Rugby fame feels at home when playing the Association game. He was out in full regalia and showed the boys the style of play the School of Science dishes up every year. Revell was for several years the "head push" on the science team. Then Hal. Burnham, the new captain of the Rugby fifteen is perhaps one of the best Association men in the country. He too was out last night. Ben Simpson, of Queen's University, is now home and is playing a rattling fine game of Association football. He thoroughly enjoyed last night's practice. Bill Crowley, another Rugby man, was out last night as well as Ex-captain McWilliams.

However, not the least prominent personage was Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, the enthusiastic President of the Rugby Club. He went into the game with great determination, although he has not played in recent years. Morden, who played in the Bay of Quinte League, showed up very well.

There were also out last night Frank Trollope, Herman Finnie, Reggie McFadden, Fred Smith, Walter Parnell and others.

Altogether the start made is most encouraging and the boys should receive the support of the public in their efforts.

Games will shortly be arranged between the local team and Norwood, whose reputation as a football town is of more than local repute. Havelock, too, has a good team and an effort will be made to bring down several Toronto teams. It is desirable that all the Rugby men should participate in the game as it will give them excellent training for their games in the fall.

The next practice will be held on Wednesday evening at 6.30 p.m. on the P.A.A.A. grounds.

OBITUARY.

Mr. William F. Darling Passed Away on the 18th inst.

The death of Mr. William F. Darling of the Township of Dummer, removed from its midst one of its best known and most respected residents. The deceased, who was only in his 46th year, during his duties as census enumerator, caught cold, which, rapidly developing into pneumonia, terminated with fatal results on Friday, April 18th. Mr. Darling was one of the best educated men in the township, a staunch Reformer, and keenly interested in all matters affecting the welfare of the community. He was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters. The deceased leaves a widow and five small children to mourn his untimely death. The sympathy of a large circle of friends is extended to her and to his mother Mrs. Catherine Darling, on whom this blow has fallen with added severity, owing to the loss she sustained last fall by the accidental killing of her son Richard at Norwood. The funeral took place on Sunday, from his residence in Dummer to the Warsaw Cemetery. Notwithstanding the bad state of the roads it is said that it was one of the largest funerals ever known in Dummer, which shows the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

VICTORIA OR CENTRAL?

WHERE WILL THE BAND CONCERTS BE HELD?

Public Favour Doing Business at the old Stand—Better Accommodation.

Now that the warm weather is with us and the evenings are becoming enjoyable, the citizens of the town are naturally becoming impatient for the band concerts that are so thoroughly enjoyed by all, throughout the summer months. Whilst we may not expect to hear any open air band concerts for some weeks yet, still, it is subject of deep interest to all those who have hitherto attended the concerts is, "will the 57th Regimental Band continue to play in Victoria Park, or will they be ordered by those in whom such authority may rest, to play in Central Park?" There is no getting over the fact that Victoria Park is the more popular of the two places for this purpose, and it is only the agitation on the part of a few, that arose last season regarding using the Central Park, that causes the Examiner to bring the matter up at the present time. There is the argument that the vast crowds that congregate in the park on band concert nights do considerable damage to the grass and flower beds, and that the band-stand is in a dangerous condition, whilst the new stand erected in Central Park affords splendid accommodation for the band.

However, against these arguments there is the fact that Victoria Park offers the most natural accommodation for the crowds. Its beautiful, gradual hill is taken advantage of by hundreds, to say nothing of the various steps and embankments close at hand which furnish a splendid resort for the people of the town to rest in seclusion and drink in the sweet strains of music from an organization of which the citizens are so proud.

As to the band stand, true it is not in first class condition, but a little money spent upon it would leave it in fine shape and a number of prominent citizens have offered to subscribe toward a fund for that purpose if the Town Council and County Council cannot feel their way clear to repair the stand themselves.

Bandmaster Gliddon, to the Examiner, stated that it would be greatly against the wishes of the band to play anywhere but in Victoria Park. He hoped that the idea would not for a moment be entertained, and while the old band stand may not be in fit condition, and if those who should, will not put it into shape, he would rather play in the open stand further up in the park than go over to Central Park where there is no accomodation whatever, for the hundreds of people who attend the weekly concerts.

How a Sprain Does Hurt!

But it isn't the pain alone that is dreaded, just think of the loss of time and wages. Sprains without number have been cured by rubbing Polson's Nerviline well into the pores of the skin surrounding the joint. No matter whether it is a sprained wrist, ankle, knee or back, just try Nerviline on it, and see how quickly it will cure. There is only one liniment that can be depended upon to cure sprains, strains and swellings, and that is Polson's Nerviline. Large bottle 25 cents.

JURY SUSPECTS WIFE

And Embodies Its Suspicion in a Verdict at Brantford.

STRYCHNINE AS DEATH'S AGENT.

A Life Insurance Policy on Which the Premium Was Not Paid—Prisoner's Foolish Conversation With Her Boarders Reported—Mrs. White Testifies—Her Sister Swears Deceased Threatened to Suicide.

Brantford, May 1.—At the hour of midnight Monday night Mrs. Josephine White was arrested, charged with feloniously wounding and killing her husband, the late Charles White. The arrest was made immediately after the coroner's jury had brought in their verdict, which was "that the said Charles White came to his death from strychnine poisoning, which we suspect was administered by his wife."

The warrant for her arrest was read to her. Under the terrible strain Mrs. White broke down completely, and pleadingly urged the constables to let her go home. P. C. Chapman explained that it would be impossible for him to allow her to go home; that it was his duty to arrest her.

Mrs. White, yesterday morning, was much calmer. She came before the police magistrate, and was remanded for a week.

The late Charles White died very suddenly on Sunday, April 14. On that morning Mr. White, who was employed as a moulder in the Waterous Engine Works, was left alone in the house with his wife. He ate breakfast as usual, but shortly after 9 o'clock complained of dizziness and shortly afterwards was seized with convulsions. He suffered six or seven of these, and passed away.

The suddenness of his death caused the coroner to investigate it. Six sittings of the jury were held, all in secret.

Frank White, a son of the deceased, swore that his father and mother, till seven or eight months ago, had lived apart for over five years. His father had been addicted to drink.

Further he swore: "I knew nothing of any proposal to insure his life, until after his death, and then, in talking to my mother, she said he was only lately insured for $1,000.

"My mother told me she had given him soda and water, and tea shortly after he had eaten his breakfast."

Mrs. White herself took the stand. She recounted the fact that she and her husband had been separated. Anent the insurance policy, she said: I did not suggest anything to him about life insurance. He spoke to me first about six weeks before his death. He said: "I am going to have my life insured." I was always opposed to life insurance, and said, "I wouldn't use my money for life insurance." He replied: "If anything should happen to me—I am never well—it would be nice for you." He was refused by the North American, and afterwards one evening when Mrs. Bush was visiting me in the front parlor, Mr. Hendry called on Mr. White and wrote his application in the back parlor; and I had nothing to do with the matter. Then the two went out together, and Mr. Hendry said they were going to the doctor. Some time after Mr. Hendry called into the house and told me the policy had come. I didn't know what the premium was. This night was pay night at Waterous', and was the night on which we expected to pay a portion of the premium. Two weeks ago Mr. Hendry brought the policy and read it to me, and that was the first I knew the policy was payable to me. We agreed to make the first payment that night. I knew the policy was not in force until we had the premium paid or some part of it. I never said a word to Mrs. Bush about the policy.

Mrs Bush testified that Mrs. White told her that Mr. White was going to insure his life in his wife's favor. Mrs. White seemed to be pleased that the insurance would come her way. She said she did not consider her husband a very strong or extra healthy man.

Henry Irving testified that Mrs. White had told him that the drink habit was not so bad as the fact that her husband was jealous of her, when she talked of curing his drinking proclivities with a certain powder.

Leo Sherer, a former boarder, gave startling evidence. He said:

"I remarked once or twice to Mr. Rider or Mr. Builder that I did not consider Mrs. White was trustworthy, and that I thought I was liable to be poisoned. She showed me a revolver once, and said if any man did not conduct himself properly she would just as soon blow his head off as look at him. This was about a month before I left.

"One day she asked about her husband coming back after dark while they were living apart and bothering her, rapping on the window of the kitchen. She said she went to the window and discharged the revolver in the air. She said the next time he came back, it would be more serious.

"She showed me one day about two months before I left, a paper of powder which she said was arsenic. Her face was bloated and she said she was in the habit of using arsenic. The powder looked like Epsom salts. There was about a tablespoonful of the powder. She was very untruthful in talking to the boarders of one another.

"When she was laid up her husband was off work and came to the house for a day or two to help her. She would laugh at and mock him to me behind his back, and be very nice to his face.

"I did not leave her on good terms, because I asked for a receipt when I paid her in full. She refused, as she said she had never done so before. Mrs. White one day remarked that she would sooner live with the devil than with her husband. I have seen notes she wrote to Mr. Rider after we left."

Maggie Secord, a sister of Mrs. White, said Mr. White on one occasion got up and took a paper out of his pocket and said: "I am going to take a dose some of these times that will finish me. I am not long for this world.' I said: "Charley, what wrong?" He said: "I never had my heart to palpitate as it has of late, and I am so short of breath." I said: "Don't talk so, or I will report you." He said: "There is nothing in the paper. I am only joking," and threw the paper into the fire. I do not know whether there was anything in the paper or not. I never mentioned it until the doctors were operating on Mr. White's body on Monday, and then I told his son George. After he threw the paper in the fire, he said: "If I should di suddenly, don't blame anybody bu me, and that's not all." I said "Why don't you tell the rest of it?' and he said "I have no more to tell."

Thomas Hendry, agent for the Sun Life, testified that Mrs. White called for the policy on her husband the Saturday before he died.

Whitemouth, Man., May 1. — Dr. Benson and a jury held an inquest last night upon the body of Adolph Radke, who was shot on Saturday night by E. W. Blenk. The jury brought in a verdict at 11.45 of manslaughter.

Every-day Needs That Court Comparison

This cash and "one price" business allows us to mark our goods without adding any superfluous profits for the "don't pays" and "beat-you-down" class of buyers. These two rules are STRICTLY ENFORCED at this store, and not mere bluff statements. You have yet to find the customer who can say:—"They will take a second price." We do not run our business that way—but CASH ONLY to every one, and the ONE PRICE is quoted to every customer

G. T. R. SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING.

President Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson Assures Montrealers There Was no Intended Discrimination re Portland.

London, May 1.—The semi-annual meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railroad here yesterday was largely attended. The directors' reports showed increases in the receipts and an increase in the expenses were accepted without criticism.

The president, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, said the Buffalo Exhibition ought to bring largely increased traffic, and recommended that the shareholders visit it. He dilated on the advantages which accrued to the Grand Trunk Railroad by the new arrangement allowing it to enter the Union Depot at Buffalo.

Referring to the company's intention to spend $400,000 at Portland, Maine, for the construction of a new grain elevator, Sir Charles said the feeling in Canada over the patronage of an American port was quite unjustifiable, as Montreal's facilities for shipping and storing grain were extremely inadequate. Sentiment must not be allowed to interfere with business. But he was glad to say Montreal contemplated making considerable improvements. Portland however, was the natural outlet of the line.

The retiring directors were re-elected.

TOLSTOI'S ANSWER.

The Teaching of the Russian Church, He Says, Is a Lie in Practice, Vulgar and Superstitious.

Paris, May 1.—The Temps yesterday publishes a two-column reply from Count Tolstoi to the decree of excommunication pronounced against him. It is dated Moscow, April 18. He says that, as a result of the decree, he has received letters from ignorant people menacing him with death. He characterizes the decree as illegal, or intentionally equivocal, arbitrary, unjustified and full of falsehoods. Moreover, he says, it constitutes an instigation to evil sentiments and deeds. Count Tolstoi denounces the practices of the church and says he is convinced that the teachings of the church, theoretically astute, is injurious, is a lie in practice, and is a compound of vulgar superstitions and sorcery, under which entirely disappears the sense of Christian doctrine.

FIVE WERE BURNT TO DEATH.

Shocking Calamity in House of Joseph Parton of Hurdville, Ont.

Parry Sound, Ont., May 1. — A shocking and disastrous fire occurred near the village of Hurdville, Monday night, in which five persons, members of the family of Joseph Parton, were burned to death. The fire broke out in the middle of the night. Mr. Parton and his wife were asleep in a room down stairs, and both, suddenly waking up, found the place in flames. The stairs being on fire, they were unable to rescue any of those upstairs, and, in fact, with difficulty they themselves escaped from the burning building. Of the six who occupied rooms upstairs only one escaped. This was a boy, who jumped from a window. The unfortunate ones that perished were of ages from seven to eighteen years.

A Steel Co. Plant Burned

Latrobe, Penn., April 29.—Last night the entire tipple, engine house and boiler house of the Dorothy Coal and Coke plant of the American Steel and Wire Company was a smouldering mass of ruins, and it is rumored that either four or six miners have lost their lives. The loss is estimated at $150,000; fully insured.

Manitoba Crop Report.

Winnipeg, May 1.—The first wheat crop reports for the year, issued by the Northern Pacific for the week ending April 30, show that although seeding was a little later this year than last, a larger percentage of the crop is already sown. Weather conditions have been most favorable, and the acreage will average fully 15 per cent. higher than last year.

A MINT FOR CANADA.

Hon. Mr. Fielding's Announcement in the Commons.

CLAIMS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Col. Prior, in Presenting Them, Claimed Big Money for His Province—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Showed That From His Speech Col. Prior's Province Was Not Badly Off—Railway Estimates.

Ottawa, May 1.—Before going into Committee of Supply yesterday, Lieut.-Col. Prior pressed the claim of British Columbia to better terms from the Dominion. Incidentally he referred to the proposal to establish a mint in Canada, which elicited from Mr. Fielding the statement that the Government intended to introduce legislation at this session authorizing the establishment of a royal mint in Canada, but upon the question of an assay office he was not prepared to make any definite statement at present. In supply good progress was made with the estimates on capital account for the Intercolonial Railway.

British Columbia's Claims.

Upon the motion to go into supply Lieut.-Col. Prior offered some remarks upon the disadvantages and disabilities under which British Columbia labors, owing to the neglect of the Government to recognize the necessities of the province. He hoped that the Government supporters from that province would endorse his efforts, because he admitted that the representatives of that province were not as one in looking after the interests of the province at Ottawa. Premier Dunsmuir had presented to the Government the claims of the province for consideration, but he was sorry that the supporters of the Government from that province had not voiced the needs of British Columbia in the House as they should. One of the most serious matters engaging the attention of men in British Columbia was the Mongolian Immigration, and the next in importance was the railway development. He pressed the claims of British Columbia for better terms, upon the ground that while the province had paid $42,000,000 into the Dominion treasury since entering Confederation, it had only received less than $29,000,000 from the Dominion treasury. Every other province had received much more from the treasury than it had paid in, as shown by the great increase of the national debt, while there was a balance of $13,000,000 due to British Columbia.

A Mint to Be Established.

Mr. Fielding said there had been some reasons which it was not well to refer to which delayed the announcement, which he would make now, that notice would be given immediately for the introduction of a bill to provide for the establishment of a royal mint, under the terms of the announcement to which Mr. Prior referred. With regard to the assay office, that would follow, but he was not quite clear, just now what position it would take. The policy of the Government with regard to the mint would, however, be carried out at this session.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he thought the House would agree, after carefully listening to the member for Victoria, that the grievances complained of were not so serious after all. After the statement of the Minister of Finance, he had to admit that that there was no grievance about the mint. The fisheries question had two sides. Col. Prior's remedy for the grievances of the canners was to transfer the control of the fisheries to the local Government. This could not be thought of for a moment, as under the B. N. A. Act Parliament was powerless to divest either itself or the Local Legislature of the power each had. The main complaint which Col. Prior made was one which was to the credit of the province, that it contributed largely to the revenue. This, everyone was pleased to know, reflected credit on the province, but it must be admitted that, man for man, British Columbians contributed more than any other citizens.

Lieut.-Col. Prior—But it is bleeding us white.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—If my hon. friend is a fair sample of the people of British Columbia they cannot look so white. As to the Mongolian question, Sir Wilfrid said he had, after all, come to the conclusion that this immigration was not, even according to the member for Victoria, an unmixed evil; there were some redeeming features about it. Col. Prior had stated that on a recent steamer there were 500 Celestials, of whom 250 would remain in British Columbia and 250 would go to the United States and Mexico. Having kept all they wanted, the province would allow the rest to go over the line. The whole question was now being investigated by a royal commission, and the Government was not in a position to offer any solution of this long-standing and vexed problem. Col. Prior had said that a tax of $100 on Chinese was not sufficient, but desired to have the Government impose a tax of $500 not only upon Chinamen but upon Japanese as well. Whatever might be the report of the commission which is now investigating the problem of Celestial immigration into Canada, the Government must insist at this moment that there should be no misunderstanding in the future that we must draw the line between Chinamen and Japanese. (Hear, hear.) He had insisted on this several times in the House, that, whatever might be the policy adopted against Chinamen, whether it be right or wrong, so far as the Japanese were concerned, for Imperial purposes, we could not afford to treat the Japanese as we have been treating the Chinamen.

Last evening the consideration of the estimates on capital account of the Department of Railways and Canals was resumed.

Late, on the question of the contract let to the Kingston Locomotive Works, a discussion of some length ensued. Mr. Blair and Mr. Sutherland explained the circumstances under which the contracts were let, and the advantages to be derived from having the locomotives made in Canada.

The $2,000,000 item for rolling stock was allowed to stand.

Mr. Blair, at 12.30, said that he did not propose to keep the House any longer, as the summer would prpbably be long enough to get those items through.

The House rose at 12.35 a. m.

ST. LAWRENCE INDIANS.

Trouble Again Over the Lease of Some Islands—Indians Will Resist the Authorities—Situation Fully Described.

Cornwall, May 1.—The old Indian trouble is giving promise of further annoyance to the Indian Department, and the present complexion of the difficulty is more serious than most people imagine. Last winter, in the month of February, the chiefs of the reserve got information that the lease of the islands in the St. Lawrence had expired in August last, and they immediately set about to get possession of the islands. As an experiment they made a bee and moved the wigwam of one of their number, Jake Skin, to Colquhoun's Island, about two miles across the ice. When the executors of the Colquhoun estate became aware of this move they placed the matter in the hands of the law firm of Leitch, Pringle & Cameron, who communicated the facts to the Indian Department, Ottawa, and they deputed one of the officials to come to St. Regis and try and convince the chiefs that they were wrong in assuming that the leases had expired, and that the property had reverted to them. The official produced the leases signed by the chiefs to establish the right of the Colquhoun estate to the land, but it was of no avail and the chiefs refused to remove their man.

Colquhoun's Island is a summer resort situated in the centre of the St. Lawrence, about three miles distant below Cornwall, and is a very valuable piece of property. Skin says he will refuse any of the islanders the right to take up their abode there this summer. He now occupies the western portion of the island, and intends erecting another house on the eastern portion, where the summer houses are now situated. He has also begun clearing the island, in preparation for putting in his spring crop. The Indian chiefs have decided to stand by Skin and test the validity of the lease, and a meeting of the Indians of Cornwall and St. Regis Reservation was held at St. Regis on Monday and they decided to fight the matter inch by inch in the courts if necessary, and, failing to establish their rights there, they say they will stand by Skin in retaining the island.

The department was balked last year in efforts to erect a jail at St. Regis,, and this has given the Indians confidence and courage that they can resist the Government in the removal of Skin. The department is equally determined to remove Skin if he has no right there. Mr. J. A. McRae, the Inspector of Indian Reserves, came to Cornwall on Monday, and Mr. B. W. Collison, of the law firm named, went down to Colquhoun's Island to serve a writ on Skin. Mr. McRae held an informal court the same evening in the office of the above named solicitors, for the purpose of taking evidence pertaining to the matter, and examined about ten witnesses. The lease of the Colquhoun estate to the island was thoroughly proved, and the department recognize that it must now remove Skin from the island.

Monday's pow-wow at St. Regis was not for effect, but judging by the tenor of the different speakers' remarks and the secrecy of their movements, they have well-defined plans, which they do not wish divulged. On other occasions of this nature the newspaper men were met with cordiality and the Indians were anxious to have their side of the story reach the public through the medium of the newspapers, but Monday was shrouded in most inky mystery, and the Indians stated that they had nothing to give out for publication, and did not wish to be quoted further than that they were the lawful owners of the island, and that they were being robbed of what is legally and morally their possession.

The run of live stock at the Cattle Market was moderately large, 74 carloads, composed of 1397 cattle, 621 hogs, 136 sheep and 249 calves.

Trade in fat cattle was generally good in all the different classes. Prices were firm at Friday's quotations. It will be noticed, however, that quotations for export cattle are higher than on that day. The reason for this was the better quality of cattle offered.

SEALS IN TORONTO.

Sent by Dr. John MacWillie to Riverside Park—Are Young and Lived on Ice for Two Weeks.

Two young seals captured by Dr. John MacWillie, one of the Government surgeons with the Labrador fishing fleet this season, arrived in Toronto early one morning in April, and were deposited in Riverdale Park. In a letter, the doctor says of them and their habits:

"The species is rather a rare one, none having been seen for six years, and, from the comparatively great slaughter this year, it will be many years before they are seen again. They need great care, however, going such a long distance from their haunts, and I hope I may be able to give some suggestions on my return to Toronto, which I expect will be by Saturday or Sunday (April 12 or 13). In the meantime it would be well to have them immediately placed in Riverside Park. The tank or home for them (temporary) should be such as would hold water at least two feet deep, and as much deeper as convenient, kept slightly salt, with large blocks of ice in it, making sure of an elevated platform upon which they may crawl out of the water. Food for the present may be fresh fish cut into small pieces, fed to them if they refuse to take it, this being the most difficult part in keeping young seals, as when captured they are only a few days old, and in the usual way take nothing but their mother's milk and gnawing at ice, ice being practically all they have eaten since I have had them."

Ocelots at the Park.

Mr. George Gooderham has kindly presented to the Riverdale Park Zoo in Toronto the following valuable animals: One pair ocelots (American tigers), one pair Canadian lynx, and also four golden eagles. These animals are very seldom seen in captivity, and ought to be of great interest to the public. Riverdale Park Zoo is the only collection of animals in Canada, and is a great object lesson to children, as well as being of great interest to older people.

Drugging will not Cure Catarrh

Doctors say so. Victims of snuffs, ointments and tablets tell the same story. Catarrh is a germ disease. The germs excite disease in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes. Germs are hard to get at, but destroy them and you cure the disease. How can it be done? By carrying powerful medication with the air you breathe direct to the diseased parts. You must be sure, also, that the medication will kill the disease germs. Catarrhozone is guaranteed to do this, that's why it has created such a sensation in the medical world. You simply breathe Catarrhone; it destroys the germs—it heals—in a word it cures. Now you know everything about Catarrhozone, except what you can learn by using it. Catarrhozone never disappoints and is guaranteed to cure Catarrh. Price $1.00; Small size 25 cents, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

WOE AT A WEDDING.

Why the Should-Have-Been Joyous Occasion Was Bitter.

The shadow of a great woe fell upon a recent wedding at Ballarat, and what should have been an occasion of delirious happiness was converted into a bitter season indeed. The sun shone on the beautiful bride, and her dress was all that mortal woman could unreasonably desire, consequently she was clothed in joy right up to the moment when she declared she would take that man to be her wedded husband. Then suddenly a great sob sounded from a side pew near the middle of the church. It was followed by further sobs and gasps, and the familiar sniffs and snuffles of a weeping female. All eyes turned upon the pew, and discovered a young woman in black, watering the matting with her tears, and throwing out symptoms of heartrending grief. Instantly those eyes traveled from the distracted young thing in the pew to the quailing bridegroom, and they were obviously—everybody could see it—filled with accusations and insinuations of conduct unbecomiog a gentleman. The bride turned pale, and finished the ceremony in tears, which developed into hysterics as they bore her along the aisle. Arrived at the carriage, she heaped reproaches and insults upon the hot, red bridegroom, and then flopped into hysterics again, and it was a distracted and dismal man who bore away a damp, jigging, dishevelled bride from amongst her icy relatives, and away from a silent and reproachful crowd of respectable residents. Meanwhile, a gentle soul had interviewed the weeping female inside, and found that she was howling because she always made a point of howling at weddings, which somehow reminded her of various dead husbands of hers. This explanation was subsequently conveyed to the bride and bridegroom, but too late to save the honeymoon from being a failure—all wailings, accusations, and gnashings of teeth.

Not Always a Blessed Privilege.

A London paper states that the granting of British army commissions to Australians and Canadians is not always so blessed a privilege as might be supposed—for the Australians and Canadians, that is. Very often his British fellow-officer flatly declines to speak to the objectionable "colonial" if he happens to have been a manual worker or business man and sprung from the ranks; the whole British crowd resents the advent of the inferior animal, and he becomes a sort of Invisible Man whom everybody professes not to see. Years ago, when the purchase of commissions was abolished and promotion by merit was supposed to be established in the British army, a haughty crowd of British officers was shocked by the advent among them of a certain Lieutenant Tribe, the first inferior being who had made his way up by his own personal ability. He was persecuted so, brutally and so remorselessly by the high-toned gentlemen and fellow-officers of that period that he either committed suicide or deserted—anyhow he disappeared after a few months of misery. Since then the British officer has grown partly reconciled to the man who has made his way up from the ranks.

Nervousness and Nerve.

The more nervous a man is, the less nerve he has. That sounds paradoxical—but it isn't; for nerve is stamina.

Hood's Sarsaprilla gives nerve. It tones the whole system, perfects digestion and assimilation, and is therefore the best medicine a nervous person can take. If you get tired easily, mentally or physically, take it—it will do you good.

Money Bylaws Voted.

Hespeler, Ont., April 30. — Two municipal bylaws were voted on here yesterday. One was to grant a site to the Hespeler Furniture Company, who are about to establish a factory here, and the other to authorize the raising of $7,000 by way of debentures to pay the town indebtedness on permanent improvements made last year. Both bylaws were carried practically without opposition, there being only one vote cast against.

Hanover, Ont., April 30.—Voting on the two money bylaws took place yesterday. Both were carried with sweeping majorities. The majority for the bonus of $10,000 to the Knetchtel Furniture Company was 243, and for a $25,000 system of waterworks 262.

A Fatal Forest Fire.

New York, April 30.—A forest fire, which began just west of the Wading River railway station on Long Island, has developed into a serious danger. Dr. M. D. Baldwin of Warden Cliff was caught in the path of the fire, and it is supposed that he was suffocated by the smoke, and lay unconscious until the fire reached him. When his body was found it was burned beyond recognition, but the identity was established by a partly melted watch.

Men Will Return to Work.

Laureate Nonsense.

Tennyson is said to have been fond of foolish fun, that ever delightful sort of fun which is not wit, but nonsense.

One day, at Burlington House, he asked the guests a conundrum which he had just made:

"Who are the greatest women in the world?"

The answer was:

"Miss Ouri, the Misses Ippi and Sara Gossa."

I used four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they have done me so much good in removing all my troubles, that I can now sleep with comfort and consider I am completely cured.

A COMMITTEE APPOINTED

To Carry Out the Sports for the 24th Celebration—Major Miller is Chairman.

At the meeting last Friday evening it was decided to ask the Battalion to undertake the arranging of the sports on the 24th, and Lt.-Col. Edwards was appointed to look after the matter.

At the meeting of the officers last evening the following committee was appointed for that purpose: Major Miller, Capt. Bennet, Lts. Complin, McWilliams, Cameron, Layfield and McPherson. Major Miller was appointed chairman and Lt. McPherson, secretary. In Major Miller's absence Capt. Bennet occupied the chair.

It was decided that the Nicholls oval would be the most suitable place for the games, and that the form of entertainment be such as can be carried out most successfully on a field of this nature. It was suggested that a football game be one of the main features. This would occupy the central part of the oval, which could be kept clear by the aid of the battalion. The football ground then could be used for the carrying out of the list of sports These will consist of comic, obstacle and straight away races and contents of various kinds.

Another meeting of the committee will be held in the officers' mess rooms on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, when a more definite programme will be arranged.

A MAY WEDDING.

Mr. E. D. Goldey Married to Miss Mary Alberta Fiske.

A very pretty and interesting event took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. H. O. Fiske, Flemming Terrace, when Miss Mary Alberta, daughter of Mr. C. O. Fiske, Abbotsford, Quebec, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. E. D. Goldey, formerly of Peterborough, but now of Toronto. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. W. L. Armitage, of All Saints' Church, in the presence of about forty of the most intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride wore a costume of grey lady's cloth in applique and carried a boquet of red roses. She was assisted by Miss Eva Coulter, who wore a gown of grey silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Harley Goldey brother of the groom acted in the capacity of best man.

The newly married couple left on the 5.50 G.T.R. train this afternoon for their future home in Toronto, and will take up their residence at No. 132 McPherson avenue.

The bride and groom were the recepients of many valuable and useful presents from their host of friends. Mr. Goldey is well and popularly know in Peterborough.

TREATY RIGHTS CLAIMED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—A well known fishery inspector of Peterborough has visited Hiawatha several times this season endeavouring to find out by questioning tots of children whether the game laws were being broken by the residents of the village. If he would seek his information in another manner it would be far more creditable to him. When George III sent out Simcoe as his representative to govern Canada he made a treaty with the Indians at the Carrying Place, Bay of Quinte, called the "Gun Shot Treaty." Thousands of Indians were present, including all the principal chiefs of the various tribes. The Governor stated that although the Government wanted the land it was not intended that the fish or game rights be interfered with, as these belonged to the Indians, who derived their living from them. These promises were to hold good as long as "the grass would grow or rivers flow."

If I am not mistaken these treaty rights give us the privilege of fishing a all times.

SAID GOOD-BYE.

Mr. Evy Hall was Given a Rousing Sending-Off at the Y.M.C.A. Last Night.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the Y.M.C.A., last night, when a number of his friends assembled to say good-bye to Mr. Evy Hall, who left for Rochester this morning. Evy has always been one of the most popular and useful members of the Association, as was evident from the appreciative remarks of the officers and his fellow members, and he will be greately missed by the boys. After a number of short speeches had been made, expressing regret at Evy's departure the following address and presentation was made:

Mr. Everett Hall, Peterborough,

Dear Evy,—We, your fellow members of the Young Men's Christian Association, having heard of your intended departure from town, feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing in some degree our appreciation of your many good qualities both as a comrade and as an active member of this Association. For a number of years you have been closely identified with every important undertaking of the Association, and it owing in no small degree to your untiring efforts that it has attained its present high rate of membership, and its excellent standing among the institutions of its kind in the country. It is needless, therefore to say that your absence will be a distinct loss to us, and that your place will be very difficult if not impossible to fill.

While your departure will be a matter of much regret to us, at the same time we are pleased to know that it means a step in advance on the high road to success in the profession of your choice, in which you have our best wishes and prayers for a large measure of prosperity.

In asking you to accept this ring we feel that it is impossible in this way to adequately express our admiration of your many sterling qualities. We wish merely to leave with you a small tangible evidence of our esteem, and hope that it may recall pleasant memories of many enjoyable times we have spent together. Again wishing you all the happiness and success which you so well deserve.

Signed on behalf of the committee,
W. D. CAMPBELL,
SAYMOUR HALL,
H. S. MERRILL.

Though taken completely by surprise, Evy made a suitable reply, and then delighted those present with a couple of whistling solos. Cake and coffee were then served, and the gathering dispersed after singing "God be with you 'till we meet again.

MAJOR GALT COMING.

Will Visit The Local Corps Of The Salvation Army Next Week.

The Salvationists of this town are looking forward to big times on the occasion of the visit of Major Ethel Galt, daughter of Judge Galt, of Toronto, who is coming to hold a series of revival meetings extending over two weeks in the S. A. Barracks on Simcoe St. The Major, who will be accompanied by Captain Belle Le Drew, will commence operations on Tuesday, May 7th, this meeting, however, being held specially for members of the Salvation Army and Christian friends. On Wednesday night at 8 p.m. she will conduct her first public meeting, when it is hoped there will be a large attendance of the people of this town, and also on through this special series of meetings.

The general public are heartily invited to attend.

Miss Galt, it may be remembered, is the lady who caused such a stir among the social circles of society in the city of Toronto some ten years ago when she stepped into the ranks of the Salvation Army as an officer, leaving behind her the fashionable world in order to give her life endeavoring to lift up fallen humanity.

YOUNG MENS' GUILD.

A Lively Debate Took Place Last Night —The Subject.

The regular meeting of the Young Mens' Guild of St. Andrew's Church was held last night, the attendance being exceptionally large in anticipation of the debate which was taken part in by four of the most prominent members of the Guild.

The chair was accepted by Mr. Thomas Anderson, the President, and after routine, the oratorical battle of the evening was commenced.

The debate was—"Resolved that War is More Beneficial to a Country than Peace." The affirmative was taken by Messrs. Jas. Maud and Alex. Weddell and the negative by Messrs. R. M. Glover and Wm. Campbell.

Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, kindly acted as critic and a committee of four was chosen to arrive at a decision. However, the committee broke even, two holding out for the affirmative and two for the negative.

The debate was exceedingly well put on and the arguments must have been the result of a great deal of study and valuable research on the part of those who took part in the same.

Refreshments were served at the close.

THE SPECIAL MEETINGS

That are being held in the Murray street Baptist Church.

The evangelistic services in this church under Mr. Crombie, are progressing finely. The attendance the last two evenings has been large and encouraging. The evangelist speaks with great earnestness and aims supremely to lead men to decide at once to serve God.

Last evening Rev. O. C. Elliott spoke about the necessity of faith on the part of Christians in order to do effective work.

Then Mr. Crombie made a short address on Spiritual Death and Life.

The conference and prayer meeting that followed was full of life and power. There were several earnest enquirers. All are invited to come and share the blessings.

A THOUSAND DOLLARS

Will Probably be Raised for Victoria Day Demonstration.

AN ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME.

The Council Will Grant Four or Five Hundred Dollars and the Citizens Will Subscribe the Balance.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held last evening with Mayor Denne presiding, and the following members present: Ald. Best, Corkery, Batten, Clinkscale, Roger and Edgecumbe.

A very large and influential deputation was present from the Victoria Day Demonstration Committee, and several of the members addressed the Council in the matter of soliciting a grant to augment the fund which is being raised to properly observe the holiday.

Mr. Peter Campbell was the first speaker. He briefly referred to the representative character of the meeting of citizens which had been held on Friday evening to discuss the advisability of holding a demonstration on the 24th of May, and drew the attention of the Council to the unanimity with which the proposition of celebrating the holiday was greeted. The deputation, he stated, was present to ask a grant from the Council of $500 to assist in defraying the expenses.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun then addressed the Council stating that at the public meeting of citizens called there had not been a dissentient voice raised in regard to the celebration. All were agreed, as citizens, that there should be a demonstration. In this connection two objects should be kept in mind—first, whatever was done should be for the credit and benefit of the town, and, secondly, it should be for the pleasure of the citizens as a whole, and not for any small section or portion thereof. Speaking as to the first point, Mr. Dennistoun stated that both Lindsay and Port Hope had always made special efforts to hold big Dominion Day celebrations, and therefore if Peterborough held a demonstration on that date it could not be expected that citizens from either of those places or the country adjacent thereto could be drawn to the town. It would simply result in a three cornered contest and neither of the three places would derive as much benefit as though the celebrations were held on different days. It had therefore been unaminously resolved that the local demonstration be held on the 24th. Concerning his second point, the speaker went on to say that the matter of holding sports and charging gate money had been considered but the idea had never reached a further point than a suggestion, the feeling being strongly in favour of arranging a programme for the day which would enable all classes of citizens to enjoy themselves without the payment of an admission fee. In order to provide such a day's amusement certain funds had to be provided and it was estimated that not less than $800 or $900 would be needed. There was but one way to raise this money and that was by soliciting the large corporations. This had already been done to a great extent, and the manufacturers and merchants were coming forward with liberal donations. It now only remained for the chief corporation, represented by the aldermen to make a contribution in order that a proper celebration could be held. Mr. Dumble appeared to think that if a demonstration was held it would show a want of feeling and savour of disrespect to the late Queen. His views on the question had been ably and forcibly put, but as far as Mr. Dennistoun could ascertain they merely represented his opinion and that of one other citizen. Public opinion still was strongly in favour of holding the demonstration and was so unanimous that no want of respect could possibly be implied. The town had shown its loyalty and respect for Her Majesty at the time of her death by closing all the places of business and fittingly draping the same with mourning. The general period of mourning was now over and the emblems had been removed in the army and navy, though the Court itself was still in mourning. But what is the example set by the Court. Is not the Duke of York even now being received and entertained with royal festivities in Australia? Mr. Dumble's other argument in which he stated that the $300 should be devoted to sidewalk building, should be regarded more as a joke than anything else. As pointed out in an evening paper (The Examiner) the cost of the demonstration to the average tax payer would be only ten cents and for this small expenditure his whole family could enjoy a day of great pleasure.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn spoke of the liberal way the manufacturers were contributing to the fund and urged on the council to grant a sufficient amount to ensure the celebration being a grand success.

Ald. Clinkscale inquired as to the proposed programme.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin explained that there would be a procession in the morning, sports in the afternoon and fireworks at night.

Ald. Edgcumbe expressed the belief that the citizens were entirely in accord with the desire to hold a celebration on the 24th of May, and knowing that so many influential ratepayers had attended the public meeting, and expressed a desire for a demonstration, he felt it his duty to move that a grant of $400 be donated towards the fund.

Ald. Clinkscale seconded the motion.

Ald. Best thought that though it was desirable that Victoria Day be properly observed, yet he did not think the town was in a position to give [illegible] was granted last year, viz., $300. He moved in this direction, seconded by Ald. Corkery.

Ald. Clinkscale was of the opinion that if a demonstration was to be given, it should be a good one. A matter of $100 would not matter much to the town, and would mean a good deal to the committee in charge of the demonstration.

Mayor Denne was also in favour of having a first-class demonstration. He did not believe in throwing people's money away, but when the citizens were being kept at home, and visitors attracted to the town, he considered the money well spent. He had been one of the committee which had solicited contributions from the citizens, and could say that not one refusal had been met with. He asked the council to vote $400 for the purpose asked, as the committee could not undertake to put on a first-class celebration with less money.

Ald. Batten, though not one inclined to vote away money needlessly, thought that it would be a good investment and a general benefit to the town to give a grant for a demonstration. If $400 would ensure a good programme he was in favour of giving it.

Ald. Roger made the proposition that he would be in favour of giving $400 if the committee guaranteed to raise $300 by private subscriptions.

Ald. Edgecumbe agreed to add this to his motion.

Mr. Bradburn was so confident of raising this, or a greater sum, that he stated the committee would guarantee to raise $250 if the Council would grant $500.

Mayor Denne gave his personal guarantee that the $300 would be raised.

Ald. Best then made the suggestion that he would support a motion granting a sum of money to the committee equal to to that subscribed by the citizens.

Ald. Edgecumbe's motion was amended by the addition of a clause whereby the Council agreed to increase their grant to $500, provided the citizens raised a like sum.

The motion was then carried unanimously.

Mr. John Best appeared to ask that Donegal street be repaired. The Board of Works will give the matter their consideration.

A writ for $200 damages for alleged injury done the stock of Ormond & Walsh by overflow of water into the cellar, was left in the hands of the Legal Committee.

A petition from the Separate School Board, Murray street Baptist church, and other property owners, asking that a hydrant be placed on the corner of Murray and Aylmer street, was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

A letter from the Geo. Matthews Co., Ltd., was received as follows:

Gentlemen:—You will have no doubt noticed by the papers lately that we have taken up with the Grand Trunk Railway the matter of a siding to our premises.

We find that it is almost impossible to handle our business satisfactorily with the railway accommodation which we now have and as the bulk of our traffic, both inward and outward, is handled by the Grand Trunk, it seems necessary that we should have direct connection with that road. With a view of putting in a siding we have secured options on a right of way, or on practically all of it, from a point on the Belleville branch of the G.T.R., about the corner of Perry and Aylmer streets, diagonally across the two blocks, entering our yard about opposite the end of Townsend street.

We would respectfully ask that we be granted permission to construct this siding as per plan herewith enclosed, and would you also inform us as to the width of opening required in bridge which would be built over the creek just south of Townsend St.

As it will be necessary to have a forked end to the siding for the transferring of cars, we would also ask permission to put a track down on George St., crossing the street on an angle and running parallel to our building north as far as Wolfe street. This part of the siding would be used for loading outwards and would not be used for receiving live hogs. The siding and platform would take up 10 feet of the street or fifteen inches beyond the poles of the Light Company, and as there is no traffic whatever on that side of the street, we cannot see in what manner such a siding would interfere with the traffic on the street as a whole for many years to come and certainly it would assist us materially in handling our ever increasing business.

If advisable we would have our representatives appear before you to further explain why a G.T.R. siding is absolutely necessary to the efficient working of our plant here.

Ald. Best stated that the council dare not grant such a request. George street was bad enough as it was, without being paralleled by a railroad.

The matter was referred to the Board of Works.

On motion of Ald. Best and Corkery, Mr. Parnell will be paid 25 cents a load for the gravel he has drawn, on the certificate of the town engineer.

Ald. Roger and Clinkscale moved, that the mayor and chairman of the Finance Committee be authorized to advertise for sale the town debentures which are about to be issued.—Carried.

Mr. Robinson, representing the Good Roads Manchinery Company, addressed the council concerning the implements manufactured by this firm. He made a most favourable impression. Incidentally he complimented Peterborough highly on the condition of the streets stating that they were in better condition than those of any of the eastern towns and cities which are in his district.

A Thankful Farmer

HERE is no class of men more subject to all the ills the human flesh is heir to than farmers. Their calling causes them to be out in all kinds of weather, consequently when sickness overtakes them they become great sufferers. Rheumatism is the disease most prevalent among the farming classes. Mr. C. W. Trotter, Cushendall Ont., a most respected farmer in Pittsburg township, suffered for two years from this dread disease. So severely was he afflicted that for three months at a stretch he was compelled to remain idle. Being induced to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial, he is now very thankful he did so. Before the contents of one bottle had been taken the pains disappeared, and he was able to resume his work. He took only one bottle of the Rheumatic Cure and one box of pills, but even that small quantity completely cured him. He has not been troubled with the pain since, and is now as strong and healthy as ever.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE LATEST GREAT ADDITIONS TO THE KING'S NAVY.

Successful Launching of H. M. S. Albemarle, the First-Class Battleship Montagu, First-Class Armoured Cruiser Drake, and the First-Class Cruiser Kent—The Vessels as Shown by Figures and Descriptions.

At Chatham dockyard, says Lloyd's Weekly of recent date, H. M. S. Albemarle was successfully launched. Lady Kennedy, wife of the Commander-in-Chief at the Nore, christened the vessel by breaking a bottle of South Australian wine over her bows. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. Oxland, garrison chaplain, and the band of the Chatham Division Royal Marines attended and played nautical selections. Thousands of spectators witnessed the launch, which was carried out under the superintendence of Admiral Swinton Holland. The Albemarle's launching weight, minus armour plates, was 5,100 tons.

The first-class battleship Montagu was launched from Devensport dockyard, in the presence of 10,000 persons, the vessel being christened with a bottle of Colonial wine presented by the Agent-general for South Australia. Upon Lady Chas. Scott cutting the ropes which held the dogshores, the ship hung for a moment owing to the grease on the ways having hardened through the cold weather, but, with the assistance of hydraulic jacks, the Montagu was sent off, the launch being entirely successful.

H. M. S. KENT ON THE STOCKS.

Both the foregoing vessels have a displacement of 14,000 tons, are 405 feet in length, with a beam of 75 feet 6 inches, an indicated horsepower of 18,000, and are expected to be capable of a maximum speed of 19 knots. They will each carry a crew of 762, including officers. The heavy armaments of both vessels will comprise four 12-inch breech-loading mark IX. guns, which will be mounted in shield-protected barbettes, the latter strengthened by a belting of 10-inch armour plating. In addition, the Albemarle and her sister ship will each carry 12 6-inch quick-firers, mounted in steel casemates, 10 12-pounders, six 3-pounders, eight 303 Maxims, and four 18-inch torpedo tubes.

In the presence of several thousand people, the first-class armoured cruiser Drake was successfully launched from Pembroke dockyard by Mrs. Phillips, of Lawrenny Castle, Pembrokeshire. The Drake has been built on the lines of the Terrible and the Powerful, and if she comes up to the expectations of her designers, she should be one of the fastest cruisers afloat. She is 530 feet in length, with a beam of 71 feet 4 inches, and is provided with a belt of 6-inch broadside armour. The indicated horsepower of her engines is set down at 30,000, which should give her a maximum speed of not less than 23 knots.

The new first-class cruiser Kent was successfully launched at Portsmouth, being named by Lady Hotham, wife of the Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth. There was a large attendance of the public in spite of very showery weather. The vessel took the water without a hitch, the sun shining brilliantly as the Kent quitted her birthplace. She has been built from the design of Sir William White, Director of Naval Construction, and is 463 feet 6 inches in length, and 66 feet in breadth, with a displacement of 9,800 tons. The vessel will be propelled by twin screws, her engines developing 11,000 horsepower. Her tube boilers are of the Belleville type. The side armour is four inches thick, and the vessel has also a protected deck. She will be fitted with two barbettes, each carrying two 6-inch guns, and 10 other 6-inch guns will be carried in the casemates. Her other armament will include eight 12-pounder quick-firing guns, besides 3-pounders and Maxims, and two submerged torpedo tubes. The Kent's ram is a steel casting weighing over 13 tons. Her crew will consist of 678 officers and men.

CROW'S NEST COAL DEPOSITS.

Mr. J. McEvoy Estimates There Are 22,595,200,000 Tons of Coal There.

Mr. J. McEvoy in a preliminary report to the Geological Survey, gives the results of a close geological examination of the coal lands in the Crow's Nest Pass district. He estimates that there are 22,595,200,000 tons of coal in the Crow's Nest fields, and he makes the calculation in the following manner. Although the extent of the coal lands in the area can as yet be only somewhat roughly estimated, the estimate (230 square miles) should be near enough to the truth to be used as an argument for the calculation of the total available coal supply. The thickness used in the calculation is the minimum already given of 100 feet of workable coal. Total area of coal lands, 230 square miles, equal 147,200 acres. One acre with 100 feet of coal would yield 153,480 tons of 2,240 pounds; 50,000 acres would yield 7,674,000,000 tons of 2,240 pounds; 147,200 acres would yield 22,595,200,000 tons of 2,240 pounds. Mr. McEvoy is of opinion that the thickness of workable coal is at least 100 feet. He states that the town of Fernie is a good example of rapid western growth. The mines are reached from Fernie by a spur from the main line running four and a half miles up the creek. The good quality of the coal is now so well established that further mention in that respect is unnecessary. The output is increasing rapidly of late, and is now well over 1,000 tons a day. About one-half of this is converted into coke, 360 beehive ovens being in constant operation at Fernie. The coke produced is of superior quality and preparations are being made to increase the number of ovens. In addition to mining on Coal Creek the company has recently commenced work on the seams at Michel, and is already turning out coal for shipment. Material is on the ground for the construction of coke ovens and this point promises shortly to equal Fernie in importance.

"It is my duty to tell the public that I have been cured of a violent malady of the back caused by Dyspepsia, by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. My stomach was very bad, and I suffered very greatly for two years.

"I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and am now well. I would not be without them."

What has cured Mr. Bouchard will certainly cure anyone. His was a very bad case, and he had little hope of ever leaving behind him the dreadful pain caused by Dyspepsia. He is very grateful for his recovery, and is recommending Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all his friends.

There is nothing to be wondered at in this, and anyone who is suffering from the tortures of Dyspepsia and Indigestion, can understand how very thankful they would be for a delivery such as Mr. Bouchard has attained.

They may have just such a cure. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure them.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets never fail to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sour Stomach, or any other stomach trouble (except Cancer).

If you are a sufferer from any of these troubles, be guided by the experience of Mr. Bouchard, and you too, will very soon be singing the praises of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

You are doubtful. You have been disappointed so often, that perhaps you have reason to be cautious.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have convinced many a sceptic, and delighted many a doubter. They never disappoint.

The proof:—Mr. Bouchard, whose letter appears above; Mr. Geo. Arthurs, of Toronto, (122 Argyle street); Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby County, N.S.; Mr. D.G. Ross, farmer, Dundas P.O., Ont.; Miss Maggie Gallant, Summerside, P.E.I.; Mr. Ademard Coderre, of St. Jacques, Quebec, and thousands of others, the list of whose names and addresses will fill the columns of this paper for weeks.

THE HORSE SHOW.

T. H. Camp of Belleville, Ont., owns the pacer Walter K, 2:14¼.

Oliver Cabana of Buffalo has only the pacer Gerald Rex left in his stable.

The Lake Erie circuit will be composed of ten tracks in 1901, with average purses of $400.

Welcome, 2:10½, is said to be not only the fastest but the largest horse now standing for service in California.

George E. Lattimer of Buffalo has bought for speedway purposes Whiffet, 2:22¼, pacing, and Rex, 2:21, pacing.

George McMann of Rochelle, Ills., has bought the bay stallion Sphinx E. by Sphinx, 2:20¼, dam by Ethan Allen, from J. W. Farrand of Midway, Wis.

J. A. Burnett, secretary of the Gentlemen's Driving club of Denver, has bought the chestnut pacing gelding Harry Wilkes, by Walsingham, dam by Almont.

Buffalo is to have a new mile track. The Lang farm has been selected as the site, as there is no grading to be done, and the soil is perfectly adapted to the purpose.

The Putnam Park and Fair corporation is out with an announcement of two early closing stakes, one for $600 for 2:14 pacers and one for $400 for 2:28 trotters. Two horses can be carried on payment of one fee. Entries close April 15 with Byron D. Bugbee, secretary, Putnam, Conn.

How Horses Rest.

"Have you ever noticed," asked a Germantown veterinarian the other day, "that every horse left standing by a curbstone for any length of time invariably turns around so as to place his fore feet on the sidewalk? He always does it if the road on which he is standing slopes the least bit in either direction. This shows that the horse has a great deal of plain, common sense. He will not allow himself to be worn out where it is not necessary. If people only had his wisdom, there would be a great deal less sickness in the world than there is at present. When a thoughtless driver leaves his horse standing on a slope or at an angle of the street, all the animal's weight is thrown upon one side, causing strain, and if left long enough painful exhaustion. Twenty minutes of such an ordeal will fatigue a horse more than a whole day's travel. But when he is able to plant his fore feet on the curbstone it gives him a better plant and adjusts his weight more equably. Many of the muscular ailments from which horses suffer are brought upon them by being continually obliged to stand by the gutter side on streets which slope decidedly. A good driver will always seek to rest his horse on a level when possible."

Highest Cross in the World.

The highest cross in the world is said to be that which caps the loftiest peak of the Harz mountains. The cross is in reality a tower, and it commands a magnificent view of the country around. The height of the tower is 120 feet, and it stands on a mountain 1,731 feet above the sea level. A stair of 200 steps leads to the top of the cross, but there is an elevator of which people may avail themselves who for any reason wish to avoid the long climb.

Buying Molasses.

She was newly arrived from the old country, and she went to the store for sirup.

"Give me a pound of treacle," she said to the grocer.

"Treacle?" repeated the grocer. "You mean molasses."

"Possibly."

"Oh, then give me a yard!"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A DREAM.

I stood where gifts were showered on men from heaven,
And some had honors and the joy thereof,
And some received with solemn, radiant faces
The gift of love.

The green I saw of bay leaves and of laurel,
Of gold the gleam.
A voice spoke to me, standing empty handed,
"For thee—a dream."

Forbear to pity ye who, richly laden,
Forth from the place of heaven's bounty went.
Who marvel that I smile, my hands still empty;
I am content.

Ye cannot guess how dowered beyond the measure
Of your receiving to myself I seem.
Lonely and cold, I yet pass on enraptured;
I have my dream.

—Anne Reeve Aldrich.

WHEN THE YAQUIS ROSE

BY M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.

They said it was a reckless thing to do and that only Americans would have attempted it. On the west side of the Sierra Madre mountains in Mexico are the roaming grounds of the Yaqui Indians, and between the Yaqui and Fuerte rivers is their main stronghold. And yet we opened the Sunset mine with only the mountain range between us and every man from president to the cheapest workman realising that we might be attacked at any hour. The Yaquis have warred with the Mexicans for the last 200 years, and their hands are raised against all others who invade their domains.

We were months in getting machinery over from Chihuahua, erecting buildings and fairly opening the mine, and, though we had a guard of 50 Mexican soldiers, we worked in the shadow of death, as it were. If the Yaquis came through the pass, they would come in such numbers as to overwhelm us. Strangely enough, as we thought at the time, they let us alone, and at length the guard was withdrawn, and we were left to ourselves. We had a force of 30 white men and 100 peon laborers. Not one of these peons could be depended on in case of a row. The engine house we made our fort, and 30 men behind its loopholed walls would make a good fight of it. But yet we had something more than powder and lead to depend upon. If the Yaquis came through the mountain pass, they would approach the works, two miles distant, by way of two ravines which led quite to our doors. In some places these ravines were only six or seven feet deep, in others over 30, with stone walls on either side. Under the direction of a civil engineer powder and dynamite charges were hidden away in these walls and buried in the earth and wires connected with the power house and an electric battery.

Had it been possible to buy the friendship of the Yaquis we should have attempted it and thus secured our safety, but we knew they were not to be tempted by anything we could offer. We had been working full force for three months, with an alarm now and then, when we learned why we had not been disturbed by raiding parties. The whole fighting force of the Yaquis, numbering between 4,000 and 5,000, was gathering for a grand effort to sweep across the mountains and clear the country to the Rio Grande. This had been the dream of the chief for years, and his people had been treasuring up rifles and ammunition. When the force was finally ready to move, the Mexican government was powerless to stop it except on the north, and it was too late to send out anything like a general alarm. The 4,000 well armed savages, knowing no mercy, fell upon prospector, freighter, hunter, miner and villager, and not a man escaped from their hands. Almost by accident we got word of the movement, and the mine was closed, the peons were sent away, and we prepared for a siege. Lookouts were established along both ravines, and we had four days in which to bear the tales of panic stricken fugitives who passed our way.

The Yaquis had no pity for age, sex or condition. They found the people almost defenseless, and when they had captured a village every man, woman and child was put to the torture. Every habitation was burned, live stock was slaughtered, and even the dogs and cats were killed. The idea was to leave nothing alive behind them. The army did not push forward at swift pace, but dallied along and spent hours witnessing the torture of its victims. We knew when the Indians finally entered the mountain pass, headed straight for us, and it was half an hour before sunset one evening when we saw the first of their force debouch on the plain and begin a close survey of our situation. We were ready for them, but we knew that no attack would be made before morning. They would have had a long march and be out so as to avoid missing a single shot and at the word of command fired, killing nearly every one of the Indians. The others jumped up, only to be cut down by the reserve fire. The only two unhurt were Wahnemo and his 4-year-old papoose. Grasping the child, he sprang for the mountain side, scaling the rocks like a chamois amid a shower of bullets, soon distancing his pursuers and getting out of range of their rifles. Halting on a shelf of rock, he set the child down and proceeded to indulge in every exhibition of contempt and derision that his imagination could invent to aggravate the discomfited troopers, who gnashed their several sets of teeth in rage at the insults of the old heathen. They were relieved at last by the arrival of Lieutenant Huyl, who bore in his hand a new target rifle, received only the day before the scouts started.

This wonderful gun was guaranteed to carry—I forget—1,100 yards with accuracy, and the lieutenant, who was one of the best fellows in the world in garrison, but quite cold hearted and bloodthirsty where Apaches were concerned, announced that while he was doubtful of his gun carrying near the Indian, yet he was going to try. The Apache, feeling secure against their carbines, continued his taunts until Huyl, taking deliberate aim, with sights raised for 1,500 yards, fired. His aim was true and the gun all that it was boasted. The old savage plunged face forward over the ledge and crashed down the rocky mountain side at the very feet of his slayer.

The attention of the soldiers was now directed to the papoose, the subject of this sketch. That interesting infant still calmly occupied the ledge and was evidently turning the situation over in his mind. The troopers, with Lieutenant Huyl at their head, slowly and painfully clambered up the rocks and finally approached the orphan, who, instead of squalling as a civilized Christian child would have done, commenced throwing stones at his pursuers, hitting Lieutenant Huyl squarely on the nose with a half pound rock and drawing blood copiously. He followed this success by other good throws, causing as nearly a panic as possible. At last, by flanking him, our Apache was knocked down by a blow from a saber and stunned. His capture was now easy, but the lieutenant's orders were to return no prisoners.

"What shall we do with the little devil?" asked one of the men. "Shoot him or throw him over the cliff after his father?" The "little devil" had regained consciousness by this time and deliberately set his teeth into the calf of the soldier's leg. Lieutenant Huyl wiped his bloody nose and replied: "A baby who fights this way ought not to be killed in cold blood. By George, I'll take him back to San Carlos if it costs me my commission!"

A gag was put into the young one's mouth to prevent any more biting, and, with a soldier holding each hand, he was landed on the plain below. There he was placed on horseback, a lariat tied to one foot, passed under the horse and tied to the other, and thus the troopers returned to the reservation.

Lieutenant Huyl was a great favorite with General Crook, but he had disobeyed orders and confidently expected to be put under arrest. But the general had already heard something of the stone throwing affair and had enjoyed a hearty laugh over Huyl's broken nose. When the lieutenant in making his report reached the point where Wahnemo was killed, the general interrupted him with, "By the way, I think you had better not let me know officially any more of this scout than you have already told." Then glancing at the swollen nose he burst into a roar of laughter, in which all the other officers joined.

The young Indian was confined in the armory until his first fright was overcome. The soldiers of Company A named him Dick Huyl and, fitting him out with a uniform fashioned from the lieutenant's old clothes, regularly adopted him into the service.

In less than a month the small recruit learned to express himself tolerably in English and in a very short time had accumulated all the accomplishments of tobacco chewing and profanity possessed by the soldiers. He also picked up a wonderful knowledge of bugle calls and evolutions, always turning out at roll calls and taking his place at the extreme left of the company when in line.

When I first knew him, he had been under the refining influences of the United States service two years. If that Indian had improved in that time, I am very glad I did not know him before. He was not beautiful according to classic standards.

The Apaches flatten the heads of their babies between boards, and this, as much as anything else, served to render Dick unattractive to us children. Then he had such a predilection for carrying snakes in his pocket! The soldiers spoiled him, of course, and upheld him in every villainy he chose to perpetrate. When he shot the mules in an ambulance filled with women and children, causing a runaway and a smash up, one soldier thrashed him with a barrel stave and a dozen more gave him 5 cent pieces to comfort him. They alternately pounded and petted, but it was all one to him. He seldom laughed and never cried. He was an Apache.

I said he never cried. I will note an exception. Every Saturday afternoon the men took him out behind the quarters and gave him a bath. This process was very simple. They stripped off his clothing and turned the hose on him. On these occasions the shrieks of the little savage could be heard all over the post.

I have not seen Dick since I was 9 years old, but I like to think that he grew up and regularly enlisted in the old regiment and is now an honor to the service.—New York Tribune.

Social Standing in the Army.

A color-sergeant of Tasmanian Volunteers has written to Hobart Mercury complaining that, though he had passed the necessary examination, the commandant had refused to recommend him for a commission, good enough," as he, the commandant, "wanted for officers only men "because his social standing was not who were in a position to visit at Government House." Australasian State Governments should promptly strangle the growing tendency to restrict the officering of their troops—British fashion—to young men of the "classes." The conditions of modern warfare make it more and more evident that what is wanted for an officer is simply and absolutely the best man in the field—whether he eats with his knife and drops his "h's," or says "Haw!" and ignores g-final. One plain lesson of the Boer war is that the dude officer is a hideously expensive mistake; and every man entering the military service of this allegedly democratic country should do so with the knowledge that nothing but personal fitness can stand between him and a commission.

"He Was a Great Canadian."

"Here's to the chief that we held!
And here's to the chief that we hold!
And here's to the tribute of men
To the merit that's better than gold.
What know we of their party strife?
Weigh them not thus as men,
Write under the portrait of each
He was a great Canadian."

MR. DUMBLE REPLIES.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir:—Re Queen's Birthday—I have read your editorial anent the expenditure of $500 of the people's taxes to help in the celebration of the birthday of our late beloved Queen. You defend the expenditure because the cost to each ratepayer will be so small. That argument, if sound, will apply to every expenditure by the council. That argument was urged by the poor Scotch girl in extenuation of her little accident—the baby, she said, "was a very little one". Possibly she felt satisfied. The Examiner's defence may satisfy the council—perhaps so, but it does not satisfy me. The people who come in from the country to see the "wild ingines" will bring buns in their pockets, or perhaps they will buy their buns here, and their whiskey and ice cream. A very few people will get some benefit, but next year's tax rate will be increased as it is this year. Property is now assessed at its full value in many cases and burning and blowing away the tax money of this year will not help me to pay my taxes for next year. The good taste of the kalithumpian business, we will not argue upon. There are those whom such things please, but I did not think the taxes wrung from the people should be spent to gratify them. I thought it was an abuse of the people's money—perhaps I was wrong, and so I drop the matter.

Your obedient servant
D. W. DUMBLE.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

BASEBALL.

A meeting of the executive of the Peterbourough Baseball Club was held last night in the Oriental hotel, the following members being in attendance: Mr. H. H. H. Kenner, president in the chair, and Messrs. Ed. Desautel, Wm. Robertson, Chris. Graham, R. A. W. Hay and E. S. Clarry.

Final arrangements were made for the Assault-at-Arms to be given in the opera house on Thursday evening. The programme has been arranged with much care and will certainly prove to be one of the most interesting that has been put on at an affair of this kind in Peterborough in some time. The prospects for the season's sport were carefully gone over, and a successful year is anticipated.

The following interesting programme will be rendered at the Baseball Club's assault-at-arms to-morrow night:

The programme will wind up with a great big surprise.

A CANADIAN SOCIAL.

A Unique Entertainment at Charlotte Street Epworth League.

Monday evening the Charlotte street League furnished the public with another excellent entertainment. The programme was unique in character, and was given by the young men of the League under the supervision of Mr. P. Hamilton, chairman of the Social Committee. Eight well-informed guides conducted the audience from Prince Edward to the Yukon, answering numerous questions regarding the size, population, climate, commerce and productions of the provinces passed through.

The educational part of the programme was pleasantly interspersed with music. Mr. Parker sang in excellent voice "Men of the North;" a cornet and clarinet duet by Messrs. Garside and Bell was loudly applauded, while a quartette, piano, cornet, clarinet and trombone by Miss Campbell and Messrs. Garside, Bell and Madill was greatly enjoyed. The trio, piccolo, guitar and harmonica, so pleased the audience that the gentlemen, Messrs. Dodge, Skitch and Hendren were forced to give an encore.

At the close of the programme an excellent variety of refreshments was served by the young men, becomingly attired in snowy aprons.

The room was suitably decorated with an abundance of flags, and it is safe to say the hall never looked better. The evening was voted a huge success.

The annual business meeting and election of officers of the George street Epworth League was held Monday evening, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Wilson, occupying the chair. 2nd Vice-President (Missionary Dept)—Miss B. Grise.

4th Vice-President (Social Dept)—Miss E. Might.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF RELIGION

Belong to all Men, not a Few—Training by Ritual Both in Church and Lodge Room.

The following is a summary of the conclusion of Rev. J. C. Davidson's address to the Oddfellows on Sunday night:—

As the last department of duty "Fear God." Do you recognize, said he, your duty, social and political, but will you here "draw the line" and forsake the path which leads straight on to God? The speaker here pointed out a ground taken by many men, which was entirely false and unreasonable. Religious responsibilities were supposed to be confined to those who made a religious profession, and yet every man was born under responsibilities to God as well as to the state and his fellow men. The difference between the man who disavows religious responsibilities and the man who accepts and stands by them is the difference between the ostrich, who, on the approach of an enemy, buries his head in the sand and thinks himself safe, and the man who, as a soldier, faces the adversary with weapons designed for his protection.

Our duty to God, if recognized, causes us to fear Him. While a friend He not on our level, but infinitely above us and worthy of our loving fear. Fear Him then, though some men order their lives as if there were no God above them and others take His awful name in vain with atrocious blasphemies. Fear God by doing your duty in His sight, by honouring His name, by reverently worshipping Him in His house of prayer.

Mr. Davidson then went on to show that both the church and the lodge room were training schools in which men might profitably learn to honour their fellow men and to fear God. In the lodge room this training in deportment and action of grace and propriety is done by the faithful observance of a dignified, but often complicated ritual to which men willingly submitted. Let not the same men object to ritual in the church, which was true, educative and much more simple than that of many lodge rooms. Wherever used a reasonable ritual was useful, because it was our duty to express honour to man and fear God in outward acts of propriety. The outward went hand in hand with the inward and helped it. Respect to man ever accompanies reverence towards God. Let both be cultivated systematically. Such customs as kneeling in prayer, standing to offer our praises or money offerings, facing in the creed and other usages were all designed for this end and were seemly practices and useful helps. It was our duty to honour all men and show them honour; honour the King and show loyalty; to love the brotherhood and to manifest this love; to fear God and to openly show our reverence.

MINERS' FEDERATION.

Recommends Its 760,000 Coal Miners to Quit Work.

IF COAL TAX BE NOT WITHDRAWN

Another Meeting to Be Held May 7th to Fix the Date—Owners to Blame for the Trouble—Initial Strike in a Labor War of Prodigious Proportions Begun in Buffalo—News of Other Strikes.

London, May 2.—At a meeting of the Miners' Federation, held in London yesterday morning and attended by delegates from all parts of the United Kingdom, it was recommended that all miners quit work unless the coal tax should be withdrawn. Another meeting was summoned for May 7 to decide the matter and to fix a date for the stoppage of work should that step be resolved upon.

It is understood that the recommendation of the Miners' Federation will be submitted to the miners forthwith and that in the event of the men approving some 760,000 miners will lay down their tools when the signal shall be given.

Whether or not the miners will actually strike depends largely on the trend of discussion of the coal tax resolution, which comes up in the House of Commons to-day. Although it is generally supposed the coal owners have been backing the miners with the object of bringing pressure on the Government to modify the coal taxation projection, there are signs of a division of opinion since the Federation reached its grave decision, and some of the influential owners, especially those not exporting coal, are counselling prudence.

The miners' reasons for advocating a strike appears to be based on the fear that the owners will recoup themselves from the tax by an equivalent reduction in wages.

Every-day Needs That Court Comparison

This cash and "one price" business allows us to mark our goods without adding any superfluous profits for the "don't pays" and "beat-you-down" class of buyers. These two rules are STRICTLY ENFORCED at this store, and not mere bluff statements. You have yet to find the customer who can say:—"They will take a second price." We do not run our business that way—but CASH ONLY to every one, and the ONE PRICE is quoted to every customer

There are a few every-day needs, and though some of the prices may be every-day prices, we consider that the qualities are not every-day qualities.

PASSED QUIETLY IN BERLIN.

But 385,000 Persons Attended Various May Day Demonstrations.

Berlin, May 2.—May Day passed off quietly. Three hundred and eighty-five thousand persons attended the various Socialist and trades union meetings, and at all of these resolutions were adopted in favor of the eight-hour day and the right of union.

In consequence of the threats of the master builders to lock out all those workmen who celebrated May Day, work in the building trades went on, although many men were absent.

BUFFALO MACHINISTS STRIKE.

Prelude to a Universal International American Strike on May 30.

Buffalo, May 2.—Between 500 and 800 machinists in this city and Erie County struck yesterday morning to secure a 9-hour day without a decrease of pay.

Many of the local shops at a conference with the men agreed to the demands of the union and will not be affected by the strike.

It is understood that the local movement is the forerunner of a strike that may extend all over the United States, Canada and Mexico on May 30, when a general demand for a 9-hour day will be made.

Marine Engineers Appeased.

Buffalo, May 2.—The strike of the marine engineers is practically settled on a basis of mutual concessions. In Cleveland the "trust" fleet will pay the engineers' schedule of wages.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2. — All union plasterers in this city struck yesterday for an increase of ten cents an hour, which would make the union scale fifty cents.

A large number of union plumbers are also out, but their strike is not general.

Telephone Hands Out.

Wapakoneta, O., May 2. — Linemen and ground hands working on the new telephone systems in this city and adjoining villages struck yesterday for higher wages.

LABOR UNIONS UNEARTH SPIES.

Method by Which Secret Meetings Have Been Told of Discussed.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 2.—The labor unions have unearthed the "spies," who, it is said, have been keeping the capitalists informed. For several years the labor unions of the country have known of the existence of a system in their ranks by which the employers were kept informed of their doings, even in their most secret missions.

In November, 1899, it is said, the Metropolitan Detective Agency was found to be the headquarters, with its main office at Cleveland, Ohio. The head of the system was J. K. Turner. He next organized the manufacturers' Information Bureau, with headquarters at Cleveland, and branches in every large city in the United States. His "spies" told of everything which might be of interest to the employers, even to shop conversations.

"Spies" are now under surveillance in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Philadelphia and other cities.

Mr. Brodrick Defends the Government's Army Reform Proposals.

Mr. Brodrick further declared that his scheme had received the imprimatur of the greatest living military authority, and that as a Government they would stand or fall in their determination to improve the army without any delay whatever.

BANQUET TO OPPOSITION LEADER

A Short Sitting in Consequence of the Liberal-Conservatives Dining Mr. R. L. Borden—Government Business—The Premier's Announcement Taken to Indicate Early Prorogation—Elections' Act.

Ottawa, May 2.—The House adjourned at 6 o'clock last evening in order to allow the Conservative members to attend in a body the banquet to Mr. R. L. Borden, their new leader. In reply to a question by Mr. Borden at the opening of the House, Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced that all Government business would be brought down this week or early next week. The announcement was accepted as indicating an early prorogation. Two Government bills were advanced a stage, and good progress was made in supply with the estimates of the Department of Railways and Canals.

Government Business.

Before the orders of the day were called Mr. Borden asked that all remaining Government business and any railway resolutions that it might be intended to bring down should be introduced at as early a date as possible.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that all Government business would be brought down this week or early next week.

The House again considered the Elections Act in committee. Clauses 19 and 20 of the elections act, which deal with the punishment of officials who fail to perform their duties, were made applicable to the North-west Territories. Clause 3, abolishing the use of the stamp on the ballot, was struck out. Mr. Fitzpatrick submitted a sample of the ballot. The amendments were given a second reading.

The bill to amend the Franchise Act was also taken up in committee. Clause C of the first section was struck out, so that the law in relation to the voters' lists to be used remains as at present.

Mr. Borden suggested that some Minister should be made responsible for seeing that the lists were always ready before an election.

Mr. Fitzpatrick thought there might be something in the suggestion, and consented to allow the bill to stand for its third reading.

The Senate amendments to the bill respecting the safety of ships were agreed to with some modifications. The prohibition regarding deck loads was made to apply only to ports in Great Britain and in Europe north of Cape Finisterre. This is in order to allow Canadian vessels trading to the Mediterranean, West Indies, Australia, etc., greater freedom in competition with American vessels.

Intercolonial Rolling Stock.

The House went into supply on the estimates for the Intercolonial Railway chargeable to capital. In explanation of the item of $2,000,000 for rolling stock, Mr. Blair said that $380,000 of the amount was for the locomotives being constructed at Kingston, and the balance was for freight rolling stock and for passenger and dining cars, including a car for the Royal party. The cars were being built by contract at the lowest tender price. The work was divided between the Rathbun Company, the Crossen Company and the Rhodes & Curry Company.

After some discussion the items for the Intercolonial Railway were passed with the understanding that members would not be debarred from discussing Intercolonial Railway matters upon the supplementary estimates.

Prince Edward Island Railway.

The items, aggregating $476,000, for the Prince Edward Island Railway were passed. Mr. Blair stated during the discussion that the 56-pound rails which were on the old portion of the Drummond County Railway would be used to relay the Prince Edward Island Railway, for which they were well suited.

At 6 o'clock Sir Wilfrid Laurier, referring to the banquet to Mr. R. L. Borden by the Opposition, said that he understood their friends on the opposite side of the House had a little celebration of their own this evening, and in order to suit the convenience of hon. gentlemen opposite he moved that the House adjourn.

Mr. Borden, on behalf of the Opposition, expressed appreciation at the courtesy of the Premier.

The House adjourned at 6 p. m.

CONSERVATIVE LEADER DINED.

Mr. R. L. Borden Talks of Sacrifices Involved in Party Leadership.

The dinner given by the Conservative members of Parliament and Senators in honor of Mr. R. L. Borden, the Opposition leader, took place in the Senate restaurant last night, and was both largely attended and enthusiastic. Lieut.-Col. Prior occupied the chair, and the vice chairs were filled by Messrs. W. H. Bennett and G. W. Ganong. In addition to the chief guest of the evening, Mr. J. P. Whitney, leader of the Ontario Opposition; Mr. E. J. Flynn, leader of the Quebec Opposition; Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Mr. Geo. E. Foster graced the proceedings by their presence. After the usual loyal toasts had been honored Hon. John Haggart proposed the Conservative party, with which the names of Messrs. Flynn and Whitney were coupled. Both of these gentlemen replied at length.

Mr. Borden's Speech.

The Chairman proposed the health of Mr. Borden. In reply Mr. Borden alluded to the hesitation with which he had accepted the leadership, owing to his inexperience in public life, and the fact that he had been preceded by men whose names were household words. When elected to the leadership he had promised to do his duty, and he had striven to carry out the promise. Party leadership involved sacrifices, but it brought compensations, too, including the realization that one was serving one's country. The Conservatives countenanced no race or creed or cry. Unity of all races and creeds was their motto, and if to-morrow they could attain power by raising the race or creed cry they would be false to the traditions of the party if they took advantage of it. The history of the Conservative party since 1878 was to be traced to the national and industrial development of the Dominion, and since it had been in Opposition the party had not departed one iota from the principles it had laid down when in office. As to the future there would be a development of policy, but no changes of a radical character. Questions had arisen with regard to trusts, and legislation might be required to check institutions of that kind. With respect to railway development the policy followed would be on the lines laid down from 1878 to 1896. He warmly eulogized Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster, and said they hoped soon to see the latter in the House again.

SKIN HOLDS THE FORT

Mr. MacRae's Investigation Finds Jake in Possession.

HISTORY OF INDIAN TROUBLE.

The Indian Department's Agent Interviewed Skin, Who Says Mr. MacRae Did Not Talk of Having Him Put Off the Island, But Told Him Not to Cut Trees.

Cornwall, Ont., May 2.—Mr. J. A. MacRae, of the Indian Department, left for Ottawa last night, after making a futile attempt to get the chiefs of the St. Regis and Cornwall Island reserves to remove Jake Skin from Colquhoun's Island.

The first thing to be done on his arrival here on Tuesday was to establish the fact that Skin was in possession of the property. This was done by Mr. B. W. Collison, a representative of the law firm of Leitch, Pringle & Cameron, being sent down to the island to procure this information. Mr. MacRae then proceeded to St. Regis and consulted the chiefs Tuesday afternoon. There was not a full meeting, but enough were present to convey the understanding that they were all of one mind, and were fully determined upon pursuing the course mapped out at Monday's pow-wow, that of maintaining possession of the land, and that they would not rescind their resolution passed at that meeting.

Mr. MacRae returned to Cornwall Tuesday evening, and visited the island in dispute yesterday morning, where he interviewed Skin, and advised him not to cut any of the trees down, but, according to Skin's story, did not talk of having him put off the island.

It is understood that the department will proceed under section 23, chapter 43, of the Indian Act, and arrest Skin. In an interview he ventured the information that Mr. MacRae was there during the morning, and that he had informed him that as soon as the soil was dry enough, he would plow up the land and put in his crop. He said Mr. MacRae had instructed him not to cut down any of the trees, and this he promised to obey.

About one year ago Skin was arrested upon a complaint laid by the executors of the Colquhoun estate, charging him with cutting down trees on the island. He was brought to Cornwall, and tried before the magistrate, but upon the assurance of the chiefs and Skin's own promise not to visit the island again, he was discharged. The estate agreed to pay the costs, as the defendant was not in a position to do so. Since that time the chiefs imagined they had won the suit, as the plaintiffs settled the costs, and this has partly imbued them with the idea that they could successfully hold the land in spite of the authorities. When asked if he intended to allow the owners of the summer cottages to dwell on the island during the coming season, Skin replied that he would do so, but they must settle with him, and not with the executors. Skin says he is very much pleased with his present quarters, and has no intention of vacating the island. The chiefs, he says, placed him in possession of the land with the assurance that they would stand by him in any trouble, and he did not anticipate any trouble from the authorities. His mind will no doubt be disabused of this idea before many days, and with what success the tribe will resist the law remains to be seen.

FOUR GATES CARRIED AWAY.

Welland Canal Damaged by Coal Laden Steamer Van Allan.

St. Catharines, May 2. — Between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday morning all four gates of Lock 6 on the new Welland Canal were carried away by the steamer Van Allan. She was bound down, and was heavily laden with coal for Toronto. On entering the lock the captain claims he signalled the engineer to reverse his engines: the engineer, on the contrary, claims his signal was to go ahead, which he did, carrying away the front gates, and the rush of water swept the foot gates out. The boat turned completely around like a top in the level below, but escaped serious damage. The Government have a large gang at work, and expect to resume locking in about three days.

Suspicious of Russia.

London, May 2.—"I fear that the Russian Minister of War, Gen. Kouropatkin has advanced a plan," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times, "for inducing Servia to conclude a secret military convention with Russia, which will give Russia a large measure of control over the Servian army, in return for certain political advantages accorded to Servia."

M. Pichon, French Minister to China, has presented the report of the Indemnity Committee of the powers. The amount fixed for China to pay is 1,365,000,000 francs ($273,000,000). The proportionate distribution of the amount among the powers is not mentioned.

The Pan-American Opened.

Buffalo, May 2.—The gates of the Pan-American were thrown open yesterday morning. No ceremonies marked the opening. All the exhibition buildings were open. President McKinley sent congratulations from Memphis, Tenn.

Catarrh

The best authorities say, is a disease of the blood.

Therefore local applications cannot cure.

Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy—Hood's Sarsaparilla.

By thoroughly purifying the blood, this great medicine reduces the inflammation of the mucous membrane and stops all catarrhal discharges of the nose, throat, stomach, bowels, bladder and generative organs.

Catarrh is especially dangerous in persons who inherit or have acquired a predisposition to consumption.

In these and all other catarrhal cases, Hood's Sarsaparilla so thoroughly renovates the blood and restores strength and vigor that it permanently cures.

In fact, because of the character of the disease, and the peculiar merit of the remedy, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the common-sense treatment for catarrh.

"I was a sufferer from nasal catarrh, gradually growing worse. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla which completely cured me of that troublesome disease." MAUD DOAN, 1615 Arrow Ave., Indianapolis, Ind. Be sure to get Algiers, May 2.—When M. Max Regis, the anti-Semite Mayor of Algiers, and his brother returned from the chemists, where they had the wounds, received Tuesday in a battle in a restaurant, with the editor of La Revanche du Peuple, and some of his friends, dressed, they re-entered the cafe, and renewed the disorders, wrecking the place. Thence they proceeded to the mayoralty, shouting as they went. At 11 o'clock last night order was restored. The authorities have taken severe measures to prevent a repetition of the disorders.

Consumptive Shot Himself.

St. John, N. B., May 2.—George E. Wilson, aged 25 years, a tinsmith, committed suicide by sending a revolver bullet through his brain. He fired three shots, but only one took effect. He had been married only a year, and lately had been ill with consumption, and unable to work. This made him despondent.

OUR FIRST NEWSPAPER.

Prospectus of the Upper Canada Gazette or American Oracle on April 18, 1793.

On Thursday, April 18, 1793, appeared at Newark, or Niagara, the first number of the first newspaper published in Upper Canada. As it was designed to fill the double roll of preserving a record of the acts of Government, while chronicling the events of the continent at large, it bore the double title of The Upper Canada Gazette, or American Oracle. It was, as Scadding describes it, a small-sized sheet of folio form, of about 15 by 9½ inches, from ordinary type on a rather coarse but stout and durable paper, by one Louis Roy, a skilled artisan engaged probably from Lower Canada, where printing had been introduced about thirty years previously. The editor's address to the public in the first number is interesting:

"The editor of this paper respectfully informs the public that the flattering prospect which he has of an extensive sale for his new undertaking has enabled him to augment the size originally proposed from a demi-quarto to a folio.

"The encouragement he has met will call forth every exertion he is master of, so as to render the paper useful, entertaining and instructive. He will be very happy in being favored with such communications as may contribute to the information of the public from those who shall be disposed to assist him, and in particular shall be highly flattered in becoming the vehicle of intelligence in this growing province of whatever may tend to its internal benefit and common advantage. In order to preserve the veracity of his paper, which will be the first object of his intention, it will be requisite that all transactions of a domestic nature, such as deaths, marriages, etc., be communicated under real signatures.

"The price of this Gazette will be three dollars per annum. All advertisements inserted in it, and not exceeding twelve lines, will pay 4s, Quebec currency, and for every additional line a proportionate price. Orders for letter-press printing will be executed with neatness, despatch and attention, and on the most reasonable terms."

An advertisement which appears in this initial number is also worth quoting. It announces that a brewery is about to be established, with the sanction of Governor Simcoe:

"Notice is hereby given that there will be a brewery erected here this summer, under the sanction of His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, and encouraged by some of the principal gentlemen of this place, and whosoever will sow barley and cultivate their land so that it will produce grain of a good quality, they may be certain of a market in the fall at one dollar a bushel on delivery.—W. Het, Niagara, 18th April, 1793."

Chairman Ellerman of the Leyland Line Issues a Circular.

TERMS OF THE TRANSACTION.

Mr. Morgan Will Get All of the Ordinary Shares, But Montreal and Antwerp Trade Will Be Excepted—Mediterranean, Portugal and Montreal Fleets to Be Bought Back.

London, May 1.—A circular was issued yesterday morning by Chairman Ellerman of the Leyland Line, in which he informs the shareholders that he has entered into a provisional contract with Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan for the sale of his entire holdings of ordinary shares in the steamship line, namely, 71,000 shares, at £14 10s per share for each £10 share, and that Mr. Morgan agrees to purchase on similar terms all ordinary shares offered before May 26.

All the principal ordinary shareholders, representing a great majority of the ordinary shares, according to the circular, have intimated to Mr. Ellerman that they will avail themselves of the offer of Mr. Morgan, and the effect will be that purchasers will become owners practically of all the ordinary shares, at a cost of upwards of £1,750,000.

Mr. Ellerman binds himself not to engage, directly or indirectly, in the North Atlantic trade, either with the United Kingdom or the continent, except between Antwerp and Montreal, for a term of fourteen years, on condition that the purchasers sell him the Mediterranean, the Portugal, and the Montreal fleets and the business connected therewith, at an agreed-on price.

Mr. Ellerman adds that he proposes to retain his entire holding in preference shares, amounting to over £180,000, and his co-directors will retain all their preference holdings, amounting to £120,000. Mr. Ellerman also offers to buy any preference shares at par, and their accrued interest.

A circular issued by the Secretary of the Leyland Line accompanies Mr. Ellerman's circular. It explains that the directors, including Mr. Ellerman, hold £886,680 out of £1,200,000 ordinary share capital, and £314,900 out of £1,415,000 preference capital. Several of the directors also control a large amount of other shares, and all the directors intend to vote in support of Mr. Ellerman's arrangement at all the meetings called in connection therewith.

The shipping combine absorbs the interest of the commercial world here. Though no definite information is yet obtainable, it is understood that the American Line management has also been in conference with Messrs. Morgan and Baker, with the idea either of joining or making a working arrangement. Liverpool shipping circles yesterday morning were seemingly ignorant of this phase. They predict sharp competition between the Morgan people and the American line.

Aside from the new combination there is general activity among the Atlantic steamship lines. The conferences will be held in the near future. The first will be held with the view to bringing the White Star and Cunard Lines into the continental pool. The second will be a conference of the purely continental lines, to fix a uniform steerage rate. It will be held in Paris this year.

It is said that overtures have been made to certain Manchester engineering firms for the purchase of their concerns by an American syndicate.

Drugging will not Cure Catarrh

Doctors say so. Victims of snuffs, ointments and tablets tell the same story. Catarrh is a germ disease. The germs excite disease in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes. Germs are hard to get at, but destroy them and you cure the disease. How can it be done? By carrying powerful medication with the air you breathe direct to the diseased parts. You must be sure, also, that the medication will kill the disease germs. Catarrhozone is guaranteed to do this, that's why it has created such a sensation in the medical world. You simply breathe Catarrhone; it destroys the germs—it heals—in a word it cures. Now you know everything about Catarrhozone, except what you can learn by using it. Catarrhozone never disappoints and is guaranteed to cure Catarrh. Price $1.00; Small size 25 cents, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Our P.M.G. and His Gold.

The Daily Chronicle says: "Lawyers are notoriously bad makers of their own wills, and Postmasters-General, who are always devising ways and means for the careful preservation and safe transit of other people's money, may be less successful in dealing with their own. This exordium has for its illustration an unlucky incident in the visit paid by Mr. Mulock to London on his way from Canada to Australia. He put a reserve of fifty sovereigns into a pocket one morning, did not draw upon them, and yet at night found them not. One theory is that a rather jolting hansom must have jostled them out of his pocket—in which case the next 'fare' must have reaped a golden harvest."

Scrofula is a bad thing to inherit or acquire, but there is this about it—Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cures even the worst cases.

Convincing Reasons
Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

PLAYED WITH POM-POMS.

Walter Weese was Seriously Injured as a Result—Seven Stitches.

A number of boys were engaged last evening in the manufacture of pom-poms, etc., at the north end of Reid street, and the sport closed with the usual result. A glass bottle had been filled with gunpowder, and a slow match, in the form of a piece of twisted paper, was inserted. The most valorous boy was selected to touch a lighted match to the paper, and Walter Weese undertook the dangerous task. He put the match to the paper and started to run, but was not quick enough, and a terrific explosion followed. Large pieces of flying glass took him in the fleshy part of his right arm, and an ugly hole was made necessitating Dr. Scott putting in seven stitches, which young Weese bore without wincing. The ends of his fingers were also slightly injured. He now carries his arm in a sling.

BAND CONCERT.

Don't forget the Band Concert in the Market Hall to-morrow night.

ABOUT OUR BAND.

A Letter From Mr. C. D. Barr, Registrar of Victoria County.

Several letters from Lindsay received by Peterborough friends have referred in the strongest terms of commendation and eulogy to the concert given by the 57th Regimental Band at Lindsay on Friday evening last. Among these letters is one that is worth publishing. It comes from Mr. C. D. Barr, County Registrar for Victoria. He writes to a friend here:—

Lindsay, 29th April, 1901.

My dear ——, Just a line to say that your band last night was a surprise and a delight; everyone was immensly pleased. The band, in fact, has captured the town. We did not anticipate anything so fine, and there is a general wish that they will come again in a month or so at some convenient time. They will not get a hall big enough to hold the audience that will want to go.

For instance, I know of many families where only one member attended, but now that one would take several, if only to hear the trombone solo.

We thought it was a band a little better than our own, and that's not much now. The leader, Mr. Gliddon, deserves the highest praise. He has perfect command of the band, and does not engage in pyrotechnical gesticulation.

Peterborough has very good reason to be proud of its splendid band. A fine band is one of the best means of educating and improving a town. It breaks up monotony and gives a change to many who have too much of what "The Philistine" calls "canned life."

Yours,

C. D. BARR.

THE DOG TAGS.

Owners of Dogs are Given Until Saturday to Procure Them.

This is the last day for the issuing of dog tags and at noon to-day there were only 825 issued. It will be seen that there are not yet half the number of tags issued that should be. Chief of Police Roszel has decided to wait until Saturday before beginning to prosecute the dog owners of the town who have not yet procured their tags. After that date, however, war will be waged against the offenders.

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

Miss Kate McGrath Remembered by the Shakspersean Circle.

Last evening the members of the Shakspersean Circle assembled at the residence of Mr. John McCabe, Bethune, street, for the purpose of spending a social evening as well as to recognize the valuable services rendered the organization by one of its members, Miss Kate McGrath. This young lady gave the Circle valuable services as a critic in English, and in many other ways proved herself an indefatigable worker. The result of her labours as critic was noticed in the recent highly successful presentation of the "Merchant of Venice" in the opera house.

During the evening Miss McGrath was presented with a handsomely bound volume of Shakspere and the following address, which was read by Miss Nellie McCabe:

Miss Kate McGrath,

Dear Friend:—We, the members of the Shakespearian Circle, desire to take advantage of this opportunity in order to extend to you our sincere thanks for the great interest you manifested in our organization. No words of ours can fittingly express our gratitude to you for the great pains you have taken during the past few weeks in assisting us in our study of the immortal Shakespeare's masterpiece "The Merchant of Venice". You freely gave us the benefits of your services, was a regular attendant at the different practices and at all times manifested the deepest interest in our welfare. Your scholarly talks and explanatory lectures on the drama under study proved a wonderful impetus and clearly demonstrated the fact that you were endowed with literary qualities of the highest order.

It must have been a source of pride and unbounded joy to you to witness the triumph you achieved on the occasion of the presentation of this drama in the opera house. We were delighted beyond measure over our success on this occasion, but we feel that a laurel wreath should also deck your brow. The many messages of congratulations we have been receiving should be ample proof that your labors on our behalf were not in vain. The fact that the presentation of the drama was a success in every particular is due in a great measure to your efforts as critic, and in recognition of your valuable and highly prized services and as a token of the high esteem in which you are held, we ask you to accept this volume of Shakespeare, and trust that you will long be spared to mingle with us as a member of our Circle.

Signed by the Circle.

Miss Nellie McCabe, Miss Fanny Holmes, Miss Ethel Primeau, John J. McCabe, T. J. Begley, George Lynch, T. Pakenham, Jas. Mulligan, A. F. Saunders, Angus McPherson, W. A. Jackson, M. E. Fitzsimmons, Edward Dillon, Jas. Fitzsimmons, Wm. Young, T. McGrath, Jos. Carey.

Miss McGrath, although taken by surprise, made a very graceful reply, in which she warmly thanked the circle for their kindness, although she felt that the success they achieved in the presentation of the "Merchant of Venice" was due in no way to her labours in their behalf. She would be pleased to assist them at all times.

A few hours were afterwards spent very enjoyably, and before departing votes of thanks were tendered the Misses McCabe for their kindness, Rev. Father F. J. O'Sullivan, of Grafton, the founder of the Circle, and all those who assisted the organization in any way.

The Secretary was instructed to thank St. Peter's T.A.S. for the use of their room since February 11th—the date of the first rehearsal of the "Merchant of Venice."

DROVE TO LAKEFIELD.

A Pleasant Evening Spent by a Number of Peterborough People.

Several bus loads of ladies and gentlemen drove out to Lakefield last evening accompanied by the Misses Hurley, and enjoyed several pleasant hours "tripping the light fantastic" at the Craig House. The large dining room is well suited for dancing, and was very handsomely decorated with bunting for the occasion. The entire hotel was placed at the disposal of the guests, and too much credit be given Mine Host Craig for the manner in which he catered to the comfort of those present, and the very tasty refreshments which were served during the evening.

BULL MARKET NIPPED THEM

THE WATER STREET EXCHANGE IS NOW CLOSED.

Messrs. McMillan & McArthur, Agents for F. L. Camp & Company—The Local Trade.

(Toronto Star.)

Buffalo, May 1.—F. L. Camp & Co., brokers of this city, with agencies throughout Western New York, Pennsylvania and Canada, this morning suspended operations. "Caught by the rise in the market," is the cause of the failure as explained by one of the members of the firm.

Camp & Co's Toronto agents are McMillan, McArthur & Co., 59 Victoria street. Their place of business was deserted at noon to-day and their doors were locked. Mr. McArthur was seen on the street by the Star, and said he had had nothing to do with the firm for several weeks past. His former partner, Mr. McMillan, had gone to Buffalo to see his principals. Mr. McArthur had no idea how the Camp Co. failure was going to affect the Toronto agents or their customers. He thought Mr. McMillan would settle up everything anyway.

"Camp & Co's won't be the only failure to follow the present wild bull market," declared another broker. "I have advised my customers to keep cool and to keep out, and that if they persist in coming in I won't be responsible for what happens."

McMillan & McArthur had a branch of their business in the Bank of Commerce building, Water street. They commenced operations here about 10 months ago and it is said that they have been doing a neat little business. Yesterday morning Mr. McTaggart, who has been in charge of the local exchange for the past ten months, received word from headquarters in Toronto of what was the matter and left Peterborough by the noon G.T.R., train for that city.

The failure of the firm, it is said, will effect the local customers, some of whom have invested pretty freely of late. The crash came as a great surprise to them all.

DISTRIBUTING SEED.

Peterborough Farmers Experimenting With Sugar Beets.

Mr. E. H. Shuttleworth, of Guelph, and Mr. Wm. Collins have returned from a trip through the various adjacent townships, where they have been distributing sugar-beet seed amongst the farmers in order that a test may be made to ascertain whether the soil of Peterborough County is suitable for the raising of this kind of roots.

The Lindsay Watchman-Warder states that only twenty-five samples of sugar-beet seed were distributed in Peterborough county, instead of fifty samples, on account of the lack of interest shown by the farmers. This statement is entirely incorrect, as the names of eighty-two farmers who wished to experiment with the seed were sent into the Department. As a matter of fact the Department decided that it would be better to distribute twenty-five samples from twelve different points rather than fifty samples at six points.

Mr. Shuttleworth remarked, this morning, on the fact that the sugar beet industry seemed to find great favour in the eyes of the farmers in this section of the country, and that all who were given samples seem most anxious to fulfil to the letter all the conditions required. The seed was distributed in the various townships in proportion to their population as follows: Smith 7, North Monaghan 4, Otonabee 7, Douro 2 and South Monaghan 5.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Mary S. Sucee and Mr. Chas. A. Stenton, Town.

A very pretty and interesting event took place last evening at 8 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. M. Sucee, 154 Rubidge street, when Miss Mary S. Sucee was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Chas. A. Stenton, of town. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. D. O. Crossley, pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist Church, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride looked charming in a dress of cream silk organdy with Valinsciene lace and ribbons, carrying a bouquet of white roses. She was assisted by Miss Clara Caldwell, Stirling, who was attired in blue and white organdy trimmed with Valinsciennes lace and ribbon and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Herbert Stenton, town.

The wedding march was played by Miss Addie Doris, town, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony, congratulations were extended to the young couple, after which an excellent supper was served to about forty guests.

The presents to the bride were both numerous and costly, many being received from a distance.

Mr. and Mrs. Stenton will take up their residence on Rubidge street.

REVERIES OF A BACHELOR.

What treasures dear of the days agone
Are these which I cherish now?
What loves they tell of the withered past,
Of many a careless vow!

A curling lock from a giddy head
That prisons a glint of gold;
It had a place in my heart until
The love in my heart grew cold.

A slipper—mold of her pretty foot,
A dainty affair of pink;
It tripped so light in the olden days
That lie behind, link by link.

The scarlet strand of a ribbon worn
And faded by passing time;
It glowed so warm at her snow white throat
When life was a joyous rhyme.

A kerchief daintily edged in lace,
A bit of a spotless thing;
What subtle sense of a dying love
Its delicate odors bring!

What treasures dear of the days agone
Are these which I cherish now!
What loves they tell of the withered past,
Of many a careless vow!

The Case of Jared Burton.

BY M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.

On the 14th day of September, 1867, Jared Burton, a single man of 30, living in a village in Iowa, started by railroad for a town 80 miles distant, and he has not returned to his home and relatives since. He was a man in more than comfortable circumstances, and his mother and sister lived with him. Boy and man, he had lived in the village for 20 years when he set out that day on a business matter. When several days had passed without his return or word from him, inquiries were made. He had arrived at the town all right, transacted his business and then taken a train on another road. It was thought he had gone away in the company of a stranger, but no one could be sure of this. After ten days and still no word he was advertised for, and detectives were employed to hunt him up. The search was not given up for three months, and then it was believed that he was dead.

A year had gone by and the mystery was still unsolved when one day Jared Burton returned—that is, he said he was Jared Burton, and the question of whether he was or not brings out this story. On leaving the train he met Squire Danforth and shook hands with him and asked after the mother and sister. Farther up the street he met a village merchant and shook hands and laughingly said that he had been east in search of a wife. He walked to his house, entered and called to the family and kissed mother and sister and apologized for having worried them as he had. He had the age, height, look and voice of Jared, and at first the women accepted him as such. The story he told was a queer one. He had gone to look at a lead mine with a view of buying, and during the short time he was left alone he had tumbled down an old shaft. He knew no more after that until he suddenly came to himself one day in a town in Kansas and found himself a tramp. The fall had produced concussion of the brain, and, though treated by doctors, he had lost his memory and his identity and only recovered his wits when a constable banged his head against a door in arresting him. He had told his story, found friends and been assisted to reach his home.

The story passed all right with the women for a day or two, but as it got around the village and was discussed pro and con they began to doubt. Of the five doctors in town four declared the thing impossible. Of the 1,500 inhabitants not more than ten were satisfied of the truth of the story. The matter spread until two or three counties were interested and a dozen newspapers were discussing it, and first and last a good many people had their say about it. The first idea, of course, was to test this Jared Burton's memory about the events of his life. It was a great point in his favor that he had recognized two or three citizens at the moment of his arrival and that later on he had met dozens of others and made no mistake except in one instance. He had seemed thoroughly familiar with the house and with certain business matters, and while he did not write as free a hand as formerly it passed for Jared's chirography. He had with him the key of his desk; he asked after certain clothing he had left; he casually recalled various incidents, and he had settled down as the long lost returned when he learned that his identity was questioned. He promptly demanded the fullest and closest investigation, and the doubters were ready to make it.

In his boyhood days Jared Burton had received a burn on the foot, leaving a bad scar. This man exhibited the scar. Jared Burton had been bitten on the calf of the leg by a dog. Here was the scar of the bite. He had once been near death by drowning. This man told of the incident. He had been in Chicago with his uncle for a week; he had fallen off the roof of a barn; he had been on a jury in a lawsuit; he had been robbed by a man on the highway. All these things were told over without a mistake, together with hundreds of other incidents. It was a public investigation, with everybody free to ask questions, and it lasted four days. There were still some who carped after it was closed, but there was a complete change of popular opinion, and Jared Burton was complimented on all sides. The mother and sister fully accepted him, and he settled down into his place unquestioned. Three months had gone by, and the talk and wonder had all died out when a blind man came along one day. He was known in various villages as "Old Hanson." He sang songs, told fortunes and performed tricks and was well liked. Standing on the public square with a crowd around him, he sang songs and then asked if Jared Burton was among the spectators. Jared stepped forward, and the old man took him by the hand. It was his boast that, having once heard a man's voice and shaken hands with him, he could forever after identify him by the feel of his palm.

"This is not Jared Burton!" he exclaimed as he let the hand fall.

"But it is," chorused a dozen voices.

"But I say it is not. It is not his hand. I never met this hand before."

"You will believe it is Jared Burton when I tell you so, won't you?" asked Jared.

"No. You cannot deceive me on the palm. You are a stranger to me."

There had been an investigation and an acquittal, but yet the blind man's words set people to thinking, especially as Jared himself seemed to be greatly put out. The whole question would have been reopened again but that he started off for Chicago next day on what he claimed was a matter of business. He had a close shave of it. He hadn't been gone two hours when a sheriff from a distant county came to arrest him as one of a gang of land stealers and counterfeiters. He was followed, but not overhauled. His real name was Charles Wright. As to what became of the true Jared Burton no one can say, but he doubtless met his death in some way through falling into the hands of the gang. He had papers with him, but how they got him to talk and give the incidents of his life cannot be understood. It was a curious thing that another man should so closely resemble him and should bear the same scars, but it was a fact not to be got over. The blind man and the sheriff declared the man to be a cheeky impostor, and the latter furnished plenty of proofs, but the question has not been settled yet and perhaps never will be. I passed a day in the village not long ago, and I found the people about evenly divided as to whether the true Jared had not actually returned and been driven off again.

Gutenberg's Achievement.

In The Century Augustine Birrell thus characterizes Gutenberg's epoch making invention:

The invention of movable types was the greatest distributive invention that ever was or probably ever can be made. It circulated knowledge among the children of men and plays much the same part in human life as does the transmission of force in the world of physics. It was marvelous how quickly thought was circulated even in the age of manuscripts. A book like St. Augustine's "City of God" was soon copied thousands of times and traveled all through Europe after a quicker fashion than most printed books can today reasonably hope to do, but St. Augustine occupied a unique position, and hand copying, though a great trade, employing thousands of scribes, could never have fed the new learning or kept alive the reformation. The age of Gutenberg was an age of ideas and demanded books, just as our day is a day of mechanics and demands cheap motion, telegraphy and telephones. Gutenberg's first printing office is marked by a tablet. Go and gaze upon it and think of the New York Herald, the London Times and the Bible for twopence.

The Horse He Bought.

Higgins is troubled with an overweening curiosity about other people's affairs. Occasionally he gets taken down, however.

He met Smithers in a car; he does not know Smithers very well, but he "me boy'd" him as if he were a missing friend.

"Busy, eh?" he inquired at once.

"Yes," said Smithers deliberately; "been looking after a horse for my wife."

"Have, eh? Well, let me look over him for you."

"Oh, I've bought him."

"Not without trying him? Was he sound?"

"He appeared to be."

"Doesn't shy?"

"No, certainly not."

"Good mouth?"

"Y-e-s, I think so."

"Good manners?"

But here Smithers arrived at his street. When the reached the door, he called back to Higgins:

"I neglected to mention the kind of horse my wife wanted. It was a clothieshorse."

JOBSON WAS OBEYED.

HIS REMARKS MADE A BIG CHANGE IN MRS. JOBSON.

But Even Then He Did Not Appear to Be Perfectly Satisfied and Had Something More to Say Regarding the Matter.

Mrs. Jobson had put in such a busy day at housekeeping that she hadn't time to dress before Mr. Jobson's arrival home the other evening. Mr. Jobson surveyed her disapprovingly as he hung his hat and overcoat on the rack.

"By the way," he inquired, scrutinizing her from head to foot, "what have you been doing, sifting ashes or plowing the back yard to put in a crop of winter wheat?"

"This is my housecleaning day," replied Mrs. Jobson, "and the clock is slow, so that I didn't have time to change my"—

"Oh, that's it, is it? You didn't have time."

"I was just about to go up stairs to dress for dinner when you came in, and"—

"That's all right what you were just about to do. The point is that I come in and find you looking like you'd been caught in a Jackson City dust storm. There's no reason why you shouldn't look attractive around the house all the time. What's the reason that that little Mrs. Questreet, who isn't so much behind you in the matter of years, always looks pinked up and diked out in frilly wrappers and things every time we happen to call there, and"—

"Not much behind me in the matter of years!" ejaculated Mrs. Jobson. "Mrs. Questreet is eight years older than I am, if she's a day! And we never happen to call upon her at a time of day when she's cleaning house, and, furthermore, she dings at Questreet so that he lets her have all the money she wants to shop, and those pretty wrappers that you're talking about"—

"If Questreet gives his wife any more money to buy these dinky things that make women look nice than I give you, then I'd just like to know it, that's all," interrupted Mr. Jobson. "If you haven't got house duds like Mrs. Questreet's, why don't you go and get 'em? What's more, there's no reason why you should do any work whatsoever around this house. Just you let the servant girl do the jumping up and gallivanting around when you want anything or I want anything and devote your time to keeping yourself looking neat and pleasing."

Mrs. Jobson didn't make any reply, but went up stairs and made herself ready for dinner.

When Mr. Jobson got home on the following afternoon, Mrs. Jobson, looking very splendiferous indeed, met him at the door. She wore a new and handsome baby blue tea gown, with a lot of cream colored lace scattered over it. Her hair looked as if it had been done up by a hairdresser. Her feet were incased in neat red morocco slippers, with gilt cord sewed on them.

"Well, what are you all rigged out that way for?" asked Mr. Jobson.

"Why, don't you remember what you said last evening?"

Mr. Jobson did remember all of a sudden, as she saw by his expression, and he didn't say anything more.

"How do you like my new tea gown?" inquired Mrs. Jobson cheerily, holding out the skirt in her hands. "I got it today for almost nothing—$34—at a sale."

"It's great," replied Mr. Jobson in a husky sort of tone.

"And I got half a dozen pairs of those lovely silk stockings, different colors, for only $2 a pair," went on Mrs. Jobson. "I am so fond of silk stockings for house wear, and I know how you like silk stockings."

"Like 'em? I love 'em!" gulped Mr. Jobson.

"I got these red slippers because you seemed to like Mrs. Questreet's pair, that are just like these, so much," continued Mrs. Jobson. "Do you like them?"

"They're orientally magnificent!" said Mr. Jobson in a weak sort of tone. "Now let's have dinner. I'm hungry."

Instead of tripping down the stairs, as she usually did, to superintend the placing of the dinner on the table, Mrs. Jobson walked over to the sitting room table and rang a brand new gong which she had purchased that day, while Mr. Jobson looked on wonderingly. The servant girl wheezed up the stairs half a moment later.

"Gertrude, you may serve dinner," said Mrs. Jobson, sinking back in an easy chair. Mr. Jobson blew his nose rather fiercely, but didn't say anything.

He wasn't particularly chipper during the meal, which Mrs. Jobson sat through without once getting up, as usual, to see about the coffee or the dessert or something or other, and she went right up stairs with Mr. Jobson when the dinner was finished.

"My slippers?" said Mr. Jobson, looking at Mrs. Jobson expectantly when they reached the sitting room. Mrs. Jobson smiled amiably and sounded the gong. The servant made her appearance presently. "Gertrude, Mr. Jobson's slippers—you'll find them beneath the bed in our sleeping room," said she. Mr. Jobson was about to say something when the girl had gone up stairs, but he scratched his head instead.

"Er—where's that long stemmed brier pipe of mine?" inquired Mr. Jobson after he had settled himself for reading. Mrs. Jobson, looking up from the magazine she had picked up, reached over and rang the gong again.

When the servant appeared again, grinning—for the girl was in the play—"Gertrude, you'll find Mr. Jobson's long stemmed pipe on the window sill up stairs," said she.

Mr. Jobson looked at Mrs. Jobson with open mouth, but apparently thought better of it and scratched his head again. Mrs. Jobson pulled her easy chair closer to the grate fire and leaned back luxuriously. About half an hour later Mr. Jobson said, throwing down his paper:

"Let's have a look at that account book of mine. I want to run up the figures."

Mrs. Jobson was just about to reach over to ring the gong again, when Mr. Jobson stopped her with a gesture.

"Just suppose you cut out this Empress Eugenie, queen of Sheba business," said he. "I don't know what this new game is called, but I know that I don't want to play it any more. You don't want to get haughty with me, Mrs. Jobson. This isn't the British legation of the Peking palace we are living in, you know, and we haven't got any more than 18,000 servants, and there's no particular sense in rubbing it in."—Washington Star.

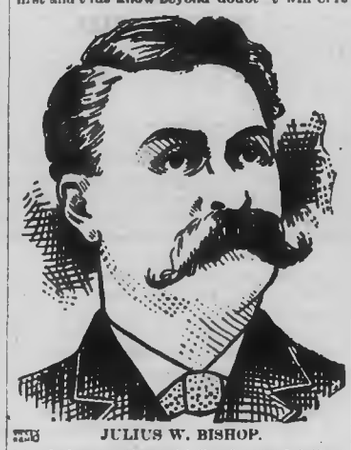
Free Rupture Cure

Wonderful Method Sent Free to all Who are Ruptured.

Home Cure Without Pain, Danger, Operation or Detention From the Day's Work.

It is certainly a generous offer of a famous specialist to send free by mail his method that cures rupture. It enables the sufferer to try it first and thus know beyond doubt it will cure him before parting with hard earned dollars. By merely sending your name and address to Dr. W. S. Rice, Dept. G. G., 75 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont., he will gladly send you the free trial at once without its costing you a cent. Julius W. Bishop, of Bishop's Crossing, P.Q., says:—"I am thankful to say that Dr. Rice's method cured me." Wm. Bigford, of Bishop Mills, Ont., says:—"It cured me permanently of bad rupture of many years." Hundreds of others have received the same marvellous cures and all unite in saying it is the most remarkable method ever discovered.



JULIUS W. BISHOP.

Do not fail to write at once for this free method and tell your ruptured friends about it or write for them.

For the convenience of ladies who wish to call personally there is a lady attendant thoroughly versed in applying the method to women.

YEARS A PRISONER.

A SUNDRIDGE FARMER CLOSELY CONFINED IN HIS OWN HOUSE.

Recently Liberated, He Hastens to Write an Open Letter Telling of His Years of Misery, and His Miraculous Release.

Sundridge, Ont., May 1., (Special.)—A case of prolonged torture has just come to light in Strong Township, a few miles from here.

It seems hard that an honest man should be kept a prisoner in his own home for over four years, and yet, that is just what happened to Mr. Wm. Doey, of Lot 19, Concession 13, Township of Strong. His family and friends all tried to secure his release, but in vain.

"For four years I suffered excruciating torture, during which time I was scarcely an hour free from pain.

"The trouble commenced in my back, where it often remained stationery for months, and so intense was the pain that I could not lie down to take rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair. The pain would then remove to other parts of my body, and when in my knees, I was unable to walk, and confined constantly to my room.

"I was treated for Rheumatism by several doctors, and also tried many medicines, without receiving any benefit. Almost in despair, I feared I would never again experience the pleasure of being free from pain.

"A short time ago, my attention was directed to some remarkable cures of Rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills, recorded in the public prints. I procured a box, and soon found that they were doing me good. I continued, and very soon I was a new man, and entirely free from pain.

"I have continued so for over six months, being able to attend to my daily duties on the farm, and feeling able for any kind of work.

"I verily believe this change, this remarkable cure, has been effected by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I think it my duty to make this statement public, for the benefit of anyone afflicted as I was."

This is the statement which Mr. Doey makes over his own signature, and one cannot help being struck by its sincerity. Everyone in this neighborhood knows that Mr. Doey was a cripple for years, and his miraculous restoration to health, has created a great deal of talk in and around Sundridge. Dodd's Kidney Pills are having a very large sale here.

Increase in Immigration.

The number of immigrants who have passed through the Dominion immigration agency in Montreal so far this season, is over two thousand, according to Mr. Hoolahan, the immigration agent in that city. This is more than twice the number who had gone through at the same date last year. Mr. Hoolahan also states that the travelers this year are of a better class than formerly. They are not only able to pay their own expenses, but most of them have a comfortable cash balance besides. There was not a single pauper among the number. The majority of the immigrants who have gone through so far this year were English.

THE NEW METROPOLITAN.

Right Rev. William Bennett Bond Who Has Just Been Elected Archbishop and Metropolitan.

Bishop Bond of Montreal has been selected by the house of bishops of the Church of England in Canada to succeed Archbishop Lewis as metropolitan. He will hereafter be known as lord archbishop of Montreal and metropolitan of Canada, having jurisdiction over the territory from the western limits of Ontario to the Atlantic Ocean.

Archbishop Lewis, who has been seriously ill at New York, but is recovering, will be permitted the courtest title of archbishop metropolitan while he lives, but it will not be officially employed.

The new metropolitan of Canada has been bishop of Montreal since 1878. He was born at Truro, England, in 1815, and emigrated from England to Newfoundland when he was 19. In 1840 he was ordained a deacon of the Anglican church and a priest one year later. His early ministry was spent in organizing mission stations in the Province of Quebec. His first important charge was that of St. George's, Montreal. He is president of the Montreal Theological College and one of the most scholarly divines in Canada.

DEAN FARRAR.

Churchman and Author Who Is Critically Ill in London.

Very Rev. Frederick W. Farrar, Dean of Canterbury, is ill, and his condition is critical. Prayer for his recovery was offered at the services in St. Paul's on recent Sundays.

Dean Farrar is now 70 years old. He was ordained deacon in 1854 by the Bishop of Salisbury and three years later was admitted into holy orders by the bishop of Ely. Until

DEAN FARRAR.

1871 he was one of the masters at Harrow, and for five years thereafter was head master of Marlborough College, a position he held with great distinction. Among his other offices was that of honorary chaplain to the Queen and chaplain in ordinary. In 1883 he was appointed archdeacon of Westminster, and in 1895 he was given his present office in the church. Dean Farrar has written voluminously upon religious and philosophical topics, but his fame will rest upon his "Life of Christ," which was published in 1874.

At this season the housekeeper must look specially after the baking powder.

As she cannot make good cake with bad eggs, no more can she make cake that is light, delicious and dainty with inferior baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable for the preparation of the finest food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., which expert bakers say is unobtainable by the use of any other leavening agent.

The "Royal Baker and Pastry Cook"—containing over 800 most practical and valuable cooking receipts—free to every patron. Send postal card with your full address.

There are cheap baking powders, made from alum, but they are exceedingly harmful to health. Their astringent and cauterising qualities add a dangerous element to food.

The day school was reopened last week, Mr. Bennet filling the vacancy of the former teacher, Mr. C. E. Sisson.

The North Dummer ball club expect to commence their weekly practice very soon.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY.

Report for April of the Y.W.C.A. Sunshine Society. Sewing meetings were held every Friday (except the last) in the month, which is the regular business meeting. Our members are increasing in number and interest. Twenty plants have been sent to the sick and have been much appreciated, judging from the acknowledgements read by the Secretary at the business meeting. Aprons, blouses, and a waist were given to needy families. Regular meetings have been discontinued for the present, but individual work will be continued, and persons knowing where flowers or plants would "scatter sunshine" will please make it known at the Y.W.C.A. the headquarters of the Society.

PREPARED FOR THE OPENING

Nearly Everything in Readiness for the Pan-American Exposition.

The Pan-American Exposition was thrown open to the public yesterday.

The Common Council of the City of Buffalo declared that day a civic holiday and the entire city turned out in recognition of this signal event which celebrates the Centennial of the founding of the city and which is the first great exposition to be devoted exclusively to the interests of Pan-America.

A new booklet, just issued for the Exposition, tells a very charming story of its history and creation and describes the beautiful city in which the festival has been developed and brought to completion. The booklet is embellished with many illustrations, including twelve coloured plates of Exposition buildings and views. These will be sent free to applicants by the Bureau of Publicity so long as the edition lasts. All the principal buildings of the Exposition have been completed for some time. The installation of exhibits began many weeks ago, and there is every reason to expect that the Exposition will have a sand-paper finish by this time—a remarkable achievement, indeed, considering the unfavourable weather and the history of other expositions in this regard. Some of the afterthoughts, such as State buildings, will not be done until about May 20, which is to be Dedication Day.

Everyone who has visited the grounds of the Pan-American Exposition during the last few months has been astonished beyond expression upon beholding the magnitude and the exceptional beauty and novelty of the enterprise. It is very much larger than people generally have supposed, and it is apparent that the $10,000,000, which is the approximate cost of the Exposition as a whole, has been expended most wisely and with the happiest results. The particular novelty that is to be noted in this Exposition is discovered in the fact that in its exterior aspect it is a radical departure from former expositions. The buildings are arranged ubon a harmonious and well-developed plan, producing court settings and vistas of very charming character. The use of molded staff work and decorative sculpture upon the buildings and at all salient points within the courts, the liberal employment of hydraulic and fountain features, the floral and garden effects, the exquisite colourings of buildings and architectural ornaments, and the illumination of the whole with more than 300,000 electric lamps, combine to make a picture of unsurpassed loveliness. The musical features are also of great importance and interest. The exhibit divisions are very complete, and embrace the gamut of industrial, scientific and artistic activities of the people of the Western Hemisphere. The Midway, claimed to be the greatest in the world, has more than a mile of frontage. The restaurant features are perfect and the Exposition, so far as human ingenuity and the wise expenditure of money can accomplish such a work, is complete to the last detail.

Buffalo, too, is an ideal city for an exposition, having a summer climate that is tempered by the breezes from Lake Erie and, therefore, the most comfortable in which one many enjoy his summer outing. The people of the city have prepared themselves in a most ample way to entertain millions of guests during the Exposition. The private dwellings throughout the city have been thrown open to the public and, in view of the ample accommodations, very moderate rates will prevail so that every visitor may have such accommodations as he is willing to pay for. He may have the palatial quarters of the fine hotels, or the quiet restfulness of a pleasant home. The average rate for accommodations near the Exposition grounds, is about $1.00 per night for lodging with 25c to 50c added for breakfast, it being expected that guests will take their other meals upon the Exposition grounds. A number of responsible companies have organized to find accommodations for visitors at any price they may desire to pay. The offices of these companies are centrally located and this system of management promises to bring very satisfactory results to all concerned.

WEDDING BELLS.

A very quiet but interesting event took place at the home of Mr. Francis Frankish, Douro, on 10th of April, when his youngest daughter, Maggie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Jacob Henry Payne, of Lakefield and one of Dummer's most popular and prosperous young men. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Fusee, of Warsaw, in the presence of only the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Lillie, while the groom was ably supported by his brother Robert. The presents to the bride were numerous and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which she was held. Mr. and Mrs. Payne will take up their residence on the homestead in Dummer. They have the best wishes of a large circle of friends who join in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Catarrh.

Called an American disease, is cured by an American medicine, originated and prepared in the most catarrhal of American countries.

That medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It cures radically and permanently, in that it removes the cause, cleansing the blood of scrofulous and all other impurities. It overcomes all the effects of catarrh, too, and builds up the whole system.

CHINA UNABLE TO PAY

The Indemnity Demanded Too Large For the Revenue.

INDEMNITY IS $265,000,000.

Report of the Indemnity Committee Presented to the Ministers—It Was Very Voluminous—Sir Robert Hart Offers Suggestions—Claimed That China Cannot Pay Without Outside Assistance.

Pekin, May 1.—At the meeting of the Ministers this morning the report of the Indemnity Committee was read. Regarding the resources of China, the report was very voluminous. It was practically a repetition of Jameson's well-known pamphlet upon the subject. Sir Robert Hart offered suggestions similar to those already credited to him. It is claimed that the revenues from all available sources will not allow China to pay the indemnity unless assistance is rendered.

Officially Confirmed.

Berlin, May 3.—The statement that the total indemnity to be demanded of China amounts to $265,000,000 has been officially confirmed here. This amount includes all private claims. It is believed here that if China will now undertake to pay this sum in indemnities the evacuation of Pe-Chili Province can begin immediately.

A Bloody Battle Reported.

Berlin, May 3.—A despatch from Pekin, dated May 1, to The Kolnische-Zeitung, says that a bloody battle has occurred between the Russians and the Chinese near Mukden. The Russians lost 60 in killed and wounded. Four Russian officers were killed, and among the wounded was Gen. Zerpitzki.

THE PAARDEBERG HEROES.

Canadians Get Great Praise From Gen. Colville in His Belated Despatch Now Made Public.

London, May 3.—Gen. Colville's mislaid report of the memorable fight at Paardeberg was issued yesterday.

It gives great praise to the Canadians, who figured so conspicuously in this engagement, which brought about the surrender of Cronje.

In referring to the assault on Feb. 27, 1900, by 240 men of the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry under Lieut.-Col. Buchan, C. M. G., the general says: "So well did they and 330 men of the Royal Engineers do their work that before daylight the enemy's advanced positions were completely commanded. Only thoroughly well disciplined troops could have successfully kept such orderly formation in the march in the darkness. The coolness displayed in the front rank of the Canadians was admirable."

STRIKES AND STRIKERS.

Freight Handlers Strike on Two Eastern Railways—Conference With the Men by Another.

Murcia, Spain, May 3.—A thousand men are out on strike at the Aguilas mines. The company has refused the men's proposals, and there has been serious disturbances. Some of the miners fired on the police guarding the property, and the Gendarmes charged the crowd, killing one man and wounding several others.

Freight Handlers Strike.

Springfield, Mass., May 3.—All the union freight handlers employed by the Hartford division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, and all but two or three of those employed by the Boston and Maine Railroad in this city, went out on strike yesterday for higher wages.

The officials of the Boston and Albany Railroad have agreed to hold a conference with the men in Boston to-day, and the men employed on that road continued at work, pending the outcome of the conference.

The Engineers Strike.

Cleveland, May 3.—J. C. Gilchrist, credited with being the largest individual vessel owner on the lakes, yesterday reached a settlement with the striking marine engineers. The fleet under Mr. Gilchrist's control consists of 46 steamers, besides a number of barges. It is understood that he granted the full wage scale presented by the engineers.

THE COAL TAX DEBATE

The British Government Will Not Recede.

TALK OF GERMAN RETALIATION.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt's Severe Arraignment of the Government—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach in Replying Showed Coal Owners' Profits Last Year Were £30,000,000 More Than in 1897.

London, May 3.—There was a large attendance in the House of Commons yesterday in anticipation of the discussion of the new export tax on coal. The Government is standing firm and is taking strong precautions to secure a majority.

Lord Cranborne, the Foreign Under Secretary, in reply to a question, said rumors had reached the Government from various sources of the intention of Germany to increase the duties on steel and other goods. The Government was alive to the importance of such information, but in the absence of definite knowledge of Germany's intentions, the Ministry was unable to make any statement in reply to the member's suggestion of withdrawing free trade from Germany.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, replying to Mr. Chenning (Liberal), said £30,000,000 of the new loan had been alloted as follows:

To the Rothschilds, £1,000,000; J. S. Morgan and Company, £10,000,000, and the Bank of England, £9,000,000.

The Coal Tax Debate.

The full House and gallery had to wait until nearly 6 o'clock for the beginning of the coal tax debate. Sir William Vernon Harcourt (Liberal), led with a severe, almost violent arraignment of the Government. He said the tax would throw the coal trade into chaos and confusion. It recklessly disregarded existing contracts and was a most unbusiness-like way of dealing with the great trade. It was an extraordinary and vexatious piece of bungling. It was nonsense to say the foreigner would pay the tax, because he could not do without coal. But, the Government of Italy had answered by taking coal from America, instead of this country. The trade of France was equally divided between this country, Germany and Belgium.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, interrupting, said: "We are beating the others."

"Then go on beating them," said Sir William Vernon Harcourt; "why throw a shilling into the scale against this country?" Sir William contended that it was class legislation, and that the tax would ultimately come out of the miners' wages.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer admitted that the tax, like every tax, was an obstruction on trade. The real question was, could the export trade in coal bear the tax? It could. English coal was of so good a quality, there was much of it, and it could not be got in any other country, thus, to a large extent, it was free from competition.

The Chancellor submitted masses of statistics, which he summarized as showing 225,000,000 tons were mined in 1900, on which, after deducting £18,000,000 in wages more than in 1897, left the owners a net profit of £29,000,000 on a capital of £110,000,000. He had some difficulty in keeping his patience when deputations talked to him about the unprofitable conditions of trade. He had proposed the tax for merely one year, and it would be on those who were able to bear it.

As to the competition of the United States, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach said: "Last year the price of our coal at the port of export rose very much higher than the price of coal in the United States, but in spite of that our export of coal was 38,000,000 tons, or 3,500,000 tons more than the previous year. The United States export a little over 6,000,000 tons. If the United States could not compete when the price of coal was very high, it would be absolutely impossible for them to compete when the price of our coal was low."

Mr. John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, said the coal tax did not affect Ireland, and in that respect it was the beginning of a new era. On general principles, however, he urged Irish members to do everything possible in the efforts to defeat the budget.

The debate was adjourned to Monday next, when, according to the arrangements, a division will be taken.

THE CENSUS RETURNS.

The question now uppermost in the minds of many Canadians is, "How about the census—what is it going to show? Have we been standing still; has our population increased in proportion to our trade?" During the last few years we have run our trade up by leaps and bounds, and certain it is that our population has increased, but to what extent only the census will show. The period of commercial prosperity we have been enjoying has, to a large extent, done away with the idea of going to the States. Canadians are a home-loving, patriotic people, and if conditions are anyway nearly equal, they prefer to stay on their native soil, so that this drain on Canada's population being stemmed, it should assist in materially rolling up the census figures on the right side. But there are a thousand and one arguments that could be introduced, and after they had been threshed out one would be no nearer the figures of what the census will show than when he started. It may prove of interest to draw a few conclusions from a source which has been placed at our disposal within the past few days by the publication of the official Dominion blue book on the last general election, and by comparing the figures there set forth with the figures for the general election for 1891, the year in which the last Dominion census was taken. The total number of votes cast at the general election for 1891 was 724,701. number cast last November was 952,496, or an increase of 228,795. The following table will show the increase in the number of votes cast in the various provinces, and it will be noticed that the west has made tremendous gains, due, no doubt, to the emigration from Eastern Canada:

	1891.	1900.
Manitoba	18,500	41,780
N.W.T.	10,331	23,618
British Columbia	4 151	26,451
Ontario	380,943	426,083
Quebec	180,703	237,251
New Brunswick	54,622	68,340
Nova Scotia	60,194	107,896
P.E.I.	19,253	21,129
Total	723,701	952,496

It will be observed from a study of the figures of population and of qualified voters on the list that the ratio of voters in the total population of the country is not quite one in four. In some constituencies it runs as low as only one in six or seven, while in other constituencies it is as high as one in two. Taking one in four as a basis—it is as stated, a little more than that—the figures of votes cast in the election of 1891 and 1900 would indicate an increase in population of over 900,000. Such an increase, would, however, be much greater than in the two preceding decades. The figures for these decades were as follows, 1871 being the year of the first Dominion census:—

	No.	Inc.	P. ct. of Inc.
1871	3,683,624	.....	.....
1881	4,324,801	640,786	18.97
1891	4,833,249	508,429	11.76

The Winnipeg Free Press says there can be no question whatever but that the returns will show a great increase of population west of Lake Superior, and in this respect the record of votes cast in the two elections above referred to would strengthen the contention that they form a fair basis on which to calculate the probable result of the present census. In addition to this it must be remembered that the largest immigration in the history of Western Canada has taken place within the past few years, and that very few of the incoming thousands during these years have, as yet, qualified as voters. Looking at the matter from these standpoints we may reasonably hope to see a substantial gain in the population, and in any event there are either one or two deductions to be drawn from the great increase in the number of votes cast in the general election of 1900 as compared with the election of 1891. Either the population of Canada has greatly increased, or else the citizens of the country are taking a much more active interest and participation in the affairs of the nation. Either of these things would be matters for congratulation, and certain it is that the figures above quoted, taken from either standpoint, speak loudly for the future welfare of the dominion.

BELL TELEPHONE BILL.

Passed With One Amendment by Senate Banking and Commerce Committee.

Ottawa, May 2.—The Bell Telephone Company's bill to increase its capital stock from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 was before the Senate Banking and Commerce Committee yesterday morning. The chairman, Hon. George Drummond, asked if any agreement had been reached since the last meeting between the company and the representatives of the city of Toronto, and received a reply in the negative.

Senator Lougheed moved an amendment to the bill that carried. His amendment accepted the provisions for the repeal of the clause in the act of 1892, and compelling the company to supply new telephones to those that required them. With respect to rates, however, he moved to add this provision in place of the conditions sought to be imposed by Senator Miller: "Provided always that the said company shall be subject to any general act to be passed by the Parliament of Canada respecting rates to be charged by telephone companies in Canada, and the provision of any such act shall not be deemed to be in derogation of the powers or privileges of the said company, under its charter or otherwise, relating thereto."

The bill was reported as amended.

FORTY-SIX PEOPLE BURNED

Terrible Loss of Life Among Cotton Workers in India.

Bombay, May 1.—Thirty-five out of 42 persons, who were working at a cotton press at Amre Eli, on the Kattywar Peninsula, have been burned to death. The remainder were fatally burned.

A similar fire has occurred at Khamgaon, Province of Berar, resulting in the death of 11 persons.

A Toronto Man Crushed.

London, Ont., May 2.—William Keays, a C. P. R. inspector, met with a serious accident in the local yards yesterday morning. Keays was engaged at his work, but did not get out of the way of an engine soon enough, and was crushed between it and a baggage car, receiving severe injury to his chest, and also his right shoulder being badly bruised. Mr. Keays came to this city from Toronto, having been appointed to the position here, and had only commenced his duties yesterday morning.

MILITARY PENSIONS.

Hon. Dr. Borden's Bill Passed the House Unanimously.

THE LATE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

Bill Establishing Victoria Day in Canada Passed—Yukon Telegraph Line—Expenses of Some Employes Criticised—Railway and Canal Estimates—Work of the Commoners for a Day.

Ottawa, May 3.—The House yesterday afternoon adopted without a dissenting voice the resolution introduced by Dr. Borden, providing for pensions for the general staff, the officers and men of the permanent force, and the wives and children of officers. The only criticism offered to the measure was by way of suggesting that the measure be extended in its application, and that more generous treatment be given to the officers. The bill establishing the 24th of May as a public holiday, to be known as Victoria Day, was passed. In supply a number of items in the Public Works and Railways and Canals Departments were passed.

In reply to Mr. Monk, Sir Louis Davies stated that the Government had accepted the invitation to join in the inquiry in respect to St. Lawrence navigation, which was instituted last year by the Montreal shipping interests and which it is proposed to continue this year.

Mail Contracts.

House took up the postoffice bill in committee. The bill creates dead-letter offices at St. John, Hamilton, London, Vancouver and Dawson.

Clause 3 of the bill empowered the Postmaster-General to make mail contracts for eight instead of four years and was struck out.

The last clause of the bill creates a class of employes to be known as "train porters," whose duty it shall be to assist railway mail clerks in the handling of unusually heavy mails.

The bill was reported as amended, and stands for third reading.

"Victoria Day" a Fixture.

The House went into committee during the afternoon on the bill to make May 24 a permanent public holiday. Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the necessary amendments to the Incorporation Act and the Bills of Exchange Act to make May 24 "Victoria Day," as it would be known, a public and a bank holiday.

Mr. Rosamond inquired if it were intended that "Victoria Day" should, as a holiday, take the place of the birthday of the present sovereign.

Sir Wilfrid replied in the negative.

The bill was reported and stands for a third reading.

Pensions to the Forces.

In moving the resolution, Dr. Borden explained his permanent force pension system. It was the first adoption of the principle in Canada, he said. The act would only apply to the permanent force, not to the militia. Every other country had its permanent system, and he believed it to be a sound principle, of which the country would approve. There were special reasons for its adoption in Canada. Our permanent force was not simply the nucleus of an army, but a military school for the active militia, so it was important we should have and retain the best class of men attainable. There had been a great difficulty in getting good men, because of the poor pay and lack of pension provision.

First, as to the pensions to non-commissioned officers and men, it was the same as for the Mounted Police since 1889. At this moment the only charge to the country for the Northwest Mounted Police pension was $1,800 a year, although the number was about the same as the permenant force, and the pensions had practically been in force for 29 years. Nothing would be deducted from the men's pay. The pension to the force was most justifiable. At present the Militia Department was constantly being called upon to provide employment for members of the force who had retired. The pension system would be preferable. To become entitled to a pension a man would have to serve 20 years, or if, through disability, he left the force, he would be pensioned at the end of 15 years. The pension would amount to one-fiftieth of the pay for every year, up to a total of two-thirds. The pension officers would not cost the treasury a dollar.

At present every officer who retired received a gratuity equal to one-tenth of the pay for every year of service; so that if an officer receiving $2,000 a year were retired at the end of 20 years he would get two years' salary, or $4,000 in a lump sum. It was now proposed with this sum to purchase an annuity, and to provide sufficient in addition to make a decent pension. Five per cent. of the officers' salaries would be deducted. The amount, this year included, would, at 3½ per cent. per annum, in addition to the present gratuity, provide the officers' pensions mentioned in the bill without any charge upon the public revenue. The pension list in regard to officers' wives and children was taken from the royal warrant for pay, and this was the reason why the large deduction of 5 per cent. was made from pay to provide against any added charge on the country.

He moved the resolution.

The resolution was adopted in committee, and a bill founded upon it introduced and read a first time.

Canal Estimates.

Mr. Blair's estimates were first taken up in Committee of Supply. In the vote of $100,000 to deepen and widen the entrances of the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, Mr. Blair explained that it is intended to deepen the canal at the upper and lower entrances to twenty-two feet, the depth at the American entrances. This would cost $430,000.

On the small vote for the Trent Canal, Mr. Blair explained that it is not intended to ask Parliament this year for more than is required to complete the existing contracts. There were several reasons for this, one being that before the south part of it was completed the controversy between Port Hope and Trenton as to which was the best terminus would have to be settled.

Expenses of Employes.

This evening, in explanation of the item of $75,000 for public buildings in the Yukon, Mr. Tarte said the money was required to complete the court house and postoffice and to erect a Government House and residence for the Commissioner. The postoffice building was being erected by day labor, as the tenders which were received were much too high. Upon the item of $30,000 for the Quesnel - Atlin telegraph line, Mr. Geo. Taylor took exception to the employment by Mr. Charleson in the Yukon of Mr. Jos. Gobeil, who was formerly in the Public Works Department at Ottawa at $2 per day, and who was now receiving a salary of $2,100 per annum. An investigation of that gentleman's accounts, he said, revealed the fact that he had charged as preliminary expenses incurred before leaving Ottawa a suit of clothes at $25, another suit with knickerbockers at $20, a pair of knickerbockers at $7, and there was a Stetson hat, and gloves, too. Mr. Gobeil and Mr. Charleson traveled together and took a stateroom to Winnipeg. He supposed that the ordinary Pullman car was not good enough. Mr. Gobeil had also charged the expenses incurred in putting his furniture in store. Another employe of Mr. Charleson was, Mr. Taylor said, not content with charging items such as Mr. Gobeil, but also charged for getting his hair cut and his face shaved. He protested against the outrage upon the people in having their money squandered in this way.

Mr. Tarte expressed the opinion that Mr. Taylor had gone a little too far in his criticism. These men had gone into the wilderness to build a telegraph line, and, in accordance with the practice for many years, the department had allowed the superior officers to buy outfits which they required and which they would not have had to buy for their own use.

Mr. Taylor asked whether these men did not wear suits when in Ottawa.

Mr. Tarte replied that undoubtedly they had to wear clothing here, but he had seen some of the shirts these men bought, and he questioned whether Mr. Taylor would wear them or the rough clothing which had been purchased for use in the wilderness through which these men had to pass. The items to which Mr. Taylor referred were small, and did not amount to much in the aggregate, and would not, he thought, be sufficient to eat up the surplus. Mr. Taylor was scandalized because Mr. Gobeil had been given an increase of salary to go to the Yukon. When he left the Department of Public Works at Ottawa he was getting $900, and had been selected by Mr. Charleson for his fitness as a stenographer and typewriter and for his physical capabilities for the work.

Railways and Canals.

After some further discussion the item passed, and railway and canal estimates were taken up.

At 11 o'clock Mr. Haggart suggested that an adjournment be agreed to, but it was ultimately arranged that the items chargeable to Railways and Canals capital account should be disposed of before adjournment.

Having passed all the estimates from the Department of Railways and Canals, save one, the committee rose.

Mr. Fitzpatrick introduced a bill based upon the resolutions respecting the salaries of the Circuit Court Judges of Provincial courts, which was given first reading.

The House adjourned at 12.35 a. m.

Gaudaur Matches Towns.

Winnipeg, May 1.—Jake Gaudaur, the world's champion oarsman, cabled George Towns of London, Eng., the English champion, yesterday, accepting Towns' challenge to a race for The London Sportsman's Cup and the world's championship for £250 a side in August. Gaudaur agrees to allow Towns £50 for expenses, the race to be rowed at Rat Portage, near Winnipeg. As Gaudaur concedes everything asked for by Towns, a race for the championship is assured, unless Towns withdraws.

Convincing Reasons Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

LOOKED SUSPICIOUS.

Two Peculiar Looking Men Prowling Around in the Rear of Mr. Alex. Elliott's Residence.

Residents in the west end are chuckling over a little circumstance which occurred last evening when a couple of well known citizens living over on Park street narrowly escaped being arrested as burglars. They were going home after attending the meeting of the Victoria Day Committee, and in chatting over the prospects for lawn tennis in the West End, decided to take a look at the lot in the rear of Mr. Alex. Elliott's residence. After deciding as to its suitability for the purpose concerning which they were talking, the two separated and went to their respective domiciles. About two minutes later the police turned up, hot on their trail, a telephone message having been sent in to the Chief from Mr. Elliott's residence concerning the pair of suspicious looking characters prowling around in the rear of the house.

It would be unfair to publish the names of the two West Enders, who so nearly spent the night in the cells, but their initials are T. H. G. Deane and A. H. Stratton.

PETERBORO' BOYS IN DETROIT.

A Stray Leaf from a Letter from Doc. Crevier.

A newsy letter just received by a friend in town from Monsieur Crevier, the well-known "Vet" of Detroit, formerly of Peterborough, contains the following gossip budget of "personals" told in the "Doc's" own sporty way which will be read with interest:—

"Everybody of the Peterborough Colony doing well. C. H. Clementi doing fine. Wm. Lundy in good health; also Mr. Scrimger, of the old firm of Scott & Scrimger, egg dealers. Frank Whalen, old Pete Whalen's son, from Young's Point; Sandy Watson, son of old "Gipsy" Watson, lively as ever. Bob Lundy just left us this morning for Stony Lake—spent the winter here with Wm. Lundy. You know Johnny Hurley, who learned his business with Mr. Thos. Menzies, also well. Mortimer, who had a paper called the "Lumberman" in the Snowden Block, here too, middling well.

"How's this for news, old sport? Best respects to all the boys.

E. C. CREVIER."

KALITHUMPIAN KARNIVAL.

GROTESQUE FEATURES FOR 24TH OF MAY CELEBRATION.

Committee Doing Splendid Work—Peterborough to Have an Unprecedented Attraction

The General Committee in charge of the 24th of May celebration are reviving the old time hilarity of our citizens by their spirited work.

The attractive features scheduled for the event show that there has been no lack of activity on the part of the executive. A most encouraging feature of the work accomplished in the short time which has elapsed since the inaugural meeting last Thursday, is the hearty response to their request for private subscriptions for carrying out the programme for the day. The amount is swelling every day, and all apprehensions about providing the "sinews of war" have already been removed. Another very encouraging feature is the lively interest shown by business men, manufacturers and others in volunteering to equip advertising effects of their own for the parade. In the canvas for volunteers to take charge of the burlesque floats and man the various rigs in the procession, the "old-timers" are coming forward valiantly and new recruits are bubbling over with eager desire to tackle some part of the work.

It is fortunate that so many of the right men have been found for the right place for this event. Peterborough has given some bewilderingly fantastic celebration exhibitions in the past, and attracted thousands to town by their kalithumpian processions, and it isn't going to be said that the brains and brawn for such sport are played out. There's a stupendous spectacle on foot for the 24th of May, 1901, and if it doesn't utterly eclipse all past efforts in artistic and burlesque effects it will be because "Old Probs" was up against it.

Mr. Bamford, chairman of the General Committee, is filling the bill with the plodding industry of "little Bobs," and rallying around him are loyal helpers by the score. Mr. H. C. Winch, chairman of the Procession Committee, is brimful of proverbial enthusiasm; while his virile secretary, Mr. D. H. Burritt, has got a move on that inspires everybody else to hustle.

"A long pull, and a strong pull and a pull altogether," was the keynote of the adjourned meeting of the committee held last evening. The attendance was quite as large as at the first meeting, although the attraction in the Opera House induced quite a number of the active workers to withdraw before the meeting got well under way.

Mr. H. C. Winch, Chairman of the Procession Committee, occupied the chair. Secretary D. H. Burritt read a list of twenty burlesque floats which had already been slated for the procession, and which were estimated to contribute laughs enough for a hundred thousand visitors.

General Chairman Bamford gave a rousing report of the remarkable success which had attended the canvas for subscriptions. He also reported the names of over twenty-five of the business firms who had already volunteered to contribute special advertising vans for the trades' procession.

Mayor Denne, F. W. Miller, T. E. Bradburn, F. H. Dobbin, A. H. Webb, W. Mitchell, Thos. Rutherford, Chas. Stapleton, and J. S. Knapman addressed the meeting, giving practical suggestions and information regarding the programme and the best way of carrying it out. Experienced men volunteered to take charge of different features and pledged themselves to see that they were vigorously carried out. The Printing Committee comprised Mayor Denne and the chairmen of sub-committees; Messrs. W. Bamford, P. Campbell, H. C. Winch, and E. B. Edwards were instructed to proceed at once with the advertising. The meeting adjourned until Wednesday evening next, in the Council Chamber.

THE ASSAULT-AT-ARMS.

IN THE OPERA HOUSE LAST NIGHT.

A Large Audience and a Splendid Programme—Burlesque Hypnotism.

The assault-at-arms which took place in the opera house last night under the auspices of the Peterborough baseball club proved most successful. The affair was in the form of a regular smoker, differing perhaps only in name, although the programme contained several new features which were admirably put on and heartily appreciated by the audience. The attendance was large, and the various numbers were received with much enthusiasm.

Mr. R. A. W. Hay, the popular secretary of the local club, occupied the chair, and introduced the various numbers. The programme opened with a fencing bout between Sergt.-Major Brittain and Trooper Norman Bell. The contest was was quite an exciting one, and resulted in favour of Trooper Bell by 3 points to 4. This was followed by a vocal selection by Mr. H. O'Neil, for which he received an encore, and responded with "Drill, ye tarriers drill."

Mr. Sam Hoolihan's dancing was a splendid piece of work, and for which he was given hearty applause.

Mr. Harry Clarke, ever popular before a Peterborough audience with his trombone solos, rendered a Serenade very feelingly, and for an encore gave "The Palms." Mr. Will Dundass, in his flute solo, in which he rendered the regimental march of the 57th, made quite a hit, whilst the Canadian General Co's Quartette, sang "The Boys of the Old Brigade."

The second part of the programme opened with an exhibition gymnastic exercise by the Y.M.C.A. Physical Club. This was undoubtedly one of the best numbers on the programme, and it spoke volumes for the physical work of the association. The members of the club are Messrs. Ernie Payne, J. M. McLeod, Horace Ayres, Frank Trollope and Sandford Hall. They performed on the horizontal and parallel bars in a most creditable manner.

The bayonet bout between Sergeant Sturgeon and Sergeant Mulligan, resulted in favour of Sgt. Sturgeon by 8 points to 4. The manual exercise by Sgt.-Major Brittain was a novel feature and was eagerly watched by the young men present whose military enthusiasm is now at fever heat. Will Dundas performed with his illuminated baton swinging. The burlesque hypnotism was a great idea. Prof. Lynch Paulinemcewan acted his part to perfection, appearing in full dress and wearing a neat chin whisker. His subjects were costumed most ridiculously and performed in an intentionally foolish manner to the great enjoyment of the audience. They played baseball, sang minstrel songs, imagined they had rubber noses and tried in vain to put their thumbs into their mouths. Prof. Lynch Paulinemcewan's style was quite professional, and the performance was splendidly carried out.

Jack Daly, of Toronto, and Bill Lawless, of Ottawa, gave a four three-minute rounds boxing bout which was hot and furious while it lasted.

MONEY COMES BY BRAINS.

Mr. A. P. Choate, an old Peterborough Boy Acquires an Immense Fortune.

Brief but Eminently Successful Career of a Young Man Who Has Now Retired.

(Toronto World.)

After acquiring a fortune of $300,000 or more in a very few years, Mr. A.P. Choate, a well-known newspaper man in Toronto financial circles, has decided to take a rest. Mr. Choate has successfully followed the stock market and has, by intelligent methods, become the possessor of more than sufficient of this world's goods to enable him to take a long rest.

Arthur P. Choate was born in Peterboro' and is apparently about 33 years of age. Mr. W. Maclean M.P., brought him to The Toronto World staff about 11 years ago. From the World, while yet a young man he went to the Empire, and eventually became commercial editor of The Mail and Empire, which position he occupied until yesterday. It is his intention now to go abroad for a year or two.

It is understood by his friends that Mr. Choate has cleared up at least $300,000 in cash during the past few years. He has made his fortune by following the Wall-street market, largely on the bull side. For the past three or four years Mr. Choate has been considered one of the shrewdest speculators in Canada. He came particularly into prominence among local financial men when he made his first big pile on Louisville & Nashville stock, which he started to buy up around 40, and which is now quoted at 108½. He is understood to have made about $80,000 out of that stock alone, and with that money as capital he has consistently followed up the present bull movement which began Nov. 7 last year, the day after the election of President McKinley, and which now appears to be near culmination.

The whole of Mr. Choate's success is owing to the concentration of all his energies in the study of the legitimate and technical conditions of the market. For instance, before investing in a railway stock he would thoroughly investigate the financial position of the road, the condition of the roadbed, value of the rolling stock and data likely to affect the ultimate value of the issue. Then, again, he always kept thoroughly in touch with the conditions of the money market on both sides of the Atlantic. This, of course, is the most important of the technical conditions in order to know the market, and if a man is well informed on the stock he is speculating in, and at the same time is able to size up the turns in the money market before hand, he is a pretty sure winner. Recently, Mr. Choate made a lot of money in Union Pacific, and his friends say he cleaned up $20,000 profit in the last couple of weeks.

Another secret of Choate's success is that he apparently always knows when to let go, and to get out of any stock that he may be in quickly. As an instance of this, it may be cited that in the big bull market of April, '99, he was heavily long of B. R. T., getting out at 135 with, it is said, a profit of $60,000. That stock going back 3 or 4 points, Choate bought 2000 shares in again, looking for another quick turn. In the meantime, on a Saturday morning, rumors of the proposed Ford Franchise tax came out. The Toronto man spent the afternoon in wiring for information and studying up the probable effect of the measure. The opinion he formed led him to sell out his holding at the opening Monday morning, and he came out about flat. A couple of days after Governor Flower's death took place. R. B. T., being one of his specialties, tumbled down to 112 in the panic that followed. It will be remembered that during the same summer Brooklyn Rapid Transit broke to 63, and in that "black Monday" of December, '99 it fell to 49.

Mr. Choate comes of U. E. Loyalist stock, and is said to be distantaly related to Rufus Choate, the American Ambassador to Great Britain.

* * *

Mr. Choate will be remembered by many people in Peterborough, he having at one time been employed as reporter on the Review, where he gained his first newspaper experience. He came from Warsaw to Peterborough, and his father, Mr. Thomas George Choate, is at present a resident of the town. He lives at the National Hotel.

NEW STEAM YACHT.

Owned By Dr. H.A. Turner, of Millbrook—For Rice Lake Waters.

The fleet of steam yachts on the Rice Lake and Otonabee River waters will this year be increased by the addition of an elegant new craft, to be owned by Dr. H.A. Turner, of Millbrook. The doctor is a great lover of steam yachts and has determined to have one of his own, and for his own private use. The boat is being built at Millbrook by Mr. J. M. Hayes, well known to Peterborough boat builders. The design is said to be one of the most up-to-date patterns and when finished she will be one of the most handsome yachts on the lower waters. She is 36 feet long with a 7 foot beam, and white oak and cedar are being used in her construction. She will be cabined in, the cabin being of cherry and oak. For speed, steadiness and appearance, Dr. Turner's yacht promises to take second place to none other. She will be launched about the 1st of June on the Otonabee river and her headquarters will be at Mr. James Wedlock's.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

MATTHEWS CO., PORK PACKERS WILL LOCATE IN BELLEVILLE.

Factory Will Employ Sixty Men, and Buildings Cost $70,000.

(Belleville Intelligencer.)

The Messrs. Geo. Matthews Company, Limited, who now have factories in Hull and Peterborough, have been contemplating their work and building a new factory at either Brockville, Peterborough or Belleville.

Mr. W. F. Matthews, of Ottawa, Vice-President of the Company, and Mr. T. F. Matthews, Manager at Peterborough, were in Belleville on Monday last and secured options upon a considerable quantity of land lying immediately north of the G.T.R. tracks.

We are credibly informed that they have practically decided to locate their plant in this city, and Mr. Matthews, of Lindsay, President of the Company, together with the other two gentlemen, are expected here in the course of a few days to finally determine the matter.

The plant in Peterborough cost in the neighbourhood of $100,000 and has a capacity of 4,000 hogs per week, employing from 80 to 125 men.

The factory to be erected here will have a capacity of from 1,500 to 2,000 hogs per week, and cost from $60,000 to $70,000.

The main building, constructed of brick, will be about 168x84 ft., four stories high, including basement, besides this there will be the necessary pens, fuel houses, boilers, engine house, &c. The buildings will be constructed with a view to extending them in the future, as the trade may warrant. The work will go on immediately.

THE SUCKER SEASON.

The Boys Enjoying the Sport—Some Big Catches.

This is the sucker season and the small boy knows it quite well. Nor, in fact, is the small boy the only one who enjoys the sport of catching these fish, as a visit just now to the various dams along the river will show. It is quite a common sight at this season of the year to see a small boy, a young man, and in some cases an old man trodding with a huge string of fish of the sucker family.

A visitor at the locks just below the town, yesterday, witnessed a rather novel sight. The several piers and platforms to the south of the bridge were black with young men and boys netting suckers with the ordinary scoop net. All there was required was to drop the net into the water just south of one of the piers and pull up from twenty to fifty large suckers at a time. In the short space of time of an hour or so, Mr. Charlie Guy managed to scoop in three large bags of fish. Almost every person had a scoop net and the sensation of hauling up a half a net full of fish proved as great to the netters as it did amusing to the onlookers.

THE GENTIAN.

As one late wakened to the call of love,
Whose eager youth ran by nor yielded toll,
Withheld aloof beneath a cold control,
Disdaining heart and throning mind above;

Yet in midlife, at floodtide of success,
Lays power and honors down before her feet,
Compelled to mighty love by love as meet,
Unselfed, unswerving, final, measureless;

So wakes the gentian with November near
Nor answers aught to sweet June's fervid breath,
But as late love, with passion unto death,
Outlives the summer and the flaming year.

—Grace Richardson in Atlantic.

DICK HUYL

The Story of an Apache Boy.

The writer owes to Dick Huyl a debt not exactly of gratitude, as the story will demonstrate, which she, by writing his biography, seeks to discharge. Dick Huyl's history will never be written by me nor by any one else who knew him to adorn a Sunday school library. He was not that kind of boy. Dick was an Apache Indian, with all the characteristics of total depravity that the word Apache conveys or suggests. We were children together, Dick and I. We lived, fought and played together for two years in the same army post. On one memorable occasion Dick, instigated by the devil—for I firmly believe in the devil, if only for Apaches—dropped down the neck of my frock coat a live toad. It was the cause of my first fit of hysterics, and I determined if I ever grew old enough I would tell the whole world how bad a young Apache could be.

In 1872, if I remember rightly, General Crook had succeeded, after years of bloody war and the loss of hundreds of good men, in subduing most of the bands composing the Apache nation of New Mexico and Arizona. They had dwelt in the strongholds of mountain and desert, from which they frequently emerged to rob and murder all miners or emigrants that they could ambush, leaving nothing for the human mind to conceive of in the way of cruelty whenever a white man fell into their power.

At the reservation, although they were well fed and quite decently treated, it was necessary to watch them constantly, and large bodies of troops were detailed for that purpose. Nevertheless, scarcely a week passed but a small squad of Apaches, usually led by some attractive squaw, would slip quietly past the guards and escape through the darkness into their beloved cactus plains and mountain barrens. Roll call nearly every morning developed these absentees, and next day would come news of murder, rapine and horrors generally. A favorite Apache mode of disposing of the unsuspecting freighter, miner or emigrant whose camp they had succeeded in raiding was to tie the victim by the four limbs to stakes and then to build a fire on that portion of his body designated in the old fashioned almanacs as "virgo."

There seemed to be something particularly fascinating to the Apache temperament in this form of torture. Death being long in coming, it gave the squaws and papooses plenty of chance to invent small torments on the side, as it were. The women and children emigrants— But enough. Suffice it to say that the absolute hatred entertained by these Indians for the whites was fully reciprocated, especially by the soldiers. It was no easy matter to track and successfully follow the runaways through the cactus and mesquite thickets, over the barren deserts and desolate mountains that make up the topography of Arizona. But in that parched country water is only to be found at certain springs and water holes, between which days of travel often intervene, but which are equally well known to soldiers and to Indians.

So when the morning report showed to General Crook that so many warriors, squaws and papooses were missing the grim old warrior would make no sign of pursuit, but on the night following or perhaps the next one a squadron of mounted men would file silently out of the reservation bearing orders to move as rapidly as possible to the water hole of Palo Pinto or to Agua Grande spring or to some other place where the presence of the precious fluid favored a camping place for the renegades. The troops were always positively instructed to bring back no prisoners, all matters of detail being left to the officers in command. One June morning there were reported missing 8 Indians and 11 squaws and papooses, including Wahnemo, than whom a more depraved and cruel Indian never existed, even in Arizona.

Two nights afterward a squad of the Twenty-third infantry, Crook's own regiment, under Lieutenant Huyl, a splendid young fellow, who has since left the service, was sent out on a scout with the usual orders. No trace of the renegades was found, but a burned ranch and stage station and a cremated cowboy gave sufficient evidence of Indians at large. The next night, or rather just at dawn, after a long and fatiguing march, the scouts reached a natural rock basin at the foot of one of the steepest and most inaccessible knobs to be found in desolate Arizona. This basin had often collected a supply of acrid water, which, however, was drinkable enough in that country. A thin vapor of smoke from a nearly spent fire convinced the troopers that their night's march had not been in vain, and on creeping up as close as possible the hostiles were outlined against the rocks fast asleep.

The little squadron silently deployed out so as to avoid missing a single shot and at the word of command fired, killing nearly every one of the Indians. The others jumped up, only to be cut down by the reserve fire. The only two unhurt were Wahnemo and his 4-year-old papoose. Grasping the child, he sprang for the mountain side, scaling the rocks like a chamois amid a shower of bullets, soon distancing his pursuers and getting out of range of their rifles. Halting on a shelf of rock, he set the child down and proceeded to indulge in every exhibition of contempt and derision that his imagination could invent to aggravate the discomfited troopers, who gnashed their several sets of teeth in rage at the insults of the old heathen. They were relieved at last by the arrival of Lieutenant Huyl, who bore in his hand a new target rifle, received only the day before the scouts started.

This wonderful gun was guaranteed to carry—I forget—1,100 yards with accuracy, and the lieutenant, who was one of the best fellows in the world in garrison, but quite cold hearted and bloodthirsty where Apaches were concerned, announced that while he was doubtful of his gun carrying near the Indian, yet he was going to try. The Apache, feeling secure against their carbines, continued his taunts until Huyl, taking deliberate aim, with sights raised for 1,500 yards, fired. His aim was true and the gun all that it was boasted. The old savage plunged face forward over the ledge and crashed down the rocky mountain side at the very feet of his slayer.

The attention of the soldiers was now directed to the papoose, the subject of this sketch. That interesting infant still calmly occupied the ledge and was evidently turning the situation over in his mind. The troopers, with Lieutenant Huyl at their head, slowly and painfully clambered up the rocks and finally approached the orphan, who, instead of squalling as a civilized Christian child would have done, commenced throwing stones at his pursuers, hitting Lieutenant Huyl squarely on the nose with a half pound rock and drawing blood copiously. He followed this success by other good throws, causing as nearly a panic as possible. At last, by flanking him, our Apache was knocked down by a blow from a saber and stunned. His capture was now easy, but the lieutenant's orders were to return no prisoners.

"What shall we do with the little devil?" asked one of the men. "Shoot him or throw him over the cliff after his father?" The "little devil" had regained consciousness by this time and deliberately set his teeth into the calf of the soldier's leg. Lieutenant Huyl wiped his bloody nose and replied: "A baby who fights this way ought not to be killed in cold blood. By George, I'll take him back to San Carlos if it costs me my commission!"

A gag was put into the young one's mouth to prevent any more biting, and, with a soldier holding each hand, he was landed on the plain below. There he was placed on horseback, a lariat tied to one foot, passed under the horse and tied to the other, and thus the troopers returned to the reservation.

Lieutenant Huyl was a great favorite with General Crook, but he had disobeyed orders and confidently expected to be put under arrest. But the general had already heard something of the stone throwing affair and had enjoyed a hearty laugh over Huyl's broken nose. When the lieutenant in making his report reached the point where Wahnemo was killed, the general interrupted him with, "By the way, I think you had better not let me know officially any more of this scout than you have already told." Then glancing at the swollen nose he burst into a roar of laughter, in which all the other officers joined.

The young Indian was confined in the armory until his first fright was overcome. The soldiers of Company A named him Dick Huyl and, fitting him out with a uniform fashioned from the lieutenant's old clothes, regularly adopted him into the service.

In less than a month the small recruit learned to express himself tolerably in English and in a very short time had accumulated all the accomplishments of tobacco chewing and profanity possessed by the soldiers. He also picked up a wonderful knowledge of bugle calls and evolutions, always turning out at roll calls and taking his place at the extreme left of the company when in line.

When I first knew him, he had been under the refining influences of the United States service two years. If that Indian had improved in that time, I am very glad I did not know him before. He was not beautiful according to classic standards.

The Apaches flatten the heads of their babies between boards, and this, as much as anything else, served to render Dick unattractive to us children. Then he had such a predilection for carrying snakes in his pocket! The soldiers spoiled him, of course, and upheld him in every villainy he chose to perpetrate. When he shot the mules in an ambulance filled with women and children, causing a runaway and a smash up, one soldier thrashed him with a barrel stave and a dozen more gave him 5 cent pieces to comfort him. They alternately pounded and petted, but it was all one to him. He seldom laughed and never cried. He was an Apache.

I said he never cried. I will note an exception. Every Saturday afternoon the men took him out behind the quarters and gave him a bath. This process was very simple. They stripped off his clothing and turned the hose on him. On these occasions the shrieks of the little savage could be heard all over the post.

I have not seen Dick since I was 9 years old, but I like to think that he grew up and regularly enlisted in the old regiment and is now an honor to the service.—New York Tribune.

Song of the Wandering Cavalier.

I.

My Love,
Why dost thou weep?
Yon pensive cloud, whose wind-kissed breast
Heaves ever slowly, feigning rest,
Will bear thee ere the morrow's beams
Dissolve in sleep.
A sigh from me to gild thy dreams,
Why dost thou weep?

II.

My Fair,
Why dost thou weep?
Yon hooded mount, a white friar old,
Stands 'twixt up twain, serenely cold,
Yet there our lovers' glances may
Their trysting keep,
Though each from each in far away.
Why dost thou weep?

III.

My Sweet,
Why dost thou weep?
Above a north-bound swallow steers
Her graceful flight from bright Algiers,
And when she passeth over thee,
Ah, then(think deep,
Remember she hath passed over me,
Why dost thou weep?

THE TILLER OF THE SOIL.

When afflicted with disease, the farmer, perhaps more than any other artisan, is obliged to suffer acutely, simply from the fact that relief is inconvenient. At the same time a man might live in a block surrounded by medical practitioners, and then obtain little or no relief from rheumatism, once the disease permeates the blood. It is the discovery of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure that then proves a boon to the rheumatic sufferer. Mr. John Connell, Bedford Mills, Ont., had a bad attack of rheumatism from April till June, two years ago. He was so bad that he could not put his foot on the ground. He saw Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure advertised in the papers, bought two bottles and used them both. This so relieved him that he was able to walk around, and after using four bottles he was perfectly cured, and has not been troubled with rheumatism since.

SEARCHING FOR A BOY

ARCHIE'S DISAPPEARANCE CAUSED QUITE A COMMOTION.

Everybody at the Family Reunion Joined In the Hunt, and For a Time There Was Great Excitement at the Rankin Home.

Archibald had been distinctly naughty all the morning. As Mrs. Rankin, his mother, explained to Cousin Martha, there were some days when the young one just got a mean streak, and then there was no doing the first living thing with him. This, apparently, was one of those days.

There was a sort of family reunion at the Rankin homestead, which made it all the more aggravating. Pa and Ma Conklin were there, and Uncle Alonzo and his family and Bert and Minnie Beebe, as well as Cousin Martha, and the dinner was to be according. When you have a dinner for 11 to get up and the girl you have can't be trusted to boil water without burning it, you may be excused for becoming somewhat flustrated. Mrs. Rankin owned herself to be in that condition. She told Archibald that if he didn't behave himself and if she heard another word out of him she would paddle him good. She said it as if she meant it, and Archibald believed it. At this Uncle 'Lonzo felt in his coattail pocket and produced something like a wooden trumpet, which he said was a bubble blower.

"I should have thought that you would know better than to give him a thing like that," said Mrs. Rankin. "He'll want to blow bubbles now, and I just won't have him in the kitchen under my feet."

"Let him blow them in here," suggested Cousin Martha.

"And then have him slopping suds all over the carpet?"

"He won't do that," said Uncle Alonzo. "He'll be careful. Won't you, Archibald?"

"No," answered the boy, who had no notion of committing himself.

The end of it was that he had a bowl of soapsuds, which he was cautioned under penalty of skinning not to spill, and he became so quiet that for the next half hour he was almost forgotten. Then he tried to climb on to the chair on which the bowl had been placed in order to give the bubbles a longer descent. That overturned the soapsuds on the carpet. Nobody was looking at the time, and, being a bright child for his age, 3 years, he concluded that it was a good time for disappearing and forthwith disappeared.

Presently somebody inquired, "Where's Archibald?" But there was no immediate uneasiness. Half an hour later, however, the inquiry was repeated, and then Cousin Martha began a search. She went up stairs and called, and she went into the kitchen and outdoors to the barn, but no Archibald responded to her falsetto. When she came back to the kitchen, where Mrs. Rankin was concocting a "floating island," she looked worried.

"Where do you suppose that young one can have got to?" she asked of his mother.

"Why, isn't he in the sitting room?"

"No, and nobody has seen anything of him for an hour."

Mrs. Rankin laid down the fork with which she was beating eggs and, with a hasty direction to Hilda to look after things, hurried into the sitting room. The inverted bowl that had held the soapsuds was on the floor, but no other trace of the child. Mrs. Rankin, followed by Cousin Martha, next went to the back of the house, where the stone foundation had fallen down, and stooping shouted into the darkness that Archibald had better come out of that if he knew what was good for him.

No response.

Uncle Alonzo now came up and was dispatched to the haymow, and Rufus, the long legged, gangling hired man, was sent to the chicken house. Just then Ma Conklin ran up at a surprising pace for a woman of her age and informed them, with a great deal of agitation, that there was a board off the cistern.

"Oh!" exclaimed Mrs. Rankin and pressed her hand to her side. For one moment she looked as if she would fall, and Cousin Martha put her arm around her. The next minute she was running toward the cistern, screaming as she went. When she got there, she began frantically to tear the covering boards away, and Rufus and Uncle Alonzo ran up just in time to prevent her from jumping in. Rufus ran back to the barn for a rope, and the rest crowded around the cistern and peered down.

Rufus now came up with a length of rope, and the men lowered him down into the cistern so hurriedly that he splashed into the water and disappeared. He rose gasping and told them to pull on the rope a little, as he could touch bottom and keep his mouth clear by holding the rope. They hauled taut and then fastened the rope to a board laid across the mouth of the cistern, and the hired man began working to and fro, feeling with his feet.

"I don't think that he's here," came hollowly from below.

"Thank God!" ejaculated Uncle Alonzo.

"Are you sure?" called Pa Conklin tremulously.

"Wait a minute. I've— Ah, here he is!"

The men groaned, and Mrs. Rankin fell unconscious into Cousin Martha's arms. At the same moment a window in the second story of the house was thrown open, and Hilda, the hired girl, leaned out and screamed to them.

"He's here!" she cried. "I've found him. He was in my room, down behind a trunk, hiding. He said that he had spilled the suds an his maw was going to lick him. Here he is!"

There was a rush to the house, and in another moment the cause of the trouble was being hugged and kissed and shaken and scolded and blessed as he never was before in the whole course of his existence. He was howling his disapprobation when his mother revived, and then he had cause to howl, for in the joy of her heart she took him across her knee and spanked him vigorously.

At last—in the course of an hour, perhaps—quiet and order were restored, and Mrs. Rankin, between smiles and tears, with the restored Archibald pressed close to her matronly bosom, said she guessed their dinner was spoiled now sure enough.

"Don't worry about that, my dear," said Ma Conklin; "just think how much worse it might ha' bin."

"By the way," said Uncle Alonzo, "what's come of Rufus?"

They all looked at each other blankly until Pa Conklin voiced the general thought. "I guess," he said, starting up, "that Rufus is up to his chin in the cistern waitin for some of us to come an pull him out."—Chicago Record.

EMPHATIC PROOF

IN FAVOR OF DOAN'S PILLS AS A CURE FOR KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

SUSSEX, N.B., March 10th, 1899.

THE DOAN KIDNEY PILL CO.,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sirs,—Some time ago I was troubled with Kidney Complaint which was almost unendurable.

I was so bad that I was laid up in bed for four months.

I tried several doctors but they would only help me for a very short time and the trouble would come back and be as bad as ever.

I heard Doan's Pills well spoken of and procured a box determining to give them a fair trial, and by the time I had taken them I was completely cured.

I can faithfully recommend them to all suffering from kidney troubles.

Yours truly,
GEORGE GADSOE.

YEARS A PRISONER.

A SUNDRIDGE FARMER CLOSELY CONFINED IN HIS OWN HOUSE.

Recently Liberated, He Hastens to Write an Open Letter Telling of His Years of Misery, and His Miraculous Release.

Sundridge, Ont., May 1., (Special.)—A case of prolonged torture has just come to light in Strong Township, a few miles from here.

It seems hard that an honest man should be kept a prisoner in his own home for over four years, and yet, that is just what happened to Mr. Wm. Doey, of Lot 19, Concession 13, Township of Strong. His family and friends all tried to secure his release, but in vain.

"For four years I suffered excruciating torture, during which time I was scarcely an hour free from pain.

"The trouble commenced in my back, where it often remained stationery for months, and so intense was the pain that I could not lie down to take rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair. The pain would then remove to other parts of my body, and when in my knees, I was unable to walk, and confined constantly to my room.

"I was treated for Rheumatism by several doctors, and also tried many medicines, without receiving any benefit. Almost in despair, I feared I would never again experience the pleasure of being free from pain.

"A short time ago, my attention was directed to some remarkable cures of Rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills, recorded in the public prints. I procured a box, and soon found that they were doing me good. I continued, and very soon I was a new man, and entirely free from pain.

"I have continued so for over six months being able to attend to my daily duties on the farm, and feeling able for any kind of work.

"I verily believe this change, this remarkable cure, has been effected by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I think it my duty to make this statement public, for the benefit of anyone afflicted as I was."

This is the statement which Mr. Doey makes over his own signature, and one cannot help being struck by its sincerity. Everyone in this neighborhood knows that Mr. Doey was a cripple for years, and his miraculous restoration to health, has created a great deal of talk in and around Sundridge. Dodd's Kidney Pills are having a very large sale here.

Made Sure of the Pie.

A young girl who carried her dinner was observed to eat her pie first. When asked why, she replied, "Well, if there's anything left it won't be the pie. will it now?"

The typical Moro is never unarmed. He fights equally well on foot, on horseback, in his fleet war canoe or in the water, for he swims like a fish and dives like a penguin.

Before the discovery of sugar drinks were sweetened with honey.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

The Dyspeptic Cannibal.

A cannibal was seated on a green Pacific isle,
With the temperature at ninety-nine degrees;
His dress was rather scanty, in a truly savage style—
Just a pair of Boston garters round his knees.

But he didn't seem quite happy, for now and then a groan
Escaped, which tore his savage breast in two,
And he chanted in a melancholy, meditative tone
The ditty that I now repeat to you:

"I've eaten hostile tribesmen without a single question,
I've feasted on the yellow, black and brown,
But I never have encountered such a fit of indigestion
As accompanied the minister from town.

"I have tried the Uambago, boiled and roasted, baked and fried;
I have chewed the woolly Oolah stuffed with yam,
But for all the after symptoms from the dishes I have tried
I wouldn't give a Bamoalloosjam.

"But I caught this missionary calmly strolling on the main;
Cooked and served him dressed exactly comme il faut,
But a feeling deep within me makes it disagreeably plain
That the missionary surely is de trop.

"I have eaten hostile tribesmen with the greatest of urbanity;
I have feasted on the yellow, black and brown,
But to eat a missionary was the acme of insanity;
You can't keep a good man down."

Quite Indispensable.

Towne—I've seen Gaxley several nights recently with his fieldglasses. I wonder what his game is.

Browne—Oh, he's calling on Miss Kulcher of Boston.

Towne—The idea! What does he carry fieldglasses for?

Browne—He doesn't. He merely uses the case to carry a dictionary in.

Mysteries.

The wise man gazed out into space
And said in measured tones and slow:
"There are some thoughts we cannot trace;
There are some things we may not know.

"We may not know what holds the life
Within the blossom bearing seed
Nor why some people use the knife
When they have gathered round to feed.

"We may not know what sets the glow
In stars that gem the midnight sky
Nor what the merchant folk bestow
In half the things to eat we buy.

"We know not how fate will befall
And bear us low or to the top
Nor (deepest mystery of all)
Just where the car is going to stop."

Tales of Woe.

Newitt—That's Borroughs. He's quite an adept in the art of constructing short stories.

Ascum—He doesn't look like a literary man.

Newitt—He isn't. You misunderstood me. He can tell you he's broke in more different ways than any other man I ever met.

The Reason Why.

It is most sad so many get
The dollar chasing habit
And never, in pursuing, let
A chance go by to grab it.

The reason is not hard to find
Why we should ever race it;
It goes so fast we get behind
And simply have to chase it.

A Logician.

"Little boy," said the kindly old gentleman, "you must not cry. You know it is a waste of time to cry."

And the little boy, who is from Boston, dried his tears long enough to remark:

"And it is also a waste of time to tell anybody it is a waste of time to cry."

Another Escape For the Czar.

The czar jumped forty-seven feet
And thrice turned in the air
And fell behind the kitchen stove
And lay and trembled there!
Yet, truth to tell, no anarchist
Had basely tried to hatch
A plot against the monarch's life;
The cook had struck a match.

She Was Never Forgiven.

Miss Sedeleaf—When I broke through the ice, I was not under water more than half a minute, but my whole life passed before me.

Miss Mildwood—Think of it! Why, that was at the rate of over a year a second.

Earned Her Reward.

A new servant maid named Maria
Had trouble in lighting the fire.
The wood it was green,
So she used gasoline,
And she's gone where the fuel is drier.

An Ounce of Prevention, Etc.

Wife—Why, Charles, what do you mean by burning our old love letters?

Husband—I have been reading them, my dear. After I die some one who wished to dispute my will might get hold of them and use them to prove I was insane.

By Mr. Youngfather.

Rouse the neighbors, one and all;
Go shout it on the street, forsooth!
Sound the cymbals, hire a hall,
For baby's cut a brand new tooth

Hardly Seems Possible.

"I never saw a woman with such an air of supreme indifference."

"In what way have you noticed it?"

"Why, she never even looks after another woman to see how her dress hangs."

CHASE & SANBORN,

MONTREAL AND BOSTON.

FAMILIAR TOWN NAMES.

Terminology of a Few of Them Gathered Here.

(Vancouver Province.)

Many of our towns have adopted topical names, or have had such forced upon them by a generous and observant public. Most of these require no explanation. A few of the cities and towns with their supplementary titles are as follows;

Toronto—The Queen City.
Ottawa—The Capital City.
Hamilton—The Ambitious City.
London—The Forest City.
Kingston—The Limestone City.
Brantford—The Telephone City.
Windsor—The Frontier City (with claims also to recognition as the Royal City.).
St. Thomas—The Railway City.
Chatham—The Maple City.
St. Catharines—The Garden City.
Guelph—The Royal City.
Stratford—The Classic City.
Belleville—The Bay City.
Woodstock—The Century City.
Peterborough—The Electric City.
Galt—Little Manchester.
Berlin—The German Town.
Cornwall—The Factory Town.
Goderich—The Salt Town.
Brockville—The Island Town.
Thorold—The Hill Town.
Paris (Strange Contradiction)—The Irish Town.

Going further east we have, of course:
Montreal—The Royal City.
Quebec—The Royal City, and also the Ancient Capital.
Halifax—The Garrison City.
Annapolis—The Bluenose City.
Charlottetown—The Island City.
Manitoba presents:
Winnipeg—The Prairie City.
Brandon—The Wheat City.
In the Territories:
Calgarry—The Cattle City.

Here in our own British Columbia the cities and towns have, of course, begun to sort themselves, according to their ambitions or their characteristics. Thus we have:

Vancouver—The Pacific City, and also the Western Liverpool.
Victoria—The Capital City.
New Westminster—The Royal City.
Nanaimo—The Coal City.
Kamloops—The Inland City.
Nelson—The City of Destiny.
Rossland—The Mining City.
Greenwood—The Smelter City.
New Denver—The American Lucerne.
Slocan—The Baby City.
Sandon—The Canyon City.
Kaslo—The Lake City.
Revelstoke—The Railway City.

To this list a dozen other ambitious towns might with propriety be added, while the list for Canada would certainly be incomplete did it not fail to include the northernmost centre of population under the flag of Britain:

Dawson—The Klondyke City, or the City of Gold.

FATHER TWOMEY'S RETURN.

He Was Sent to Ireland By Hon. Clifford Sifton.

Rev. Father Twomey, of Tweed, Ont., who returned from Europe on the Parisian was tendered a reception and presented with an address by the citizens of Tweed last evening. Last August he was invited by Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior to proceed to Ireland for the special purpose of presenting the claims of Canada as a settlers' home to a number of tenant farmers near Belfast, whose lands have been expropriated by the Water Commissioners of that city. Asked whether Canada is receiving its fair proportion of Irish emigrants, Father Twomey replied that the emigration question in Ireland was a very complex one, and surrounded with many difficulties. In the first place, said he, the leaders of all shades of public opinion are entirely, and and I think quite naturally, against emigration, being convinced that the Irish soil, under normal conditions, is more than competent to support double its present population; again, the tide of emigration has been constantly flowing towards the United States for more than 50 years, and you know how difficult it is to turn a tide; and then, again, the priesthood of Ireland, which is really representative of the mass of Irishmen and the trusted guardian of their best interests, is averse to the policy of emigration to any country; yet, notwithstanding the difficulties in the way, emigration work in Ireland is progressing satisfactorily, and would seem to have a promising and prosperous future before it

GOLF.

That the new men who took up Golf last year are going to press hard for a place on the first team, is becoming more evident every day. Yesterday Mr. Complin made 8 holes in 39, and Mr. Hollingshead made the first round in 42, getting the 18 holes for 90. Dr. Eastwood the day before won from Mr. J. W. Garvin by 3 holes.

The following draw has been made for the President vs. Captain match tomorrow. The players are not arranged in order of their standing but as the draw was made:

President.		Captain.
Ray	vs.	Burnham.
Burnett	vs.	Hamilton.
Campbell	vs.	Dennistoun.
Garvin,	vs.	Holtz.
W. D. Parker	vs.	Eastoowd.
Dr. Young	vs.	A. G. Parker.
McGill	vs.	Granger.
Brown	vs.	Smith.
Hollingshead	vs.	Collier.
Dean	vs.	McGill, jr.
Terrill	vs.	Kenner.

RUGBY.

Hurtubise, the well-known scrimmage player of the local Rugby team, arrived back in town this morning, and was kept busy shaking hands with the local Rugby men. He has been spending the winter in Ottawa and has come back to resume work on the canal. Hurtubise is the picture of health, and is ten pounds heavier than last year, weighing 204 lbs. He says that he can hardly wait until fall for the Rugby season to open.

LACROSSE.

The members of the lacrosse club in connection with the Y.M.C.A. Athletic Association are asked to turn out for practice to-night on Central Park grounds. A lot of splendid material is available for a first-class team in connection with the "Y," and matches will be arranged up once with other clubs. Let there be a good turn-out to-night.

Y.M.C.A. ATHLETICS.

The Seniors will go for a run to-morrow evening at 7.30.

NORWOOD.

Rev. Mr. Peer Soon to Start Back to New Ontario.

Mr. Frank Rutherford, who has been attending the School of Practical Science, Toronto, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Bunton of Springbrook, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Queen street.

Mr. Theodore Crawford of Lakefield, has been visiting at the home of Mr. D. Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hunt and family of Belleville, who have been spending the winter in Mexico and California, are spending a few days in town, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Booth, Queen street.

Mr. W. E. Roxburgh was in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. A. S. Harrison is spending a few days in Napanee.

Mr. F. Crawford and Miss Mabel Foster spent Sunday in Roseneath.

A number of our sports drove over to Westwood to-day to capture a few suckers.

Mr. A. S. Harrison, who recently purchased Mr. D. Foster's confectionary business, is having the ovens overhauled and intends to give his customers first class bread.

Mr. Jas. Pengelly has disposed of his meal business to Mr. Jas. Beckett, of Michigan.

On Saturday Mr. Paul Scott's horse, which was left standing on Peterborough street, took fright and ran away and was quite a distance out in the country before it was caught.

The Norwood Cheese Factory opened to-day and the milkman may be seen going his rounds again.

The Rev. Father Conway lost his fine, trotting horse last Friday. The horse had been turned out to pasture and in attempting to jump a picket fence, fell on it and tore itself so badly that it had to be shot.

On the 15th of this month Rev. Mr. Peer expects to return to his mission work in the Lake Tamiscamingue region where he will spend the whole summer till navigation closes in the fall. He informs us that he has received a large number of letters from different parts of the Province asking for information of that new territory which is destined to afford homes for a large population. The extent of the Lake Temiscamingue territory, and its boundaries, soil, population, physical features, &c., have been clearly outlined in a lecture which Mr. Peer has repeated many times to interested people, until now the tide of emigration is beginning to rise, and a large influx of settlers is expected in the near future. This will be especially the case if the proposed railway from Toronto to that locality which is at present under contemplation by the Ontario Government is pushed forward. A survey is now being made, and some are very hopeful and sanguine of the road being an accomplished undertaking.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I desire through your paper to return my sincere thanks to the people of Polling Division No. 4, Dummer, for the kind treatment I received from them in my rounds as census enumerator for that Division. I found the people willing and ready to give me all the information that lay in their power as far as they could without any hesitancy and was treated courteously in evey respect.

Yours, respectfully,
JAMES ROBB.
Census Enumerator for Polling Division No. 4, Dummer.

How a Sprain Does Hurt!

But it isn't the pain alone that is dreaded, just think of the loss of time and wages. Sprains without number have been cured by rubbing Polson's Nerviline well into the pores of the skin surrounding the joint. No matter whether it is a sprained wrist, ankle, knee or back, just try Nerviline on it, and see how quickly it will cure. There is only one liniment that can be depended upon to cure sprains, strains and swellings, and that is Polson's Nerviline. Large bottle 25 cents.

For whooping cough and croup, Vapo-Cresolene is a simple and perfect remedy.

Better Values Than Ever

ROUTLEY has just returned from a large wall paper buying trip, and we are safe in saying that never in the history of the Wall Paper business has Peterborough community had the chance of decorting their homes as cheap as this year. We have been doing well, yet better is coming, and in order to make room for the large purchase we have picked out 8 patterns of gold papers in a variety of colorings, suitable for any room, with 9 inch or 18 inch borders. In the regular way they would be considered cheap at 10c a roll. We propose clearing them for a few days.

1366 Rolls of Embossed Gold Papers, regular price 25c and 25c, clearing at..... 10c

ROYAL ACADEMY PICTURES.

Some Striking Features This Year—The Queen's Death and Funeral.

London, May 3.—The first press view of the Royal Academy yesterday revealed two striking features, which were absent from former exhibitions, viz.: Paintings dealing with Queen Victoria's death and funeral and incidents of the Boer war.

Benjamin Constant's picture of the Queen has a whole wall to itself, with a background of black and purple. It will undoubtedly be the picture of the year.

Lord Dundonald's dash on Ladysmith, and pictures of other engagements in South Africa make bright contrasts to the rows and rows of landscapes and portraits. Of the latter, Sargent sends nine, the most striking of which is the daughters of Mr. Wertheimer. One of the most charming pictures hung is "The Flower Girl" by an American, J. J. Shannon.

The Queen's funeral in London was done by John Charlton and the Naval Cortege at Portsmouth by W. L. Wyllie. Both are remarkable pictures Sidney Cooper, the father of the academy, and other old-time academicians, including Sir Edward Poynter, with a marble group, and Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, with a classic, "Helena and Hermia," will all be found in their accustomed places.

Drugging will not Cure Catarrh

Doctors say so. Victims of snuffs, ointments and tablets tell the same story. Catarrh is a germ disease. The germs excite disease in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes. Germs are hard to get at, but destroy them and you cure the disease. How can it be done? By carrying powerful medication with the air you breathe direct to the diseased parts. You must be sure, also, that the medication will kill the disease germs. Catarrhozone is guaranteed to do this, that's why it has created such a sensation in the medical world. You simply breathe Catarrhone; it destroys the germs—it heals—in a word it cures. Now you know everything about Catarrhozone, except what you can learn by using it. Catarrhozone never disappoints and is guaranteed to cure Catarrh. Price $1.00; Small size 25 cents, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Pope Speaks to Journalists.

London, April 29.—A special from Rome says the Pope in receiving a deputation of French and Belgian journalists, spoke at length upon the anti-Christian spirit prevailing in many countries, against which he hoped Christian journalists would effectively battle. He profoundly regretted that many papers, conspicuous for their intellectual strength, were so disassociated from religious ideals, and he prayed they would awaken to their responsibility to God and humanity in this respect.

Death of Rev. John Hunt.

Toronto, May 2.—Shortly before midnight last night Rev. John Hunt died at his late residence, 150 Wilton avenue. In his death Canada losses one of its ablest Methodist Ministers, one who entered clerical work long before the union. The late Rev. John Hunt was born in Lincolnshire, England, 83 years ago. He came to this country in 1832, settling in Toronto. When a branch of the British Wesleyan Missionary Society was established in Toronto, he became the assistant minister.

C. Dunbar of Grand Haven, owner of the America. At least fourteen vessels are in the immediate neighborhood.

FOUNDERING OF A TUG

Causes the Loss of Three Lives by Drowning in Georgian Bay.

THE TECUMSEH WAS DISABLED.

In the Tow of the Germanic—Capt. Wylie, His Sister, and Mr. W. H. Forbes, a Toronto Traveler, Went Down With the Boat—Three Others on Board the Tug Were Saved.

Owen Sound, May 4.—The steamer Germanic of the Northern Navigation Company, which arrived here last evening on her down trip, brings a pathetic story of the drowning of three people before the eyes of the crew and passengers, between Cockburn Island and Gore Bay. At 6 p.m. Thursday the steamer Germanic came up to the tug Tecumseh, with her engines disabled and apparently taking in water over the rail with every dip of the sea. There were on board the tug Capt. Wylie and his two sisters, W. H. Forbes, Engineer McColman and a man named Crawford, all of Silverwater. The captain of the tug asked for assistance, and a line was given him, and the Germanic started slowly to tow her to Gore Bay. After towing for three-quarters of an hour the engineer of the tug yelled that they were sinking. The Germanic was immediately stopped, and the way on the sinking tug brough her alongside of the Germanic. Lines were thrown aboard, and one of the women, the man Crawford and the engineer were hauled aboard. Meantime the tug had moved a short distance away, with the three remaining people aboard, apparently trying to do something to the tow line, which was still attached to the tug. Suddenly the little tug lurched and sank aft, going down almost immediately, leaving the captain, his sister and Mr. Forbes struggling in the icy cold water. Their struggles were only of a few seconds' duration. Before the boat which was lowered from the Germanic could reach them they had disappeared. While they were in the water, life belts were thrown to them, and everything possible was done by Capt. Foote of the Germanic to rescue them. After staying around the spot for some time, the Germanic headed for Gore Bay. The tow line, which was still fastened to the sunken tug, brought that vessel above water. It was shortly afterwards cut loose and allowed to sink. The rescued people were carried to Gore Bay where they were made as comfortable as possible. Mr. Forbes was a Toronto traveler.

MAY WEAR SHIRT WAIST.

Lieut.-Col. Peters Issues Such an Order For No. 1 District.

London, May 4.—Col. Peters, D. O. C., M. D. No. 1, has issued the following order:

Commanding officers of regiments wishing to wear shirts and straw hats at the next annual camp may do so.

Each corp may select its own pattern shirt and straw hat. The latter should be high enough in crown so as to allow bending in at the top, which gives it a more natty appearance; should be turned up at the side, with numeral and red puggaree for infantry and rifles; by taking off one strand from the rim a more presentable appearance is made. With regard to the shirt, I would suggest a short "smock-frock" pattern, that will go over the braces after the pattern of the naval "bluejacket."

To Promote Peace and Good-Will

London, May 4.—The last batch of addresses of condolence at the death of Queen Victoria and congratulations on his accession to the throne, was presented to King Edward yesterday afternoon at St. James' Palace, with the customary ceremonial. Yesterday's deputations included Catholics, Jews and Presbyterians. The King's replies were practically identical. He promised to promote unremittingly the enjoyment and blessing of religious liberty, tolerance, peace, and good-will among all classes and religious races.

Americans Ask For Millions.

Washington, May 4.—Great Britain will be required to pay indemnity to American citizens expelled from the Transvaal if it can be established that they took no part in the military operations against the British. These claims, including that of a man named Brown, whose mining concession and property were taken from him by the Government of the South African Republic, amount to several million dollars.

The British Government has declined to discuss what are known as the Atlin claims, on the ground that the persons who filed them are British subjects and their redress is before the British courts.

Cable Broken.

Halifax, N. S., May 4.—A break in one of the Western Union Company's transatlantic cables has occurred about 600 miles from the Grand Banks, and the cable steamship Minia has sailed to effect repairs. The water is nearly three miles deep where the broken cable lies. It will take the Minia nearly six hours to haul the broken cable to the surface. The extension of the Halifax and Bermudas Cable Company to Jamaica, near its southern end, lies in water four miles deep.

THE FAMINE IN CHINA

Shocking State of Affairs in the Shansi Province.

PEOPLE EATING ONE ANOTHER.

Russia Will Offer Japan Port Arthur to Abstain From Meddling in Manchuria—Russia to Borrow in France—The Chinese Indemnity—Corea Weakens to Russia in the McLeavy-Brown Affair.

Des Moines, Ia., May 4.—Minister Conger received messages from a New York paper, The Christian Herald, asking his co-operation in giving relief to the starving millions of northern China. His telegram in reply was:

"Your telegram received. The suffering of the famine-stricken people in Shansi is indescribable. Your plan of relief is the best. Put matter in hands of our Consuls at Shanghai and Tien Tsin and heads of missions there. Chinese Government and people will be grateful. Demands of humanity will be answered and future good will result. I send by letter $100.

E. H. Conger."

Minister Conger said later: "Prince Ching told me only two days before I left Pekin that these people were literally eating each other. They have eaten every blade of grass, every bit of bark—everything, in fact, that can be eaten in the Province. Nothing has been raised there for two years, and unless relief is given many thousands must perish."

Port Arthur For Manchuria.

Chicago, May 4.—The Record prints the following from Nagasaki:

Russian military officials of high rank state that Port Arthur will be offered to Japan as compensation for its abstention from active opposition to the Russian occupation of Manchuria.

The statement is received here with considerable reserve, but it is regarded as significant that all building operations at Port Arthur have been suspended by order of the Government.

France Says $327,000,000.

Paris, May 4.—The French Foreign Office corrects the figures of the indemnity to be demanded from China, as cabled by the French Minister at Pekin, to read 1,635,000,000 francs ($327,000,000), instead of 1,365,000,000. This amount, however, may yet be reduced. These figures provide for expenses up to July 1.

The Foreign Office is anxious that the United States support Germany's proposal to increase the Chinese customs duties, and wishes it to be pointed out that it will prove to be the best guarantee of the "open door." As no satisfactory alternative is suggested which would produce the necessary sum, a disagreement of the powers may result in the occupation of portions of Chinese territory by individual powers as a guarantee for their respective claims.

Regarding the issue of a Chinese loan, France and Russia favor the collective guarantee of the powers.

Russia to Borrow in France.

Berlin, May 4.—The Vossiche Zeitung prints a special despatch from St. Petersburg announcing that Russia has virtually arranged with France for loans amounting to 500,000,000 francs and that another Russian loan is being negotiated with English and American bankers in London.

COREA WEAKENS AGAIN.

Russia Seems to Have Got Her Grapplers on It Once More.

Seoul, Corea, May 3.—The Corean Government has revised its action in the matter of McLeavy-Brown, and has ordered him to leave his residence and relinquish the control of Corean customs. The representative of Great Britain in Corea is moving actively in the matter.

It was reported last summer from Seoul that McLeavy-Brown, an Englishman and director-general of the Corean customs, had been dismissed by the Corean Government. Lord Cranbourne, the Foreign Secretary, answering a question in the House of Commons, March 28, said McLeavy-Brown had not been dismissed from office. There had been a difficulty, Lord Cranborne added, which was engaging the close attention of the Government. Advices from Yokohama, dated April 3, say that the Japanese and British Ministers at the capital had an audience with the Emperor, April 1, and protested against the dismissal of Mr. Brown, and that consequently the order of dismissal was withdrawn the same evening.

Lightning Struck Bed Post.

Union, May 4.—During the violent storm of rain and electricity Thursday night, the new residence of Orlando Fordyce, Sparta road, was struck by lightning. The verandah posts were splintered. The electric current struck the bed post, wherein Mr. and Mrs. Fordyce slept. Luckily, they escaped injury.

THE GOVERNMENT'S SPLENDID RECORD.

The Progessive Programme That Was Carried Out Last Session.

INTERVIEW WITH HON. J. R. STRATTON

Something Interesting About the Asylum at Cobourg.

A Wide-Awake Government Wakes up the Great New North—Benefits Conferred on Older Ontario—"Forward" the Watchword all Along the Line—Contrast Between Policy of the Two Parties—General Elections Will go Liberal.

(From the Cobourg World.)

The presence in Cobourg on Wednesday of Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, who has charge of all the Provincial Institutions, was taken advantage of by our reporter to make some inquiry as to the work on the Cobourg Asylum in connection with which the Minister and Inspector Christie were here. On inquiry, Mr. Stratton informed us that the buildings when completed would give accommodation for about 175 patients, and that the probable cost of the improvements to the buildings and equipment, heating apparatus, etc., which were of first-class character, would be in the neighborhood of $75,000. This does not include the alterations necessary to equip "Faraday Hall" which may be refitted for the accommodation of perhaps 50 patients, additional with rooms for the assistant Physician or an infirmary or entertainment hall, or some other auxiliary purpose, and something would very probably be done in this direction another year. In regard to the purchase of adjoining lands, Hon. Mr. Stratton said the Government was prepared to purchase the portions immediately to the north and east of the buildings and south of the railway track, if they could be secured at a reasonable price. The Government was not anxious as to obtaining this land for, though there would be important advantages in its possession there was no immediate urgency. It was pretty certain, the Minister said, that unless unforseen delay intervened, the buildings would be ready for the reception of patients about September first. The earlier completion of the alterations has been prevented by the extent of the work it was found necessary to do which included an addition 45 by 79 feet for kitchen, laundry, storeroom and bursar's and steward's offices, and there has been erected in the rear of this a vault of ample proportions for the storage of coal. The wings at each side have been raised a story and additions for lavatory constructed. The tin roof of the main building, which had been in use since the construction of the building, perhaps over half a century ago, has been replaced by a substantial slate roof. The internal alterations have been very thorough and extensive, and the double work of taking down and reconstructing has considerably added to the time necessary to complete the alterations. In regard to the grounds, Mr. Stratton said that the portion from Victoria street up to the main building would be neatly terraced, and fencing constructed to join the fronts of buildings and barn and stable would be erected immediately. The alterations made and the equipment provided would make the Cobourg institution one furnished with the best of accommodation for the unfortunates who would have the advantage of its shelter in the early fall.

As to the Staff.

In regard to what has been done in the matter of staff for the new institution, Mr. Stratton said that Dr. McNicholl, of Cobourg, had been appointed Medical Superintendent. He would give up his practice at once, and in order to familiarize himself with his duties, would assist the superintendent at Kingston Asylum until his services were needed at Cobourg A female physician, Dr. Cockburn, had been appointed Assistant Physician, the exclusive attendance of female patients suggesting the appropriateness of a physician of their own sex being available in their care and treatment, and Miss Nelles, a niece of the late Rev. Dr. Nelles, has been appointed Matron. In reply to a question as to what was the intention of the Government respecting a residence for a superintendent, Mr. Stratton stated that a residence would be erected on the site purchased for that purpose, but not this year, and additional residences would be erected for officers later on. He also added that the delay in constructing the sewer by the town was delaying the plumbing work of the Asylum building, and postponing its completion.

The Outlook Excellent.

Asked in reference to the political situation, Hon. Mr. Stratton said that the outlook for the Government was excellent. The session recently closed was a most interesting one and legislative and administrative work to commend the Government more strongly than ever to the confidence of the electors had been placed on record. The budget debate disclosed a gratifying condition of our finances. The balance between receipts and expenditure was on the right side, showing a surplus of receipts of nearly $200,000 on the operations of the year, and, satisfactory as had been our financial position previously, there had been since the present Government took office an improvement in our assets of $167,000, and we had now a surplus of assets of $2,580,000, with every liability included, and of this over a million was cash in the bank. The development policy of the Government had been most gratifyingly successful. Extensive operations for the utilization of the hitherto useless resources of the new regions had been put into motion, and there had been created a demand upon the manufacturers and producers of Old Ontario to the amount of a million dollars last year, and this year it would be increased to two millions. Not content with this the Government assisted by land grants the Manitoulin & North Shore Railway, which would at the same time open up the northern country and put it and its thereby developed resources into direct communication with the great railway systems of the province and through them with our commerical and manufacturing centres.

A New Departure.

Other railways of a colonization character had also been aided, and the Government had taken the marked step in advance of inaugurating Government construction of railways, a sum of $10,000 having been placed in the supplementary estimates for the survey of over a hundred miles of railway line from Mattawa or North Bay to the rich agricultural Temiscamingue district. This would open up a new field for settlement and provide homes for our farmers' sons and check the tendency of population to city centres where the labor market was thus congested and employment made more difficult. It was confidently expected that the road could be built by the Government and operated or leased on proper conditions to one of the railway companies for sufficient to pay interest on the cost of construction. This line would assure the trade of the rich district it serves to Older Ontario—the pine alone which will open up and sell to-morrow being worth five times the cost of the road which will be about $1,750,000. Then the Act granting a million dollars for good roads construction (the Province paying $1 for every $2 spent by counties) will means, if taken advantage of, the expenditure of three million dollars and the construction of between three and four thousand miles of first-class public roads, thus insuring to the farmers easier access to markets and increased facilities for getting the fuller benefit of railways. The Act also provided that any county may provide its share, in whole or in part of the Provincial Road Fund for the purchase of toll roads; an Act was also passed to facilitate the purchase of these roads, so that Northumberland and Durham, if they wish to do so, may get rid of their toll roads.

A New Farm Industry.

The Act passed last Session providing for aiding the establishment of beet root sugar factories would encourage farmers to grow a new crop, which would, it is said, on good authority, be five times as profitable as wheat. Remembering the great and continuously increasing results that have followed and continue to follow the first pulp concession granted—to the Clergue Syndicate—which involves the expenditure of nearly twenty millions in merely getting ready to work, the Government granted a concession last Session to the Keewatin Pulp & Paper Company which required the expenditure of $1,500,000 in the erection of buildings and plants to convert into pulp and paper the woods of our waste areas in the extreme northwest of the Province which but for such concessions, would continue to be, as they had been for centuries, waste and unproductive, utterly without commercial value. The Spanish River Pulp Company were spending nearly $500,000 this year in the erection of buildings, and in orders placed for plant, and our pulp industries promise to utilize to an immense degree our now unproductive resources, and in so doing stimulate the commerce and manufacturing industries of Older Ontario.

The True Provincial Policy.

The policy of the Government on this question is the true Provincial policy, and the short-sightedness of the Opposition could not be more forcibly demonstrated than by their attitude on this subject. Mr. Matheson, the co leader with Mr. Whitney, called the Keewatin pulp concession an "outrageous and criminal proposal." The stationary if not the reactionary policy of the Opposition in this matter was so indefensible that Mr. Marter, a prominent member of the Conservative party for fifteen years, who sits next to the Conservative leader in the House, and was himself at one time the leader of the party, feeling apparently that the agreement and the policy of which it was an outcome, were in the public interest, declared in his place in the House that, while for party reasons and against his own convictions, he had voted against the former pulp concession, he could no longer prefer party interests before those of the country, and he therefore voted against his party and with the Government in favour of the Keewatin Pulp agreement because he considered it to be in the best interests of the Province. Mr. Stratton said there could be no doubt of the favour with which the people would receive the Government's policy of advance when it received the support of not only the Liberals elected to support the Government, but even compelled the support of one of the most prominent members of the Conservative side of the House, which it is safe to say, it would have done of many others if, like Mr. Marter, they had placed the Province and its interests before the claims of party.

Other Interests Aided.

The Government had the past Session not only helped transportation interests and the development of our pulp wood and agricultural resources, but it had helped the great mining interests by granting aid to the Kingston School of Mining, $22,500 for five years—and by relieving Toronto University of the expense of imparting instruction in branches that affect specially mining and industrial interests, and by undertaking to erect buildings for the Science Department of Toronto University at a cost of from $175,000 to $200,000 with a view of educating our own boys so that they could be trained in this Province to help in the development of our mining resources. The University was also substantially assisted otherwise. As a whole the past Session had been a very intersting and important one. Taken with the work of the previous Session it had resulted in carrying out almost to the letter the promises made by Premier Ross in taking office. He had been in power only two years, yet very great strides forward had been made by the Province under his leadership and administration. He had proved himself a great leader, and possessed the confidence of not only his colleagues and supporters in the House, but of the great mass of the people as well, and under his leadership with the splendid record of achivement to the credit of himself and his colleagues, he can appeal to the people at the coming election with every confidence that the popular verdict will be in favour of a continuation of the Government which has given the Province such substantial results in advancement and development.

The General Elections.

As to the general elections, Mr. Stratton said the Government looked forward to them with confidence. It had faith in the Province and its course in the past had been such as to strengthen the public confidence and create a demand for a forward policy of Government which the people recognized could only be secured from a Government committed to such a policy, and a Government that has shown a fitness for applying it. Such a vigorous policy so vigorously carried into effect, as has been done by the Ross Government, would certainly meet with greater favour from the people than the policy, so called, whose character was well suggested by Mr. Marter, who in an interview with the Toronto World, Conservative, said he was with th Conservative party still in matters of policy, but he significantly inquired,—"What in the name of Heaven are the matters of policy?"

Mr. Stratton expressed himself as being highly pleased with the work being carried on at the asylum under the direction of Mr. B. O'Byrne, and left on the afternoon train for Toronto.

LOSS OF LIFE BY FIRE.

Most Disastrous Fire in the History of Jacksonville, Fla.—130 Blocks Burned Down.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 4.—At 12.45 p. m. yesterday Jacksonville experienced the most disastrous fire of her existence. The buildings on the entire length of Beaver street, from Davis street to the creek on Liberty street, have been totally destroyed. For the same distance Ashley and Church streets have both been completely blotted out. When the fire reached Julia street, it was a roaring furnace without any prospect of being put under control.

Once the fire got started on Main street the closely adjoining buildings went one after the other. Paint shops, with barrels of oil in stock, were plentiful in this district, and as they caught fire one after the other, the blazes rose hundreds of feet high, and quickly set the other buildings across the street on fire.

Then the Hubbard hardware store caught and the people scattered when they saw what had happened. Hundreds of pounds of powder and a great deal of dynamite were stored in these buildings. Ten minutes passed, when suddenly there was a roar and the building collapsed like an egg shell. The dynamite and powder had exploded.

At 8.30 p.m. the fire was checked at the intersection of Laurel and Bay streets, where the Commercial Bank is located, which went up in flames, the Western Union building being just across the street and not being damaged.

It is impossible at this hour to ascertain the losses, but it is said by insurance agents that it will be between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000. Six lives are reported lost in the conflagration.

130 Blocks Burned.

The plans of the city, as prepared by the city surveyors, show that 130 blocks were burned and a part of another block. The estimates of residences to the block in the residential district is 10 and in the business section blocks were solid.

An Iowa Town Wiped Out.

Marshalltown, Iowa, May 4. — Fire at Ewart has practically destroyed the entire town, including a large grain elevator, Iowa Central Railroad property, the postoffice, all business houses, the Presbyterian Church, and a number of residences. The fire originated in the elevator. Estimated loss $100,000.

That dull constant ache between the eyes, that worrying pain across the forehead are all symptoms of Catarrh. The membranes in the nasal passages at the base of the forehead are inflamed. Probably they are a mass of ulcers. One thing is sure—if you let catarrh run on the catarrh germs will eat into the bone and destroy the nasal passages altogether. Japanese Catarrh Cure is positively the only actual cure for Catarrh existing in the world today. Powder and sprays may relieve for the time, but they cannot cure. Japanese Catarrh Cure cures and cures to stay cured. It goes right to the spot, killing the catarrh germ, allaying the inflammation, reducing the swollen tissues, and utterly expelling every trace of Catarrh, wherever located. The nasal passages open up, and the headache vanishes with the first application of

"I was troubled with catarrh for years. My head ached, my nose was stuffed up; there was a constant dropping in my throat. I was forever hawking and spitting. I have used everything I have ever heard of for catarrh—powders, washes, and other so-called remedies, but Japanese Catarrh Cure is the only medicine that ever gave me more than temporary relief. In fact Japanese Catarrh Cure has absolutely cured me. My head is now perfectly clear and free from the dull aching pain, and the dropping in my throat has ceased altogether. I owe my cure entirely to Japanese Catarrh Cure."—R. D. Atkinson, Advocate Harbour, Cumberland Co., N. S.

LOAN CO. LOTTERIES.

Mr. Bruneau's Proposed Amendment to the Criminal Code.

MANY BILLS DISPOSED OF.

House Got Through a Lot of Work—The Elections Bill, the Franchise Bill and the Postoffice Bill Read a Third Time and Passed—The Supplementary Estimates.

Ottawa, May 4.—The House did a capital day's work yesterday, disposing of the Elections bill, the Franchise bill, the Postoffice bill and a large amount of supplementary estimates, adjourning at midnight.

Loan Company Lotteries.

Mr. Bruneau introduced a bill to amend the Criminal Code, so as to extend to other loan companies in Canada the exemption from the anti-lottery clause of the act, which is already enjoyed by the Credit Foncier of Lower Canada, and the Credit Foncier Franco-Canadian.

Elections Act Amended.

Some further amendments were made to the Bill to amend the Dominion Elections Act. The first imposed a $50 fine upon a deputy returning officer refusing to administer the oath to an elector whose name had been left off the list because of provincial disqualification, but who otherwise is entitled to vote. Another amendment provides for giving a vote to a manhood suffrage elector whose name has been left off the local list by reason of change of residence.

The directions as to form of ballot were amended to provide that there shall be no blank space at top or bottom of the ballot, the black lines to extend to the margin. In regard to the form, the Solicitor-General said that it was an adaptation of the form suggested by Rev. Mr. Macdonald of Glengarry, who would be compensated, doubtless, for the use of his improvement. To certain amendments regarding the Northwest suggested by Mr. Borden, Mr. Fitzpatrick said that changes might take place within a reasonable time after the census, which would make anything that might be done at present inapplicable.

Mr. Hackett brought up the case he has several times mentioned during the session, of the theft of a ballot box in Prince Edward Island. A lengthy debate ensued, and at 4.30 the bill was reported, read a third time and passed.

The Franchise and Postoffice Acts were also read a third time.

The Militia Estimates.

In Committee of Supply on the supplementary estimates, the Minister of Militia said that to drill the entire force, as was intended this year, would cost between $425,000 and $450,000.

Col. Prior asked about the branch line from the Ottawa Electric Railway Company's terminus to Rockliffe Range.

The Minister said that the line had cost the Government $28,473, namely $19,241 to the Intercolonial Railway for second-hand rails at $21 per ton; to the Canada Atlantic for freight on rails $597; for ties $3,635.

Memorial to Fallen Heroes.

Mr. R. L. Borden said he had received a suggestion that a memorial be erected in the Royal Military College to those graduates of the institution who fell in South Africa. Besides Lieut. Osborne, there were Lieut. Wood and Capt. Hensley, who were in the Imperial service.

Dr. Borden expressed his entire concord with the suggestion. McGill University had erected a suitable memorial to its graduates, and the Government, as it owned the Royal Military College, should do likewise. The father of Lieut. Osborne had already placed a tablet in the Military College to the memory of his son, but he (the Minister) would at once ask his colleagues to agree to an appropriation to commemorate all the graduates who fell in South Africa.

The Foresters' Bill.

On motion for the third reading of the bill respecting the subsidiary High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters, Messrs. Hyman and Ross (S. Ontario), read communications from subordinate lodges, objecting to the third reading on the ground that they had not had an opportunity to pass upon the measure. The bill was accordingly, on motion, referred back to the Private Bills Committee to be considered there on Wednesday.

All of the public works supplementary estimates for this year were passed, and several postoffice estimates were adopted, and the House rose at midnight.

SUBSIDY INCREASED.

Prince Edward Island's Claim Recognized at Ottawa.

Ottawa, May 4.—The Government, in full settlement of the claims arising out of the failure for a number of years to provide continuous communication between Prince Edward Island and the mainland, has determined to increase the annual subsidy payable to the Island by $: 0,000, and Parliament will be asked to grant the necessary authority at the present session.

A LAME BACK.

CAUSES MR. C. H. WILCOX YEARS OF GREAT SUFFERING.

Injured his Spine while Lifting and the Doctors Told Him he Would Never Fully Recover—But He is Once More Free from the Trouble.

From the Brockville Recorder.

In the western section of Leeds county there is no man better known than Mr. Chas. H. Wilcox. He has resided in the vicinity of McIntosh Mills for years, and during much of that time has conducted a very successful saw milling business. All of Mr. Wilcox's neighbours know that he was a great sufferer for years from a lame back, and most of them know this affliction has now happily passed away. Mr. Wilcox says he owes this happy release from pain to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and those who know him will not for an instant question the sincerity of his statement. He gives the story of his suffering and subsequent cure in the following statement: "One day while working in the mill and engaged in lifting lumber I had the misfortune to severely wrench my back. I was so badly injured that I had to be carried home and for six months I was practically unable to move, and suffered great torture. The doctor told me that I had injured my spine and that I would probably never fully recover from its effects. At last I was able to go about again, but was far from being the man I had been before. For years I suffered almost continually from pains in the back, and was unable to lift any heavy weight. At times the pain was so bad that I was unable to work at all, and I was often confined to the house for days at a time. During this time I was treated by four different doctors but their treatment did not seem to do me any good. They told me that owing to the injury to my spine my back would always be weak. Seeing that the doctors were unable to help me, and having read of the many cures resulting from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I decided to give them a trial, and procured a supply. Very soon I could see that they were relieving me a little and this encouraged me to continue their use. In all I took about ten boxes and when they were finished my back was as strong as ever. The pains that had racked my body for so many years had entirely disappeared, my back felt as strong as before the injury. It is now two years since I discontinued the use of the pills and in all that time I have not had an ache or pain, so that I may safely say that my cure is permanent. I would advise all similar sufferers to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for knowing what they have done for me, I am confident that they cannot be less successful in other cases."

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Do not take any substitute or any other remedy alleged to be "just as good."

SUGAR TAX MUST REMAIN.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach Declined to Consider Its Withdrawal.

London, May 4.—Replying to a deputation from the Workmen's and Sugar Tax Association yesterday, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, declined to consider the withdrawal of the sugar tax. He said it was the most important part of the present budget and he did not believe that workingmen who had approved of the war in South Africa objected to pay something towards the cost.

There were scores of meetings yesterday in the coal districts and there was evidence of the intense interest in the tax question felt by both miners and owners. But the results of the conferences show the miners are by no means so unanimous as expected in supporting a general strike. Chairman Briggs of the Joint Conciliation Board of the Yorkshire Miners, has issued a manifesto to the men, to the effect that, although he is strongly opposed to the impost, he considers it most unwise to take such a grave step as stopping the collieries. Several miners' councils have issued similar advice to the men.

Convincing Reasons Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

CANADIAN GIRL KIDNAPPED.

Mabel, Daughter of a Wealthy Soo Resident, Missing Since Tuesday.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 4.—Mabel, the 14-year-old daughter of William Vaughan, a wealthy resident of the Canadian Soo, went to her room as usual Tuesday night; since which time she has not been seen. She is supposed to have been kidnapped. Two men were arrested yesterday on suspicion. All the surrounding country and towns on both sides of the river are being searched for a clue to the missing girl.

The German Cabinet Shake-Up.

Berlin, May 4.—The Prussin Diet met jointly at 6.30 p.m. yesterday, and the Chancellor read a royal message declaring the Diet closed. Count Von Buelow then said:

"As the Government is convinced, in view of the course taken in committee, that an agreement on the canal bill is at present out of the question, it does not wish to offer any aid in a continuance of fruitless discussions."

The Chancellor prefaced his remarks by saying the canals projected would be advantageous both to the east and west, to industry and to agriculture. It had been intended to promote a general exchange for merchandise, hence the Government was unwilling to accept a bill from which essential components had been cut.

Big Lock-Out at Dayton, O.

Dayton, Ohio, May 4.—"Owing to difficulty with our moulders, the factory will be closed till further notice.

"(Signed) Board of Directors."

That notice was read by the 2,300 employes at the National Cash Register factory yesterday afternoon. A few days ago four moulders were discharged, the officials say for cause and the foundrymen struck for their reinstatement. The polishers joined the strike yesterday, and the factory was closed.

Two Ways of Writing.

Mrs. Bibbs—I declare! You men can't write a letter unless you have a regular desk and office chair and big blotting pad and I don't know what all.

Mr. Bibbs—Yes, and a woman may have a $200 writing desk, with everything to match, and yet she'll sit down on a stool and write on an old book.

DO NOT EXPERIMENT WITH MEDICINES THAT HAVE NO ESTABLISHED MERIT OR REPUTATION.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

NEVER FAILS TO CURE THE SICK.

In matters pertaining to health and life men and women cannot afford to experiment foolishly. This is especially true in regard to the use of medicines that have no established merit or reputation.

When the physical powers are impaired when you are weak, nervous, irritable, despondent, sleepless, or weighed down with dull, tired feelings so common at this season, it is wise and prudent to use the medicine that has given health, vim and activity to thousands of weak and diseased people in the past.

This safe, certain health-giving medicine is Paine's Celery Compound so freely prescribed by our best physicians from day to day. The endorsers of Paine's Celery Compound, apart from those in the ordinary walks of life, are clergymen, lawyers, judges, members of parliament, and bankers, many of whom it has rescued from suffering and death.

If you seek health and vigour, place your faith in Paine's Celery Compound, and when you purchase be sure you get the right article. See that the bottle and box has the name "PAINE'S," and the Stalk of Celery; this is the only genuine make—the kind that "makes sick people well."

Don't Travel for Ozone.

It's pretty tough to have some one you like very much start out for the South to get relief from consumption. They so seldom come back alive. It's the Ozone in the air they're after, and it's the only thing that will cure them.

Valuable Hints on Photography by G. E. Whiten, Photographic Artist.

Expression is one of the main points. Some parties think that pressing the lips together makes the mouth smaller. Not so. Slightly touch the lips and look mild as possible as the eyes have a great deal to do with expression. G. E. Whiten's Art Studio, 158 Hunter street, sign of the Golden Camera.

AN OIL CAR DAMAGED.

Accident Occurred Just at the Diamond Last Night.

An Oil Car Ran Against a Heavy Freight —Up Against the Real Thing.

An accident occurred at the diamond where the C.P.R. and G.T.R. tracks cross each other shortly after five o'clock last night. Fortunately it was two freight trains that were in the mix-up, or the affair might have been attended with more serious results.

An engine on the G.T.R. was shunting a car loaded with Queen City Oil to the storehouse of the Oil Company near the G.T.R. station. In order to do this it was necessary to shunt the car down towards the C.P.R. track to get on to the proper siding. However, the brakes refused to work, and the loaded car went much further than intended. It came with a crash into the middle of a C.P.R. freight train that was moving eastward. The result was that the oil car was tipped over off the track. No very great damage was done, however, either to the C.P.R. freight or to the contents of the oil car. A brakesman on the latter noticing his danger, jumped and saved himself. The car itself is somewhat damaged, and is lying on its side with the trucks in the ditch close by.

Traffic was blocked for a very short time only on the Grand Trunk line.

LATE PERCY McISAAC.

The Remains Were Interred in Little Lake Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Percy McIsaac took place from the residence of his uncle, Mr. Christopher Clements, No. 7 Water street, at 2.30 o'clock, the remains being interred in Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral was largely attended by the deceased young man's friends, who were, indeed, many.

The late Percy McIsaac was 22 years of age and had made his home with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clements. He was a most popular young man, had a bright future before him, and was the soul of honour and uprightness. The cause of his death was consumption, which, it is, thought, followed a severe cold he caught, the result of a rather lengthy bicycle ride about three years ago. Percy was perhaps best known among the members of the Y.M.C.A. and was always an enthusiastic member of the Annual Camp of the "Y" boys. At the time of his death he was a member of St. John's Church choir and had on various occasions sung in St. Andrew's and George Street Methodist Church choirs.

BOX FACTORY WAS BURNED.

Belonged to Mann & Beavis on Dickson Raceway.

Supposed to Have Originated From a Spark From the Smokestack—Heavy Loss.

At about half past six o'clock last night fire broke out in the cheese box factory of Messrs Mann & Beavis, on the Dickson Company's raceway, in Ashburnham. The blaze was first noticed by Mr. Edward Courtney, who immediately gave the alarm and in a very short while the brigade was on hand. Owing to the very inflammable nature of the structure as well as the material around about, the fire had obtained considerable headway before the water was turned on and the boiler house, together with the box factory and its contents were almost a total loss. A portion of the box factory was saved, but the stock it contained is now of very little value.

Messrs. Mann & Beavis had of late installed a quantity of new machinery and their veneer and box factory were working up to their full capacity. In addition to the loss of machinery, they lost enough finished material to make about 7,000 boxes. Their loss will therefore be quite serious as it was not insured very heavily.

The buildings were owned by the Dickson Company and were damaged to the extent of three or four hundred dollars with no insurance.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark from the smokestack, which however, was equipped with the regular sieve cage.

WITH THE MASONS.

Rt. Wor. Bro. G. H. Linton, D. D. G. M., Paid an Official Visit.

At a regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 155, A.F. & A.M., last night, Rt. Wor. Bro. G. H. Linton, D.D.G.M., paid the lodge an official visit.

There was a large attendance of members, including a number of visiting brethren. At the conclusion of the regular business those present enjoyed an excellent repast, at which a delightful time was spent in songs, speeches and music.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Shaw, Past D.D.G.M. of Keene Lodge was present.

GREAT PREPARATIONS.

For the 24th of May Celebrations in Peterborough—Port Hope's Offer.

The 24th of May celebration which will take place in Peterborough promises to eclipse anything of the kind that has been held within many miles of the town in a long time. Each day additional new ideas spring up and each day the committee meets with additional encouragement.

To-day a prominent member of the Celebration Committee received a letter from the Port Hope Old Boys Association stating that if desirable they would visit Peterborough on May 24th, 2000 strong, all decked out in white coats, castor hats and gold headed canes. Besides these the Port Hope Firemen may attend. The offer was gladly accepted.

It has been thought desirable that in order that the management of the celebration may be conducted on systematic principles, an office should be opened with a permanent secretary in charge. Accordingly, in the course of a week a central office, equipped with telephone service and every convenience for the Chairmen of the several committees will be fitted out.

Mr. George Stevens has offered to furnish a detachment of 80 carts with a clown driver in each.

The Orillia firemen have as much as intimated that they will be on hand and an effort is being made to have the Cobourg brigade here also.

THE BAND CONCERT.

It was, as Usual, Well Attended, Last Night.

The 57th Regimental Band, under the leadership of Prof. R. Gliddon, appeared in the market hall last evening before a large audience, and rendered the programme that was so highly appreciated at Lindsay one week ago. The attendance was as large as on any previous occasion, and the programme was most delightful and highly appreciated.

Don't forget the High Tea and Grand Entertainment at St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday evening next, Orchestral and Vocal Music, Recitations, the best of their kind. Everybody welcome. Tickets 25 cents.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.

Meeting With Great Success in the Murray Street Baptist Church.

The meetings this past week led by Evangelist Cromble have been a success The attendance has been good every evening, the spirit devout, earnest and elevating, and the fruit encouraging. The singing led by the choir has been inspiring. Mr. Cromble uses no sensational methods. He depends upon the truth, plainly and lovingly presented and pleasingly illustrated, to carry it home to the heart.

Mr. Crombie will continue his meetings every night next week, except Saturday. One night he will tell the story of his conversion, which is very remarkable in many respects. Two nights next week he will illustrate his sermons by the stereoptican. These three services will be unusually interesting. He will preach to-morrow at the usual evening service. Everybody is invited to all the services.

CEREAL CO. NOTES.

Rock Bottom Has Been Struck For The Foundation of the New Dam.

The engineers of the Cereal Company have definitely ascertained, by drilling, that the excavation for the foundations of the new concrete dam will have to go below the river bed to the depth of twelve feet. Quite a number of shafts have been sunk in order to make sure that rock bottom has actually been struck. It is expected that a large force of men will be turned loose on the ground week after next, when actual operations will be commenced. By having the dam across the river at the point where the drilling has been carried on, just north of the power-house, an enormous amount of water can be stored in the miniature lake which will thus be created.

Canadian Oddfellows.

Successful efforts have been exerted for some time past in resuscitating "Loyal Peterborough Lodge," of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows. These efforts were recently strengthened by the visit of Mr. W. J. Turnbull, the energetic organizer of the Order, who spent several days in town in the interests of the local lodge, during which time five new members were initiated, and there are prospects for the early addition of more names to the roll. Mr. Turnbull left a very favourable impression among the members, who would have been glad to have secured his services for a longer period. Bro. R. Arnott is Noble Grand, and Bro. R. Wilson, secretary of "Loyal Peterborough Lodge."

CHILDREN'S HOSE.

JOHN CONNELLY HAS SUICIDED.

Severed His Head From His Body With an Axe.

CONSTRUCTED A DEADFALL.

Built a Death Trap With Horrible Accuracy and Decapitated Himself.

A letter received from Mr. Andrew Finnie, of Wrights, California, formerly of Peterborough, gives a most graphic word picture of the tragic death by suicide of John Connelly, who will be remembered by the older residents of the town, particularly those having been connected with the lumbering business in the early days. The letter reads as follows:

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—John Connelly, an old Peterborough lumberman, committed suicide here about April first, in a very novel way, and I thought perhaps some of the old lumbermen would remember him, and so take the liberty to ask you to insert this in the columns of the Examiner.

Connelly was cutting wood in a lonely place and erected a trap or dead-fall, by using a pole, one end of which he fastened between two trees and elevated the end so that he could place a figure four under it. Then he placed a heavy weight on top of the pole, and on the under side of it he fastened his axe with face down, then he laid a large block on the ground and in the block was a place rounded out for his neck and two holes bored and a pin in each one, on either side of the hollow, to keep the head from being moved by the fall of the axe. And now comes the most trying part, he crawled under this trap and lying on his back with face up and his neck on the block between the two pins, he was ready to depart. With a long stick or paddle that he had previously shaped and smoothed off nicely, which was just long enough to reach the figure four that held up this murderous machine, in his right hand, he knocked down the figure four and down came the axe with all the heavy weight to force it and completely severed the head from the body. He still held the stick in his hand when found and death must have been instantaneous.

He was missed and a search made for him, and when found, his body was partly decomposed.

Connelly came to California from Peterborough about thirty years ago, where he worked in the lumber woods and on the Otonabee river and lakes.

He was out of health and reduced to poverty by the use of whiskey, so he was hardly able to make a very poor living with no one to care for him. He was about sixty years old and never had been married. I do not know whether he was born in Canada or Ireland. He was a Roman Catholic in religion and a good-natured and harmless person; generous to a fault.

Licence Inspector J. J. Crowe, who was in town to-day, remembers Connelly well, having shantied with him in the early sixties for Hughson & Campoell.

VICTORIA CROSS FOR CANADIAN.

Graduate of Queen's College, Kingston, Decorated for Bravery.

Word has been received that Dr. H. E. Douglas, a graduate of Queen's College, Kingston, Ont., and whose home is now in Kingston, Jamaica, has received the Victoria Cross for bravery in action.

Dr. Douglas was attached to the Gordon Highlanders as surgeon. It was at the battle of Magersfontein that he so distinguished himself. He was with the Black Watch on its death march, and when the fire opened, though slightly wounded, crawled, amid the bullets, to the head of the column. The officers of his regiment were lying about dead or wounded. He dressed the wounds of all within reach, and made his way back in safety. He then rallied the scattered ranks of the Gordons, and led them out of action. He was wounded by a bursting shell, which carried away part of his cheek.

The Young Giant of the West.

The Winnipeg Tribune expects as a result of the census that the representation of Manitoba in Parliament will be doubled, and that that Province, with the Territories and British Columbia, will have fifty seats altogether. It adds: "When the census, ten years hence is taken, one-third, or more, of the population of Canada may be found west of Lake Superior, and the balance of political power will be a good deal shifted." The young giant of the West is assuming great proportions; but we shall all welcome him in spite of his size.

CANADIAN ARTISTS.

EXHIBITION LACKS PICTURES OF RECENT STIRRING EVENTS.

NOT A "KHARKI-CLAD" FIGURE.

"Nationalism in Poetry and Literature" Not Exemplified at the First Exhibition of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts in the Twentieth Century—Some Subjects for Studies.

There was one impression left upon the writer's mind, says Lally Barnard in Toronto Globe on April 13, most vivid in its effect, after an afternoon spent among the pictures of the first exhibition of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts in the new century just begun—that time had marked its course by weeding out the exhibits of members who in the old days were wont to send to that exhibition pictures which to-day turn their faces to the wall in some secluded spot, ashamed of their temerity in ever having thought of coming forward for public scrutiny.

The second impression was one of keen disappointment, perhaps I may use a stronger word, bitter disappointment. Not two weeks ago, at a meeting of the Authors' Society, a paper was read on "Nationalism in Poetry and Literature," and the writer spoke of the stirring events throughout the empire during the last expiring years of the 19th century, and the wider field they should give to poetical and artistic inspiration. One expected in this exhibition to meet with such pictures as are sure to cover the walls of the Royal Academy Exhibition of 1901, in London, pictures which would immortalize events in our history, and show that all our enthusiasm, and the strain and stress of these last closing years of the century had left their mark on the art as well as the literature of Canada. There is, without doubt, a lack of imagination in the Canadian character. When one considers the absolutely "soul-convulsing" epoch we have passed through, and looks at the subjects chosen for pictorial art among the members of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts, one realizes that M. Bourassa's fear of Canada being given up to "militarism," is but a chimera, a mere inheritance of fiery Celtic blood. Not one red-coat, not one "khaki-clad" figure, no portrait of either general or member of staff. My thoughts flew back to Margaret Yarker's poem, "The Last Church Parade" of the Canadian contingent in the historic City of Quebec, and I felt that those verses alone might have inspired some of our painters whose brushes are capable of dealing splendidly with such a subject. The day that a French-Canadian Premier of Canada wished the men "God-speed" on their embarkation at Quebec to help the rest of the "whelps of the lion" in their battle against oppression and narrow fanaticism would alone have made a magnificent subject for a great canvas. Toronto, during many dark days of anxiety, could show before every newspaper office studies in faces and tragedies which appealed to more than mere artistic feeling. Where are these subjects? They formed the attraction of some of the Christmas numbers of our daily journals, and, as the writer happens to know, many of these colored prints are carefully framed and kept, as precious reminders of those stirring days.

The reception of the troops by the Queen who has passed away, the mounted infantry passing through the streets on those cold winter days and, above all, the homecoming of the men from Africa—not one of these subjects is to be found. No attempt of symbolic representation of the great event which fairly shook the civilized world, when a great Sovereign laid down the earthly sceptre she had wielded with dignity and power, and was borne to her rest with prayers of a whole empire hovering about the tiny casket which contained the very heart of that Imperial realm. I would like to have seen even a small study of some great symbolic picture, giving expression in concrete form to the emotions that stirred the whole Dominion during those never-to-be-forgotten days, and one felt it almost a travesty to talk of an art museum as a fitting memorial to this great Queen, when her passing could leave so little impression upon the canvases of Canadian artists.

Ontario's School Attendance.

To the school attendance for 1899 the last year reported by the Minister of Education, the Canada Educational Monthly devotes considerable attention. The Monthly points out that not one-half of the pupils in the first reader ever enter the fourth reader. This is a remarkable state of affairs. It indicates that the full measure of education designed by the Province does not reach the entire population. The withdrawals from the schools are progressive as the standard rises. There are fewer children in the second book than in the first, and fewer again in the fourth. Of the 174,000 in the first book but 9,700 reach the High School. But while the annual proportion is small, the actual attendance at High Schools is 19 per cent. of the possible attendance. This is not so good as it ought to be.

Wind in the Stomach

Indicates poor digestion, and the digestive organs require toning up by BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The wind is caused by the fermentation of gas from imperfectly digested food or a faulty condition of the digestive organs, which, if neglected, must lead to stomach and blood troubles, such as indigestion, jaundice, biliousness, or bad blood. All these are common complaints which B.B.B. cures in any stage of the disease.

We now give you testimony from those who have used B.B.B.:

January 28, 1900.

"With gratitude I can testify to the wonderful curative powers of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Last summer I was troubled with indigestion so badly that whatever I ate caused me torture. Eating became a dread to me. I tried Doctors' medicine, but got no relief; then a friend recommended B.B.B. I got a bottle and after taking a few doses began to feel better. By the time I had taken two bottles I was as well as ever and have had no trouble in that way since."

MRS. MINNIE CADE, Arden, Ont.

April 5, 1900.

HANNAH MULLINS, Highland Grove, Ont., writes: "BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS has done me more good than anything I have ever taken for my stomach. I could not eat, had pain in side and back and felt very miserable. I was run down to a shadow, but one bottle of B.B.B. made me feel perfectly well, and have not been troubled since."

The T. Milburn Co., Limited,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sirs,—I wish to let you know of the benefit I have derived by using your Pills.

I am a widow with a family to support, and have to work hard, which is very trying on my nerves.

At night I was unable to sleep for hours after going to bed, and it seemed as if every nerve in my body was on the go.

I had a smothering, choking sensation, and had to spring out of bed to catch my breath.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done me so much good that I can recommend them highly to any person afflicted with heart and nerve troubles like I was.

Yours, with gratitude,
MRS. WM. HARPER.

ANIMAL ETIQUETTE.

HOW THEIR CODE OF MORALS MAKES EXISTENCE SMOOTH.

SKETCH OF THE HIGH BRED MARE

"The Khan" Shows How Animals Have a Lot of Good Sense—Horse's Sense of Humor—The Eternal Fitness of Things Among Sheep—They Never "Chew the Rag."

All animals have a code of manners and an etiquette of their own. Lhis smoothes their existence and makes life in the stables, in the corral, in the pasture fields or in the mountain or plain possible.

There is Merry Legs, the high-bred mare. She always drinks in solitary state, the other horses standing patiently by. They recognize that she is superior to them in blood, breeding, talents and accomplishments, as well as beauty, and they don't dare to put their nozzles in the water trough until she has drank her fill. And she takes her time to it. She is leisurely about it. She takes a long draught and then lifts her head and gazes complacently about her. Then she heaves a heavy sigh of contentment and takes another sup, slobbers and rinses her mouth and then walks away, whereupon the others rush for the trough. She must get her oats first, if you please, and if I were to feed any of the others before I fed her she would wreck the stable. Nothing prevented her from kicking the roof off the barn the other night only the fact that there were ten tons of hay in the loft.

She knows something about style and dress. Hitch her to the disks and start her working in the dusty summer fallow with the slab-sided gelding for a mate and she is as big a lobster as he is. Take her out, bring her up to the barn, wipe her off, put the silver mounted harness on her, hitch her to the phaeton and up goes her head and tail, and it takes two men to hold her.

Animal's Good Sense.

Animals have a lot of good sense, too—and sense is good manners. An animal knows when it gets licked—and that's something that a man never knows. Go and buy a strange cow and bring her home. There is a commotion in the yard at once. The boss cow comes forward to assert her authority. There is a fight, and if the strange cow is victorious the whole herd accepts her sovereignty there and then without any further dispute or fuss about it. If she is defeated she has to try conclusions with all the rest till she finds her proper place, and after that all below her make way for her and she makes way for all above her, and this state of things would last for a thousand years if the herd were to live that long. The boss cow goes through the gap first. As a rule she stands in the gap for a minute or two, halting the whole herd, just to show that she is queen of the May, mother. That's the time to have an intelligent colley or fox terrier to sneak through the herd and nip the old baggage on the heels.

Horses have a sense of humor. We have a dog that barks at their heads and that annoys them very much. He keeps between the horses and the driver, and you cannot get at him, but by a lucky cast I hit him the other day on the hind leg with a stove wood stick. He yelled murder in several languages and broke for the barn on three legs. I thought that team of horses would split their sides laughing.

There is etiquette and a sense of the eternal fitness of things among sheep. We took our ram lambs off the other day and put them in a paddock by themselves. Of course it became necessary that they should have a king or a president, or a noble grand or a worshipful master or a grand patriarch or whatever they call it. Out of the flock there were two candidates, a ewe-faced lamb and a black-faced one—there is a streak of Southdown in the flock.

The Fairest of Fights.

There is nothing in the wide world fights so fair as a ram—the sheep is an example in this matter to all living creatures. The two candidates chose a level piece of ground. They took their stations opposite one another and about thirty yards apart. They stamped on the ground. They defied each other with a gutteral ba-a-a. At a prearranged magnetic signal they darted at one another like a catapult and struck their heads together with a sickening thud. The expression "sickening thud" can only properly be used at a hanging or a ram fight. They backed away to their corners, so to speak, stamped on the ground, laid back their ears, repeated the gutteral defi and then met full speed with another sickening thud. They backed off again, but I noticed that the ewe-faced fellow was casting sheep's eyes at me and the fence. I could see his finish. They met with a dull thud this time, for the ewe-face came up groggy and had no steam in him, and in the fourth round he dodged out of the way, and black-face went tearing past him, for a charging ram can't swerve. That was all there was about it. Half an hour afterwards they were pasturing together, side by side, perfectly contented, and they will never, never, never fight each other again.

Chew the Cud, Not the Rag.

That is the point I wish to emphasize. They chew the cud, but they never chew the rag like us fellows do. They never write to the papers explaining that they were not in condition or complaining that the referee was a thief and a robber. They never go down to the grocery store or village tavern, and blow about how they are going to do up so and so next township fair day. Their friends don't explain that they have been dissipating, etc. Oh no! They chew the cud; they never chew the rag.

If man had four stomachs instead of one, and chewed the cud he would be a more charming and sensible animal, and more than that, he wouldn't have to eat his pie on the street!

FOR OLD AGE

To the old, as to babies, the even balance of health is more important than anything else in the world. The possible health, in age, is not high and strong; it is only even.

There is no end, but death, to the trouble that comes of its loss.

It ought to be watched like a baby's.

Their future is short; but oh how it turns on comfort! on whether the wrinkles are wrinkles of pain or of long serene enjoyment!

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil—for very old and very young in different ways—is the food to secure this even condition of health.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

YEARS A PRISONER.

A SUNDRIDGE FARMER CLOSELY CONFINED IN HIS OWN HOUSE.

Recently Liberated, He Hastens to Write an Open Letter Telling of His Years of Misery, and His Miraculous Release.

Sundridge, Ont., May 1., (Special.)—A case of prolonged torture has just come to light in Strong Township, a few miles from here.

It seems hard that an honest man should be kept a prisoner in his own home for over four years, and yet, that is just what happened to Mr. Wm. Doey, of Lot 19, Concession 13, Township of Strong. His family and friends all tried to secure his release, but in vain.

"For four years I suffered excruciating torture, during which time I was scarcely an hour free from pain.

"The trouble commenced in my back, where it often remained stationery for months, and so intense was the pain that I could not lie down to take rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair. The pain would then remove to other parts of my body, and when in my knees, I was unable to walk, and confined constantly to my room.

"I was treated for Rheumatism by several doctors, and also tried many medicines, without receiving any benefit. Almost in despair, I feared I would never again experience the pleasure of being free from pain.

"A short time ago, my attention was directed to some remarkable cures of Rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills, recorded in the public prints. I procured a box, and soon found that they were doing me good. I continued, and very soon I was a new man, and entirely free from pain.

"I have continued so for over six months being able to attend to my daily duties on the farm, and feeling able for any kind of work.

"I verily believe this change, this remarkable cure, has been effected by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I think it my duty to make this statement public, for the benefit of anyone afflicted as I was."

This is the statement which Mr. Doey makes over his own signature, and one cannot help being struck by its sincerity. Everyone in this neighborhood knows that Mr. Doey was a cripple for years, and his miraculous restoration to health, has created a great deal of talk in and around Sunridge. Dodd's Kidney Pills are having a very large sale here.

Won Without Trying.

A traveling circus recently paid a visit to a Lancashire town, and, as an attraction, offered a prize to the man who could as the natives term it, "pull th' ugliest mug." The rules laid down were that each person should have three tries. Consequently competition ran high, some of the contortions being terrible to behold. After all had done their level best to win the prize the clown who acted as judge for the competitors coolly confronted a man sitting among the audience, who was noted for his ugliness, and said:

"Tha's won th' prize, owd mon."

"Me!" said the astonished individual; "wha, aw, worn't try' for't."

"Tha's noa need to try; tha's won it wi'out."—Tit-Bits.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.

Plea For the Cultivation of International Correspondence.

The current number of the McMaster University Monthly contains an interesting letter written by an Australian girl in Vienna to a Canadian girl in Woodstock, and the editor of the magazine makes the letter the basis of a suggestion for an extended international correspondence on the part of the young people of the respective countries. He points out that the Review of Reviews long ago inaugurated and has now in successful operation such a system, as a result of which no fewer than 8,000 persons, chiefly pupils at school, carry on a correspondence with as many young friends in France and Germany. Not many Canadians appear to have availed themselves of the opportunity afforded, and the editor of McMaster's strongly advises that they should do so, and thus find an interesting and pleasant means of perfecting themselves in a foreign tongue. No fee is required. All that is necessary is to send one's name, age and address to the Secretary for Languages, Review of Reviews, London, England. The suggestion is an interesting one. Correspondence between two intelligent young people of different nationalities could hardly fail to broaden and elevate the views of each of them.

The Census Man Again.

The Rev. Dr. Morison, pastor of St. David's Church, tells a rather amusing incident of the census taker's plan for deciding his nationality. On calling upon the reverend gentleman for his census, the enumerator asked him the usual question as to nationality, and the prompt reply was "I am a Canadian." This fairly staggered the official. He had evidently never heard of such a nationality, but, nothing daunted, he inquired what nationality Dr. Morison's father was. The answer was "Scotch."

"Then you're Scotch," triumphantly announced the enumerator.

"But my mother was English, and she surely counts as much as my father in settling so momentous a question."

But the census taker was not to be moved. And so Dr. Morison is, officially at least, a Scotchman.—St. John Telegraph.

Drugging will not Cure Catarrh

Doctors say so. Victims of snuffs, ointments and tablets tell the same story. Catarrh is a germ disease. The germs excite disease in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes. Germs are hard to get at, but destroy them and you cure the disease. How can it be done? By carrying powerful medication with the air you breathe direct to the diseased parts. You must be sure, also, that the medication will kill the disease germs. Catarrhozone is guaranteed to do this, that's why it has created such a sensation in the medical world. You simply breathe Catarrhone; it destroys the germs—it heals—in a word it cures. Now you know everything about Catarrhozone, except what you can learn by using it. Catarrhozone never disappoints and is guaranteed to cure Catarrh. Price $1.00; Small size 25 cents, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

South African War Medals.

The silver medals presented to Strathcona's Horse by the King for their war services in South Africa are of the pattern shown in our sketch. One side bears the likeness of the late Queen, with the inscription, "Victoria Regina et Imperatrix," the other a figure of Britannia holding the laurel wreath of victory, and the inscription, "South Africa, 1899-1900." The ribbed silk supporting ribbon has a broad centre band of orange, bordered by narrow dark blue lines and red outer stripes.

The King a Fashion Factor.

The soft felt fedora, now so popular, was first worn by King Edward, then Prince of Wales, at Homburg, near which watering place is a famous felt hat factory. On the occasion of his first visit he bought several for himself and friends. They won instant favor.

Until His Royal Highness appeared one year at the Goodwood races in a round felt hat, no one ever dreamed, even in the hottest weather, of attending these races save in a silk hat and frock coat. Luckily for the English world, of which the King is ruler of fashion, his good sense has again and again broken through old-world prejudices.

'Tis Easy to Feel Good.

Countless thousands have found a blessing to the body in Dr. King's New Life Pills, which positively cure Constipation, Sick Headache, Dizziness, Jaundice Malaria, Fever and Ague and all Liver and Stomach troubles. Purely vegetable never gripe or weaken. Only 25c at Jas. Lynch's drug store.

Dunlop Tires

FOR 1901.

The Thickened Tread.

When you buy a bicycle don't neglect the most important detail in the specifications—Dunlop Tires.

Short-sighted manufacturers may try to "ring in" cheap tires as substitutes for "Dunlop's"—the tire that every buyer asks for.

The Dunlop Tire has the thickened tread—more rubber on the wear surface—more resiliency—more value for the same money.

Dunlop Tires are simple—an ingenious application of the natural law of expansion forms the basis of their construction.

Endless wires that do not stretch ensure rigidity of adherence to the rim. Without these wire protectors a few months' wear would render the outer cover liable to a "blow off."

Bicycle dealers know the value of the Dunlop Tire. Twelve month guarantee.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

LAWN BOWLING.

The general meeting of the Lawn Bowling Club, which was held last evening, was so largely attended as to additionally enthuse those who are anxious to have a healthy and prosperous organization in Peterborough. A report of the Executive was adopted empowering the committee to procure the Simcoe Street Grounds at a stated rental, to award a contract for levelling the sod and to secure the services of a caretaker. The report also stated that when the paths along the side of the grounds were filled in and sodded there would be ample room for seven rinks to bowl at the same time.

It was decided to limit the membership to one hundred and the club starts out with a charter membership of thirty-five. The contract for fixing up the grounds will be let at once and it is hoped that play will begin by May 15th.

Toronto Telegram:—Toronto bowlers will not be surprised to see Mr. R. C. McHarrie, one of the officers of the newly organized Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, which has already taken in seventy members and most of the commons of the town. Before taking to the woods Mr. McHarrie played with some real good city clubs.

GOLF.

All the greens are now available to the players with the exception of that at the ninth hole which will have to be sodded on account of being recently ploughed up. The other eight greens have been levelled and are as near perfect as possible.

Mr. Angus McIntosh has been awarded the contract for building the new wing to the club house.

The annual match of President vs. Captain is being played to-day.

BASEBALL.

The players on the Peterborough team will be shifted around considerably, this season, and although Mulhall will be missed at second base, the battery will have splendid support. Connors will be again found at 1st base, Dr. Scott will be brought to second base from third being replaced at the latter bag by Sheridan. Wally Parnell is again to play short stop. For outfield there are Melrose, Earls, Grady, Guerin and half a dozen other good ones to pick from.

With Kehoe to alternate with McCabe and Melrose to help out Graham the battery work of the team should be of the gilt edge order. If either McCabe or Graham had been hurt last season, the club would have been in a bad way.

It is to be hoped that the City League will again do business at the old stand.

The Port Hope club have expressed a willingness to play here on May 24th and the offer has been accepted.

The Electrics this year will be strengthened by the addition of Kehoe, who is now employed in the works.

LACROSSE.

As the Peterboroughs have no grounds of their own this year they will probably throw in their lot with the Vaticans, who should be able to put a team on the field that would keep any C. L. A. intermediate team hustling.

The members of the Y.M.C.A. lacross club had their first practice of the season last night, when a number of the boys made their appearance on Nicholls Park. Among those who were out was Robinson, formerly of several good Western Ontario teams, and who is now a teacher in the local Business College. Horace Ayres, McLeod, Oscar Dumble and a number of others were also out.

CRICKET.

The Colts cricket club have closed arrangements for a game here with T.C.S. for June 1st, with a return game in Port Hope on June 15th. An effort will be made to get the Lakefield eleven down to Peterborough for a match on June 8th.

The proposal to alter the law of "leg before the wicket" failed to obtain the necessary two-thirds majority at the meeting of the Marylebone Cricket Club yesterday, the voting being 259 in favor of alteration to 188 against. Thus, although the rule remains unaltered, it is evident that a very strong majority is in favor of the suggested change.

FOOTBALL.

The Y.M.C.A. football team had another excellent practice on Wednesday evening. Among the new men out were Horace Ayres, Dorris, Robinson and Percy Campbell. The men are getting into fine shape, and it is not unlikely that a game will be played on the Nicholls Oval on the afternoon of May 24th, between the Scots, of Toronto, and the locals. An effort is being made to get the Norwood team up for a game before that date.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Lillie Clysdale and Wm. H. Bell.

On Tuesday afternoon of this week the home of Mr. John H. Clysdale, Norwood, was the scene of a very happy and pleasant event, when his youngest daughter, Lillie, was united in marriage to Mr. Wilbert Halden Bell, of Lakefield.

At three o'clock while the wedding march was played, the bridal party entered. The bride, leaning on the arm of her father, was beautifully attired in a gown of white organdie with lace, insertion and ribbon, and was attended by Miss Lillian Bell, sister of the groom, who was also attired in a dainty gown of white organdie.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Albert Clysdale, brother of the bride. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. E. B. Cooke, assisted by Rev. A. W. Torrie, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, the happy couple were heartily congratulated by those present, after which they all retired to the dining hall, which was prettily decorated and where a dainty and well appointed repast was served.

The bride was the recipient of a handsome array of presents, among which was a beautiful gold crescent brooch, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was also the recipient of a pretty gold brooch. Mr. and Mrs. Bell have the best wishes of many frineds for a bright and happy future.

A RELIABLE PILE CURE.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is the safest and surest Pile Cure on the market, because it contains no mineral poisons nor opium nor cocaine, but can be used with absolute safety and certainty of cure.

Many physicians are now using the Pyramid Pile Cure in place of surgical operations, being painless, convenient to use, and the patient can attend to his daily occupation while the cure is being made, as it is used at night, and no additional treatment is necessary.

Dr. Wharton says the Pyramid Pile Cure will prove a blessing to mankind, when it is remembered that heretofore a surgical operation was considered the only cure with all its danger to life, intense pain and an expense of from ten to one hundred dollars, to say nothing of the possible return of the trouble. The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1.00, and does the work quickly and safely.

A book on cause and cure of piles will be mailed free by addressing Pyramid Co., Marshall, Mich.

WORLD'S BIGGEST PULP MILL.

New York Capitalists Propose to Erect It in Quebec.

North Sydney and Sault Ste. Marie are by no means the only centres in Canada of industrial developments of most unusual character aad magnitude. In the wild northern districts of the Province of Quebec, in the vicinity of Chicoutimi and Lake St. John, the pulp industry is making enormous strides, and in magnitude of operations this territory is about to break the world's record.

Negotiations have just been completed between the Government of the Province and a party of New York capitalists, by which the recent acquisition by the latter of the marvelous water-power of the Upper Saguénay, better known as the Grand Discharge of Lake St. John, will be utilized for operating the largest pulp mill in the world.

1,000 CAR MEN STRIKE

Sudden Tie-Up of the Lackawanna Car Shops at Scranton.

FOR THE RIGHT TO ORGANIZE.

French Miners Will Go to Work—Toledo Carpenters Win—Prospects of the Miners of England Striking Over the Coal Export Duty Lessening—There May, However, Be a Big Railway Strike.

Scranton, Pa., May 6.—More than one thousand employes of the car shops of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad at this place went on strike at noon on Saturday in support of the men at the Dover, N. J., shops, who are on strike for the reinstatement of two of their number, discharged because of activity in forming a union. It is reported here that the men in all the car shops along the line from Hoboken to Buffalo quit simultaneously with those of the larger shops here.

French Miners Will Go to Work.

Monteceu Les Mines, France, May 6—The miners' strike is apparently over. Work will be resumed to-day. Those who have been dismissed have consented to seek work elsewhere. The collapse of the strike is due to the outcome of the referendum, when only 30,000 miners favored a general stoppage of work.

Toledo Carpenters Win.

Toledo, Ohio, May 6.—The 700 union carpenters in Toledo have won their strike, and went back to work on Saturday, receiving $2.40 for eight hours, instead of $2.25 for nine hours, as was the case before the strike.

British Miners Divided.

London, May 6.—There are further indications that the coal-owners and merchants are wavering in regard to the advisability of urging the miners to close the pits. The divisions among men, too, are becoming more marked.

The Derbyshire Miners' Association, representing 30,000 persons, on Saturday unanimously passed a resolution against the export tax on coal, but by a small majority decided not to stop work.

On the other hand, the Northumberland delegates, at a meeting at Newcastle, unanimously decided to support the strike.

The Durham miners, at a meeting, agreed to abide by the decision of the National Conference.

The Lancashire and Cheshire miners took up a similar attitude. Those of the Yorkshire voted against the strike, the opinion being expressed that if the men agreed to a shutdown of the pits, the owners should continue paying their wages.

MAY BE TROUBLE YET.

Friction Between Northwestern Railway and Its Employes.

London, May 6.—The long-deferred, but inevitable struggle between the railways of England and the employes' union threatens to be precipitated by a dispute with the Northwestern Railway, the greatest English system.

The directors recently dismissed eight men, and transferred others who were concerned in a libel case, brought by a district superintendent against a newspaper of the union. The paper alleged that the superintendent was a drunkard, but did not produce any evidence to support the charge, and the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff. The company then, as a result of an investigation, disciplined the men on the ground that they were engaged in an alleged conspiracy. The company's case thus far is weak, so far as the public is concerned, because while announcing the reasons for the action, it does not give the facts, and the men deny the charge that the union made this a test case.

The crisis will probably be reached this week, when the directors will give a final decision, from which the chairman announces in yesterday's papers there will be no change.

Boston, May 6.—The strike of the electric linemen, decided upon Thursday night, took place on Saturday, and involves about 400 men.

World Eats More Sugar.

London, May 6.—An important paper by Dr. Willoughby Gardner on the dietic value of sugar appears in The British Medical Journal. He says that the world's consumption of sugar during the last 15 years has doubled, while that of Great Britain has trebled per head in the last 40 years. The English and Americans head the list as sugar-eating people. Dr. Gardner establishes the fact that sugar is a potent creator of energy and a maintainer of stamina.

Greatest Ice Blockade Ever Known.

Detroit, Mich., May 6.—There are more boats tied up along the docks here and lying in the stream, or fast in the ice above and below the St. Clair River, than there ever have been in the history of navigation on the great lakes. Fully 40 big boats are held up between Port Huron and Algonac. It has been figured out that every day that sees the fleet tied up by the ice and engineers' strike means a loss on freight of $150,000.

Shamrock Second Aground.

Southampton, May 6. — The trial of the Shamrock II. yesterday had a rather unfortunate conclusion, for she went ashore on a bank close to the Warner Lightship. The trial was practically over, and she came sharp around the lightship to return to her moorings, when she grounded on the sand. The yacht sustained absolutely no damage.

Owen Sound, May 6.—R. O. Jolliffe, B. BATTLE NOW GOING ON Delarey Concentrated His Forces Around Hartbeestefontein.

KITCHENER REPORTS A VICTORY

A Loss Rumored—Col. Denison and Patrol of Scouts Said to Have Been Captured—President McKinley Will Not Receive Mr. Kruger—Has Declined to Meet Him in Any Way.

Johannesburg, May 3.—Gen. Delarey, the Boer commander, has four or five thousand men in the hills around Hartbeestefontein. Gen. Babington, in command of the British forces in the district, is without a sufficient force to attack and is observing the Boers, while Gens. Methuen and Rawlinson are converging hither. A battle appears imminent.

Another British Victory.

London, May 6.—The War Office has received the following report from Lord Kitchener, under date of Pretoria, May 3: "Ten Boers have been killed, three wounded, 18 have surrendered, and 280,000 rounds of small arm ammunition, 100 wagons and 2,070 horses have been captured since last report."

Denison's Scouts Captured.

London, May 6.—"News has arrived here," says the Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Express, "that Col. Denison, with a patrol of scouts, has been captured. The location of the mishap is not known in Cape Town."

Refugees Return to Johannesburg.

Cape Town, May 5.—About 1,500 uitlanders have returned to Johannesburg from Natal since the beginning of the year. The number will probably be considerably augmented during the next few months.

McKinley Won't See Kruger.

London, May 6.—The Geneva correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that President McKinley has informed Mr. Kruger that he can not receive him either officially or unofficially.

THE MANCHURIAN FIGHTING.

Russians Say Two Bands of Chinese Robbers Have Been Annihilated.

St. Petersburg, May 6.—The Rusky Invalid publishes details of the recent operations in Manchuria. It appears that the North Manchurian division, under Gen. Zerpitski, fought over 20 engagements, losing altogether 24 men killed and 7 officers and 61 men wounded (two officers having died of their wounds). A quantity of guns and rifles were captured.

The total results of the operations is that of three bands, which at the beginning of the year were menacing the peace of Manchuria, two have been annihilated, according to The Russky Invalid, and the third, after sustaining a number of defeats, is now being pursued by the Russian division.

Fired on British Tug.

Tien Tsin, May 4.—Some German soldiers who were guarding a German bridge across the Pei Ho River, at the south end of the British concession here, fired on a British tug, the Ego, this morning, wounding two of the crew. The bridge impedes river traffic, and the tug touched it.

CAPT. BERNIER'S FUND.

Subscriptions Already Received by Canada's North Pole Hunter.

Ottawa, May 6.—Reports from all quarters indicate a growing interest in the Canadian North Pole expedition. Among those who have subscribed to the national fund are: His Excellency the Earl of Minto, $500; the Hon. R. R. Dobell, M.P., $1,000, and Mr. W. C. Edwards, M.P., $500. As the expedition is purely a Canadian undertaking, to be commanded by a Canadian, it is hoped all Canadians will contribute to the fund.

The gallant captain says he has now $10,000 promised. It depends upon the manner in which the public support him by subscriptions whether the Government will give him financial aid or not.

TWO MILES OF RUINS

Homes of 10,000 Jacksonville People Burned Down.

FIRE DROVE MANY TO DEATH.

The City Is Under Martial Law and Jacksonville Has Organized Calmly and Deliberately for Relief Work—Very Many Have Gone to St. Augustine Temporarily for Shelter —The Relief Train.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 6—Jacksonville's great fire, which began on Friday, has burned itself out. One hundred and forty-eight blocks of a beautiful city have been laid waste. The loss will not be known even approximately for a week, but it is said to amount to $10,000,000.

There are many rumors afloat of loss of life, but as every undertaker in the city was burned out, it is impossible to obtain an official report. One story which is persistently reiterated is to the effect that a party of men and women driven to the docks by the fire were compelled to jump into the water and that several of them were drowned. Mrs. Hogan, a negro woman, was burned in her house, and her charred remains were buried Saturday afternoon.

The burned district is 13 blocks wide and two miles long, and extends from the St. John's River, where it burned ten docks to the water's edge, to Catherine street on the east, Orange on the north and Davis to the west. This immense area was swept as clear as a floor.

The city is under martial law, and all of the available State militia is on duty in the streets of Jacksonville. Some order is being brought out of the confusion. Jacksonville is facing the emergency calmly, and has organized for relief work.

Ten thousand people are homeless, and many of them left on afternoon and night trains for St. Augustine and other coast cities and nearby towns, while numerous river craft took many to places on the St. John's River.

The prompt action of Secretary of War Root in tendering the use of the barracks at Fort Barrancas, near St. Augustine, was received with gratitude on every side. The east coast train, leaving here at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, carried over 2,000 people to St. Augustine, who hope to receive temporary shelter from the government.

A committee was appointed at a meeting of citizens to telegraph the Governors of various States to send all tents they can spare to Jacksonville. It will be weeks before anything like permanent shelter can be provided for the homeless thousands and Jacksonville for some time to come will be a city of tents.

At 7 o'clock Saturday morning Governor Jennings declared the city under martial law. The city is patrolled and the entrances to the burned districts are guarded by sentinels.

The disaster has effectually obliterated the dividing line between the rich and poor, and a common catastrophy has made all akin. Beautiful women, wealthy yesterday, penniless to-day, sat on the curb beside the beggar, sharing alike the pitiless fate that befell them both.

Saturday night the sidewalks were thronged with homeless people. The wharves were crowded with sleepers, and every available craft in the harbor had been made into a temporary home.

Religious services were held on Sunday in the open air, Not a city church remains standing.

Jacksonville was in total darkness last night, save for the red reflection that burns in the sky in the western portion of the city, marking the vast fields of glowing embers that now and then are fanned into flame.

Relief Trains Arrive.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 6.—The hunger of ten thousand homeless people was satisfied yesterday upon the arrival of relief trains and boats, bringing provisions from neighboring towns. SPRING TONIC FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.—The Spring is a dangerous time for young people. You don't know what kind of fever is going to be epidemic. The best thing to do is to take Powley's Liquified Ozone—a dose three times a day and one before retiring. The antiseptic effect of the condensed oxygen prevents any germ attack, and the blood and stomach are made pure and kept in good working order. Powley's Liquified Ozone is a splendid blood purifier for the Spring. Mrs. Auld, North Starr street, Richmond, Halifax, says:—

"It is with pleasure I give testimony to the curative qualities of Ozone. My daughter was greatly afflicted with eczema, her body was raw with sores. She was treated by one of the best doctors in Halifax without receiving any benefit. I heard of Ozone—procured it; she received immediate relief. She has taken three bottles, and seems now to be well. Her general health is greatly improved."

Powley's Liquified Ozone is for sale, 50c and $1.00 a bottle, at all druggists. Write the Ozone Co., of Toronto, 48 Colborne street, Toronto, for their literature. You will get some valuable health hints free.

Scrofula

Is a disease as old as antiquity, and as young as the newest born infant.

It has infested the blood of humanity from ancient times down to the present minute.

It is hereditary or may be acquired.

It appears in swollen glands, scrofulous sores, hip disease, boils, pimples, eruptions, and, as believed by high authorities, even in the forms of catarrh and rheumatism.

It can be cured by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla faithfully and peraistently.

We know this, because Hood's Sarsaparilla has done it.

It will cure you if you give it a trial.

You should begin to take it today.

That was because of poor lasting—the stretch had been left in them.

Only good leather can stand this process, but it takes all the stretch forever out of the shoes.

AMONG THE INDIANS

THE BISHOP OF MOOSONEE TELLS ABOUT THE CREES.

All the Red Men Can Use the Pen and Read as Well—Scattered for Eight Months, They Spend the Remaining Four Months of the Year in a Convivial Manner at the Fort.

Bishop Newnham, who recently made a 350 mile snowshoe walk, tells some very interesting facts about the Cree Indians, with whom he has come in contact.

The members of that branch of the tribe, which composes the Bishop's diocese, have now been Christians for two generations. And they are a unique instance of a savage people who have embraced the virtues, and some of the advantages of Christian civilization without adopting its vices and evils as well. For though the Crees, who make their headquarters at Moose Factory, still live the nomadic life of their pagan forefathers, and subsist by hunting and fishing, and are as much the children of the woods as they ever were; they are nevertheless civilized in the truest sense of the term. They no longer abandon their old people or let their sickly children die from exposure.

BISHOP NEWNHAM OF MOOSONEE.

The women are not treated like beasts of burden, but the men bear the heaviest part of the work, and though not provident, they are industrious in their own way. And there is scarcely a person over thirteen years of age who cannot read and write in the Cree language, though it is true their library is not an extensive one, consisting only of a Bible, a Prayer Book, a hymn book, Pilgrim's Progress, the Peep of Day, and a simple Scripture catechism. For during the months of June, July, August and September, when the Indians have brought in their furs and are camped about the trading post, the children go to the day school at the mission, and a religious service is held daily, and well attended.

Toward the end of September they begin to leave for their hunting grounds, and scatter over thousands of miles of land. Each family has its own definite territory. Its members pitch their wigwam in one part of it; and while the women and children keep house and snare rabbits for food, the men circle round and round, setting their traps for their furry prey. Of these, foxes and lynx, minks and martins, fishers, and otters, form the greater part, with occasionally a beaver or a rare silver fox to swell their tally at the company's store. Sometimes, too, the hunter will come across the track of a moose or caribou, and will follow it for days, sleeping on its trail at night, in order that he may get a little venison to vary the monotonous diet of fish, rabbit, salt pork and flour. After a while when the wild things begin to get shy of the traps, the parties strike camp and move to another part of the family estate, where the same tactics are repeated.

And so the long winter passed, until the spring comes, the ice breaks up again, and the clan begins to gather to the fort again. Every day family after family paddle in with their canoe loads of furry freight, which they transfer to the factor of the Hudson's Bay Company in exchange for the necessaries of life, and some of its luxuries, much in the same way as their fathers and grandfathers for hundreds of years have done, except that the price of furs and supplies are now definitely fixed, and the price of a single gun is no longer determined by the number of beaver pelts that would have to be piled up to give the same height.

When the furs are disposed of, the company puts the men to work, some getting in the hay crop and some working in the potato field; while others again load and unload the ships in the bay, get ballast for it, and man the canoes which take supplies to the other forts. And so much of the time is spent.

But the summer is also the Crees' social season. And although they have not for generations indulged in the sun-dance or dog-dance, yet the stalwart braves and dusky belles who gather to Moose Factory for "the season" are as fond of shaking their feet in a rude country hoe-down as the swells of Niagara-on-the-Lake or any other fashionable summer resort are of tripping the light fantastic in a dreamy waltz or lively two-step. Accordingly, whenever the use of one of the company's buildings can be obtained, a tom-tom, or where possible, a violin, supplies the necessary music, and the fun waxes fast and furious.

Such is the life of this branch of the Cree tribe to-day. The Great Company will sell them no liquor, and so they have been saved from the red man's curse. Occasionally they make a little berry wine, or "sugar beer," but drunkenness is rare among them. Except for a certain amount of scrofula and consumption brought on by exposure and hardships, they are a healthy people, and frequently reach ninety and even a hundred years of age. Instead of diminishing in number, like their brethren of the western plains, they are increasing, and as the "fur-bearing animals are steadily becoming fewer in that region, the Government will have to do something for them before long.

The Bishop agrees with his colleagues in the assertion that this branch of the noble redskin is worth saving, and after ten years among them he repudiates most emphatically the old saying that "The only good Indian is a dead Indian."

HEART BURIALS.

Old Custom of Interring Separately the Seat of the Affections.

It has been ascertained by examination of monuments containing heart burials that a small metal vase, or jar, or box, about five or six inches in diameter, has served as the depository for the organ so generally considered as the seat of the affections. They are usually furnished with lids or covers. The material varies; some are of lead, one has been noticed of iron, and the hearts of persons of high degree have been placed in tiny caskets made of silver. In taking down a wall in Waverley Abbey, a heart was found between two leaden dishes which were soldered together. In many instances a cavity has been made in the centre of a stone, and the receptacle placed in it and covered by another stone.

Some churches appear to have been specially preferred in this matter, Ludlow church, for instance, was chosen for the resting place of the heart of Prince Arthur, son of Henry VII., and when Sir Henry Sidney died, though his body was buried at Penshurst, in Kent, his heart was sent to Ludlow and placed in the tomb that hold the remains of his daughter Ambrosia. A third heart buried here was that of a member of the Vaughan family of Merioneth. Queen Eleanor's heart was buried in Blackfriar's church, where that of her son Alphonso had previously been interred, though her body, brought with so much pageantry and ceremony from Lincolnshire, was entombed with every solemnity in Westminster Abbey. Two heart burials have been noticed as having taken place in Waverley Abbey, and two in Ely cathedral. The Church of the Greyfriars in London was also chosen for this purpose on several occasions.—Chambers' Journal.

The Druggists are Busy.

Druggists report great demand for the new 25c cent size of Catarrhozone, and today's sales almost cleared out their stock. They explain this rapid run on Catarrhozone by the fact that it gives better satisfaction than any other remedy on the market. Druggists say that Catarrhozone is the only remedy that really does cure Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma. It relieves quickly, is pleasant and convenient to use, and guaranteed to cure or your money refunded. Readers suffering from Irritable Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, etc., are strongly advised to try Catarrhozone. It never fails to cure even the worst cases.

CANADA AT GLASGOW.

Canadian Exhibits at the Big International—Canada's Bright Prospects at the Exhibition.

Mr. S. McClelland of the Northern Navigation Company, Collingwood, who has just returned from a trip to Glasgow, says the great Exhibition there, which is to be opened on May 2 by the Duchess of Fife, is unique in that everything is practically in place awaiting the opening. This is a condition quite unprecedented in exhibitions of the scope and size of the Glasgow International. Mr. McClelland had a talk with Mr. W. D. Scott, the Canadian commissioner, while in Glasgow. Mr. Scott told him that Canada's display will be one of the best in the whole exhibition. The bulk of the exhibits have been removed from Paris, where, as everyone knows, they gained very high awards and have been distributed between two buildings—the main industrial hall and the special Canadian building. The latter is of Grecian design, the material being of fibre plaster or staff, as it is more commonly called. It is beautifully located on the rising ground in Kelvingrove Park in front of the university. Between it and the university are the Russian buildings, which, with their towers and minarets in Oriental style, form a very effective background. The Canadian building is devoted chiefly to the machinery display of the Dominion, while in the main building manufactures and mining exhibits are shown. In ores and foodstuffs Canada will probably sweep the board. The specimens of gold, copper, silver and other ores are the best the country could send, while the fruit exhibit, Mr. McClelland says, will without doubt be as successful as Canadian fruit was at Paris.

Glasgow is making great preparations for the exhibition, one of the most important being the substitution of electric street cars for the old horse cars. Everything is ready for the new system, which will be started up some day immediately before the opening of the exhibition. The feeling towards Canadians in Glasgow is very warm, and many visitors are expected from the Dominion.

THE QUARTERMASTER.

Importance of the Office Not Fully Measured by Military Men.

In the course of a most interesting lecture upon lessons taught by the South African campaign, recently delivered at Ottawa by Capt. C. F. Winter, Adjutant of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, and a company officer and Assistant Adjutant of the Royal Canadian Regiment, the following interesting passage occurs:

"Referring to the position of Quartermaster, the lecturer contended that we never have in Canada given this appointment the attention, etc., it deserved. On service the Quartermaster was the man, and the post should be made sufficiently attractive to insure getting the very best man in a regiment to fill it. In this connection the Royal Canadians had been very fortunate in the latter part of the campaign, as their Quartermaster had shone as the very best transport officer in the division. His mules and niggers were always in the best of shape, and many a time late at night, when a particularly bad drift had delayed all second line transport in rear, the Canadians were the first to get a warm meal, the only one since daylight that morning, and due to the energy and foresight of their Quartermaster. At this point Col. Cotton, D. O. C., asked Capt. Winter if he would give the officer's name, when he said he referred to Lieut. Lafferty, R. C. A., who had proved such an admirable transport officer. When mentioning names, however, it was only fair to add that of Mr. Lafferty's assistant, Quartermaster-Sergeant Galloway of the permanent corps, London, Ont., as worthy of much praise in his department."

Canadian Peerages.

Mr. Henry J. Morgan writes from Ottawa to The Scottish-American Journal: In reference to the statement made in your Canadian notes, that "There are now three Canadian peerages, namely, those of Lord Mountstephen, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, and the Baroness Macdonald of Ernescliffe," permit me to point out that, in addition thereto, there are no less than three peers and one peeress, whose present titles were obtained for services rendered to the Crown in Canada. These are the Baroness Dorchester, Earl Amherst, the Marquis of Townshend and Baron Seaton. There are also sitting in the House of Lords at the present time six peers who are natives of Canada, namely, the Earl of Erroll (hereditary Lord High Constable of Scotland and knight marischal of that kingdom), the Earl of Elgin and Kincardine, the Earl of Albemarle, the Earl of Stamford, Baron De Blaquiere, Great Alengar of Ireland, and Baron Hailburton of Windsor, Nova Scotia. The Earl of Carnwarth is the son of a Canadian mother, and Baron Curew and Viscount Hill possess Canadian wives. Viscount Milton, the son and heir of Earl Fitzwilliam, is likewise a Canadian by birth, as is also Colonel the Hon. Matthew Aylmer, so long a resident of Canada. From the above it will be seen that the Dominion is more fully represented in the second branch of the supreme legislature of the Empire than is generally supposed.

DOANS

THE WAIL OF THE BACK.

DOANS

'TIS A WARNING CRY OF KIDNEY ILLS.
DON'T NEGLECT AN ACHING BACK.
PROMPT ACTION SAVES TROUBLE.

Urinary Troubles lead to Dropsy, Diabetes and Bright's Disease, and are caused by neglecting the first pain in the back. DOAN'S PILLS absolutely cure Backache and all Urinary Troubles. Read these testimonials:

MR. BENJAMIN STEWART, of Zionville, N.B., writes:

"For four months I was troubled with lame back, which was so bad at times I was unable to turn myself in bed without help. I tried plasters and liniments of all kinds, but none of them helped me. A friend of mine induced me to try Doan's Pills, and by the time I had used one box my backache had disappeared and is as strong and well as ever it was. I can faithfully recommend Doan's Pills to anyone troubled with lame back or urinary troubles."

MRS. GEO. H. ALWARD, White's Point, N.B., writes:

"I was so bad with backache that I could scarcely move around the house. My feet and ankles swelled up and were so painful that I could get no rest night or day. I tried several remedies, but they seemed to do me no good. I was advised to give Doan's Pills a trial, and from the first I perceived a decided change for the better, and by the time I had taken three boxes I could do my house work as well as ever and am completely cured. I cannot say too much as to the merits of Doan's Pills when I consider the health I now enjoy."

MR. BENJAMIN BROOKS, West Cape, P.E.I., writes:

"I contracted a severe cold which settled in the small of my back and was so sore that I could hardly walk. I procured a box of Doan's Pills, and by the time I had taken them I was completely cured. I might also say that my little boy was troubled with his kidneys. We tried several remedies, but none did him any good until we tried Doan's Pills. They proved to be what he wanted and have made a complete cure. I cannot recommend them too highly to all kidney sufferers."

Convincing Reasons

Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

Men's Meeting.

There was a large attendance at the Y.M.C.A., yesterday, when Evangelist Cromble gave an interesting address. Valuable Hints on Photography by G. E. Whiten, Photographic Artist.

Expression is one of the main points. Some parties think that pressing the lips together makes the mouth smaller. Not so. Slightly touch the lips and look mild as possible as the eyes have a great deal to do with expression. G. E. Whiten's Art Studio, 158 Hunter street, sign of the Golden Camera.

Song Sermon.

The regular monthly song sermon in connection with Charlotte street Methodist church was held last night, and proved to be particularly interesting. The congregation was exceptionally large, and the singing by 55 little children was exceedingly well performed. The children were trained by Mrs. Pearce and Rev. D. O. Crossley. Miss Campbell, pianiste of the Sunday school, presided at the organ.

Tree Planting.

That the work of the Ashburnham Civic Association consists of more than talk was amply demonstrated on Friday last when a number of the enthusiastic members of the organization turned out with pick and shovel and planted one hundred and twenty-eight trees on the streets, under the direction of Mr. H. T. Strickland, who took over the command in the absence of Rev. H. Symonds.

SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Has Become a Leading Feature in Peterborough These Days.

Sunday baseball has again become a great line of sport amongst a certain class of young men and boys in Peterborough and Ashburnham, and an effort should be made to stamp out such desecration.

Yesterday afternoon a visitor in the vicinity of Burnham's Point saw fifteen or twenty young men and boys uniformed in sweaters, etc., enjoying themselves at the game of baseball. They were watched by an equal number, who applauded enthusiastically and created a general disturbance. The police should make a raid on the Point some of these fine Sunday afternoons.

NEW CAMP ARRANGEMENTS.

The Third Dragoons are Always to the Fore — Dining Tents.

The time for the annual camps of instruction for the various rural regiments is fast approaching and the members of the corps are beginning to look about themselves. It is said that the non-coms. and men of the Third Dragoons will enjoy a vastly different style of camp than heretofore in the matter of how they will dine. It is said that large tents will be utilized for this purpose, and that each squadron, therefore, will be bunched together under their respective tents.

This arrangement will be gladsome news to the non-coms. and men, as the old style of dining in the tents was most unsatisfactory and had a tendency to keep the tents in a filthy condition.

The Sergeants and Staff-Sergeants, too, will have separate quarters.

This move on the part of the Mess Committee of the Third Dragoons is to be highly commended, and is only another instance of the thoughtfulness of the officers towards the men.

The Ontario Bank has always catered to the requirements of its cheese patrons, and this book, which has been sent to all the buyers in the district, is another evidence of the care and attention bestowed in this line by the bank.

BABE IN THE WOODS.

The Little Child of Mr. John McManus Becomes Lost—His Faithful Dog.

A rather pathetic story comes from Bridgenorth of a five year old child and his faithful dog. The little boy of Mr. John McManus, living near Bridgenorth, who lost his wife by the hand of death only last week, was the important personage in the little incident.

The child on Saturday wandered off in search of May flowers, accompanied only by his faithful dog. He went into the woods some distance from the house and soon became lost, and night was fast approaching. Finally, he came to the edge of the woods, but knew not where he was, nor did he have any idea of the lay of the country. He therefore made up his mind to travel no more, for fear that he would get further than ever away from his home. A large straw pile close by the edge of the woods struck the little fellow as a most reasonable place to sleep for the night, so he dug out a little hole and lay down. The dog lay down beside him, in fact it lay on top of him.

When little McManus did not put in an appearance, Mr. McManus naturally became alarmed about the whereabouts of his child. A searching party was at once organized, and the country around about was scoured. On Sunday morning one of the party came across the child and his dog huddled close together in their nest. The youngster recollected all that had happened, and was quite cool and collected.

His Services in South Africa Recognised by Lord Roberts.

Mrs. George Kirkpatrick, who has been spending the winter in town, has received word from England that Capt. Kirkpatrick has been specially mentioned in Lord Roberts' dispatches and promoted to a brevet majority for his services in South Africa.

Major Kirkpatrick has served as D. A. A. G. of Intelligence on the staffs of Generals Ian Hamilton, Sir Archibald Hunter and Tucker, and is now the Chief Intelligence Officer in the Orange River Colony with head quarters at Bloomfontein. Lord Roberts' dispatches are dated in November last but are only being published now.

He is a first cousin of Mr. Ernie Wasson, of town.

MR. CRANE RESIGNS.

St. Paul's to Lose its Gifted Organist—Wants to be Relieved by July 1st.

The fact that Mr. John Crane has resigned his position as organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's church will be learned with general regret by the members of the choir, the congregation and the public at large.

Mr. Crane has had charge of the choir of St. Paul's church for the past eight years, and during that time has so raised the standard of the music handled that the choir is equalled by but few and surpassed by none in the town. The delightful concerts given by choruses under his direction from time to time, have done much to educate the taste of the Peterborough public to an appreciation of the highest class of music.

Mr. Crane determined some time ago that his multifarious duties were becoming too burdensome to be undertaken for a longer period, and decided to give up the church organ. His resignation was placed in the hands of the church managers some time ago, but was not accepted at the time, the committee asking Mr. Crane to reconsider his decision. At a meeting held Friday evening by the managers, Mr. Crane announced his decision as unalterable, and requested the committee to make arrangements to relieve him not later than July 1st.

MR. MADILL'S SEND OFF.

He was Presented with a Very Handsome Gold Headed Cane.

Last Saturday at the residence of Mr. Matthew Madill, Rubidge street, a number of the electrical staff of the C. G. E. Co. gathered to give him a royal send off. Mr. Madill has been head of the test department for a number of years, and is about to take his departure for a broader field.

The evening was spent in a very social manner, consisting of instrumental and vocal music, games and a number of phonographic selections.

One of the surprises of the evening was a presentation of a gold headed cane to Mr. Madill. He responded in a very amiable manner, expressing his thanks for his friends' kindness.

Mr. Madill's many friends will regret to learn of his departure from Peterborough, but they will all join in wishing him success in his new situation.

The party broke up about midnight, after singing "He's a jolly good fellow."

REV. MR. GOFORTH'S SERMON

He Preached in St. Andrew's Last Night.

Has Been a Missionary in China for a Number of Years—Interesting Discourse.

The sixty-sixth anniversary services in connection with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, commenced yesterday. The pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, occupied the pulpit in the morning, and in the evening the service was in charge of Rev. Jonathan Goforth, of Honan, China. Rev. Mr. Goforth is a missionary who has laboured in the cause of Christianity for many years in the Celestial Land and his discourse was along missionary lines, The congregations on both occasions were exceptionally large and the music was of a special nature.

In the evening, at St. Andrew's, Rev. Mr. Goforth took for his text the words of St. Mark's Gospel, "Go ye unto all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature." He commenced his discourse by asking whether or not the missionaries were the cause of the great crisis that occurred in China a year ago, and continuing, endeavoured to show that they were not. For fifty years or more missionaries have been going to China to preach the Gospel and their work was at last beginning to be felt. Their teachings had an influence upon the Emperor, who became inquisitive as to the literature that was being distributed and began to study the same. Then he called upon his nation to reform their system of government, their system of education, and their systems of many other things. He did in fact want to adopt the word of God, and it looked as if a movement was in progress which would revolutionize their entire style of living. However, it was going too fast, and the Empress Dowager, planned to massacre all the missionaries and to annihilate all who were Christians—in short, she desired to stamp out the word of God. In her efforts she had the Army and Navy in her possession and while the Emperor thought that Great Britain and the United States would help him, in this he was disappointed.

After this brief history of the circumstances immediately preceeding the late crisis, the speaker went on to discuss the great causes which in his mind led up to the Boxer movement. There was first, the land grabbing greed of the great Nations of the universe. Germany had long wanted a piece of China, and on the pretext of revenge for the murder of two Roman Catholic priests, she attempted to seize three Provinces to the north. Russia had an eye on a certain port in the north of China, Great Britain was not at all pleased at seeing other nations get in and did not want to take second place to any of them. France was laying claim to four of the southern provinces, while Italy, too, had a liking for a portion of China. Then there was Japan, though not a Christian nation, has a good idea of herself. With all these land grabbing nations around about them, the people of China, or a certain portion thereof, thought that these nations had no conscience and said that they would defend their homes to the last. The Boxers, a patriotic society, arose; a better name for them would be patriots. It is by no means a national movement, and is confined chiefly to the north. They determined to drive out the foreigners as invaders.

Continuing, Rev. Mr. Goforth took up a recent speech of Lord Salisbury, in which he would have one believe that the missionaries were to blame for the crisis, and in which he said—1st, Missionaries; then Consuls, and then Generals. The speaker ridiculed this assertion and said that he wished that the merchants and engineers who went out were as careful about their treatment towards the Chinese as were the missionaries, and incidentally he mentioned that he himself had commonly seen a foreigner slap a Chinamen in the face for being in the former's way, perhaps. The Chinaman has rights as well as the rest of us.

Lord Salisbury well knew, however, that Britain was the first nation to send opium to China—sent it by force, at that, and it is doing more harm than a hundred armies. The speaker was British through and through, and while he knew that she had done more for humanity than any other nation, still he was forced to say that she had made a mistake in regard to the opium trade.

The second reason the speaker assigned for the uprising, was the methods of the Roman Catholic missions, which he criticized very freely. He would not say that perhaps the missionaries in some cases were to some extent the cause of strife, but did not Christ say that He would send peace with the sword? But missionaries alone, said the speaker, never caused that convulsion which astonished the Christian world.

Many amusing and interesting stories were related by the reverend gentleman concerning the manners and customs of the Chinese, as well as o his own personal experience there. He is not discouraged, he says, and hopes to return before long to continue the work he enjoys so much.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Miss Clara Belleghem, formerly of the George street church choir, has commenced her duties as leading soloist in St. Andrew's choir.

Miss Mowat very efficiently presided at the organ in St. John's church yesterday, and her work was the subject of favourable comment.

Miss Annie Dunn, formerly organist of St. Paul's church, Norwood, sang the selection Ave Maria, by Millard, at 10.30 mass, and in the evening Miss Dunn sang a beautiful arrangement of O Salutaris.

Mr. Mulligan and the choir rendered a selection entitled "Come to Jesus" in splendid voice at George street church last evening. The anthem "Softly now the light of day" was also sung with solo by soprano. Two very pleasing anthems were also rendered at the morning service.

A DREAM.

I stood where gifts were showered on men from heaven,
And some had honors and the joy thereof,
And some received with solemn, radiant faces
The gift of love.

The green I saw of bay leaves and of laurel,
Of gold the gleam.
A voice spoke to me, standing empty handed,
"For thee—a dream."

Forbear to pity ye who, richly laden,
Forth from the place of heaven's bounty went.
Who marvel that I smile, my hands still empty;
I am content.

Ye cannot guess how dowered beyond the measure
Of your receiving to myself I seem.
Lonely and cold, I yet pass on enraptured;
I have my dream.

—Anne Reeve Aldrich.

WHEN THE YAQUIS ROSE

BY M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.

They said it was a reckless thing to do and that only Americans would have attempted it. On the west side of the Sierra Madre mountains in Mexico are the roaming grounds of the Yaqui Indians, and between the Yaqui and Fuerte rivers is their main stronghold. And yet we opened the Sunset mine with only the mountain range between us and every man from president to the cheapest workman realizing that we might be attacked at any hour. The Yaquis have warred with the Mexicans for the last 200 years, and their hands are raised against all others who invade their domains.

We were months in getting machinery over from Chihuahua, erecting buildings and fairly opening the mine, and, though we had a guard of 50 Mexican soldiers, we worked in the shadow of death, as it were. If the Yaquis came through the pass, they would come in such numbers as to overwhelm us. Strangely enough, as we thought at the time, they let us alone, and at length the guard was withdrawn, and we were left to ourselves. We had a force of 30 white men and 100 peon laborers. Not one of these peons could be depended on in case of a row. The engine house we made our fort, and 30 men behind its loopholed walls would make a good fight of it. But yet we had something more than powder and lead to depend upon. If the Yaquis came through the mountain pass, they would approach the works, two miles distant, by way of two ravines which led quite to our doors. In some places these ravines were only six or seven feet deep, in others over 30, with stone walls on either side. Under the direction of a civil engineer powder and dynamite charges were hidden away in these walls and buried in the earth and wires connected with the power house and an electric battery.

Had it been possible to buy the friendship of the Yaquis we should have attempted it and thus secured our safety, but we knew they were not to be tempted by anything we could offer. We had been working full force for three months, with an alarm now and then, when we learned why we had not been disturbed by raiding parties. The whole fighting force of the Yaquis, numbering between 4,000 and 5,000, was gathering for a grand effort to sweep across the mountains and clear the country to the Rio Grande. This had been the dream of the chief for years, and his people had been treasuring up rifles and ammunition. When the force was finally ready to move, the Mexican government was powerless to stop it except on the north, and it was too late to send out anything like a general alarm. The 4,000 well armed savages, knowing no mercy, fell upon prospector, freighter, hunter, miner and villager, and not a man escaped from their hands. Almost by accident we got word of the movement, and the mine was closed, the peons were sent away, and we prepared for a siege. Lookouts were established along both ravines, and we had four days in which to hear the tales of panic stricken fugitives who passed our way.

The Yaquis had no pity for age, sex or condition. They found the people almost defenseless, and when they had captured a village every man, woman and child was put to the torture. Every habitation was burned, live stock was slaughtered, and even the dogs and cats were killed. The idea was to leave nothing alive behind them. The army did not push forward at swift pace, but dallied along and spent hours witnessing the torture of its victims. We knew when the Indians finally entered the mountain pass, headed straight for us, and it was half an hour before sunset one evening when we saw the first of their force debouch on the plain and begin a close survey of our situation. We were ready for them, but we knew that no attack would be made before morning. They would have had a long march and be fatigued, and they would wait until all their force was up. An hour after sunrise next morning we witnessed a spectacle that made the flesh creep a bit. Fully 4,000 Yaquis gathered in a compact body between us and the mouth of the pass and chanted a wild and savage song, and we were only 30 against them. They sent no flag of truce to demand a surrender. They may have even hoped we would show fight, as they had met with no resistance as yet.

As we had hoped and planned for, the Yaquis advanced by the ravines. A body of about 500 was told off for each ravine, skirmishers were sent on ahead, and the main body looked on. Thirty men with Winchester rifles inside of a stone fort are no mean foe, but we soon realized that in this case we were almost helpless. So swiftly and steadily did the Indians advance and so hot was their fire at the loopholes that we soon had five men killed and could not reply except at great risk. Their advance was within a stone's throw of us in both ravines when we resorted to the electric wires. Few men will ever witness the sight we did. There was a series of explosions which shook the earth for miles around, with bursts of flame and smoke leaping to the clouds, and after one fearful yell there was silence in both ravines. It was half an hour before the smoke blew away so that we could see the main band. The warriors stood there without movement, seeming to have been struck dumb, and it was another hour before they broke up into small parties and marched into the mouth of the pass. We thought it a ruse, and no man left the power house until next afternoon. Then it was discovered that they had gone for good, and that without looking after their killed or wounded.

Down in the two ravines, buried under the debris or lying scorched and torn and mangled among the rocks, were over 900 warriors, all wiped out at the tick of the clock. It was such a stupendous loss, such a terrible and mysterious calamity, that even the fierce Yaquis were terror stricken and turned back. They returned to their valley, awed and frightened, telling a story that awed and frightened those left behind, and from that date their power was broken. They have made war since only in small parties and in a half hearted way, and their dream of driving out the Gringo and the Mexican and recovering their own has been shattered forever.

The Women Shave Their Heads.

One part of Egypt shows where the outward and visible evidences of the aboriginal have been softened down with a veneer which the softeners fondly imagined is indicative of inward and spiritual grace. This is along a 350 mile stretch of the White Nile, where the Shilluks live and move and have their being.

Now, the Shilluks are a picturesque and a promising people. They have their Fashoda for a capital and their memories of Lord Kitchener of Khartum which no man may take from them. Wherefore, what matters it that they have lost their original lawlessness, their former turbulence and their cheerful specialty of roasting the enemy on the point of the spit?

Now the Shilluks are so civilized they carry short wooden clubs after the fashion of the Broadway policeman and occasionally brandish a long spear in true light opera style. They lead an enviable life, these Shilluks; nothing to do all the livelong day but lie on the mossy bank and spear the horny hided hippopotamus as he glides within range, or make a dead crocodile of a live one by the simple expedient of harpooning him through his vitals. As for work, that is for woman, and my lord of the Shilluks never puts his hand to it.

Agriculture is yet an undeveloped industry, and what little developing has already taken place has been at the instance and hands of the wives. The Shilluk country is not the birthplace of the seven brotherhood sisters of glorious hirsute memory. All the women of the tribe shave their heads. —New York Herald.

THE DOMINIE.

William R. Moody, a son of the evangelist, and the Rev. F. B. Meyer of London will make a tour of this country to hold revival services.

The First Methodist Episcopal church of Jamestown, N. Y., and the Matthewson Street Methodist Episcopal church of Providence have been using elevators for several years.

Ballington Booth says the Volunteers of America have raised $80,000 in the year just past and have attracted 1,113,083 persons to 30,000 indoor meetings within nine months.

A memorial window has been placed in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Petersburg, Va., in memory of the late Bishop Wingfield of northern California, whose first rectorship was at Petersburg. The subject of the window is the conversion of Saul.

Canon Anderson who died in Montreal the other day, was the oldest Anglican clergyman of Canada. He was the last of the "crown rectors" in the Dominion and had been rector of Sorel, a town near Montreal, since 1839. He was appointed honorary canon of Christ Church cathedral, in Montreal, in 1865.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When a room has a low ceiling, put the curtain poles as high up as possible and let the curtains hang straight down to the floor. If the poles extend a foot on either side of the window, the curtains will draw right back by day and need no looping.

Flimsy silk that has gone into a multitude of age wrinkles may be smoothed out and restored to something like its original freshness by sponging it with gum arabic water. Sponge the right side of the silk and when it is almost dry iron the wrong side.

Mahogany furniture which has become slightly clouded may have its polish restored by the use of a dressing made by mixing four tablespoonfuls of turpentine with four of sweet oil, adding one teaspoonful of lemon juice and ten drops of ammonia. Shake thoroughly before applying.

A Warning.

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another.

Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's a warning, too—and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once.

When the Sap Begins to Stir.

Make me over, Mother April,
When the sap begins to stir!
When thy flowery hand delivers
All the mountain-poisoned rivers,
And thy great heart beats and quivers
To revive the days that were,
Make me over, Mother April,
When the sap begins to stir.

Let me taste the old immortal
Indolence of life once more;
Not recalling nor foreseeing
Let the great slow joys of being
Well my heart through as of yore!
Let me taste the old immortal
Indolence of life once more!

Census Taking Universal.

The census is taken this year not only in Canada, but throughout the entire British Empire. In the United Kingdom the de facto plan is followed. Everybody was counted on Sunday. In Canada the de jure system is followed. When the first census of the Empire was taken 30 years ago it showed a total population of 230,000,000. It is expected that King Edward's subjects will in 1901 number 400,000,000.

THE WATER DID IT.

HERE is an old adage recorded which teaches that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The same can be said of rheumatism, which usually attacks employees of all bottling works, in the hands and arms, on account of them having to handle cold substances and dabble in cold water all the year round. Mr. Oscar Perry, formerly employed at J. R. Hinds' bottling works, Kingston, Ont., was a sufferer in this respect. Rheumatism affected him in the arms and shoulders, and besides the pain experienced he suffered pecuniary loss. After having tried various treatments without obtaining relief, he was induced to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial. Less than half a bottle gave him relief, and before the entire contents of the first bottle were used he was freed from rheumatism, and it has not since troubled him. He did not look for such rapid results, and would have been satisfied with obtaining relief, whereas the medicine has effected a cure.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

LAKES AND STREAMS

INTERESTING CONTENTS OF THE ONTARIO FISHERIES REPORT.

RESTOCKING WITH GAME FISH.

Deputy Commissioner S. T. Bastedo Gives an Interesting Description of Their Haunts—The River Nepigon—Reports of the District and Local Overseers on the Enforcement of the Law.

The report of the Ontario Fisheries Department is of unusual interest owing to the special attention bestowed on the restocking of lakes and streams with game fish. This important work will be watched with interest by sportsmen and tourists, and will be carried on with careful regard to the needs of various localities. All the conditions essential to success have been thoroughly considered, and the restocking experiment will be made under the most favorable circumstances. The department is not only self-sustaining, but is a source of considerable profit, there being a surplus over and above the expenditure of nearly $8,000, the net revenue amounting to $35,443.85, and the total expenditure to $28,612. The commercial fisheries have given employment to 2,502 men, 91 tugs and 1,187 boats, the capital invested in the industry being estimated at $789,042. The aggregate catch was 25,698,591 pounds, which shows a decrease as compared with last year of 1,789,888 pounds. The estimated value of the catch was $1,333,293.82. Mr. S. T. Bastedo, Deputy Commissioner, gives an interesting description of the haunts of our game fish. Here is a picture of the lower reach of the Nepigon worthy of reproduction:

"The River Nepigon, which connects Lakes Nepigon and Superior some sixty miles east of Port Arthur, and which is said to be the headwaters of the St. Lawrence, is our most noted fishing river, and is admitted by those who have whipped its waters to be the finest trout 'stream' in America, if not in the world. 'Stream,' however, conveys a very erroneous and vague idea of the magnitude of the river, unless one were in the habit of so speaking of the great Niagara, for the Nepigon possesses in but a slightly lesser degree the 'whirling and tumbling water, and the eddies and currents leaping and charging from side to side in eternal confusion' of that river. Here is the virgin home of the speckled trout, specimens having been taken weighing five, seven and even ten pounds, and here is the angler's paradise. When they are rising well the fun is fast and furious, for the trout of this region are unequalled for vigor and activity. No more delightful outing could be imagined, desired or experienced than is afforded by a fortnight spent on the glorious Nepigon. The scenery alone would well repay a visit, not to speak of the angling. In its sinuous windings it recalls the famous Saguenay, and it is a matter of constant wonder what splendor the next turn will reveal. In some places the shores are banked with foliage to the water's edge, while in others bold bluffs rear themselves majestically to dizzy heights, and many islands and charm to the view. Immediately one begins the ascent he feels that he has been transported to another world. Dull care is left behind, the anxieties of life cease to oppress, the very atmosphere seems to be intoxicating, and he gladly yields to the fascination of his surroundings. After leaving Lake Helen and passing the little Indian village at the mouth of the river, the prospect is unbroken by settlement or habitation, and is one delightful expanse of nature's most exquisite handiwork. Six miles more and the first camping place—Camp Alexander—is reached, and the initial portage has to be made."

Among the more interesting details are the reports of the district and local overseers, setting forth the means adopted to enforce the law, and the general condition of the game and commercial fisheries of the Province. The commercial value of the fisheries of the Province is by no means expressed in the returns supplied by licensed fishermen. The abundance of game fish in our lakes and streams is one of the chief attractions for tourists and holiday-seekers, who bring an increasing volume of custom to the commercial centres and patronage to the summer resorts of the north.

Wind, Rain and Hail.

London, Ont., May 4.—A terrific gale swept over South Dorchester and a portion of Yarmouth Thursday, accompanied by a downpour of rain and much hail. The gale struck a large new barn on the farm of W. and E. Legg, con. 9, South Dorchester, and completely demolished it. The barn of Mr. James Legg, in the same locality, was damaged to the extent of $200; and the barn on the farm of Mr. John Martin was shifted from its foundation.

Old Soldier's Experience.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25 cents at Jas. Lynch's drug store.

Not New.

Don't think our Vapo-Cresolene is something new, for it isn't. For more than twenty years it has been extensively used for all forms of bronchial and throat trouble. Mrs. Ballington Booth said of it, years ago, that "No family where there are young children should be without Vapo-Cresolene." You breathe in the vapor, it goes all though the bronchial tubes, soothing, healing, curing. It's pleasant, safe, economical. 18

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. NATURE'S WONDERS.

Mount Edgecombe, in Alaska, has one of the largest craters in the world, being five miles in diameter, which is filled with dense forests 2,000 feet below the rim.

The most noted volcano in Nicaragua is Coseguina, which, after a long series of earthquakes along the Andes mountains and throughout Central American states, in June, 1835, broke into violent eruption, scattering ashes over 1,500 miles of country.

A caretaker in Yellowstone park reports the birth of a new geyser in the Fountain geyser basin. For an hour after it first burst through the earth it shot a continuous stream of hot water hundreds of feet into the air. It now plays regularly every two hours.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

If the people have a right to vote, they have a right to nominate.—Minneapolis Times.

If senators were chosen by direct vote of the people, there could be no failure to elect.

"NO TONGUE CAN TELL."

The Pain Endured by Mrs. Bradley was Beyond Description—For Over Nine Years She Never had a Good Night's Sleep—She Couldn't Eat, and had given up Hope—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Cured Her.

Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby County, N. S., is a very happy woman. For years, she suffered a great deal with Dyspepsia. She kept on doctoring and without relief, and for the last few months had practically given up all hope of ever being cured.

Now she is well. How this came about is better told in her own words:—

"I have had Dyspepsia for over nine years, and I have tried the best doctors in this place, and never got any relief.

"I have had to starve myself, until I was very weak. I could eat scarcely anything.

"After so many trials and failures, I had given up hope of ever being any better. No tongue can tell what I have suffered. I cannot describe it.

"Some time ago, I saw an advertisement of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I purchased six boxes, and have taken nearly all of them, and I am thankful to say that I am entirely cured. I can now eat almost anything.

"For years, before using the Tablets, I had never enjoyed a good night's sleep. Now I can sleep comfortably all night, something which I never expected to do again in this world.

"I advise all who suffer as I have, to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, for they are the best remedy that ever was discovered, and I hope that this may be read by many who suffer from Dyspepsia, for I am sure that if I could make them understand what Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have done for me, it would be the means of saving many others from continual suffering."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets always cure, no matter how chronic the case, or how long you have suffered.

The fact that other medicine has failed to cure you, doesn't prove that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will fail. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets never fail. They never disappoint the sufferer with Stomach Trouble. If you suffer, try a box, and be convinced. They will do for you what they have done for Mrs. Bradley and many others.

THE CYNIC.

When you do a thing, you talk too much about it.

Some people when they fail to make a real reputation make an effort for the bogus kind.

You know how you hate some people without any particular reason. Well, some people hate you in the same way.

A man was in trouble. "Is there anything I can do for you?" a neighbor asked. "No," the man replied—"that is, nothing you would do."

One of the most tiresome things in the world is to be compelled to listen to another man tell how well he understands his business and how smart he is.

The man who brings in coal and water for his wife and sweeps off the front porch is quoted more than Shakespeare in his neighborhood, no matter if it is a literary one.

MR. WM. PENNY, a Furrier, living at 609 St. Andrew St., writes: "I have been sick with kidney trouble for years. I was so bad that I had to quit work at times on account of the suffering I had to endure. I saw Doan's Pills advertised, so procured a box. I was so encouraged by the benefit I derived from it that I got another, and the two boxes resulted in a complete cure, and I can recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles."

MR. THOS. WEBSTER, a Steam-fitter, living at 667 Demontigny St., writes: "I suffered for two years with kidney trouble and was gradually getting worse. I was losing a lot of time from work on account of my trouble. I took one box of Doan's Pills and I can now work steadily and have no more pains. I also have a good appetite and am completely cured. It is with pleasure that I recommend Doan's Pills to all who suffer from kidney trouble."

MRS. ANNIE SMITH, living at 344 Montana St., writes: "I have been afflicted for five years with kidney trouble. DEATH OF SENATOR ROSS.

Prominent in Canadian Politics For Half a Century—He Was Formerly Speaker of the Red Chamber.

Montreal, May 6.—By the death of Hon. J. J. Ross, which took place Friday evening at St. Ann de la Perade, Quebec loses one of her most prominent sons. Born in Quebec City, on Aug. 6, 1832, he was the son of the late G. McIntosh Ross by his wife Marie Louise Couin. He was educated at the Quebec Seminary, and was admitted to the practice of the medical profession in 1853. He entered public life as member for Champlain in the old Canadian Assembly at the general election of 1861, and at the election after Confederation in 1867, he was returned for the same constituency for both House of Commons and the Legislative Assembly.

He soon after resigned his seat in the Legislative Assembly, retaining that in the Commons, but was also appointed to the Legislative Council of Quebec, of which he had ever since been a member.

He was one of the very few who held seats in the Senate of Canada, as well as in the Legislative Council. He continued to represent Champlain in the House of Commons until the general election of 1874, when he retired.

He was called to the Senate by Sir John Macdonald, April 12, 1887. He was appointed Speaker of the Senate of Canada, Sept. 14, 1891, a position which he held until the end of the seventh Parliament, in 1896.

On May 1, 1896, he entered the administration of Sir Charles Tupper as a minister without portfolio, but retired, with his colleagues, after the general elections of June in that year.

THREE MEN DROWNED.

A Sad Affair on Thursday Near Sprucedale, Muskoka.

Sprucedale, Ont., May 6.—A drowning accident which resulted in the death of three promising young men occurred on Doe Lake, near here, on Thursday night. They were George Turner, Jefferson Blair and Martin McFadyan. On the night named they started about 8 o'clock to cross the lake on a fishing expedition. A strong wind was blowing at the time. Somewhat later neighbors on the lakeshore heard cries for help, but they had no boat and no means of rendering assistance. The cries continued for an hour, gradually growing fainter until they ceased altogether. None of the bodies have yet been recovered. All of the young men were residents of the Township of McMurrich. Mr. Blair and Mr. McFadyan were each the support of their aged parents. The latter was a nephew of Rev. A. L. McFadyan of Toronto, formerly the Presbyterian minister at Mount Albert.

Frank Kelly and Gunners Campbell and Dolan of "A" Field Battery of Kingston, Ont., who with Bombadier McNally was reported drowned in the St. Lawrence River in a despatch from Kingston Saturday afternoon, were located here the same night. Dolan said that, with James McNally, they left Kingston, intending to desert. When near Garden Island, McNally repented, and said he was going back to Kingston to give himself up. In trying to turn the boat McNally capsized it and was drowned. The other men escaped by swimming, and succeeded in reaching this country. They say they will never return to Canada.

NEW EXPLOSIVE TO BE TESTED.

Ironclad Scorpion to Be Fitted as Target For Flagship Crescent.

Hamilton, Bermuda, May 6.—The coast defence ironclad Scorpion, now at Bermuda, is to be fitted as a target for shells loaded with a new explosive after the manner of the experiments with the old battleship Belle Isle.

She will be started under easy steam and will be shelled by the first-class cruiser Crescent, flagship of the British North American and West Indies station, flying the flag of Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Bedford. The main battery of the Crescent consists of 19 4-inch guns and 12 6-inch guns, quick-firers.

Americans and French-Canadian Cattle.

Albany, N. Y., May 6.—Articles of incorporation of the Breeders' Association of French-Canadian Cattle of the United States of America were filed on Saturday with the Secretary of State. The directors are: Melvin H. Merron and Aaron S. Snyder of Howe's Cave; Charles E. Colborn of Portlandville; William J. McMurdy of Conklin; George H. Bell of Rome; and John Gardiner of Philadelphia. The principal office is in Binghamton.

Short and Sour.

There had been a small bank failure, and the bank had gone into the hands of a receiver. The receiver had proved to be dishonest and had absconded with what remained of the funds of the institution. Expert detectives, however, were on his track, and he was run to earth in a mountain town and taken back to the scene of his financial exploits.

It was after midnight when the detectives arrived with their prisoner, and Mr. Means, the principal depositor in the bank and therefore the principal loser, was awakened at his home and informed by telephone of the capture.

He expressed his gratification and went back to bed.

Shortly afterward he was aroused to receive another telephone message to the same effect from a different source.

"Thanks," he said, "but I had heard of it already. Good night!"

And again he sought his couch.

About 2 o'clock he was awakened a third time. The telephone bell was ringing.

In no gentle frame of mind he answered it.

"Hello!" he said.

"Hello!" responded a voice through the telephone. "Is this Mr. Means?"

"Yes. What do you want?"

"Mr. Means, this is Deputy Sheriff Jones. We've caught that runaway receiver. Is there anything you'd like to have me do personally in the matter?"

"Yes!" roared Mr. Means. "Hang up the receiver!"

And he was not disturbed again.

THE BRITISH MINERS.

Concensus of Opinion Is That They Will Shut Down Pits.

BIG CONFERENCE MEETS TO-DAY

Labor Leaders to Confer About the Proposed Amalgamation of All the Labor Organizations in the United States —Mr. Shaffer and Mr. Gompers Will Meet in New York To-Day.

London, May 7.—The final decision in regard to shutting down the pits will rest with the National Conference of Miners' delegates to be held in London to-day. The concensus of opinion leans to the belief that the conference will order a cessation of work.

A delegates meeting, representing 170,000 miners, held at Cardiff yesterday, passed a resolution to give the London conference a free hand.

LABOR LEADERS TO CONFER.

President Shaffer of Iron and Steel Workers to Meet Samuel Gompers.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 7.—The meeting arranged to take place here yesterday to discuss measures for the amalgamation of all the labor organizations of the United States was postponed by a despatch received by President T. J. Shaffer, of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, from President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, asking for a conference on the subject in New York on Tuesday.

Mr. Shaffer will leave for New York this evening. Mr. Gompers is opposed to the big labor union consolidation, and the Pittsburg leaders want to learn his views. President Shaffer's idea is to form a central body that will bring the unions closer together. He also wants yearly wage scales in all trades, these to expire all on the same day.

The 1,000 Car Repairer's Strike.

New York, May 7.—William H. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway, when asked yesterday about the strike of the company's employes at Scranton, said:

"I understand that all the men employed in the car repairing, blacksmith and paint shops to the number of 1,000 have struck because we suspended an employe. Their action was very unjust, because the man, Hicks, grossly disobeyed the company's rules in quitting work and leaving the grounds without a permit. I am not informed whether the men will go back to work or not. If they do not their places will probably be quickly supplied. Their going out will make no real hardship for us for several weeks to come, because our rolling stock is just now in first-class condition."

Lovell's Printers on Strike.

Mantreal, May 7.—A strike has been inaugurated at Lovell's big printing establishment in this city. The men asked for a uniform scale of wages, but the firm refused, and the men went out on strike yesterday afternoon.

Turmoil In Italy.

Paris, May 7.—The Patrie yesterday published despatches from Palermo, Naples and Foggia, reporting an alarming situation in Sicily and South Italy. The peasants in the Provinces of Messina, Catania and Syracuse are in perpetual revolt, and sanguinary conflicts with the police occur almost daily. The region in which the sulphur mines are situated is agitated, and a general strike is threatened. Misery prevails in the Province of Pouilles. The fields and gardens are going to waste, the municipality has suspended payment and the syndic has gone to Rome to confer with the Premier. Strikes are extending everywhere in South Italy.

Notorious Gem Thief Caught.

London, May 7.—The most important jewel-thief capture Scotland Yard has made in years was that of the robber found in Mrs. J. P. Morgan, jr.'s, house, and his arrest was the result of an accident. He gave his name as George Howard, and he has been identified as the man who has been long wanted by the police for several audacious jewel robberies extending over some years, the aggregate of jewels stolen being £25,000 ($125,000).

He had a house at Leicester, Turnbridge Wells, where he had been living in great style, having evaded arrest for several years.

INDIANS AT COURT.

Police Magistrate at Cornwall Sustains Their Claims to Rose Island.

Cornwall, May 7.—The St. Regis braves had their turn on Saturday, when they succeeded in securing a conviction against Alexander Thom, whom they were trying to eject from Rose's Island, near Morrisburg, on Tuesday of last week. Louis Jacobs, the locatee, had Thom before Police Magistrate Davis of Cornwall on Saturday. The tribe turned out en-masse, headed by the chief agitator, Loren Jocko, the St. Regis chief. A number of witnesses were examined, and it was proven to the satisfaction of the Police Magistrate that Thom was illegally in possession of the Island. Mr. Long, the Indian agent at St. Regis, sent in a notice that the locatee, Louis Jacob, had a right to lease the island to anyone that paid him the highest rental. It really appears in this case as if neither lease was of value. The magistrate fined Thom $10 and costs and the red men are happy.

The case will be appealed by Mr. Thom.

SMASHED WITH A SHOVEL.

Laborer in Ottawa Struck a Fellow Laborer on the Head.

Ottawa, May 7.—Y. Pivaini, West Queen street, had his skull fractured by a fellow-laborer at the Canal basin yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. The assailant, whose name is said to be McAllan, and who is said to come from Montreal, escaped.

The two men were working for the Ottawa Sand and Gravel Company, unloading a sand barge. Without warning and without provocation, Pivaini asserts, McAllan raised the shovel he was using and struck Pivaini fair on the forehead. Pivaini dropped like a log, and McAllan took to his heels. Dr. McKinnon found Pivaini to be suffering from a compound fracture of the skull. Pivaini is married and has a family.

Niagara Power at Last.

Toronto, May 7.—As the result of an agreement reached yesterday, the Niagara Falls Power Company will immediately begin the development of power on the Canadian side of the river, operating under the charter of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, which it controls. The plans under which the contract has been let call for a first development of 25,000 electric horse-power, which can be used only outside the limits of the park. Ten thousand electric horse-power will be available for Toronto.

COAL DUTY ADOPTED.

106 Majority Given to the Salisbury Government.

SPEECH OF SIR EDWARD GREY.

Only One That Redeemed a Dull Debate —Government Speakers Held That It Would Not Be Possible for American Coal to Compete With British in European Markets.

London, May 7.—There was unusual animation and attendance in the House of Commons yesterday when the last instalment of the coal tax resolution debate was opened by Sir Edward Grey (Liberal), who defined the measure as harsh and oppressive.

The Government made the issue strictly a party one and secured the record attendance for this Parliament, and by vigorous efforts polled within a score of the normal majority.

The House adopted the coal tax by a vote of 333 to 227.

Dull and Uninteresting.

Apart from Sir Edward Grey's speech the coal tax debate was rather dull and uninteresting. Some of the opponents of the tax maintained that it would give a fillip to American competition, while Mr. Gerald and Mr. Arthur Balfour, who replied for the Government, held that it would be impossible for American coal to compete with British coal in European markets, except under wholly exceptional circumstances. The Government majority of 106 did not occasion the smallest surprise. One or two Liberals voted for the tax, notably Mr. John Morley, and ten Ministerialists against it, but all the Unionist opponents of the proposal represented colliery districts, and their views had been well understood beforehand.

WELCOMED AT MELBOURNE.

The Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall—Enthusiastic Crowds.

Melbourne, May 7.—The Duke and the Duchess of Cornwall and York landed from the steamer Ophir at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Duke and the Duchess were received at the pierhead by Lord Hopetoun, Governor-General, and State and Federal Ministers. The party passed down the quarter of a mile of carpeted pier, and entered carriages, and proceeded a distance of seven miles through brilliantly decorated streets, boarded with almost continuous lines of stands, filled to their utmost capacity. The entire route was lined with demonstrative crowds, amid elaborate decorations.

Opposite the Town Hall the procession passed beneath the Queen's Arch, canopied with the royal colors and sheltering a golden statue of Queen Victoria. Twelve thousand troops were in line. There are 80,000 visitors in Melbourne. The drive terminated at Government House.

Maniac Stabs Nine Persons.

Grenna, Sweden, May 7. — While Baroness Augusta von Dusen was introducing a patient named Nehrmann into an hospital for nervous diseases here, Nehrmann became violent, seized a knife, and stabbed the Baroness and her three daughters.

The patient then escaped into the street clad only in underclothing, tried to force an entrance into several houses, and attacked and wounded five persons before being overpowered.

One of the daughters of the Baroness has succumbed to her wounds.

Little Drank Strychnine.

Brockville, Ont., May 7. — George T. Little attempted suicide yesterday by drinking strychnine. He had been out of employment for some time, and became despondent over that and other troubles, and decided to cut short his existence. Fortunately he was discovered in the act of drinking the poison and medical assistance was promptly procured. He now lies at the hospital, and it is doubtful if he will recover.

His Head Between Bumpers.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 7.—About 7 o'clock last evening G. T. R. Conductor J. Williams had his head badly squeezed between the bumpers of two passenger cars while coupling them in the G. T. R. yard. The company's doctor promptly attended the injured man, and from examination thinks there will be no serious results.

Dangers of Vaccination.

Amsterdam, N. Y., May 7.—George Krueger, a machinist in the employ of the Schnectady Locomotive Works for the past two years, died yesterday at his home in this city of blood poisoning, as the result of vaccination.

MANITOBA'S BARGAIN.

House of Commons Holds Late Session on Railway Bill.

THE REFERENDUM PROPOSED.

Mr. Puttee's Proposal Was Not, However, Supported — House in Committee on the Bill—The Yukon Boundary Map —Sir Wilfrid Laurier Explains Position of Boundary Dispute —C.P.R. Bill.

Ottawa, May 7.—Manitoba and the Northwest Territories occupied the greater part of the attention of the House of Commons yesterday. The Western members early in the afternoon made an unsuccessful effort to prevent the C. P. R. obtaining a charter to construct a new branch line in Manitoba until the company first bulit other branches, for which it had obtained an extension of time because of its inability to complete them within the time specified in the charter. The debate upon the motion to go into committee upon the bill ratifying the agreement between the Province of Manitoba and the Canadian Northern Railway was somewhat prolonged, but finally the House carried the motion to go into committee on the bill.

The Yukon Boundary Map.

Col. Prior said he was informed that the map of the Dominion, exhibited in Paris, showed the boundary as claimed by the United States. Mr. Fisher, he said, had informed him last session that both boundaries were shown on the map, but he had learned that only the American line was shown. Col. Prior asked as to the facts of the case, and also whether the map was to be exhibited in that shape at the Glasgow Exhibition.

The Premier's Remarks.

"I shall call the attention of my colleague, the Minister of Agriculture, to the representations of my hon. friend," the Premier replied. "I may say, however, that in view of the advice we have received from our law officers it is very hard to maintain that the boundary runs up the Clarence Channel. The treaty says in so many words the Portland Canal, but there is a difference of opinion between the Americans and ourselves as to where that channel is. We claim that it is west of Pearse Island; they claim it is Observatory Inlet. As to endeavoring to have the line passed along Clarence Channel, which is the pretension Mr. Begg has often submitted to me, I do not think anyone who will take a careful view of the matter can be convinced of the correctness of this pretension. The point on which we and the Americans do not agree is as to what is Portland Channel. They want to make it run up Observatory Inlet, and then to the west, making out that Observatory Inlet is only a small inlet running into the interior. We, on the other hand, contend that Portland Canal is as it is described on the map of Vancouver, on which the treaty of 1825 seems to have been based, namely, all that channel of water which runs west of Pearse Island."

Col. Prior—I do not think that has anything to do with the question whether the map is wrongly marked. Whatever boundary is described on it should be marked provisional.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—There is no provisional line. The only provisional line we have agreed upon is around Lynn Canal, and if my hon. friend will look carefully at the relief map, which is exhibited in the library, he will see that is the only provisional line we have agreed to.

Moved to Hoist C. P. R. Bill.

Mr. Scott of Assiniboia moved the six months' hoist to the bill respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway, putting forward the same contention that had been advanced in committee, namely, that the company should be obliged to extend the Great North West Central. The motion was, however, negatived, and the bill passed.

Nurses' Association Bill.

The debate upon Mr. Clarke's motion to go into committee upon the bill to incorporate the Canadian Nurses' Association was resumed by Mr. Sutherland (Oxford), who urged that if it was really the intention, as stated by the promoters, not to make the association a close corporation, and not to create a privileged class, a clause be inserted making it clear that such was the case. He urged that the smaller hospitals all over the country were just as well qualified to give proper training to nurses as the larger ones, and therefore those who were trained in these institutions should be protected.

After a protracted discussion, in which Messrs. Clarke, Fraser, Borden, Monk, Bell, McCreary, Sir Louis Davies and Gilmour took part, it was decided to send the bill back to the Private Bills Committee for amendment.

Manitoba Railway Bill.

The Manitoba Railway bill was then taken up, and Mr. Puttee spoke at some length in favor of having the deal referred to the people of Manitoba. He contended that the sentiment of the Province was against the deal, and quoted numerous resolutions of municipal and other bodies in support of his view.

Mr. Richardson followed in opposition to the bill, and spoke for about three hours. He contended that Manitoba was being "gold bricked" in the matter, the liability assumed by the Province being beyond its resources, and in return the Province did not get the promised control of the railway rates. The upshot of the deal would be that the Province would some day make a call upon the Federal treasury to pay its losses. Mr. Richardson held that if the bill were submitted to the people of Manitoba they would reject the deal.

Mr. Oliver argued that the C.P.R. offer to lease the lines proposed to be rented to the Canadian Northern represented $761,000 in addition to the rental of the road for 30 years, and that if it was worth that amount to the C.P.R. it was worth as much to the people of Manitoba to have the company come in and reduce the rates, and it showed that the bargain was not so improvident as had been alleged.

Mrf Bourassa, having spoken against the bill, a vote was taken on Mr. Puttee's amendment, and it was defeated.

The motion to go into committee carried, and the bill was proceeded with.

The House adjourned at 2.30 a. m.

CLOSE CALL FROM FIRE.

Six Persons Scorched at Petrolea in Getting Out of a House.

Petrolea, Ont., May 7.—Early yesterday morning the fire alarm was sounded and our brigade quickly responded. The fire was at the east end of the town, at the residence of Mr. R. Calvert, which was consumed very quickly. Before the occupants, who numbered six, could get out, they were all badly burned, two of them supposed seriously. One of the sons worked desperately, his arms being badly burned, and the flesh peeled, his finger nails all burned off. One of the girls lost all her hair off her head. Another boy was thrown through the window to save his life, and received a bad shaking up, his arm being broken.

RAILWAY TO JAMES' BAY.

Three Different Lines Want to Be Subsidized—Deputations at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., May 7.—A deputation representing the Ottawa City Council, the Board of Trade, the Hull City Council, and the lumbermen waited on the Premier yesterday morning, asking a subsidy for the extension of the Ottawa & Gatineau Valley Railway to James' Bay. The Premier, in reply, said that there were three lines seeking subsidies for nearly the same route, and, of course, only one could be subsidized. It is at present very uncertain whether any subsidies will be brought down, and if any are they will only be for lines having pressing claims and ready to proceed with the work.

A PLEASING UNIFORM.

Dress of Canadian Mounted Rifles—Seal Pattern for Coats and Bedford Cord for the Breeches.

At the Toronto Armories the other night Major Peters was kept very busy recruiting for the Toronto company of the Canadian Mounted Rifles. The corps in that city is limited to a hundred men. Temporary uniforms of khaki serge will be made in time for the camp drill in June.

The accompanying sketch shows

CANADIAN MOUNTED RIFLE.

the uniform adopted for the Canadian Mounted Rifles, which will soon number several thousand men if the plans of the Militia Department to convert a number of infantry corps into mounted ones and raise new regiments in the west are carried out. The coat is of the seal grey pattern, as used by the Imperial troops, with cuffs, collar and shoulder straps of olive green cloth. The Sam Browne belt will be worn by the officers, and the bandolier and belt by the men. These will carry about 100 rounds of ammunition. The rough rider hat, turned up at one side, is of grey felt, with a tan leather strap to go under the chin. The breeches are khaki Bedford cord. Tan riding boots complete a modest yet effective uniform.

ALL-BRITISH CABLE.

THE GREAT PROJECT OF YEARS IS NOW IN TANGIBLE SHAPE.

IT WILL GIRDLE THE WORLD.

Contractors Must Assume Serious Risks—The Cost Will Be $10,000,000—How the Burden Is to Be Distributed Among the Contributories—Serious Obstacles Were Overcome—May Be Self-Supporting.

After many dangerous delays, and after having overcome almost insuperable obstacles during the past fourteen years since the enterprise first assumed tangible shape, the promoters of the all-British Pacific cable at last have come to see the realization of their great project.

Although it is a comparatively old project, and often suggested since the confederation of the Dominion and the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the agitation for and the completion of it, nevertheless, has largely been the work of the eminent Canadian engineer, Sir Sandford Fleming. That the final consummation of this cable project is now assured is owing, almost wholly, to Canada, which has been foremost in this as in many other Imperial projects.

The bill providing for Canada's share in the financial obligations for the construction of the cable has been passed without opposition in the Dominion Parliament. Details of the contract, which has been let, give some idea of the vastness of the undertaking and its comparatively small cost.

Will Cost $10,000,000.

It is estimated that its total cost, covering all incidentals, will approximate $10,000,000. This sum will be loaned by the Imperial Government and of which Canada guarantees five-eighteenths, the United Kingdom five-eighteenths, and the Australasian colonies the balance.

The cable will be constructed and laid over a total distance of 7,986 nautical miles. The undertaking is a very big one for the contractors, and not without serious risks, as the lengths of submerged cable will be laid over greater distances and at greater depths of ocean than ever before attempted. Moreover, the cable will skirt a sea region in which earthquakes are frequent and very violent.

The cable will connect at a point in British Columbia with the Canadian Pacific telegraph system, which will do its business across the continent, and the Commercial Cable Company, which has all-British cables across the Atlantic, will transmit the messages from Canada to Britain. Thus a wire girdle, with all its points of connection upon British soil, will soon circle the world.

Serious Obstacles Overcome.

It was a wise determination which made this cable a state enterprise, that some of the Australian governments might succeed in their efforts Fears were at one time entertained to make connection with the Eastern Extension Company's cable system, and in that way alter the basis of the whole Pacific cable scheme. The Eastern Extension has always been the main impediment to the earlier carrying out of the all-British Pacific cable. These fears, however, have all been set at rest, and nothing seems likely to hereafter retard the successful progress of the operations now being put in motion.

To insure the ultimate and permanent success to this cable project the Postmaster-General of Canada, who is now on his way to Australia, favors the expansion of state-owned cable system by the construction of a government cable between Canada and Great Britain; also the acquisition of the line from Australia via Singapore and Hong Kong.

May Be Self-Supporting.

The Parliamentary committee, which investigated the Pacific cable question four years ago, anticipated that the undertaking would require no financial assistance from the governments interested after it had been in operation for three or four years. But, in the meantime, Britain and her Canadian and Australian dependencies believe that the commercial and imperial advantages that will accrue from the operation of this great enterprise will more than compensate for any expenditures for which they may become responsible.

The landing place for the cable in this country has been recently selected on the west coast of Vancouver Island, British Columbia, and the engineer in charge of the construction work has sailed for Australia to select suitable landing places there and in New Zealand. The manufacture of the cable will be commenced very soon.

The first expedition in connection with the laying of it is expected to leave the Thames in January, 1902. This expedition will carry out the laying of sections from Queensland to Norfolk Island, to New Zealand, and Norfolk Island to Fiji Islands. The second expedition will leave about August, 1902, and will lay the stretch of cable from Vancouver to Fanning Island and Fiji. This latter long length of cable, 5,831.5 nautical miles, will be transported and laid by one ship, which is now being specially built for the purpose, and will be the largest cable ship ever launched. The contractors undertake that the whole of the cable shall be laid and working by December, 1902.

Convincing Reasons
Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

Will Visit Institutions.

Mail and Empire—Hon. J. R. Stratton, the Provincial Secretary, intends to avail himself of the present lull in provincial business by visiting the various public institutions under his control. Mr. Stratton has control of most of the large spending departments of administrative activity, and believes in keeping an eye on things. This week he will go to London to look into the management of the asylum and its farm.

The Olympics.

Owing to an insufficient number of acceptances being received the management of the annual Olympic Club excursion has declared that outing "off" for 1901. It seems too bad that this excursion has to be let go by default this year, and all old members should put their shoulders to the wheel and see that an avalanche of acceptances are sent in to-morrow, when there may be yet time to make arrangements for the trip.

Soapstone is a magnesian mineral, Prussian Blue is a poisonous salt of iron from which arsenic is extracted, and Talcum is a glutinous substance very tenacious in character. These three articles are largely used in the colouring of Japan Tea, causing nervousness, headaches, and sallow complexions. It would be well from many points of view to consider "Salada" Ceylon Uncoloured Green Tea, which is sold only in sealed lead packets. It is absolutely pure, cleanly prepared and very delicious in the cup. A single trial captivates the taste of confirmed Japan tea users. It does not show the dealers quite as large a profit, but you can get it if you insist on your grocer giving you Ceylon Green Tea in the sealed lead packets of the "Salada" Tea Company. It is sold at 25 cents and 40 cents per pound.

The next matter taken up was the consideration of the recent Act passed by the Ontario Legislature, which provides for certain land grants to the veterans and those who have served in South Africa. The veterans received a proposal from the Equitable Mining and Developing Company proposing to give each locatee $2,000 stock in the Company on giving their land to the Company if suitably located.

A committee was appointed consisting of the Honorary President, President, Secretary and Messrs. J. B. McWilliams and Major Langford, to look into the matter and report at a special meeting.

It was decided to present a picture of the Veterans to the Peterborough Historical Society and it was also decided to take no part in the 24th of May celebration.

MORE INDUSTRIES FOR THE TOWN.

One is Assured and the Other Almost Secured.

PETERBOROUGH SHOVEL CO.

Local Capitalists Will Operate a Big Manufacturing Concern in the Town—A Big Fence Company Also.

The organization of a joint stock concern to be known as the Peterborough Shovel Company, with factory and headquarters in Peterborough, is now an assured fact, and the town can rejoice in the possession of another industry, which will be of substantial benefit to the municipality.

The capital required to float the concern is almost entirely subscribed by residents of the town, who, however, do not wish their identity to be published for a few days yet.

The members of the Council were waited upon last evening by a number of the capitalists interested in the concern, and it is understood that Town Solicitor Edwards was given instructions to prepare a bylaw for submission to the ratepayers in reference to the inducements required by the new company in order to ensure the location of the industry in Peterborough.

These inducements do not amount to a great deal, consisting mainly of the grant of the town lot just south of the Kennedy cattle yards, and the extending of water and light privileges to the Company. The Company's guarantee is to the effect that substantial brick work shops will be erected in size about fifty or sixty feet by one hundred and twenty-five or a hundred and fifty. Office buildings and warehouses would be erected in addition, and twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars worth of machinery installed. A deed of the land will not be asked until the buildings have been erected and the plant installed.

At present the promoters are not saying anything about the number of hands which will be employed or the amount of wages which will be paid out, but when the erection of so large a building is contemplated, and the fact taken into consideration that only skilled mechanics will be employed, the establishment of such a concern will doubtless mean a great deal to the town.

Mayor Denne was busy all morning driving Mr. Hesselbacher, of Detroit, around the town. Mr. Hesselbacher represents the Detroit Fence Company, which is desirous of establishing a Canadian branch in Peterborough. He expressed himself as much pleased with the location of the town lot, which was offered him as an inducement, and as his Company proposes erecting a $35,000 building, no efforts will be spared to secure the industry.

CEREAL COMPANY NOTES.

The Plans and Specifications Being Completed—Mr. Stuart to Arrive Monday.

Engineer Keefer has returned to town, and is busily engaged with Mr. Kearns in perfecting the plans for the inspection of Mr. Stuart, who arrives from Chicago on Monday. It is expected that before he leaves arrangements will be made for a large force of men to begin work on the excavations.

The following despatch was received to-day from Akron, Ohio:

Akron, Ohio, May 7.—It was learned to-day on the return of the men who were present at the birth of the Great Western Cereal Company in Chicago this week, that negotiations have already been set on foot for the consolidation of the new company with the American Cereal Company, or Cereal Trust, as it is better known. The consolidated company would have absolute control of the cereal business in the United States. O. C. Barber, chairman of the Board of Directors, and L. C. Miles, Treasurer of the Company, both refuse to discuss the matter, but the deal is known to be under way.

BACHELORS' ENTERTAINMENT

By the Young Men of George Street Church.

A Most Enjoyable Time—The Programme—Refreshments.

When the young bachelors of George street Methodist church undertake to put on an entertainment they generally carry it to a successful issue, and the social evening which was given by them last night was no exception to the rule. The affair which was given in the school room of the church was advertised as a "Bachelors entertainment," and it proved to be unique in many ways. The young bachelors did everything, supplied everything, and they are now accordingly receiving the hearty congratulations of all who were present on the successful manner in which the affair passed off.

The entertainment was very largely attended so that it was a huge success financially as well as socially.

The chair was occupied by Rev. J. P. Wilson, who performed the duties pertaining to the office in a happy manner. The opening number was a chorus "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" by thirty young men, which was followed by a brief address by the chairman. Messrs. Henderson, Dodge and Skitch rendered an instrumental selection, which drew forth much applause.

Rev. W. W. McCuaig, of Port Hope, in his address, his reading and his ventriloquism, proved to be a leading feature of the evening's entertainment. He kept the audience in good humour during the time he was performing, and received great applause.

Mr. C. Parks then favoured the audience with a solo, which was followed by a wand drill by ten small boys dressed in red jerseys and white knickers, and which proved to be a very pretty affair, the encore being responded to by five of the same boys, namely: Arthur Boucher, Harold Daly, Graham Ferguson, Norman Miller and Bobbie Hall, in a dumb bell exercise, which was well carried out, and for which the boys deserve great credit.

Following this was a quartette by Messrs. Goldie, McGuire, Walden and Turner, acquitting themselves in a most creditable manner, followed by Messrs. Henderson, Dodge and Skitch in a well rendered piece of music, which ended the musical part of the programme.

Not the least important portion of the programme were the refreshments, which were served by the young men, gaily decked out in white hats and immaculate white aprons. The affair closed by all present singing "God Save the King."

Altogether the young men of George Street Methodist Church deserve great credit for the able manner in which they carried out their entertainment. The committee was composed of Mr. Robertson, President; Mr. T. Cunningham, Secretary; Mr. John Miller, Treasurer; and Messrs. G. H. Williamson, Chairman Entertainment Committee; Joseph Harvey, Chairman Refreshment Committee, and Garnet Galley, Chairman Social Committee.

SWEET EVENINGS COME AND GO.

Sweet evenings come and go, love;
They came and went of yore.
This evening of our life, love,
Shall go and come no more.

When we have passed away, love,
All things will keep their name,
But yet no life on earth, love,
With ours will be the same.

The daisies will be there, love;
The stars in heaven will shine;
I shall not feel thy wish, love,
Nor thou my hand in thine.

A better time will come, love,
And better souls be born;
I would not be the best, love,
To leave thee now forlorn.

THE BALEFUL EYE.

A Story of the Paris Commune.

BY ANTHONY P. MORRIS.

A prominent store in Paris was that of Jean Gulleau, baker, a widower with one child, Hortense, just 17 years of age and very beautiful.

Jean wisely took no part in the communistic orgies running riot on the streets immediately subsequent to the Franco-Prussian war; but, with plenty of provisions in his cellar, he philosophically closed the doors and windows, withdrew his sign of business and smoked his pipe contentedly in the seclusive companionship and filial love of Hortense.

One so pretty and piquant as she could not be exempt from a besieging of lovers. The two most prominent of these were her father's graduating apprentices, Henri Edouin and Giuseppe—"dark Giuseppe" and "the baleful eye"—the latter was frequently appellated by his intimates, because of the treacherous glance in his hard, black orbs and a lurking smile forever fixed about his lips.

To Henri Hortense had long since given her heart.

It was quite late one night when Henri departed from the embrace of his promised bride. As Hortense retreated through the narrow doorway an unexpected form, like an apparition from the gloom, confronted her.

"Giuseppe!" she cried.

"It is I," he replied calmly.

"Oh, you frightened me! Whence come you so suddenly?"

"From close beside, girl. Ah, thou coquette! A word. I have heard all"—

"A listener—you? Shame!"

"Tell me, is it true, indeed, I need hope no more to win you?"

"You say you have heard all?"

"Yes. I am not deaf."

"And you have seen too?"

"Yes. I am not blind."

"Much good may it do you, then, for you are answered!"

And with the sharp speech she slammed the door in his face, angry at his having spied upon what was to her a sacred interview.

For many nights after that her dreams were haunted by the baleful eyes of dark Giuseppe, and in her ears continually rang the fearful imprecation she heard him mutter, coupled with the name of Henri Edouin.

The favored lover was greatly surprised a few days later at receipt of a communication from the Versailles government. It was delivered by an entire stranger, who whispered these six ominous words:

"For your eyes only. Be discreet!"

The sealed billet contained this:

Last dispatches by balloon acknowledged. Inclosed herewith an order for 500 francs, payable when France is redeemed from her enemies.
Paris. M. Edouin.

Henri should have destroyed the mysterious scrawl instantly. Instead he stood gazing at it in sheer amazement. He had had nothing whatever to do with the Versaillese, though his heart was honestly with those who struggled so nobly to save the country from the doom of a bloody anarchy.

The few moments' stupefaction proved his greatest misfortune.

There was a peremptory tap at the door.

Giuseppe entered, grinning infernally. Behind him "dressed" three ruffians of the national guard.

"Ah, M. Edouin!" he said.

"Oh, is it you, Giuseppe?" replied Henri.

Giuseppe advanced with snaky quickness and ere Henry could anticipate snatched away the fatal paper. Flourishing it aloft, he cried:

"Away with him! See what I hold—a paper that will have him shot unless I greatly mistake!" And Giuseppe hissed maliciously into his rival's ear: "I am now a trusted spy of the commune. Your death is certain. You will never wed with Hortense Gulleau!"

Unfortunate Henri was soon in prison. He fully realized his danger, and it required but little reflection to convince him of the foul trick played by crafty Giuseppe.

The days of his confinement went tediously by, while ever before him loomed the horrid prospect of a violent death. Then Guiseppe confronted his victim and accompanying him—could it be reality?—was Hortense.

"I bring to you a gleam of sunlight, M. Edouin," said the dark browed villain, with grinning sarcasm.

Henri sprang forward to embrace his betrothed, but Giuseppe interposed.

"Hold! I did not bring here here for a love scene. Give ear to me. Minutes for Henri Edouin are valuable. Judgment is to be given in your case within the hour. You know what it will be—death! I come to offer you life."

"You?"

"And, pray, why not? I hold the document that is to riddle you with bullets. Say the word and I will destroy it. I will retract my charge as a stupid blunder."

"What word shall I say?"

"Henceforth you will work and fight on the side of the commune. That will save you—if I choose. Giuseppe the spy is quite another person than Giuseppe the baker's apprentice. Money and influence both are mine now. Besides, our prisons are cramming with too many hostages. Exchanges are slow, and we need men. So, come, I have your sworn word?"

"Never!" burst from Henri's lips indignantly.

Throughout Hortense had remained passive. Now she threw herself on her knees, with clasped hands, before the man she so dearly loved.

"Oh, yes, yes!" she cried passionately. "For me—for your own precious life! Anything for your life! Promise! Swear! Here on my knees I beg you, Henri!"

Her voice was broken with wild sobbing; her eyes were brimming with tears. The young man's head drooped, then raised desperately, while his eyes flashed on the treacherous spy.

"So be it, villain Giuseppe! I give my sacred promise as you ask."

The mysterious and convicting letter was instantly torn into fragments. Giuseppe had not boasted vainly. Two days later Henri Edouin was liberated and mounted in the national guard.

For a long time he found no opportunity of seeing Hortense. When at last the lovers did meet, it was to realize the greatest sorrow of their two fond hearts. As the price of saving Henri's life Hortense had solemnly agreed to wed with Giuseppe.

Ever memorable will be the 28th of May, 1871, when the following proclamation appeared:

INHABITANTS OF PARIS.

The army of France came to save you. Paris is delivered. Our soldiers carried, at 4 o'clock, the last positions occupied by the insurgents. Today the struggle is finished. Order, labor and security will now survive.

De MacMahon, Duc de Magenta,
Marshal of France, Commander In Chief.

Crowds and columns of prisoners were being marched to Versailles. The prisoners' camp at Satory was an anomalous picture, even shudderful to contemplate.

A man with baleful eyes and snaky lips approached one of the entrances to the stable pens. The prompt "Qui vive?" halted him.

"Pardon," was the affable, grinning response, "but I am a quartermaster. You have here, by a great mistake, a good cousin of mine who will answer to the name of Henri Edouin. Be so good as to summon him to me. I am not so great a fool as to ask his release just now, but would speak with him if I may."

Villainous Giuseppe, ever treacherous and fearing that Henri might escape to annoy him in the future and jealous to insanity that the man should live to whom Hortense was so avowedly attached, had sought the prisoners' camp with murderous intent. In his bosom he carried a pistol, and with the weapon he was resolved to slay the rival he hated.

His speech at the gate was interrupted by a savage cry.

A bronzed gendarme who was standing near threw aside his musket and, springing forward, gripped the pseudo quartermaster by the throat.

"This wretch lies!" he vociferated excitedly. "He is Giuseppe of the commune, Giuseppe the spy, who ordered 40 of my comrades shot. I alone escaped! I know him well!"

A fierce struggle ensued.

There were a flash, a bang, and the gendarme dropped dead.

But simultaneously a musket butt crashed down through the skull of Giuseppe. The baleful eyes were dimmed forever.

It would be difficult to describe the tearful pleadings of beautiful Hortense before the gentlemen of the military bureau in Rue Satory. She knew and revealed the trick which had placed Henri in Giuseppe's power. She told the story of her heart's sacrifice to save her lover's life and his unwilling yielding to the proposition of his arch enemy. It was an appeal to touch the deepest sympathy of her hearers.

Henri Edouin was forthwith set at liberty.

He and his true Hortense were shortly afterward wedded, and when Paris had subsided to comparative quiet old Jean Gulleau gave a merry fesst to the handsome couple.—Saturday Night.

Plant Life and the Sunbeam.

Even in the brightest room plants are never of so rich a green as those grown out of doors. In a dark cellar no chlorophyl is produced at all. Every one has seen potatoes growing there, with their long attenuated stalks and little white leaves, which exist but for a time and when the reserve material in the tuber is used up wither away because they have no light. To produce chlorophyl the light must be at least of sufficient intensity that this page may be easily read by it, and to act as a reducing agent it must be very considerably stronger.

Every one has learned by sad experience how impossible it is to keep plants in their rooms for any length of time, and the reason is that the light is not bright enough, and what there is does not last long enough to produce the necessary quantity of food material to support life. There is another fatal thing to the growth of plants indoors—viz, the dryness of the air—and this can only be overcome by covering over the plant with a glass shade. As plants die from want of light, so, too, there are some which die from too much. Many of the mosses which cover damp shady walls and banks with their soft covering of green velvet die from too great an exposure to sunlight.—Good Words.

Boils keep coming

Boils are the product of poor or watery blood carrying impure matter. Boils also indicate poor circulation, as the matter or pus, as it is usually called, clogs up the circulation, causing the accumulation of this poisonous matter, which must be removed from the congested parts. At the same time the blood should be enriched and purified by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. The best proof we can give you is the testimony of others. Here are some; others will be supplied on application to the proprietors.

Flat Lands, Restigouche Co., N.B.
The T. Milburn Co., Toronto.
Gentlemen,—A short time ago my blood got out of order so much that numerous boils appeared on my face and neck, and hearing Burdock Blood Bitters highly recommended as an excellent blood purifier, I decided to give it a trial. After using the first bottle the boils gradually started to disappear, and before I had taken the second bottle I was completely cured.
Yours truly, Geo. Caldwell.

Have you Boils? If so, read the following letter from Mr. William Thompson, of McNeill's Mills, P.E.I.
The T. Milburn Co., Toronto.
Gentlemen,—Some time ago my blood got out of order and before long I had boils breaking out all over me. They appeared on my legs, neck and arms, and were so painful that I could not possibly sleep at nights. I tried many remedies, but without any effect, until a friend advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters. Before I had quite used two bottles I was entirely cured, and I cannot honestly say too much in favor of B.B.B. as a purifier.

Alfred Hammond, Townsend Centre, Ont.: "I have used two bottles of B.B.B. and find it a great remedy for boils. I used it two years ago and have not been troubled since. I can recommend it highly."

Miss Maud Slater, West Lalfave Ferry, N.S.: "In the spring I was troubled with boils, one coming after another. My blood was bad and I was miserable when I began taking B. B. B., but before taking many bottles was completely cured."

Dec. 26, 1900.
Mrs. G. Moore of Hamilton says: "I cannot praise B.B.B. enough for impure blood, boils and sores. It is a perfect cure for boils. I have used it for twelve years in my family and cannot praise it too highly."

PROVINCE OF BURMA

EASTERMOST DIVISION OF THE EMPIRE OF INDIA.

The Province Is Divided Into Three Parts; Lower Burma, Upper Burma and the Shan Estates—The Resources and History of the Province—Burmese Characteristics—Tranquil Under Good Government.

Edgcomb Staley, of London, author of "The Arms and Badges of the British Colonies," writes:

Burma is the easternmost province of the empire of India. It is bounded by China, Siam and the sea; to the west are Assam and Bengal. It is remarkable, geographically, for noble mountain ranges and splendid navigable rivers. It possesses a rich and productive soil, with an extended seaboard. The province is divided into three parts—Lower Burma, Upper Burma and the Shan states. The delta country of Lower Burma is flat, but farther inland the country is hilly, and the scenery in Upper Burma is almost English in verdure and repose. The Shan states are the most mountainous. The area of Lower and Upper Burma is somewhere about 171,000 square miles. The boundaries of the Shan states are not definitely fixed.

There are three seasons—rainy, cool and hot, according to the monsoon. The rainfall at the Ruby mines is 103 inches per annum; at Swebo 23 inches. In May, the hottest period, the shade temperature is 110 degrees Fahrenheit at Swebo and at the Ruby mines 54 degrees Fahrenheit. In December the shade temperature varies from 86 degrees to 36 degrees Fahrenheit.

The Resources of Burma.

Lower Burma possesses extraordinary fertility. It is subject, however, to floods caused by the overflowing of the mighty Irrawadi and its tributaries. Rice is the principal crop—six-sevenths of the land is devoted to its culture. Tobacco, cotton and the sugar cane also thrive well. The Burmese are content with one crop a year, and so the manure is simply the previous year's stubble which is burned and mixed with the soil. Upper Burma, which is somewhat arid, suffers severely from drought. It is a fine upland rolling country, with immense tracts of forest, yielding vast supplies of teak and other valuable timber. The chief crops are rice, maize, rye, wheat, sugar cane, cotton, tobacco, tea and indigo.

The province of Burma is remarkably rich in mineral wealth. Gold, silver, copper, lead, tin, coal, iron, jade and precious stones—especially rubies and sapphires—are all found in more or less abundance. The ruby mines, which are a fruitful source of revenue to the government, are situated at Mugok, seventy miles north of Mandalay, the capital of Upper Burma. These gems are separated from the gravel and sand in the same way as gold. The value of the annual export amounts to seven lakhs of rupees. There are also large deposits of magnetic oxide which have as yet been uncouched. Wells for the production of petroleum have long existed. Of live stock, cattle are the most numerous, and a considerable trade is carried on in hides.

History of the Province.

The early history of Burma is, of course, lost in antiquity. The original Burmese tribes are conjectured to have pushed their way south from the mountains of Thibet, and to have subdued and incorporated the aborigines. In the year 1000 B.C. Burma was a powerful empire, quite able to resist the incursions of the Chinese and of the other neighboring nations. Magnificent ruins and relics remain to attest the splendor of that early period. Since the Christian era Portugal, Holland and France have in turn held parts of the Burmese peninsula. The first British settlement was in 1616, when factories were erected at the mouth of the Irrawadi. The first British mission from India was in 1795, when valuable concessions were obtained from the native rulers. Complete British possession of the province of Burma, however, has been obtained at the cost of three wars—1824, 1852 and 1885. The result of the last, which cost the Indian Government £3,000,000, was the dethronement of the despotic King Theebaw and the final annexation of the whole province to the empire of India. The question of annexation was hotly discussed in Great Britain, and it was said that it would never pay. An estimate was made, after the second war, which showed that in the first five years there would be a heavy burden upon Great Britain and India. As a fact, however, a few years after the pacification and opening out of the country the annual surplus yield came out at a round million sterling.

Some Burmese Characteristics.

The population of Lower Burma, including the capital, Rangoon, with 180,000 inhabitants, is 2,946,933, and of Upper Burma, including the capital, Mandalay, with 190,000 inhabitants, 4,658,627; that of the Shan states is still unascertained. The Burmese are robust, if somewhat diminutive, and are famed for their bravery and bounce. They belong to numerous different tribes, who are distinguisged by a variety of manners, languages and religions. Burma is the cradle of Buddhism—Gaudama Buddha was born and died in Burma. The Burmese are remarkable for their domesticity and love of home. Filial piety is inculcated as a sacred principle. Children command general interest; there is no selling of girls, when infants, for marriage. Games and field sports of all kinds are encouraged—boxing, football, racing, rowing, etc. Tattooing is universal among boys; not to be tattooed is a mark of cowardice or weakness. Music, dancing, artistic handicrafts and the love of flowers are all greatly in vogue. In a native house the two most conspicuous objects are the cradle and a flower stand. These give indications of the national character.

The schools are numerous and excellent, and as a result the Burmese are a well-educated people. It is extremely rare to find a man who cannot read and write. In 1898-9 a sum of £96,952 ($484,760) was spent by the government for educational purposes.

The government is composed of a lieutenant-governor, a legislative council for "making laws and regulations," consisting of nine members, four being natives, and a secretariat of five members. In Lower Burma there is a chief court of justice with four judges, and in Upper Burma a judicial commissioner.

THE INCOMPARABLE PAGODA, MANDALAY.

Tranquil Under Good Government.

In ancient times the Burmese used to say they had five enemies—fire, water, robbers, rulers and ill-wishers. British-Indian rule, however, secures life and property and the fulfilling of contracts. It has given new value to native enterprise and thrift. The spirit of independence is greatly on the increase, and this is fostered by the fact that the government is careful to preserve the native official machinery.

With respect to the Shan states, the lieutenant-governor in his last report says they are "tranquil and prosperous." Dacoity is on the decline everywhere; indeed, in Upper Burma it is absolutely unknown. The most troublesome class is the "ti," or gamblers; these still infest the country districts, and by tricks with cards and dice defraud the simple-minded farmers of their savings.

The principal commercial industries are connected with rice and timber. Indigenous manufactures produce little more than what is used on the spot. The characteristic of Burmese work is vigor and novelty of design rather than high finish. While there is abundance of waterways, there is urgent need for better and more extended land communication. To meet this railways are in course of construction in all directions.

The amounts received and expended in the province of Burma during the year ended Dec. 31, 1899, were as follows: Receipts, £4,659,360; expenditures, £2,975,291. Hence Burma is reckoned a rich province, and its excess of revenue is a useful and welcome item in the Indian imperial exchequer.

"NO TONGUE CAN TELL."

The Pain Endured by Mrs. Bradley was Beyond Description—For Over Nine Years She Never had a Good Night's Sleep—She Couldn't Eat, and had given up Hope—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Cured Her.

Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Cove, Digby County, N. S., is a very happy woman. For years, she suffered a great deal with Dyspepsia. She kept on doctoring and without relief, and for the last few months had practically given up all hope of ever being cured.

Now she is well. How this came about is better told in her own words:—

"I have had Dyspepsia for over nine years, and I have tried the best doctors in this place, and never got any relief.

"I have had to starve myself, until I was very weak. I could eat scarcely anything.

"After so many trials and failures, I had given up hope of ever being any better. No tongue can tell what I have suffered. I cannot describe it.

"Some time ago, I saw an advertisement of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I purchased six boxes, and have taken nearly all of them, and I am thankful to say that I am entirely cured. I can now eat almost anything.

"For years, before using the Tablets, I had never enjoyed a good night's sleep. Now I can sleep comfortably all night, something which I never expected to do again in this world.

"I advise all who suffer as I have, to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, for they are the best remedy that ever was discovered, and I hope that this may be read by many who suffer from Dyspepsia, for I am sure that if I could make them understand what Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have done for me, it would be the means of saving many others from continual suffering."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets always cure, no matter how chronic the case, or how long you have suffered.

The fact that other medicine has failed to cure you, doesn't prove that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will fail. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets never fail. They never disappoint the sufferer with Stomach Trouble. If you suffer, try a box, and be convinced. They will do for you what they have done for Mrs. Bradley and many others.

Digging Out Toffee.

The good ship Charing Cross, lying in the London docks, is suffering, says The London Chronicle, from what must be called a surfeit of sweetness. Starting from the far off port of Buenos Ayres in December, the Charing Cross had in her afterhold nearly 1,000 tons of brown sugar. But from some reason or other this load of sweetness suffered a sea change into something rich and strange, and when the vessel reached the London docks Hold No. 3 was found to be filled with rich brown toffee. For weeks past the dock laborers have been engaged in cutting out this huge coagulated mass by means of pickaxes and other massive implements.

When the Baby Cries at Night.

There is a cause for it. Perhaps it is gas on the stomach, or may be cramps or diarrhœa. Don't lose sleep—anticipate such contigences by always keeping handy a bottle of Polson's Nerviline. Just a few drops in water taken inwardly, then rub the little one's stomach with a little Nerviline, and perfect rest is assured for the night for both mother and baby. You may not need Nerviline often but when you need it you need it badly. Get a 25c bottle to-day.

ASHBURNHAM VILLAGE COUNCIL

Gave $40 to the 24th of May Celebration.

LIGHT AT STEAMBOAT WHARF

The City Fathers Got Through a Good Night's Work—The Cow By-law —Monthly Statement.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ashburnham village council was held last night, the following members being in attendance: Mr. Adams, Reeve, in the chair, and Councillors Robt. Sheridan, John H. Smith, Robt. Pollock and Wm. Johnston.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read, and on motion adopted.

A NEW LIGHT.

The following communication was received from the residents of the south end:

To the Reeve and Council of the Village of Ashburnham in council assembled:

Gentlemen—We, the undersigned ratepayers of the village of Ashburnham, respectfully submit to you honourable body for your favourable consideration the following petition:

Whereas the absence of a proper light at or near the steamboat wharf has been a source of great annoyance to the travelling public by steamboat, we would respectfully request your honourable body to have a light placed at or near the wharf in Ashburnham (electric light preferred) for the convenience of the public, the presence of such light being most necessary for the prevention of possible accidents.

The petition was signed by Mr. J. C. Sullivan and 57 others.

The discussion which followed was very brief. Councillor Smith expressed himself as being in favour of the light, and moved to that effect. Councillor Sheridan seconded the motion, and Councillor Pollock nodded approvingly to the Reeve.

The light will, according to the motion, be placed at the corner of Mark and Maria streets.

A DEPUTATION.

Mr. Peter Campbell representing the 24th of May Celebration Committee, appeared before the council to ask a grant towards the expense incurred in putting on such a celebration. He reviewed the progress the committee was making, and pointed out the reasons why the village should assist.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn endorsed what Mr. Campbell had said, and made a strong appeal for a grant.

Councillor Smith was asked to express his opinion in regard to the matter, and he expressed himself in favour of giving a small grant towards the celebration. He believed in the old saying "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

The reeve was not altogether in favour of giving a grant. It was like giving money away.

Councillor Sheridan and Councillor Pollock spoke favourably towards the giving of a grant, but Councillor Johnston was only luke warm on the matter.

Councillor Smith introduced a motion seconded by Councillor Sheriden, that the village council give a grant of $40, provided the sports be free, and provided that the town council of Peterborough make a grant of $400. The motion carried.

The Deputation thanked the council for their kindness and withdrew, after the Reeve had expressed his hope that they would have a delightful day.

COURT OF REVISION.

On motion of Councillor Johnston, seconded by Councillor Sheridan, the Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll for the current year will be held in the council chamber on Monday, May 27th, at 8 o'clock, and the clerk was instructed to give the necessary notice.

G. T. R. LANDS.

Reeve Adams brought to the attention of the council a little real estate matter that had cropped up. Mr. Sandy, G.T.R. station agent, had been speaking to him in regard to a piece of land owned by the Company, and formerly used in connection with the old Lakefield line. The strip of land in question ran down to Lock No. 6, and the G.T.R. desired to lease it to the village or any private individual. They themselves had no use for it at the present time, and for a rental of ten cents a year and taxes, the village might have it. However, the Company desired that the end of the lot should be fenced up, thereby destroying any use the council might make of it, as it was at present used by pedestrians. The councillors did not look seriously on the matter, and no action was taken in regard thereto.

Councillor Johnston got after the cows. He thought that it was a shame that cows were allowed to run at large.

Constable Fitzgerald, who was present, asked the council to say the word and he would put the law in motion.

Councillor Johnston thereupon moved, seconded by Councillor Sheridan, that the village constable be hereby instructed to rigidly enforce the by-law of animals running at large, without fear or favour. Some one suggested that the word "affection" be added, but the father of the resolution did not see it in that way.

Upon motion the thanks of the Council was tendered to the Civic Association for their efforts in planting trees. Councillor Jonnston moved, seconded by Councillor Pollock, that the sum of $10.00 be given to the Civic Association, as recommended at a previous meeting of the Council.

After some informal discussion regarding bridges, streets, etc., the Council adjourned after getting through a good night's work.

A BIG PURCHASE OF SILKS

MOSTLY BLOUSE SILKS.

A rare opportunity came our way this week, in being able to pick up a large quantity of Blouse and Fancy Silks at Bargain-Lot Prices, yet you'll wonder why they could be thought such. Reason is this—a Blouse manufacturer, in order to get his patterns confined to him, must place an exceedingly large order. On account of previous successes in this department, he was just a bit too sanguine, and purchased overly heavy. His mistake is our gain, and the following prices will tell you your gain if you grasp the opportunity.

THESE SILKS GO ON SALE SATURDAY MORNING.

LOT 1. Striped Taffeta Blouse Silks, in assorted colors and beautiful qualities, the regular 85c and $1.00 sort for, per yard..... 50c

LOT 2. Striped Taffeta Blouse and Dress Silks, in beautiful stylish stripes and rich, subdued colors,—perfect style for travelling purposes, the quality that should bring $1.10 a yard, for, per yard, 60c

LOT 3. Striped Taffeta Silks for Blouses or Dresses, swell Silk in exclusive colorings, the $1.50 quality for, per yard..... 98c

LOT 4. Satin Foulards, in light and medium tones, for summer dresses, worth 85c a yd., for 39c

Remember these are worthy qualities, stylish patterns and exceptional values, on sale Saturday morning.

MINERS WON'T STRIKE

Another Conference if Mine-Owners Reduce Wages.

WILL OBSERVE EFFECT OF TAX.

The Street Railway Strikes in New York State—No Cessation of Defections—Other Strikes in the Big Republic and in Canada—Bloodshed in Spain at Barcelona.

London, May 9.—The miners have decided against a stoppage of work.

If the owners should attempt to reduce wages in any district, another conference will be called to reconsider the question.

Two divergent resolutions were submitted at the miners' conference on its reassembling this morning. After a lengthy discussion, the delegates were unable to reach an agreement and adjourned for two hours in order to enable their respective districts to hold caucuses.

THE STREET RAILWAY

Situation Unchanged' Neither Company Nor Men Yield a Point.

Albany, N. Y., May 9.—The situation here yesterday morning in the strike of the street railway employes is unchanged. Neither the men nor the company have as yet yielded a point, and, in fact, no conference has been held.

The strike now extends to five cities—Albany, Troy, Watervliet, Rensaluer and Cohoes. Over fifty miles of track lies idle, and a thousand men are out of employment. In Albany, the largest city affected by the strike, business is at a standstill. The theatres were badly affected Tuesday night, and people living in the suburbs are not coming into town at all.

To ride five or six blocks costs from 15 to 20 cents, and hackmen are reaping a harvest. The Troy lines and suburbs closed down yesterday morning, and thus completed the shut-down. There is no indication of trouble or riot as yet, and the men are keeping away from the Traction Company's premises.

Strike Across the Line.

Reading, Pa., May 9.—The strike among the employes of the Reading Iron Company's tube mill spread with such rapidity that the entire plant was closed at midnight. About 1,600 men are now out, and it is possible that if the trouble is not amicably adjusted within a day or two the 1,200 men employed at the Iliey street and Ninth street mills, Keystone furnaces, Scott works and others will be called out.

Lumber Strike Abandoned.

St. John, N. B., May 9. — The strike of the Lumber Surveyors' Association for an increased scale of wages was abandoned last night, and the men decided to return to work at the old rate. They have been out a month.

Genoa Dock Strike Over.

Genoa, May 9.—The dock laborers who have been out on strike have resumed work.

THE BARCELONA RIOTS.

Anarchists and Extreme Socialists Said to Be Making Trouble.

Hendaye, France, May 9.—Advices received here from Barcelona, Spain, say several persons were killed and numbers injured during the disorders there on Tuesday. A majority of the trades have struck work.

A despatch to The Temps from Madrid says the disorders were renewed at Barcelona yesterday morning, and were rigorously repressed by troops and gendarmes.

The Spanish Government attributes the trouble to foreign and Spanish Anarchists, who have returned from exile, and who are co-operating with the extreme Socialists.

There have been numbers of arrests, especially of foreign Anarchists, and firearms, knives, and handbills urging incendiarism, have been seized. The Spanish authorities declare that they have rarely seen a mob as violent as Tuesday's and Wednesday's. The Madrid press calls on the Government to vigorously suppress the Catalan movement.

Baden-Powell's Captain.

Quebec, May 9.—Capt. A. E. Smith, who is presently in command of G Comapny, 8th Royal Rifles, who went through the South African campaign as a member of the first Canadian contingent, with credit to himself and his native city, has accepted a captaincy in the Baden-Powell Police Force. He will leave for South Africa at the end of the month.

Tantallon Castle a Wreck.

Cape Town, May 8. — The mail, baggage and passengers have been landed from the British steamer Tantallon Castle, which went ashore on Robben Island during a fog. It is feared the steamer will become a wreck, as she is hard and fast on the rocks and is bumping and leaking. The Tantallon Castle was bound from Southampton for Table Bay.

South Bay Farmer Shot Himself.

Preston, Ont., May 9.—William Henry Pierson, a respectable farmer of about 45 years of age, residing at South Bay, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself with a shotgun. He was found in the woods some distance from his home. It is thought he committed the deed while in a temporary fit of insanity.

The Indemnity to Be Demanded.

Pekin, May 8.—The Foreign Ministers to-day decided to address a collective note to the Chinese Government, informing it that a joint indemnity of 450,000,000 taels (about $270,000,000) would be demanded and asking what methods of payment were proposed. A reply is expected at the end of the week, which probably will propose to meet the indemnity by raising the customs tariff.

Reward of $1,500.

Toronto, May 9.—The banks interested in the Winton cheque-raising incident have decided to give $1,500 reward, $500 for Winton and the $1,000 for recovery of money. Two colored women are held at Pittsburg on suspicion of knowing something of the matter, but the police here have no information of Winton or his whereabouts.

Dead in Ruins of Home.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 9.—In the ruins of her home the body of Mrs. Solon Robinson was found yesterday where she had been buried in the fire of last Friday. She was the widow of Solon Robinson, for many years agricultural editor of The New York Tribune.

Young Woman Drowned.

St. Stephen, N.B., May 9. — At Squirrel Point yesterday a daughter of B. F. Kelly of Calais lost her life. She went to the St. Croix River to get a pail of water, lost her balance, fell in, and was drowned. She was 20 years old.

THE SUPREME COURT.

Sir Louis Davies May Succeed the Late Mr. Justice King.

THE VISIT OF PREMIER ROSS.

Minister of Marine Would Be an Ornament to the Bench—Mr. Emmerson on the Slate to Cabinet Promotion—Premier Ross Visits Ottawa Concerning Provincial Constitutional Questions.

Ottawa, May 9.—The vacany in the Supreme Court Bench consequent on the death of Mr. Justice King has started considerable speculation as to who is likely to receive the appointment. Several names have been mentioned, but in the best informed circles there is an unanimity of opinion in regard to one gentleman. Sir Louis Davies has been in political life for many years and has rendered most valuable services to the country and to the Liberal party. There is a disposition to think that he would welcome the rest, comparatively speaking, which a Judgeship in the highest court of the land would afford him. Sir Louis has all the qualifications for such a distinguished position and would be an undoubted ornament to the bench. His retirement from the Cabinet would be a great loss to the country, but the judiciary would be the gainer. While the indications point strongly to the acceptance of a Judgeship by the Minister of Marine, it is not likely that anything will be done in the matter until after the session. Should Sir Louis decide to withdraw from politics it would leave an opening in the Cabinet for a Maritime Province man. At the present stage it would be premature to speculate upon whom the choice would fall, but shrewd observers are disposed to believe that Mr. Emmerson, the ex-Premier of New Brunswick, is on the slate for early promotion to the Cabinet rank.

Premier Ross' Visit.

Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, arrived in the city yesterday and is consulting with the Dominion Ministers touching a number of constitutional questions affecting the Province. He has nothing to say for publication at the present juncture, and in consequence all sorts of rumors respecting the object of his visit may be looked for in the Opposition press. Mr. Ross will remain in the city until to-night, when he expects to leave for home.

LIGHTNING STRUCK SCHOOL.

Two Pupils Fatally Injured and Ten Less Seriously so.

Stanstead Junction, Que., May 9.—Lightning struck the Bullock School house, situated about five miles from Beebe Plains, Que., at noon yesterday. About a dozen pupils were in the building, and all were more or less injured, two probably fatally. Miss Mary Reynolds and Miss Simmons, who were sitting together, had their hair burned and their shoes torn from their feet They are still unconscious and paralyzed in their lower limbs. The teacher fortunately was out to dinner and escaped. Mrs. Reynolds, the mother of one of the girls, was in delicate health and is almost prostrate.

Quick Fire at Ottawa.

Ottawa, May 9, 2 a. m.—A fire broke out at midnight in one of the most congested districts of Lower Town. The fire started in a carriage shop in Clarence street, owned by one D'Amour, and, the surrounding buildings being of wood, half a dozen houses (three of them being boarding houses), were in flames before the fire brigade arrived. In all, 14 houses were partially or wholly destroyed, including Roy & Sevigny's hotel, on Murray street. Five persons were injured by suffocation or by jumping from upper windows to escape the flames. As the dwellings were mostly of the poorer kind, the loss will probably not exceed $30,000.

3,000 Men to Go Out.

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—Only about 200 of the 3,000 men in the local building trades struck yesterday. All had been expected to quit work in sympathy with the carpenters, and leaders insist that to-day many others will strike. In view of the fact that among those who quit are plasterers, painters and bricklayers, building was seriously hampered.

Strike of Lake Sailors.

Kingston, May 8.—The crew of the steamer Marianette, with the exception of the captain and cook, struck yesterday morning for higher wages, which not being forthcoming, they left the vessel. The Marianette belongs to Port Hope, and has just unloaded coal at Garden Island.

The Northwest Assembly.

Spring Medicine

Is of the greatest importance. This is the most critical season of the year, from a health standpoint.

It is the time when you imperatively need Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It will give you a good appetite, purify and enrich your blood, build up and steady your nerves, overcome that tired feeling, give mental and digestive strength—in short, will vitalize your whole being, and put you in perfect health.

Don't delay taking it.

Don't experiment with others. Get that which trial and test have proved the best—

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

Best for Spring—"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla when needed for several years and would not be without it in the house. It is an excellent medicine and I heartily recommend its use in the spring and at any time when a blood purifier and tonic is needed." MRS. F. M. FOOTE, 21 Irving Place, Passaic, N. J.

Spring Fever—"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for my spring medicine for years and have always found it reliable and giving perfect satisfaction. In the spring it takes away that tired feeling or spring fever, gives energy and puts the blood in good condition." MISS EFFIE COLONNE, 1535 10th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Prof. Gilbert Dismissed.

Chicago, May 9.—What is regarded as a compromise was reached by the directors of the Chicago Theological Seminary yesterday in the case of George H. Gilbert, professor of New Testament literature and interpretation at the seminary. The directors voted to accept Dr. Gilbert's resignation, but that this action was based on the charge that two of his books contain heretical paragraphs, is not clear.

The Druggists are Busy.

Druggists report great demand for the new 25c cent size of Catarrhozone, and to-day's sales almost cleared out their stock. They explain this rapid run on Catarrhozone by the fact that it gives better satisfaction than any other remedy on the market. Druggists say that Catarrhozone is the only remedy that really does cure Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma. It relieves quickly, is pleasant and convenient to use, and guaranteed to cure or your money refunded. Readers suffering from Irritable Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, etc., are strongly advised to try Catarrhozone. It never fails to cure even the worst cases.

THE PENSIONS BILL PASSED.

The Whole House in Committee Discusses and Passes the $30,000 Grant to Prince Edward Island—A Busy Business Session—The Dominion Flag on Ocean Vessels.

Ottawa, May 9.—The Quebec Judges' bill, the Pensions bill and the resolution granting $30,000 a year to Prince Edward Island in payment of all claims against the Dominion arising out of non-fulfillment of the terms of Confederation, were passed through committee in the House yesterday. No estimates were discussed, and the House rose at 1.10 a. m.

Questions and Answers.

In answer to a question by Mr. Northrup, as to the vacancy in West Hastings, the Premier said that the writ would be issued "without undue delay."

In reply to Mr. E. F. Clarke, Mr. Blair said that Mr. Sise, president of the Bell Telephone Company, had informed him the company has in Quebec 30,000 miles of line and 18,000 subscribers, in Ontario 52,000 miles of line and 23,000 subscribers; in Manitoba 4,000 miles of line and 2,000 subscribers; in the Territories 1,600 miles of line and 302 subscribers; a total of 88,000 miles of line and 39,000 subscribers in the provinces named.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that, on and after Monday next the House meet at 11 a.m., the idea being to expedite the business of Parliament and hasten prorogation. The motion carried.

The Dominion Flag.

Mr. Kaulbach, member for Lunenburg, N. S., said that on March 1 in the Brazilian port of Bahia, the Nova Scotia ship Canada, displayed the Canadian red ensign. The captain at once received a command from the British Consul to haul down the Canadian flag immediately, and hoist the British merchant flag in its place, or render himself liable to a fine of £500. Mr. Kaulbach, who is the owner of the ship, entered a vigorous protest against such treatment, and urged that in justice to Canadians the Government should take steps to see that our flag was recognized abroad. He said that while we were particularly proud of the British flag, we also took great pride in our own, and would like to see it treated with respect.

Sir Louis Davies said that as he had received no notice of the incident, he would ask the honorable member to write him fully on the subject, giving the details, and he would look into the matter.

The House again went into committee upon the bill to restrict the importation and employment of aliens.

Alien Labor Bill.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that after consideration he had been unable to accept the proposition of Mr. Clarke, to give summary jurisdiction to Police Magistrates and Magistrates generally. The bill provided for a penalty ranging from $1,000 to $50, and that the consent of the Attorney-General of the Province or the Superior Court Judge is necessary to action. Sir Wilfrid proposed an an amendment by which action may be taken in a Superior Court or in a County Court with the consent of the Judge of the Court, or before the Recorder, Police Magistrate, Stipendiary Magistrate or two Magistrates, provided the consent of the Attorney-General of the Province, a Superior Court Judge or County Judge is first obtained.

Mr. Clarke said, as a layman, he had not been able to understand the extent of the amendment suggested by the Premier. He asked whether the effect of the amendment was that any workingman who felt himself aggrieved would have to obtain the consent of the Attorney-General of the Province, a Judge of the Superior Court or a County Judge before taking summary action.

The Premier replied in the affirmative.

The bill was reported and stands for third reading.

Provincial Court Judges.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's bill respecting the Judges of the Provincial Courts was passed through committee. During the discussion Mr. W. F. Maclean complained that in Ontario the Judges of the High Court were insufficiently paid, while there were so many County Court Judges that they had not enough to do. He wanted to see the money now spent in payment of salaries to unnecessary County Court Judges devoted to increasing the salaries of the High Court Judges.

Mr. R. L. Borden, Sir Louis Davies and Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick paid tributes to the memory and ability of the late Mr. Justice King of the Supreme Court.

Read a Third Time.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:

To amend the Act respecting the Judges of Provincial Courts, and providing salaries for three new judges in Montreal.

To amend the Animal Contagious Disease Act.

To amend the Interpretation Act.

The P. E. Island Subsidy.

Mr. Fielding moved the House into committee on his resolution to grant the Province of Prince Edward Island the sum of $30,000 annually in settlement of the Island's claim against the Dominion for nonfulfillment of the terms of Confederation in the matter of efficient steam communication between the Island and the mainland. The Finance Minister said that the claim was one of long standing. It had at one time been laid at the foot of the throne, and the British Government, while not wishing to interfere, suggested that the Dominion Government should take it into consideration. He recounted the history of winter communication between the Island and mainland since 1873, when the Island entered Confederation, and said that only since 1900 was the system entirely satisfactory. The province claimed $5,000,000 for nonfulfillment of terms between these dates, but the Federal Government only allowed for the years between 1873 and 1888, since which time the service has been fairly satisfactory. The Island Government had been offered, on that basis, $30,000 a year in extinction of the claim, and had accepted.

After a long discussion, in which the assertion was made that this was but the beginning of the readjustment of provincial subsidies and in which it was denied, the resolution was adopted.

Mr. E. F. Clarke read a letter from Mr. M. C. Ellis, President of the Commercial Travelers' Association, suggesting that as a sine qua non to the granting of this concession the Dominion Government should use its influence to have the obnoxious municipal taxes on commercial travelers removed. Mr. Ellis understood that the present tax of $15 a year in Charlottetown was about to be raised to $50, a tax which was in restraint of interprovincial trade, and would fall especially on Ontario, which is already the heaviest taxpayer in the Dominion.

Manitoba Railway Bill.

This evening the House again went into committee upon the bill relating to the agreement between the Government of Manitoba and the Canadian Northern Railway Company. Mr. John Charlton took the floor in opposition to the bill. He doubted whether the local Government of Manitoba had sought intelligently to promote the interests of the Province, and he believed that the great majority of the House entertained the same opinion, but the vote the other night was the result of a feeling antagonistic to interference with Provincial rights. Mr. Charlton declaimed against the large corporations which threatened the interests of the country, and quoted the C. P. R. as an instance of watered stock, the capital stock of the company being $19,800,000, which cost the owners $4,997,000, but which in five years repaid to the holders out of capital dividends amounting to $5,872,000, giving them back all they had paid for the stock and $875,000 in addition. This was in addition to the cash and land grant given by the Dominion to the company.

The hour allotted for the consideration of private bills expired before Mr. Charlton had concluded his remarks.

Pension Bill Passed Committee.

The bill respecting pensions to the permanent military force was passed through committee and some discussion took place on the bill respecting the packing and sale of certain staple commodities.

The House adjourned at 11.30.

The road is five miles in length and runs from St. Catharines to Thorold along the old Welland Canal. It was the first electric street railway constructed in Canada. The purchase price was $90,000.

THOMAS SIDNEY COOPER.

Aged British Cattle Painter Who Has Been Critically Ill.

Thomas Sidney Cooper, the distinguished British painter who has been seriously ill, is the dean of the artists of England. If he should survive until next September Mr. Cooper will be 98 years old. His name has been prominent so long that many persons believe him to have belonged to the eighteenth century school. As early as 1820 he was earning a good living as a scene painter. Then he set up as a teacher of art, went to Brussels, where he received the encouragement of wealthy patrons, and in 1833 he exhibit-

Some of them can be recognized by their titles, as "Going to Pasture," "Cattle Reposing," "In the Heat of a Summer Afternoon" and "The King of the Meadow." In 1897 he was elected an associate of the Royal Academy and afterward a member. He has exhibited no fewer than 230 pictures at the Academy, and his work of recent years is said to have been good in spite of his age.

Olympics will Excurt.

The announcement is made that a sufficient guarantee has been received to warrant the Olympics holding their annual outing on the first Thursday in June. A trip to the head of the lake will be taken during the afternoon.

Improving the Stony Lake Service.

The new steamer Alert, which is being built by Messrs. Whyte & Grylls, of Lakefield, is now nearing completion. It is expected she will be ready for the water next week. The Alert is intended to relieve the steamer Sunbeam with the passengers at Juniper Island, where connections will be made both ways daily for points on the lake east. This arrangement will save a lot of time to cottagers and others, as it allows the Sunbeam to proceed on her way up to Burleigh to connect with the Trent Valley Navigation Company's steamers, while the Alert is landing the passengers for opposite points on the lake at the same time. Whyte & Grylls are showing a live interest in the Stony Lake service, and deserve the thanks of tourists for the enterprise they are showing.

THE MUSEUM COMMITTEE.

It met at Victoria Museum Last Night.

Many Additional Presentations Have Been Made—Names of the Donors

The Museum Committee of the Historical Society, met at the Victoria Museum on Wednesday at 4 p. m., to inspect the improvements and repairs now being carried out by order of Mr. Richard Hall. The brickwork in front has been repaired, and will be tuck-pointed. The roof, eaves and piping have been renewed, and the exterior wood work is to receive a fresh coat of paint. It is the intention to brighten up the lower rooms and hall by removing the old paper and kalsomining the walls and ceilings. The fireplaces are to be repaired and fitted with new grates. The caretaker's apartments have already been improved and made more comfortable.

The committee feel very grateful to Mr. Hall for his kindness in thus assisting them in a work of public benefit. The work is being done in a first class manner under the direction of Mr. Thomas Lee.

The collection of articles in the museum is large and comprehensive and is constantly being added to. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nesbitt of Florida, who presented the entire collection now occupying the "Florida Room," two years ago, are supplementing their gift by another collection which will arrive in a few days.

Mrs. T. G. Hazlitt has kindly deposited two large and handsome cases of stuffed birds, which have been very much admired, also some war trophies from the Soudan.

Mr. Norman Bell has deposited his collection of Butterflies and Moths, which is said by authorities on the science of Entomology, to be one of the best collections in existence in Ontario. Mr. Bell has also presented specimens of reptiles preserved in spirits, and several other articles.

Col. Greenwood and Mr. Alf. Brown, of Strathcona Horse, have presented relics of South African battlefields, and several other returned soldiers have promised to contribute articles collected there.

Mr. A. C. Dunlop and Mr. Cluxton have presented several old and valuable books to the library. The ladies of the Society under the direction of Mrs. Birdsall, will fit up a room in the Museum with antique furniture, part of which is already collected.

The committee find themselves handicapped for want of funds to purchase additional cases and fittings, and will wait on the Town and County Councils with a view to getting assistance.

Owing to the improvements and repairs now being done to the building, the Museum will not be opened until a later date, of which due notice will be given, but the caretaker will allow small parties to inspect the rooms by applying at the residence.

AN OMEMEE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Florence McCrea and Mr. John Eaton Yesterday.

A great stir was occasioned in Omemee social circles yesterday by the marriage of Miss Florence McCrea, youngest daughter of Mr. John McCrea, of the village, to Mr. John C. Eaton, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Eaton, of Toronto.

A special train from Toronto arrived at Omemee at about noon carrying a large number of guests from the city, and although admission to the church was obtained only by presenting invitations, yet the edifice was filled to the doors. A carpet was laid from the doorway of Mr. McCrea's residence to the roadway and carpeting was also stretched from the street into the church and up the aisle. The same being afterwards presented to the church by Mr. Eaton. The interior of the church was lavishly decorated with flowers for the occasion the pulpit being a mass of palms and lilies.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Roberts of Lindsay, assisted by Rev. E. Brown, the pastor of the church. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Anna McCrae, and the groomsman was Mr. Frank McMahon of the T. Eaton Co., Toronto. The bride was handsomely costumed in a gown of white silk organdie, inserted over white silk. She wore a Brussels net veil, and orange blossoms and lilies of the valley fastened with a beautiful pearl and diamond pin, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was prettily gowned in blue flowered organdie. A reception was held at the home of the bride, and dejeuner served, after which the newly wedded couple left on their honeymoon trip, which will be spent in the United States and Muskoka. Peterborough's rubber tired landaus were all in commission.

The dejeuner was served by Webb, of Toronto, the staff of waiters making all arrangements the day previous to the ceremony. It was a very daintily appointed repast.

The bride's travelling costume was a tailormade blue homespun with toque to match. Among those present were:—Mr. and Mrs. John McCrea, parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. T. Eaton, parents of the gooom; Miss S. Scarff, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan, Miss Anna McCrea, Miss Ellie McCrea, Mrs. R. McCrea, of Peterborough, Dr. J. H. Cotton, and Mrs. Cotton, Dr. and Mrs. Holford Walker, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. D. Reid, of Reaboro', Miss Gypsy Houser, Miss Ada Rundle, Miss M. W. Scott, Miss A. Pringle, Miss Gretta Burden, Master Harry Burden, Mr. Frank McMahon, Mr. R. Y. Eaton, Mr. Elmer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Eaton, Mr. John McCrea, jr., Mr. Arthur McCrea, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barker, and Miss Emma Keller. The gift of the groom's father to the bride was a beautiful chatelaine watch, set with diamonds, and of his mother the complete furnishing of the home. On returning to the city, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eaton will reside at 91 Walmer road, Toronto.

A little romance in connection with the wedding exists in the fact that it was while nursing Mr. Timothy Eaton, that Miss McCrae became acquainted with Mr John Eaton, his son. The bride is a beautiful and cultured girl, and was most popular in Omemee before leaving to take a course in nursing in Toronto.

REV. O. C. ELLIOTT RESIGNS.

He has Accepted a Call to the Pulpit of the Belleville Baptist Church.

Much to the surprise of those who attended the weekly prayer meeting at the Park street Baptist church, last evening Rev. O. C. Elliott who has been the pastor of the congregation for the last five years tendered his resignation and announced his intention of accepting a call which he had received to the pulpit of the Belleville Baptist church, to succeed Rev. Mr. Cowsert, who was leaving for Brantford.

Rev. Mr. Elliott was formerly actively connected with the aggressive work of the Y.M.C.A., being Secretary of the Wood. stock branch of the Association some seven or eight years ago. He afterwards entered McMaster University, and it was while taking his course there, that he was engaged to take the Sunday services at the Park street church, where his ministrations have proved so effective that the love and respect of the whole community has been won by him, and the size of the congregation increased most appreciably.

Mr. Elliott has lately refused calls to one of the Brantford churches and also to the Barrie church. Some three years ago he conducted a series of revival services in Belleville and the Baptist congregation were so favourably impressed with him that a call was extended to the Peterborough pastor on the same evening that Rev. Mr. Cowsert tendered his resignation.

Mr. Elliott's statement last evening in reference to his acceptance of the call to Belleville was laid over for consideration unti this evening, when the annual tea of the congregation takes place.

THE 24TH CELEBRATION

Will be a Huge Success From Present Indications.

The Committee Met Last Night—Notes on the Day—The Procession.

A very largely attended meeting of the citizens of the town interested in the proper celebration of the 24th of May, was held in the town council chamber last night, when a considerable amount of business was transacted towards perfecting the organization of the work. The meeting was by no means confined to grown up men, as the small boy made matters lively by his presence. There fully fifty youngsters on hand, all anxious to take part in the proceedings. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. B. Bamford, who reviewed the progress of the work so far, and asked the hearty assistance of all in making the day a most memorable one in the history of Peterbosough. There were also present such notables in affairs of this kind as Mayor Denne, Messrs. Harry Winch, D. H. Burritt, Thos. Rutherford, Wm. Kindred and many others.

Mr. Burrett, the secretary of the Celebration Committee, read a list of the "floats" that had been already designed and asked for volunteers for the same. These were readily found, and judging from the list of characters the procession will be a mighty one. There will be "take-offs" on the Peterborough Pure Milk Co., coloured minstrels, ladies' select sewing society, Peterborough Police Court, Childrens' Aid Society, Buck Town fire brigade, Peterborough Light and Power Co., Mrs. Carrie Nation, patrol wagon, Burleigh Falls Power Company, city fathers, etc.

In addition to these there are many private floats that will be a laughable sight to the public.

It is said that the Ashburnham young men will figure quite prominently. Eko Camp too, will shine, while there is said to be some talk of No. 4 Company, 57th Regt., showing the public what they can do.

Mr. Harry Winch is after recruits for his Indian Warriors, who will be plumed, painted and mounted on bronchos.

THE COMMON WEAL SOCIETY

Organized for Peterborough and Ashburnham.

Not Exactly a Temperance Society—To put Down Profane and Course Language.

The Peterborough Common Weal Society is a new organization that is about to be organized in Peterborough and Ashburnham. The promoter of the scheme is Rev. Dr. Symonds, and the appended extracts from the circular calling the meeting, will explain the objects of the same:

The Peterborough Common Weal Society is an organization of citizens of Peterborough and Ashburnham for the purpose of forming and sustaining a high level of public citizenship.

It is a recognized fact that the truest and best citizenship rests upon a moral basis, and that in its promotion none of us stands or falls by himself only, but all are linked togther by certain common ties as citizens of one community.

The reputation of any community is founded on the basis of its average goodness or badness, and in the estimate of this average the life of every citizen counts.

The promotion of the common good has always and must always involve a certain measure of individual sacrifice. Such sacrifice is the willing self denial of something which may be regarded as an individual right or pleasure for the sake of the highest good of the whole community. The recognition of this principal is the underlying motive in the formation of the Peterborough Common Weal Society.

In this statement it is not intended to set forth in detail all the aims and objects of the society. These will depend upon the support which it receives and the success which attends its efforts, and upon the consent of its members. We do not pledge ourselves to attack every or any specific evil. We leave the development of the scope of the society to be worked out in the future.

One object before us at the present time is to draw attention to a particular custom which we believe on various grounds to be a grave evil. We refer to the habit of drinking at bars or other places in the town during business hours, and in connection herewith to that of "treating." We believe that unquestionable and great harm has been done by these habits in past years, and continues in the present. We believe that the time is ripe to seek the voluntary co-operation of all citizens in a united effort to discontinue and to discredit these habits.

Another serious evil which in the opinion of many is growing, is the open use of profane and coarse language upon our streets, often by mere boys.

For this purpose we voluntarily accept the following rules, and promise to observe them as long as we are members of the society:

I. That we will abstain from the use of alcoholic liquors in the town and village until the hour of 6 o'clock p.m. (This rule not to apply to the mid-day meals.)

II. That we will discourage the system of treating which prevails at the present time, and which leads men through a mistaken feeling of politeness or hospitality to drink more than they desire and frequently to excess.

III. That we will endeavour by all means within our power to discountenance and put down the use of all profane and coarse language.

Whilst no rules are made with regard to the habits of the members of the society after six o'clock, we confide in their good sense to recognize the fact that public opinion is rightly opposed to excess at all times.

It will be observed that this is not a Temperance Society, but we trust it presents no features which will hinder those who are total abstainers from joining it.

H. SYMONDS, Convenor.
R. M. DENNISTOUN,
E. H. D. HALL,
Committee.

N.B.—You are invited to attend a meeting for the formation of this Society to be held in the Canada Life board rooms on Monday, May 13th, at 8 o'clock p.m.

PRESENTED WITH A CHAIR.

Dr. F. L. Robinson's Friends Surprised Him Somewhat Last Night.

Last night a number of F. L. Robinson's personal friends gathered and presented him with a handsome chair, accompanied with the following address:—

To Mr. F. L. Robinson, Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—A number of your personal friends, whose intimacy with you has been of the pleasantest kind, desire to present you with some token of their esteem for you on the occasion of your leaving the ranks of the bachelors to take unto yourself a partner for life.

We congratulate you on the wisdom of the step you have taken, but hope that it will never occur again.

In wishing you and Mrs. Robinson a long and a happy married life, we desire that our social relations may continue ever fresh and green, and that we may always be counted among the list of your personal friends who take a warm interest in your welfare.

Please accept this wedding gift as an expression of our friendship, with the hope that the comforts you may enjoy in your easy chair may be a reminder of some of "the boys" that enjoyed many a social hour with the "Doc." (Signed.)

The doctor replied in feeling terms, expressing his appreciation of the gift he had received, and the kind words contained in the address.

MR. McCALL TAKES A FALL.

And His Injuries are of a Very Serious Nature—Was at a Barn Raising.

Mr. W. H. McCall of Douro, met with an accident yesterday afternon, which may yet prove fatal. Mr. McCall is a farmer residing about two miles out of the town, and was engaged with others yesterday at a barn raising at Mr. John Moore's, near Nassau. He fell from where he was standing on a rafter a distance of 10 feet, alighting on his side on another rafter below. McCall came down very heavily, and his injuries were both painful and serious.

Dr. Scott was immediately summoned and did what he could to relieve the injured man of his sufferings. However, his injuries are of an internal nature and the results are feared by his friends.

THE BACKGROUND GROUP.

The crowd hums, the music madly plays;
'Tis meet, for, lo, it is the day of days;
The home returning heroes come; a cry
Of welcome should be lifted to the sky
And flowers strew the people trampled ways.

The drums beat martially; with rhythmic beat
The steps resound along the gaping street.
Hark! What acclaims! And how the folk do press
To see, to touch, may be, the very dress
Of those who dared the death when life is sweet!

But stay! Where joy is general, where the sound
Of jubilant voices rends the air around,
Why is you group so silent in its place,
With war's impassioned image face to face?
Wherefore those eyes cast nunlike on the ground?

Who are these hangers back, these dark robed ones?
They are the mothers who are reft of sons,
The wives whose dearest lie all uncaressed
Afar with vital stains on brow or breast,
The children orphaned at the mouths of guns.

—Richard Burton in Outlook.

A Sentimental Journey And Its Results.

By GILBERT DAYLE.

It was about 4 o'clock one afternoon in February, and Hippesley was sitting on the veranda of the Cafe de Paris at Monte Carlo. He sat deep in thought, his ears mechanically listening to the strains of the little Hungarian band a few yards away from him. He was thinking of the reason that had brought him to the place. He had been abroad for 12 years, yet within a month of his return he had left again and hurried to spend a few days on the Riviera before taking steamer at Marseilles.

It was absurd, he knew it, but the longing to see her face again was irresistible. He would not seek an opportunity of speaking with her. The scheme on which their lives had been worked out made this impossible. He simply had an overwhelming desire to see her. Then he could go back to his lonely life, not happy; he could never be that, but with a fresh picture of the one woman he had ever loved.

He noticed a smart carriage draw up before the broad steps of the Casino, and almost simultaneously a man and a woman came out of the building. The man was middle aged, a trifle heavy in build and faultlessly dressed. He handed the lady into the carriage. Hippesley, as he caught sight of her face, gave a start and clutched hold of the table. She was a young English woman, magnificently beautiful.

The color left his face, and he riveted his eyes on her. He watched her smilingly say "goodby" to the man on the steps; then the carriage turned and drove rapidly away. As it vanished from sight he sank back in his chair, his mouth twitching. His throat seemed dry and parched; he stretched forward and drank some tea at a gulp. Then the voices of two men talking just behind him reached his ears.

"That was the Princess Zandra. She is living at the Villa Erondel, at Beaulieu."

"Enormously rich?"

"She was till a day or so ago." The man lowered his voice. Hippesley found himself straining for the next words. "I happen to know," came in almost a whisper, "that the late prince was sufficiently ill advised to invest nearly all his money in an enterprise that has recently come to the ground with a crash, and the princess, who never had the slightest suspicion of her affairs not being in a satisfactory state, has suddenly been told that another year at her present rate of expenditure will leave her penniless."

"What will she do?"

"Go on living as she has done and marry again. Women with such beauty can pick and choose. There are no hard places for them. Rumor says it will be the man who has just left her. He is not a good man, but he is passionately in love with her and a millionaire twice over."

Hippesley rose from his seat and, making his way round to the terrace, sank into a seat. He felt he could hear no more. It was all so curious, so startlingly strange. To think that the girl he had left living with her father on the outskirts of a quiet English country town should have developed into this wonderful Princess Zandra, whose beauty was known throughout Europe. And they had loved one another! He had gone abroad with the hope of making a name for himself, of being able to claim her. But ill luck had dogged him, and the time had never come when he could write to her. He had left her free, and as the years went by, bringing nothing but persistent failure, he knew that it was not for him to possess the only thing he counted worth having. Occasionally scraps of intelligence as to the course her life had taken drifted to him. Her father had died, and she had gone to live with a wealthy aunt in London. From stray papers that reached him he learned that her beauty had caused quite a sensation in society. Then at last came the news that she had married a foreigner of great position, Prince Zandra.

He wondered if she ever thought of him—remembered the night he had confessed his love to her. Not a day had passed in those long years of failure but her image had been before him. Now, at length, when he had achieved some slight success, it was too late. All that was left for him was to take the absurd little journey of sentiment.

Early next morning he traveled to Beaulieu. He got out at the railway station and, following the path that led round to St. Jean, passed the fishing village and gained the Point. There he sank down on the ground and gave himself up to his reflections. It was a perfect morning, a cloudless sky, the air soft and pregnant with the perfume of the roses that grew right to the edge of the tiny cliff. Some 30 feet below him was the sea, not a ripple on its smooth surface, the clear blue tints gleaming in the sunshine.

Presently he was aware of a woman gazing curiously at him. The next moment they had recognized one another. She went suddenly pale, and her lips parted in wonder.

"Ralph!" she gasped.

He looked at her mutely. He was face to face with her at last, and the blood went throbbing through his veins.

"Yes, just Ralph," he said mechanically.

She held out her hand, and he took it awkwardly.

"And to think it is you after all these years!" she said softly.

Hippesley did not speak. His thoughts had flown back a dozen years to the night when he had left her. An indefinable idea came to him that she, too, was thinking of the same thing.

"I won't lie," he said abruptly. "I am not here by chance. I heard you were on the Riviera, and after all these years I wanted to see you again—just to see you; I had no notion of speaking."

She gazed at him steadily, as if trying to read his thoughts.

"You have loved me all this time?" she asked slowly.

He bowed his head. She turned away with a little sob.

"And you never wrote!" she cried. "Oh, why didn't you write?"

"I was a failure—such an utter failure I could not write to claim you," he said hoarsely. "You did well. I wasn't worth waiting for."

She looked at him, the tears glistening in her eyes.

"What a jumble fate made of our lives!" she sighed.

"It did not matter. You are the Princess Zandra."

"Oh, I am tired—tired to death of it all!" she cried in a tone of utter weariness. "To have to live in an artificial world, among people who are not my people—there is no one left to me now—and to have to begin it all over again," she added in a half sorrowful, musing tone.

He understood. He remembered the words he had overheard at the cafe. It was all true, then. She looked up at him quickly, with a smile.

"But you, Ralph; what have you done?" she asked gently.

"For years nothing. Now, at last, I've got a small estate in Ceylon. It's a fair living, while I work hard—not a bad life, too, for a man who has lost his ambitions."

"No, not a bad life," she repeated. "A lonely one, though." She gave a little laugh. There was an infinite note of sadness in it. "As lonely as mine has been!"

She lifted her head, and their eyes met. He read something in her gaze—a something that sent him trembling from head to foot.

"My God, Esme!" he cried. "If—if you were not the Princess Zandra!"

He saw her eyes suddenly shine, the color rush to her cheeks.

"Remember only that I am a poor woman again," she whispered; "that I've never forgotten, never could forget"— Her voice died away.

His brain was in a whirl. It seemed hardly possible.

"But the life!" he cried. "Think, after all, you've"—

"I only loved once. It was you I thought had forgotten"—

The low, soft voice came to a stop. They stood looking into one another's eyes.

"Don't send me back to the old life again, Ralph," she murmured.—Mainly About People.

Still Readable.

Mr. Hawley looked down at his wife with pitying indulgence as she sat busily writing in a small book the day after Christmas. "Copying that old list of names and presents, my dear, I suppose," he said lightly. "Now, how much better it would be if you would just exercise your memory as I do mine and save all this writing year after year. Why, I sent 40 presents," repeated Mr. Hawley, rising on his toes and falling on his heels to emphasize his statement, "and yet I make no note of them save in my mind, my dear."

"I know you're wonderful in that way, Henry," said little Mrs. Hawley meekly, "but I'm sure I should make mistakes if I didn't keep a list. Oh, here's a letter that came for you from Jack in the last mail this afternoon."

The indulgent smile lingered on Mr. Hawley's face as he opened his letter, but it faded and his color heightened as he read his nephew's communication:

Dear Uncle—Thank you very much for the handsome copy of "Vanity Fair." I am sure, as father says, that I shall enjoy reading it just as much as I did when you gave it to me last year and the year before and the year before that. Your affectionate nephew, JACK.

She Stopped the Car.

When a Fourth avenue car bound down town approached Eighteenth street the other morning a determined looking woman asked the conductor to stop the car at the corner. He nodded and evidently forgot all about it. The car rolled past Eighteenth street without stopping. The woman arose and with an angry glance at the conductor began ringing up fares. She evidently had tried that method of stopping a car before, for when the conductor gave the motorman a sharp signal to stop and the car did stop abruptly she said triumphantly:

"I thought that would remind you."

"But you have rung up five fares," said the conductor.

"Then why didn't you stop at Eighteenth street?" asked the woman. "It serves you just right," and off she flounced. The other passengers smiled appreciatively, and the conductor made a careful count of the money in his pockets.—New York Sun.

GUINEA GOLD COAST

DARK SUPERSTITIONS AND FETICH RITES STILL FLOURISH THERE.

Rev. S. R. S. Ahuma, Christian Minister, Has Witnessed Manifestations of Uncanny Power, Though He Is Not Afraid of It—A Black Prince Who Is Thoroughly Civilized.

Britain's protectorate, the Guinea Gold Coast, West Africa, is despite all that has been done still the home of many dark superstitions and fetich rites. One man is doing herculean work in stopping infant murder, the marriage of little girls, and witchcraft, and his experiences are interesting. This man is a native, with a skin as black as ebony, a prince of the royal house of Ga and a Christian, Rev, S. R. S. Ahuma, and is giving himself to the hard task of abolishing among his people practices revolting to civilization. For this purpose he invokes both the sword of the spirit and of the flesh.

GUINEA BELLE.

He seeks to enforce British law against the infant slayer as against any other murderer, making it a crime punishable with the death penalty for all who are accessory to the killing of a babe at its birth—that for one thing. He sends his agents among the villages to report cases of child murder and to bring the criminals to justice. The fetich priests set themselves against his work with the desperation of those who see their age long powers and prerogatives slipping from their hands. At one of the villages a fetich priest spat in the face of Ahuma's agent, a native. This was a signal for a general attack on him by the negroes.

Ahuma himself would be even worse dealt with than his agent only that priests and people are afraid of him. It is here that the sword of the spirit intervenes. The witch men say their spells have no power over him. At one village he visited was a whole band of witch men with a leader. Ahuma could never induce this head witch man to face him. If he saw the clergyman approaching, the leader would dodge and sidle down another path. His explanation was that Ahuma's spirit was too strong for him, that he could not look him in the face. No evil spell or fate may prevail against a powerful will and a pure heart.

As another plan for diminishing child murder the missionaries and native Christians have established creches for the reception of tenth babies and their mothers. If a mother's tenth child were not strangled at its birth, if on the contrary she endeavored to keep and rear it, she would never again be permitted to live in her home village. The missionaries have therefore given notice among the villages that they will receive into their creches all these decimal babies, as one might call them. Mothers expecting the coming of a tenth infant go to the mission before its birth, remaining there afterward until the child is 3 months old. Then they return to their homes without it, and all is well, as though nothing had happened. They might be killed if they endeavored to take the little one back with them. They therefore abandon it, which is perhaps not so hard when the poor woman has already nine other black babies. The creche superintendent keeps the child till she can get it adopted out somewhere.

One of the weirdest, most mysterious of the Guinea Gold Coast practices is that of witchcraft. It is as old among the natives as the history of the tribes themselves and flourishes to-day among them in all its evil blossoming and fruit in face of the blazing sun of civilization. Ahuma is as little superstitious as the most enlightened Englishman, yet he confesses that these Guinea negro witch people possess a power which as yet he is unable to understand. He himself has been educated at white men's schools, which has withdrawn him from the knowledge of his own race superstitions. But from well established facts, partly drawn from his own observation, Prince Ahuma concludes that the witch people, ignorant as horses in most things, have an actual command over certain forces of nature that is unknown among white people. He believes there is a scientific explanation of the matter, but he has so far been unable to find it. At any rate, the witch man or woman can blight crops, kill cattle and work evil to human beings even at a distance to the extent indeed of destroying their lives. A negress apprehended and brought before the British court on the coast confessed that she had slain nine persons by witchcraft, but there being to-day no English law to deal with witches she was discharged. Asked how she wrought her spells, she declared that a power outside of herself, a power stronger than herself, but which she herself did not understand, commanded her to curse, kill, hoodoo or otherwise work injury to certain persons, and she was compelled to obey.

Personally Prince Ahuma is not in the least afraid of the power, though he is forced to believe in it. The prince himself once witnessed in a field a witch performance which he has been puzzling ever since to find an explanation for. It was near the village where the band of witch men lived. Two of these were youths, and by persistent and long continued persuasion he at length induced them to give him a sample of what they could do. At the appointed time, exactly a quarter past midnight, the two young men led Ahuma to a certain spot in a field. He took the precaution to have with him two servants and an intelligent friend, arguing that though one person might be deceived or see wrong four were not likely all to be deluded.

The youths stipulated that under no circumstances should the prince call them by their names while they were under the power. If he did, they told him they would not be able to come out of it and back to their normal state.

He agreed, and they proceeded to invoke the witch spell. They would not tell him what they did, and, with all his mind bent on discovering, he could find out nothing. They stood in one spot and waved their arms about. That was all he could see. Suddenly at the end of from seven to ten minutes, there in the presence of four persons, flames began to spout from the witch boys' mouths and apparently from all over their bodies, playing lambent about them till they were enveloped in fire. Civilized prestidigitators, with all the resources of modern science at their command, are able to produce something of the same effect but is it likely these ignorant wild negroes understood the use of electricity, phosphorous or luminous paint? The black boys had no appliances at all. After a time they came duly out of their spell, and the prince was as much mystified as ever.

The children of the Guinea witch people are often born with their parents' uncanny power, whatever it is. The ability to practice witchcraft may also be easily acquired. If you pay a witch a penny, he or she will invest you also with the power, and you can make use of it with the best of them. But there is this danger—once under the diabolic influence you must remain so. What it impels you to, that you must do, and its promptings are to evil and destruction. A painful, pathetic result follows when, as sometimes happen, the witch becomes converted to Christianity and seeks to put off the old man and his ways. There ensues a struggle as tremendous as that of Christian with Apollyon, as long enduring as that of the man in Bulwer's tale of Zanoni and his disciple, the man who had given himself over to the Terror. The Guinea people become earnest Christians and immediately strive to abandon witchcraft utterly, but find it almost beyond their strength to do so. The "power," they say, constantly prompts them to cast evil spells aad do wrong deeds, and their lives are thenceforth an agonizing struggle against this implement. By faith and prayer and mighty striving they seek to escape the devilish thing, which is ever on the alert to pounce upon them. The story recalls old monkish legends.

FOR CHILDREN

Nothing, that comes in a bottle, is more important for children than Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil. And "important" means that it keeps them in even health, on the highest plane of physical life.

"Do they live on it then?"

No; they don't touch it, except when they need it.

"When do they need it?"

Whenever they show, in whatever way, the least disturbance of even balance of health. It is not for acute diseases, with some exceptions; it is for a slight falling off from first-rate condition.

It is to be used as a food, whenever their usual food does not quite answer the purpose of food.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

CANCER,

THE MOST MALIGNANT DISEASE TO CURE.

The action of B. B. B. on Cancer is first felt by reducing the pain, afterwards the healing commences restoring a healthy condition to the flesh surrounding the parts affected.

TREATMENT:—Bathe freely with B.B.B., and take internally according to directions. Three bottles will prove its efficacy for relieving or curing any kind of cancer.

MR. GEO. MEGGISON, of QUINN, ONT., writes under date of Dec. 17th, 190>, of the wonderful benefit he has received from the use of B. B. B. for cancer on the throat, from which he has been suffering for seventeen years:

"Seventeen years ago a cancer formed on my throat just beside the wind-pipe.

I doctored with several physicians, but they failed to give me a particle of relief.

Some of them advised an operation, others cautioned against it as the cancer was in such a delicate place.

But to make a long story short, for seven years I suffered untold agony, until at last the cancer broke and discharged a thick bloody matter, after this it would heal up and a scab would form, but would eventually drop off and leave the opening larger than before. I suffered this terrible agony until a short time ago, when I happened to read of Burdock Blood Bitters being good for cancer, and I decided to procure a bottle, but hardly had faith in anything and did not dare to think of it giving me any relief.

However, I started applying it to the sore with a piece of cotton. I also took the B. B. B. internally according to directions.

I had not used the treatment long before I could notice a great change for the better, and believe by continuing its use I will ere long be permanently cured. I cannot too highly recommend B. B. B. to any person who is troubled with cancer.

A Nice Family Mix Up.

A widower with a number of small children married a widow who was similarly blessed. In due time the newly married couple added to the number. Hearing a voice in the yard one day, the father went out to see what was the matter.

"Well, what was it?" asked his wife as he returned out of breath.

"Your children and my children were quarreling with our children," was the reply.—London Answers.

Won.

"Dear," said young Mrs. Jellus, "I thought you ought to know. There's a married man who is violently in love with me."

"What?" he cried. "Who is he?"

"Yes. Who is it?"

"You."

113 YEARS OF AGE.

A Census Enumerator Discovers the Oldest Man in Ontario.

Barrie, May 9.—Isaiah McMaster, one of the census enumerators, came across a very old man in Angus, while on his rounds. His name is William McKibbon, and he claims to have been born in Ireland on July 12, 1788. Mr. McKibbon, though feeble, is able to get up at the usual time in the morning and kindle a fire. He emigrated to Canada when 35 years of age, and followed farming and horse trading in his younger days. He has a fair education, but is very deaf. When Mr. McMaster took down his statement, the old man looked over his shoulder and scanned the paper curiously. Mr. McMaster was a little in doubt as to his age, but the neighbors believe that he is quite as old as he states. A number of farmers in the vicinity have known him for 50 years, and say that they have never noticed any change in him.

Canadian Girl Awarded $2,000 Damages

Detroit, May 9.—Last summer Christine McIntosh, a Kincardine girl, who works in this city, went home to visit the old folks, taking passage up on the steamer Pittsburg, from Windsor, in company with two other girls, whose homes are in Kincardine. They all testified yesterday forenoon in Judge Fraser's court, that, while the steamer was lying at Goderich, William J. Brown, the owner of the Pittsburg, called Miss McIntosh vile names. After her return to this city, she commenced an action for $20,000 damages for slander. When the suit came to trial neither the defendant nor his attorneys were present, and the taking of the testimony for the plaintiff occupied but a few minutes. After being out a short time, the jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $2,000.

Morgan Buys More Ships.

Liverpool, May 9.—Although the report is not officially confirmed, Liverpool ship owners believe the rumor that J. Pierpont Morgan has purchased the Atlantic Transport and Red Star fleets, intending to make out of them an Atlantic line under European management. The Atlantic Transport services are between London, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. The Red Star services are between Liverpool, Philadelphia and Baltimore, in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Red Star boats also run between Antwerp, New York and Philadelphia. Both lines comprise nearly 30 vessels, many of which are large and modern construction.

British Will Fight Morgan.

London, May 9.—Big combinations of shipping designed to fight for the Atlantic carrying trade with J. P. Morgan's fleets have become the talk and hope of the British maritime world. Sir Christopher Furness, Mr. J. R. Ellerman and several other ship owners of equal prominence are giving close attention to the movements of Mr. Morgan and his allies, and intend to forestall, if possible, a series of steamship consolidations really dangerous to Great Britain's commercial position upon the high seas.

A Tariff Prediction.

Chicago, May 9.—"If the great trusts in this country encroach on European markets, to the detriment of European manufacturers, I predict a combination of the commercial countries of Europe to raise tariffs on American goods to almost prohibitive figures." So spoke Jules Siegfried, France's Minister of Industry, Commerce and the Colonies, in the Cabinet of Ribot, in 1892 and 1893, who is at present in this city. "There is but one logical solution of the present situation," continued Mr. Siegfried, "and that is the signing of a fair and equitable treaty between the different nations."

The Deer's Eyes.

A Canadian hunter tells this incident of how he once came face to face with his quarry and hadn't the heart to fire: "It wasn't a case of 'buck fever,' such as a novice might experience, for I had been a hunter for many years, and had killed a good many deer. This was a particularly fine buck that I had followed for three days. A strong man can run any deer to earth in time, and at last I had my prey tired out. From the top of a hill I sighted him a few miles away. He had given up the fight, and had stretched himself out on the snow. As I stalked him, he changed his position and took shelter behind a bowlder, and, using the same bowlder for a shelter, I came suddenly face to face with him. He didn't attempt to run away, but stood there looking at me with the most piteous pair of eyes I ever saw.

"Shoot? I could have no more shot him than I could have shot a child. Had the chance come from a distance of 100 yards, I would have shot him down and carried his antlers home in triumph, but once having looked into those eyes it would have been nothing less than murder. I have hunted deer since then, but I find the sport affords me little pleasure. Whenever I draw a bead, the picture of those mute, appealing eyes comes before me, and, though it has not prevented me from pulling the trigger, I have always felt glad somehow when my bullet failed to find its mark."

For Those Who Smoke.

The great point in pipe smoking is to learn to smoke slowly. When this habit is acquired, the full flavor of the tobacco will always be enjoyed, every smoke will be a cool one, and tongue burning will be unknown. It is, however, very hard for nervous people to smoke slowly. We know of cases where smokers have tried for a score of years to check their smoking speed without success. They probably did not begin to make the effort early enough in their smoking careers. With good tobacco and a root pipe the slow smoker attains a degree of pleasurable enjoyment in smoking of which the rapid smoker has not an inkling.

Perhaps all smokers do not know that it makes no difference in the flavor of pipe tobacco how many times a pipe goes out. A cigar which is allowed to go out once has its flavor ruined and is most appreciably termed a butt. A pipe, however, tastes, if anything, better for going out.

Fastidious smokers always have at least two pipes at hand and never fill one until it has entirely cooled off. This is a help toward cool smoking and reasonable life in a pipe. A good test by which to tell if you are smoking too fast is to hold the bowl in your hand. If it is too hot to do so, then you may know your speed is too great. —Exchange.

Loss of Appetite.

A person that has lost appetite has lost something besides—vitality, vigour, tone. The way to recover appetite and all that goes with it is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla—that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion and makes eating a pleasure. Thousands take it for spring loss of appetite and everybody says there's nothing else so good as Hood's

NEW PREMISES.

The Y. W. C. A. Will Carry on a Down Town Work in Premises Loaned by Hon. Senator Cox.

An effort to place the Young Woman's Christian Association in a position to do a larger, broader and more practical work, has been inaugurated by the Board of Management, and is progressing with gratifying success. It is sincerely hoped that the effort will be still further encouraged so as to ultimately allow it to be crowned with complete success.

The Board were inspired to undertake this increased work as a result of the visit of Miss Carson of New York, travelling secretary, who made many suggestions having in view more effective and broader work among the young women of the town.

It will be remembered that at a largely attended gathering of those interested in the Association's work, held in the parlours of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Davis a short time ago, and during Miss Carson's stay in town, it was the unanimous opinion of those present that increased accommodation was necessary to the proper prosecution of the work here. This question of increased accommodation was happily solved by the generosity of Hon. Senator Cox, who placed the rooms on George street, now occupied by the Examiner as temporary quarters, at the disposal of the Association free of rental for one year.

These rooms will be furnished and equipped for the purposes of the work. For instance, it is proposed that the first room shall be a general reading room. The large room to the rear will be the gymnasium, equipped with all the necessary apparatus and appliances. The front room on the next floor would be exceedingly suitable for a parlor, and there are two or three additional rooms that may be used as required. The whole will form most complete premises, and will afford the additional accomodation that is essential to the proper carrying on of the work.

Then an efficient and capable person will have to be placed in charge, and the Board are planning to secure the services of a trained secretary from New York City to undertake the management of the work. The Board hope to open these new rooms on September first next.

The possibilities of the Association among the young women of the town have been shown by experience to be very great, and the prospects for effective work were never brighter than at the present time. With these new premises and the accommodation and facilities they will give, there is every reason to believe that these possibilities may be met and the bright prospects fully realized. It is hoped that the citizens will be alive to the importance of the work and the grand opportunity offered at the present time. The work for young women is important, yes, it is of the greatest importance, and should receive the heartiest support from citizens. The example set by Hon. Senator Cox in giving the Association such premises, so centrally located and capitably suited to the work, will, it is hoped, lead others to assist the efforts of the ladies to furnish and equipp them.

Hon. Mr. Cox's kindness is greatly appreciated, and so will be any assistance that is extended by other citizens.

A PANIC IN NEW YORK

The Cause of the Disaster Was Over-Speculation.

DETAILS OF WALL ST. FIGHT.

The Interest Centered on Northern Pacific, Which Began at 165, Reached the Phenomenal Price of 1,000 and Closed for the Day at 325—Others Fell 60 Points.

New York, May 10—It was the turn of the bears in Wall street yesterday. After the preliminary canter of Wednesday afternoon the race down hill in prices started in earnest yesterday morning. After the balloon the toboggan. The shorts were too excited to enjoy the rides; it took their breath away. The balloon was well punctured, and the weak spots let out the "hot air" which the inflators had dealt in, in copious quantities. It was a case when "money talks." The bulls, who have been having things all their own way for months, tried at first to remargin in expectation of a rally, but Northern Pacific excepted, the rally didn't come easily. It was a selling market, and the shorts just "sat tight," and let things whiz. The panic started at 11 o'clock. The Northern Pacific corner was one cause of the prices tumbling rapidly. The market went all to pieces and there was a tremendous scene of excitement on the floor of the exchange. The market, apart from N.P., opened down from 1 to 4 points. In the first half hour it steadied a little Then at 11 o'clock, the corner in Northern Pacific started all stocks tumbling again. The declines were great. Union Pacific sold down to 80, United States Steel, common, opened at 46, against Wednesday night's closing figure, 47. It sold down to 25, and then recovered. Atcheson, against 77½ at the close Wednesday, sold from 76 to 75 on sales of 4,000 shares. It then sold as high as 78½ in the first hour. Union Pacific opened from 113 to 106 on sales of 25,000 shares. It recovered to 110½. Missouri Pacific opened from 103 to 100. It recovered before 11 o'clock. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy opened at 193. It fell off in later sales to 191. London market for Americans was very irregular, though in most instances some advances were scored. Erie issues again suffered through fears that the Northern Pacific-Burlington-Quincy arrangement would not be carried through. As was the case Wednesday, attention was most entirely engrossed with the railway list and little of importance took place elsewhere. Canadian Pacific sold at 104 to 105½, and went as low as 85, closing somewhat stronger. Things were very lively from the moment of the exchanges opening. The trading was furiously active, and for the first half hour, at least, apparently without support, although Northern Pacific rose higher and higher on the bidding of the frightened shorts.

Wall street at large appeared to be in a thoroughly confused state of mind as to the actual status of the railway situation, in the west, and it was indeed confusing to reconcile the conflicting claims of the contestants for the control of Northern Pacific. Interest was almost entirely centered in this question, and even the stringent monetary situation received little attention. As fast as Northern Pacific went up the other stocks were going down. The opening declines in New York Central, Missouri Pacific, Louisville, and Atcheson ranged from 2 to 5 points, and it seemed for a time as if orders were being given to sell without regard to prices. This wildness was uninterrupted until about 10.40, when it seemed that for the moment, at least, there was a disposition to steadiness.

But by 11 o'clock all support seemed to be drawn from the stock market and prices began falling.

One of the notable features of the situation was the closing up for the day of a number of small brokerage concerns, not because of financial embarrassment, but because they deemed it unwise to do any business at all in such a market as to-day's.

At 1.30 prices seemed to be comparatively steady, United States Steel common, finding support around 40 and the preferred around 90. At this time there was some activity in bonds with apparently good absorption of the standard issues. A clearing house notice was sent out at 1.30 saying that all transactions in Northern Pacific, common, would be ex-clearing house until former notice. This means that sellers of the stock will not be called upon to deliver it for the present. During the second hour of business the sales shown on the tape footed up to 1,034,100, and from ten to twelve, 1,775,400. It was the second hour that presented a chaos of speculation, which defied description. For moments at a time there was practically no market for stock, which was ordered in floods. A London 3.45 o'clock telegram said the market for American Railway shares there had dropped to nothing. Small traders were wiped out. The steamships Majestic and Servia, which arrived from Europe last evening, had in their mails large blocks of Northern Pacific, common, for the account of arbitage houses, but this was only a drop in the ocean. Many frantic brokers and speculators short of the market offered as high as 231 for Northern Pacific at the Waldorf-Astoria Wednesday night and 85 per cent. was paid for the loan of the stock over night.

James J. Keen is said to have made $4,000,000 on the corner of Northern Pacific.

All interest centred on reports that conferences were being held to patch up a truce preliminary to a permanent basis of agreement between the rival interests in Union Pacific and Northern Pacific.

At 2 o'clock a semi-official announcement was made that the Gallatin National Bank would lend $16,000,000 at 6 per cent., acting for the associated banks of the city.

The failures of W. H. Brower of 60 Broadway and J. T. Lee of 62 Broadway were announced on the Consolidated Exchange. Shortly after 1 o'clock A. A. Houseman & Co. loaned $1,000,000 at 6 per cent. and it was said that other strong firms were lending their available funds in the efforts to check the declines in prices. The banks, on the other hand, became more conservative, and decided to loan only to their regular customers. Some borrowers were forced to pay anywhere from 10 to 40 per cent. for money.

A further despatch says: There is a truce in the Northern Pacific situation. But it is said in Wall street that "Jim" Hill has been ousted from the control of the road. Wall street, says the Harriman syndicate, with the Standard Oil people and George Gould behind them, have defied Hill and Morgan, and now control the Northern Pacific. The rout of Morgan and his faction is the most amazing thing in the history of Wall street.

The price of money rose and panic conditions prevailed. At 10.40 p. m. 60 per cent. was bid for money. Yesterday's movement in Northern Pacific was the result of a corner, and was the most remarkable in the exchange's history. Before 11 o'clock a sale was made at 850, an advance of 540 points since Saturday. Fifteen minutes later a rush sale was made at 1,000. The first sale of Northern Pacific was 500 shares at 170.

Following it came three quotations, 200 at 175, 300 at 100, 200 at 170, 300 at 190 cash. Then it came back to 165, 500 shares selling at that price; a moment later 200 shares sold at 160. Here the upward movement began again, with these sales: 2,000 at 170, 300 at 200, 100 at 205 cash, 100 at 210 cash. This sale was made at 10.15 o'clock. A break to 170 followed, and after it came a lightning recovery, the stock going at 5 and 10 point jumps until at 10.30 a sale was made at 230 cash. There was tremendous excitement around the Northern Pacific post. Such wild fluctuations as were seen in this issue are without parallel in the history of the exchange. The shorts paid 700 for the stock by 11 o'clock. After Northern Pacific had touched 1,000 per share, the price dropped to 600, then to 500, back to 700. After the announcement of the truce the market price of Northern Pacific became easier and a drop to 400 was registered. At 2.45 the price stood at 325.

In the brokers' offices sat many men who were reduced to absolute ruin as a result of 15 minutes' proceedings on the Stock Exchange. Some of these have been made opulent within a few weeks past, as a result of the unparalleled rise of prices.

With the true gambling spirit, they replaced all their winnings in new ventures on each successful turn. Yesterday's drop, therefore, wiped them all out. The demonstrations from this class, which includes many women speculators, furnished the hysterical scenes and sensations of the day.

All classes of employes in the Stock Exchange district were under tremendous pressure throughout the day.

Excitement in London.

London, May 10.—Not on the memory of the oldest stock broker in London has there been such a panic as prevailed yesterday afternoon in Americans. Suddenly there developed a terrific slump in Union Pacific, which was knocked down 20 points in as many seconds. St. Paul suffered almost as badly. Large and small brokers rushed to the scene until Throgmorton street became impassable. The rain poured down, but the excited crowd paid no heed to it, and for half an hour the excitement continued.

Panic in Glasgow.

London, May 10.—Upon receipt of the Wall street quotations, a panic seized the Glasgow Stock Exchange and a wild scene was witnessed, the brokers scrambling to rid themselves of their holdings of stock.

PARTON'S PRELIMINARY TRIAL.

The Sons of the Accused Have Modified Their Opinions Since the Corner's Inquest.

Parry Sound, Ont., May 10.—The proceedings in the preliminary trial of Joseph Parton, charged with murder in connection with the fire at his farmhouse near Hurdville, began before Police Magistrate Farrer at the Court House here yesterday. Mr. W. L. Haight, District Crown Attorney, appeared for the Crown, and Mr. F. R. Powell of Parry Sound for the prisoner.

The evidence of Mrs. Parton, wife of the accused, also that of the two sons, who were the occupants of the house on the night of the fire, was taken. Nothing was elicited from these witnesses of a damaging character to the husband and father, and all appeared to be quite unable to explain the origin of the fire or to advance any reason whatever for its occurrence. The boys seemed disposed to modify statements made by them at the inquest as to the father's cruelty and harshness towards themselves and other members of the family. From their evidence yesterday they made it appear that the old man was not particularly hard on them, and if in times past he had been, perhaps it was because they deserved it.

The suspicion of foul play on the part of the old man seems to rest first, on the fact of the fire occurring just as it did, that the building must have been set on fire designedly. Secondly, the assumption that the old man was tired of the family and wanted to be rid of them, because they were an expense and a nuisance to him. He had sold the place and was coming to town to live; he had sufficient means himself for his own wants. These reasons, together with his demeanor since the fire, his refusal to purchase a coffin for the charred remains of the children, his running from the scene of the fire, not returning even to see his heart-stricken wife; also statements made by him on the day following, which do not appear to coincide with what actually happened.

The proceedings before the magistrate yesterday were not concluded last evening, and an adjournment was ordered until this morning, when Constable Williams will be called. The general opinion seems to be that up to the present the evidence is not sufficient for committal.

A BIG PURCHASE OF SILKS

MOSTLY BLOUSE SILKS.

A rare opportunity came our way this week, in being able to pick up a large quantity of Blouse and Fancy Silks at Bargain-Lot Prices, yet you'll wonder why they could be thought such. Reason is this—a Blouse manufacturer, in order to get his patterns confined to him, must place an exceedingly large order. On account of previous successes in this department, he was just a bit too sanguine, and purchased overly heavy. His mistake is our gain, and the following prices will tell you your gain if you grasp the opportunity.

THESE SILKS GO ON SALE SATURDAY MORNING.

LOT 1. Striped Taffeta Blouse Silks, in assorted colors and beautiful qualities, the regular 85c and $1.00 sort for, per yard..... 50c

LOT 2. Striped Taffeta Blouse and Dress Silks, in beautiful stylish stripes and rich, subdued colors,—perfect style for travelling purposes, the quality that should bring $1.10 a yard, for, per yard, 60c

LOT 3. Striped Taffeta Silks for Blouses or Dresses, swell Silk in exclusive colorings, the $1.50 quality for, per yard..... 98c

LOT 4. Satin Foulards, in light and medium tones, for summer dresses, worth 85c a yd., for 39c

Remember these are worthy qualities, stylish patterns and exceptional values, on sale Saturday morning.

KING EDWARD HAS NO FORTUNE.

Dependent on Revenues of Duchy of Lancaster and Parliamentary Grants.

London, May 10.—"The King," said the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, yesterday, in discussing the civil list in the House of Commons., has no personal fortune. He was, therefore, dependent upon the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster and Parliamentary grants. The sum of £110,000, which, out of the total of £470,000 which it was proposed to grant, was the King's privy purse, out of which came the sums expended as a result of innumerable requests for charities throughout the Empire, and out of which also came the sums expended to keep up the private residences.

The Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, supported the Government's proposals as reasonable.

Mr. Labouchere (Liberal) tried to have the allowance cut down from £470,000 to £415,000, the amount granted to Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort.

The motion was defeated by a vote of 58 to 261

The civil list was agreed to by a vote of 307 to 58.

Burning of Dewet's House.

The Colonial Secretary, Mr. Chamberlain, answering a question, said Gen. Dewet's house had been burned in June, as the railroad had been cut near his farm.

THREE MEN WERE BURNED.

Ottawa's Fire Proves Fatal in the Light of Day.

Ottawa, May 10.—Three men were discovered yesterday morning to have perished in Wednesday night's fire. Their names are: George Maxwell, Eli Roy and R. Leblanc, all three middle-aged men of the laboring class. It was feared that night that some fatalities had occurred, but it was not until daylight that the charred bodies of the three men were found in the ruins of the burned area.

In addition to the three lives lost the following were injured: Simon Boudreault, whiskers burned off, chest burned, right shoulder and thigh injured; E. Lacompte, left ankle sprained and right foot badly crushed. Alf. Boivin, slightly injured; Amedee Turgeon, left foot badly burned, also suffered from severe suffocation; Clifford Lacompte, left leg badly bruised; Percy Maxwell had the toes on his left foot seriously wounded.

The total lose is placed at $25,000.

Government Sustained on the Seybold Lease by a Majority of 45—Our Cattle Still Scheduled in Britain—The Item for the Sorel Dock Carried—Immigration Estimates.

Ottawa, May 10.—Mr. Taylor's amendment to the motion to go into supply, condemning the lease of the Seybold building for the census staff at Ottawa, was this afternoon defeated by a majority of 45. In supply the estimates of the Department of Trade and Commerce, an item for harbor improvements at Sorel and the items for immigration were passed.

Mr. Fitzpatrick introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act.

Location of the Mint.

On motion to go into supply, Col. Prior asked if the report was true that the Canadian mint was to be established at Ottawa. He said it should be situated in Victoria, or else that there should be an assay office in Victoria. To establish a mint in Ottawa would not in any way help trade conditions in British Columbia.

Mr. Fielding, in reply, said that it would probably not be well to anticipate the discussion on the mint resolution. The paragraph referred to was not authorized in any way. The question would come up in a few days, and he could only assure Col. Prior that the views he had put forward had been fully before the Government, and when the announcement was made he trusted it would be satisfactory to Col. Prior.

Mr. L. Phillippe Demers (St. John and Iberville) brought up the question of Canada's participation in the convention between the United Kingdom and the United States upon real and personal property.

Mr. Fitzpatrick replied that in September, 1900, a circular letter had been received asking if Canada had any objection to becoming a party to the convention. The letter was referred to the Governments of the various Provinces to ascertain their views. All of the Governments were favorable except that of New Brunswick, which held back, because it has special succession duties requiring estates of foreigners to pay taxes as much as others. However, even if New Brunswick did not come in, it was possible for the Dominion to participate in the convention under the B. N. A. Act.

Departments Overcrowded.

Mr. George Taylor spoke at some length on the question of buildings rented in Ottawa for the use of departments of the Government. Incidentally he complained of the number of lawyers in the Cabinet, and charged the whole Government with incompetency.

Mr. Tarte, in reply, said that the departments were overcrowded, and it would require a large amount of money to provide new buildings, yet complaints were constantly made of the amount of the expenditure. He justified the rents paid, showing that they were very much lower than were paid for similar buildings in Ottawa.

Mr. Taylor moved a vote of censure on the Government, which was lost on a division of 93 to 48.

Mail Service to Great Britain.

The House went into Committee of Supply upon the estimates for mail subsidies and steamship subventions.

Canadian Cattle Still Barred.

In Committee of Supply on the trade and commerce estimates, Lieut.-Col. Hughes asked if the Government had obtained permission of the Imperial authorities to land Canadian cattle at Belfast.

Mr. Fisher said that the Imperial Government had lately refused this request. However, he said, a strongly worded memorandum was now on its way to England on the subject of the scheduling of Canadian cattle. He intended visiting England shortly, and would also make personal representations on the subject. He declared there had never been the slightest justification for the scheduling of Canadian cattle in 1892, and since then, although 800,000 Canadian cattle had been landed in Great Britain, not one case of pleuro-pneumonia had been discovered.

Lieut.-Col. Hughes said that even under existing regulations there was no reason why Canadian cattle should not be landed at Belfast and Dublin and slaughtered there, instead of being landed at Liverpool and shipped back to Ireland.

Mr. Clarke Wallace said that the Minister of Agriculture having allowed five years to elapse without bringing pressure to bear for the removal of the embargo, made it all the more difficult to have it removed now.

All the items in Sir Richard's department were passed at 6 o'clock.

The Sorel Dock,

Mr. Tarte explained in connection with the vote for Sorel dock that the work will cost in all $265,000. The dock will extend 700 feet on the Richelieu and 600 feet on the St. Lawrence, with 30 feet of water throughout.

The item for Sorel dock was adopted after a good deal of discussion.

On the appropriation for immigration Mr. Sifton explained to Mr. Wilson that Mr. W. T. R. Preston is now in Canada at the request of the Interior Department to discuss the question of steamship rates on imigration, and also the adjustment of some bonus matters.

At 1.40 the first item under immigration was carried.

The remaining items for immigration were rapidly passed, and at 1.45 a. m. the House adjourned.

FISHING WITH FIRE.

"Torching" as It is Practiced Along the Maine Coast.

Fire and lights now play an important part in the fisheries of various parts of the world. In Florida boats go out on dark, moonless nights after mullet, with braziers at the bows filled with blazing ine knots. As the boatmen row slowly and quietly along through the lagoons the fish are attracted by the glare within reach of the cast net, which is thrown overboard at intervals, to be drawn in again and again filled with silvery victims. So eagerly do the mullet seek the light that frequently they leap into the boat, thus effecting their own capture.

On the coast of Maine and in the waters of the nearby Canadian provinces is practiced a method of fishing for herring which is known as "torching." It is of Indian origin and was undoubtedly utilized by the aborigines in that part of the world long before the coming of Columbus. In the Lubec narrows, which form the eastern entrance of Passamaquoddy bay, this kind of fishing is especially popular, though forbidden in the neighboring waters of New Brunswick because of a belief that the kerosene incidentally employed (floating on the water) has the effect of driving away the fish.

Formerly birch torches were used in this nocturnal pursuit, but since the bark became scarce kerosene has been substituted, tow or rags being wrapped around a stick dipped into the oil and set on fire. One of these torches being attached to the bow of a boat, the latter is rowed by one or two men, while another stands in the bow with a scoop net and scoops up the fish as they rise to the light. Moonless nights are chosen always, and the rowing is kept up constantly, because the herring will rise only so long as the light is kept in motion.

Sometimes squid—the small cuttlefishes so largely used by fishermen for bait and whose bones serve to sharpen the canaries' bills—are captured in the same way. They are much attracted by light, so markedly indeed that on a moonlight night tens of thousands of them will run ashore and become stranded, thus perishing because they are so interested in gazing at the moon that they keep their eyes upon that orb, propelling themselves steadily in one direction meanwhile until they find themselves on the beach. Then, by the pumping of their siphons, they push themselves farther up until they are hopelessly high and dry.

Along the coast of Maine weirs of brush are used for catching herring, and sometimes the fish are "toled" into these traps by means of lights. Large shoals of herring being observed outside, but showing no disposition to come and be caught, the fishermen will go out in boats with torches and row quietly over the schools, attracting them in the direction of the weirs. Having returned at length to the weirs, they extinguish the torches, go out again and repeat the process.

During the shad catching season on the Potomac one may see numerous lanterns on the surface of the river, looking like so many great fireflies. These lanterns are attached to the buoys of the shad nets, enabling the fishermen to find them in the dark.

A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE.

Aeronauts In the Heart of a Thundercloud Escape Unhurt.

To be in the very heart of a thundercloud and escape unharmed is an unusual if not a unique experience. That is what happened to the Rev. John M. Bacon and some companions in one of his balloon ascensions from Newbury, England.

Mr. Bacon, in telling of his experience, says: "In scarcely more than 20 minutes from the start a sudden and surprising change took place in our circumstances. Our environment, which had appeared absolutely calm and clear, began changing with the rapidity of a transformation scene. Below us the few hundred feet that separated us from earth began filling in with a blue haze quite transparent, but growing palpably filmier, while ahead, as also right and left, the horizon at the level of our eye and higher opposed a dense fog barrier of an ashen hue. Overhead of course the sky view was entirely hidden by the huge silken globe. At this time we were being swept along on our course, which remained sensibly unaltered in direction, at a speed which we subsequently were able to fix at approximately 40 miles an hour.

"To ourselves the full significance of these circumstances was not immediately apparent, but the onlookers at our point of departure—the town gas works, now some five miles in our wake—clearly detected the approach of a heavy thunder pack and, as they reasonably asserted, coming against the wind. It towered above the balloon, now seen projected plainly against its face. It came on rapidly and assumed formidable proportions. The balloon was flying due west at high speed, and at apparently no great distance overhead the thundercloud was progressing at a moderate velocity not accurately determined, but due east or directly opposed to the surface current.

"And now with a whistle a blinding sheet of hail attacked the aeronauts, stinging their faces so sharply as to give the idea that the stones were falling from a great height, and immediately afterward from all sides and close around flashes of lightning shot out with remarkable frequency and vividness. We were, in fact, fairly embosomed in the thundercloud. Other and near observers narrowly watched the phases of phenomena now in progress. These were the countrymen who became interested spectators and who presently came to our assistance. They seemed to have imagined that the balloon must be infallibly struck, inasmuch as it appeared to them completely encircled with lightning. It was indeed the worst storm the countryside had known for many years. At Devizes, only a few miles ahead, it lasted for five hours continuously. A little way on our right a house was struck and burned to the ground, and on our left a couple of soldiers were killed on Salisbury plain.

"Though the storm progressed, it also appeared to lag behind the wind that bore it along. It did not seem to advance against us as a whole, but rather about us, forming itself out of what a few moments before had appeared mere empty and transparent air."

The lightning as seen by the people in the balloon seemed to leap from cloud to cloud and not from the clouds to the earth, and the noise of the thunder consisted of short, sharp reports like the explosions of gun cotton without any of the rolling reverberations heard on the earth. The aeronauts passed through the thunderstorm uninjured, but it was trying to the nerves. The question is, "With the lightning playing all around it and houses and men being struck on the earth below, why was not the balloon demolished by a thunderbolt?"

The Ring and the Cross.

The form of cross known distinctively as Irish and consisting of a circle surrounding and binding together the head of the cross is in all probability but a representation of the ancient Milesian standard—a serpent twisted about a crossed staff. Such crosses, rudely wrought in stone, have been found in pagan cemeteries and are probably relics of the serpent worshipers. The form, which is a very beautiful one, was retained by the early Christians with many other memorials of paganism. Upon these crosses the most beautiful and intricate sculpture was subsequently lavished; specimens fortunately remain to us in the celebrated cross of Cong and those of Monasterboice, one of which is 27 feet in height. A monkish manuscript informs us that the body of the cross represented salvation and the circle everlasting life, but this was also symbolized by the serpent, of which the circle was undoubtedly a pagan representation.

The Druggists are Busy.

Druggists report great demand for the new 25c cent size of Catarrhozone, and today's sales almost cleared out their stock. They explain this rapid run on Catarrhozone by the fact that it gives better satisfaction than any other remedy on the market. Druggists say that Catarrhozone is the only remedy that really does cure Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma. It relieves quickly, is pleasant and convenient to use, and guaranteed to cure or your money refunded. Readers suffering from Irritable Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, etc., are strongly advised to try Catarrhozone. It never fails to cure even the worst cases.

Sharp Featured Female—Indeed! So you're looking for a breach of promise suit, are you?

Agent—I don't quite understand you.

Sharp Featured Female—Don't, eh? Well, I happen to be the only sewing machine in this house, and as I'm a widow as well I've got the right to look upon your remark as a proposal.

A gleam of comprehension flashed across the agent's face, and with one glance at the "machine" he skipped.

A Born Diplomat.

Two young ladies were conversing with an Irishman, when one of them asked:

"Pat, which of us do you think is the older?"

"Faith," replied the gallant son of Erin, "you both look younger than each other."—Chicago News.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

The Desideratum.

In Philadelphia they inquire,
"Who was your sire and his sire's sire?"

In Boston you must make it plain
You have an intellectual brain.

In New York you must show the amount
Of cash upon your bank account.

In Baltimore you must proclaim
The women queens in beauty's name.

In Brooklyn you will find a friend
If only you his church attend.

In Washington they give you grace
According to your rank of place.
—Boston Globe.

In San Francisco they demand
That, being called, you show your hand.

In Denver they are so polite
That you must either drink or fight.

In Omaha they merely grin
And murmur, "When did you roll in?"

But in St. Louis they exclaim,
"Where is it from that you have came?"

In Joliet they always say,
"How long do you expect to stay?"

While in Sheecawg you cut no ice
Unless, b' Jove, you've got the price.

When It Pays to Be an Autocrat.

The Russian court jester was trying to do his best to cheer up his imperial master.

"If you were the dean of the college of czars," he playfully remarked, "what would you then become?"

The czar looked at the jester coldly.

"Well, what?" he asked.

"A—a czar-dean, your majesty, of course."

The czar scowled.

"You have a very pretty wit—for the Siberian frontier," he said. "Away with him!"

The Old, Old Story.

Go—going—gone;
Gone; alas!
And the house is filled with Gloomy gloom!
The sunshine even halts
Outside
Upon the threshold of
Her room.
Oh, world of trials and Tribulations!
We were but yesterday
Free from all care and pain, but Once more, alas,
All now is changed—
The servant girl has packed up
And left again.

Bought It.

"I can't afford to pay that much," said the young man who was looking at engagement rings.

"Well, here's one," said the jeweler, "for $15. Special service, $5 extra."

"Er—what do you mean by 'special service?'"

"When the young lady comes in to learn the value of it, we'll tell her $75 or $100."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Theory and Practice.

'Tis by the things that make us tired
That we are chiefly blest,
For if 'twere not for these we ne'er
Should know the bliss of rest.

These lines the poet wrote and sold
Them quickly as he could,
And with the coin thus got he hired
A man to saw his wood.

The Grip of Etiquette.

"What! Marry you?" cried the fair young girl. "Why, you are only an apology for a man!"

"True," he sighed, "but you are not so lacking in courtesy as to fail to accept an apology."

Her boarding school etiquette forbade her flying in the face of convention, so she resigned herself to her fate.

About the Size of It.

The greatest bore upon this earth,
The biggest nuisance known,
Is he who talks about himself
And his small affairs alone,
When you think he ought to listen
While you talk about your own.

Pleased to Oblige.

"Darling," she sighed, "how I wish you owned a yacht and would place it at my disposal."

"The best I can offer," he replied, "is a little smack," and the sound that followed was like the opening of a bottle of champagne.

The Robin.

When the robin came back,
The very first crack
He started a tuneful cadenza,
But the notes as they rose
Into icicles froze
And gave him a bad influenza.

Supplied.

"Well, how about the status quo ante?" ventured the Powers.

"No auntie for me!" protested the Emperor Kwang-su. "I've got about all the female relatives I can swing already."

A Leader.

The "assisty" bud may be first in the whirl
Of receptions and balls,
And yet all must admit it's the telephone girl
Who receives the most calls.

Convincing Reasons
Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

DON'T USE FIRE CRACKERS.

The Chief Warns the Citizens and the Storekeepers.

Now that the 24th of May is near at hand, the Chief of Police desires to make known to the shopkeepers and public at large the law regarding the use of fire crackers and other explosives. The Chief says that it is contrary to the law to shoot off fire crackers of any kind. In the windows of several stores in town are to be seen cannon crackers. It is an offence to offer these for sale, and the law in this regard is to be rigidly enforced. It is not the desire of the police to spoil the fun of the small boy, or to detract from the magnitude of the celebration, but it is deemed expedient that precautionary measures should be taken to prevent accidents, which will no doubt follow should the old-time freedom in this regard be given to boys. Nor does this warning in any way apply to boys alone, as men are perhaps the chief offenders.

LOCAL LEGAL.

At Osgoode Hall Yesterday Before Justice Ferguson in the Trial Court.

Donnelly Salvage and Wrecking Co. v. Turner. Whiting, K.C. for plaintiffs Watson, K.C., and R. M. Dennistoun (Peterborough) for defendant. Argument, upon evidence taken at Kingston. Action for the value of alleged wrecking services. Plaintiffs claim $1,400 for seven days' services for the tug Donnelly, and steam-pump, in an attempted rescue of the schooner Wave Crest that went ashore at Oak Orchard in December last. The defence is that the plaintiffs performed no services, never having crossed the lake, or reached the wreck, and that the Donnelly was cruising along the north shore under alleged stress of weather, it being now alleged by the defendant that but for negligence and want of diligence, the tug could have crossed and saved the wreck, and they counter-claim for damages against the plaintiffs. Judgment reserved.

Mrs. F. W. Miller, Water street, has received the following letter from her son Tom, who is with the Scott's Guards, in South Africa:

Vryheid, South Africa, March 30th.

Dear Mother,—I recieved two letters from you yesterday and I was very glad to hear from you. Tell Herb that I received his photo when you sent it. Dear mother, I have got the 3rd stripe, so you must call me sergeant now. I got it on the 18th of March and am transferred to the Left Flank, but my address is the same. I saw a young fellow I knew the other day, young Spicer, of Toronto. Father would know him. He was a bugler in "C" school and has been wounded. I received two letters from Kitty yesterday. The poor girl seems very down-hearted at my being away so long. Well, dear mother, you dont want to worry about hearing from me as we have been on the march since January and we are not through yet and we have never been near the line so we could not write and we are going on it again to Petersburg, away to the north of the Transvaal. Well, dear mother, I haxe no more to say this time, so, hoping to hear from you soon, I remain

Your loving son Tom.

IS JIM KANE DEAD?

He is Said to Have Fallen from a Freight Train Near Leeside Junction.

The relatives in town of Mr. James Kane have been made very anxious concerning his present whereabouts by the rumour that while "riding the bumpers" to Toronto on a C.P.R. freight, he lost his hold on the brake rod and fell beneath the wheels.

Kane who was known amongst his friends as "Trip" has been until recently driving the Oriental 'bus, and on Wednesday evening jumped a freight train with a comrade by the name of Hearn to go to Toronto.

Hearn returned to town yesterday and is stated to have said that Kain fell from the bumpers just this side of Leeside Junction and was kiled. The latter's relatives made the wires hot with inquiries as to further information but the C. P. R. authorities know nothing of the affair.

As the officials of the road would have been apprised of any accident which might have occurred, the probability is that Kane escaped injury if he actually fell from the car, as Hearn is alleged to have stated.

OBITUARY.

Death of George Whetung at the Indian Village, Chemong Lake.

The funeral of George Whetung, aged 21 years, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Whetung, took place on Tuesday, May 7th, at the village of Chemong. His death was caused by inflammation of the lungs.

It is an instance that brings again to our remembrance the saying, "The good die young." The every day life of George was as near the mark of perfection as we believe it is possible for human nature to reach. He was not only faithful in the discharge of daily duties, but he lived for the good of others. His life was a succession of kindnesses to those among whom he lived, ever displaying a Christ-like example. During his severe illness, though suffering intensely, his same sweetness of disposition was shown, in thankfulness for the smallest service.

On account of the nature af the disease he was at times unconscious but at the last he regained his consciousness and passed away in peace.

His last words are expressive of much comfort to his parents, brothers and sisters who survive. When asked if he was going to leave, he answered, "All this world cannot keep me; I'm going to live with Jesus."

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Nickle of Bridgenorth, assisted by a supply student.

Rev. Mr. Nickle preached a very helpful sermon from the text found in Phil. i, 21, "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain." He showed that to the true Christian death had no terror, but rather a beauty. At the close he spoke a few words of sympathy and comfort to the mourners. After the service the body was interred in the Chemong cemetery.

DOVER VS. DENNE.

Appeal Heard by Justice Ferguson at Osgoode Hall Yesterday.

Dover vs. Denne.—E. B. Edwards, K.C., for plaintiffs, appealed from report of Master at Peterborough, finding in favour of the defendant Denne upon a reference in an action for administration of the estate of Stephen Wood, who died in 1892. There were three executors, the defendant Denne, John Burnham, who died in 1897, and Thos. Carruthers. The estate amounted to $14,468.76. The sum of $6,800 was lost by reason of the default or negligence of Burnham. The plaintiffs are the beneficiaries of the will, the daughter and granddaughter of the testator. The executor Burnham's estate is of small value, and the executor Carruthers has agreed with the plaintiffs to pay half of the amount of the loss. The Master held that the defendart Denne was not liable to the plaintiffs because the fault was not his, and by a direction of the will Burnham was to have the management of the estate, and because the testator told Denne that he would have no trouble, and because of the statute of limitations. The plaintiffs contended that Denne was liable. Watson, K.C., and L. M. Hayes (Peterborough), for defendant Denne, contra. Appeal dismissed with costs.

THE NEW MEAT MARKET.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy's Handsome New Apartments.

Will be Ready for Business To-morrow Morning—The Business Offices.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, Peterborough's wide-awake live stock dealer, now possesses one of the most up-to-date retail stores and set of business offices as one could anywhere find. The immense proportions Mr. Kennedy's live stock business has, during the past year, grown to, necessitating in consequence, a large amount of office work, compelled him to have his retail department and general business offices remodelled to suit his requirements. Mr. Kennedy's premises are at No. 340 George street, in the opera house block, where, of course, they have been continuously for some years, with the exception of the brief time he spent on the other side of George street while his establishment was undergoing the necessary alterations. It is now in its finished state and is luxuriant in its appearance, extremely handy and commodious in its accomodation and well suited in every way to fulfill the use to which it will be put.

In brief, Mr. Kennedy's up-town business house is made up of a retail store and the offices, besides the ordinary apartments essential to a first class meat market. The north half of the establishment is devoted to the offices. Immediately to the front is Mr. Kennedy's private office, which being close to the front door, is very conveniently situated. Adjoining Mr. Kennedy's private office, is the cashier's little office, and next comes the general business office. These three offices are beautiful specimens of workmanship and of the decorator's art, bright in their appearance, well ventilated, and furnished with stylish and modern furniture. The store is now second to none in the country, having been completely overhauled.

The carpenter work was done under the management of Mr. James Graham, and the painting and graining was done by Mr. H. W. Gray. The woodwork is all beautifully grained, and for about five feet from the floor the offices are divided from each other and from the retail store by handsome stained glass windows. Elegant electric light fixtures installed by Messrs. Alexander & Miller give tone to the store's appearance while the costly up-to-date electric fans installed by Mr. Greer, will be of great service, and are in fact a most important factor in connection with a meat market, keeping as they do a good circulation of air throughout the store.

The papering is of a very rich looking pattern, and the window shades are in keeping with the remainder of the furnishings.

The counters are of ash, finished in its natural colour, with marble tops, whilst the meat blocks and other appliances are new.

The Bradburn estate have decided to re-open the arcade, and an entrance from the south side of the store will prove a very handy arrangement.

The refrigerator has been given considerable overhauling, and like the other portions of the establishment is now quite up to date.

Altogether Mr. Kennedy has an elegant new store and set of offices, well calculated to conduct the enormous business which he has built up in the live stock and butcher trade. His new premises will be open to-morrow, and his telephone is No. 275.

A NEW MILL.

Which the Cavan Farmers Will Co-operate in Running.

The farmers of Manvers are about to form a stock company for the purpose of erecting and operating a large roller flour mill and chopper in Bethany at the old mill site, about one and one half miles southwest of the village, providing either water, steam, gasoline or electric power can be obtained to give satisfaction. They are holding a meeting in the Town Hall, Bethany, on Saturday, May 18th, in the afternoon, and all parties interested in the scheme are expected to attend. This is a step in the right direction, and will be a great convenience to every farmer in the vicinity.

YOUNG GIRLS' ENTERTAIN

At Charlotte Street Church Last Night.

An Excellent Programme—Names of Those Who Took Part.

A large audience assembled in the Charlotte street church school room last night to hear the girls of the school give their annual concert. All those who were present are loud in their praise of the manner in which the young people carried the affair to so successful a finish. Beside the programme rendered, the girls treated their friends to coffee and cake in the class rooms of the church. These rooms, were all prettily decorated and looked like miniature drawing rooms and as the girls, all dressed in white, served their guests from dainty five-o'clock services, they in every way showed their ability at entertaining and the care taken by their instructors in anticipation of the event. All the numbers on the programme were given by the girls of the school with the exception of the recitations by the "boys," Revs. Jos. Kilgour, D. O. Crossley and W. W. Wagg. The latter proved himself to be a wonder at entertaining, and kept the audience in a happy mood by his humour.

The girls all acquitted themselves admirably, and were the recipients of many congratulatory remarks. The programme was as follows:

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Z. Olver Died While Engaged in Washing Dishes.

(Port Hope Guide.)

About 7 o'clock on Monday the neighbours were startled to learn that Mrs. Z. Olver was dead. She was engaged at the time washing the breakfast dishes, when she suddenly fell to the floor and expired. Her husband and son were close at hand, who upon raising her found that the spirit had departed.

Cause of death no doubt was heart failure, she had been subject to attacks of this kind for several years past. Mrs. Olver was in her usual health and attended church on Sunday evening.

Her maiden name was Jane Turnbull, born in the Township of South Monaghan on the 7th of May, 1839; was married to her now bereaved husband in 1859; settled in Port Hope about thirty years ago and has resided here ever since. Mrs. Olver was a sincere Christian, a member of the Methodist church.

In addition to her bereaved husband, she leaves three sons and three daughters, A. E. Olver, of Peterborough; Norman, of Toronto, and B. F. of Port Hope; Mrs. Mark C. Wilcox, Misses Emma and Drucie, of Brooklyn, N.Y.

All their friends in Port Hope sincerely sympathize with the family in their trouble, in which the Guide joins.

NORWOOD.

The football team, which has since the snow left the ground, been practicing with the Seniors, suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of a few boys of the High School, who have not had a practice this season. The town team was heavy, but could not stand the rushes of the forwards, and the steady check of the High School backs. If this team intends to play any other matches they had better defeat the team at their own door.

An exciting game of crokinole was played between the east side of the river and the west side in which the west side were winners by one game, but the next game will be an eye opener for the east side if they do not get down to practice.

Miss Bunton of Springbrook, and Miss Farrell of Madoc, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Queen street.

Mr. Matthew Scott died on Sunday morning and was buried on Tuesday. He had been ill for a long time and endured much suffering.

Miss Chandler gave a very interesting report of the convention held in Peterborough to the Methodist Epworth League on Monday evening. The report was well prepared.

Miss Harrison has arrived in town to clerk for her brother, Mr. A. S. Harrison.

Mr. Wm. Rogers lost his bay mare on Monday morning. It is a heavy loss for Mr. Rogers, as she was a fine animal.

Mrs. Robert Scott has purchased a broncho and now has his hands full in training his beast.

Any persons desiring White Leghorn eggs, I am sure can be satisfied if they call and see Ira Moore's pen. He has a nice pen this year and deserves praise for them.

All the ice cream restaurants are open now and prepared to supply their cooling delicacy.

Chatelaine Bags.

Ladies are invited to inspect the new styles of chatelaine bags, wrist bags, chatelaine purses, etc., just opened out at the Peterborough Bookstore. They come in the most citified shapes and designs, in a variety of handy sizes and fancy leathers. These chatelaines have much to recommend them both from a point of view as to beauty and desirability.—A. H. STRATTON & Co.

THE MATTHEWS COMPANY.

Pork Packers, of Peterborough, Will Undoubtedly Locate in Belleville If Arrangements Can Be Made.

(From The Belleville Intelligence.)

Speaking with a leading builder last night, The Intelligence learned a few facts about the proposed pork factory which will be of public interest.

The gentleman in question has recently written the Company asking them if they propose erecting buildings for their business. He received a reply which stated there was a strong probability of the Company's locating in Belleville. They asked no bonus from the city, but had certain propositions in regard to taxes and water to lay before the City Council. If things turn out satisfactorily the Company expects to call for tenders for the erection of necessary buildings about the 1st of July.

SERIES OF RALLIES.

Amongst the County Sunday Schools Later on in May and June.

Arrangements have been completed for a series of rallies throughout the townships of the county which promise to be very profitable and successful. Mr. Thos. Yellowlees, the genial and efficient associate secretary, Toronto, will give a treat both to young and old.

It is earnestly hoped that all Sunday school workers will co-operate to make these rallies a success. It has been utterly impossible to correspond with all workers, so that when notice is read please arrange at once for local ministers and workers to take some part.

The places and dates are as follows:

Dummer, to be held in Warsaw, Tuesday, May 28th.

Belmont, to be held in Havelock, Wednesday, May 29th.

Harvey, to be held in Lakehurst, Thursday, May 30th.

LACROSSE.

Port Hope Guide.—The market square was alive with players last evening, among whom were many of the old Ontarios, such as Burt, Colman, Lang Crowhurst, T. Tuer, Marvin, Friar, F. Tutton. The new men out last night were Mike Young, Marshall, Alcott Bros., Stephens, Woods, Byam and Moffatt. Geo. Brown, Geo. Tutton, Frits Tuer and Jack Henderson have also taken up the stick again. Although having been out of the game for two years, the old boys are just as nimble as ever, and after a few trials, the stick handling all returned. The boys are all anxious to get in shape, as it is reported that Cobourg will soon be ready to trim (?) them. "King" Hoey is more that tickled at the lively interest the boys are taking. "Why," he says, "We have our old home players and more than enough first-class new material to fill up the vacancies on the defence. Just watch them get away with that Toronto bunch on the 24th." The Ontarios held a meeting last night, after the practice, at which Tom Burt was unanimously chosen as captain, a position so admirably filled by him in previous years. He requested that an assistant captain be also elected, and C. Colman was accordingly appointed. Dave (King) Hoey was then asked to accept his old position as field captain, which he did, much to the pleasure of the boys. Dave will get into shape at once.

OLD STONER'S GIRL

How She Became a Happy Woman.

By HOWARD, SHERIN.

The story properly begins at midnight on the San Luis Obispo coast, California, 20 years ago, when the September moonlight shone down upon Stoner's cattle ranch, near the Pacific ocean, in the rugged Santa Lucia mountains.

Stoner had been a Texas ranger and could hold his own extremely well in that rough frontier community. He had carried off a pretty Spanish wife from the Chihuahua region years before, had brought her to the rocky California coast and had purchased a settler's claim and an old adobe house built by a Spanish hidalgo half a century ago.

Here he farmed, raised cattle on the unused government lands and kept a sort of hotel, for several mountain trails joined at the point the broad highway which led from the county seat, 20 miles south, to the northern settlements in the pineries. He had five daughters, too, the youngest, Theresa, known as Tessa, a girl of 17. That added to the attraction, and almost every night the dark eyed half Spanish girls sang and danced, and old Stoner managed to hear all the news that was afoot, and somehow most of the loose coin of the region ultimately found its way into his pockets. He was a deep one, that same Ephraim Stoner, quiet, sly and patient, secret in his methods and deadly in his blow.

Stoner's wife and his four eldest daughters were uneducated and in complete subjection to his will. But Tessa had more brains and energy than all the rest put together and quite as much beauty, and so the old Texan ranger took a certain pride in her and had even allowed her to attend a district school for two years.

This midnight when, as I have said, the story begins a person of a prying disposition might have discovered several interesting performances in progress around the Stoner abode. On the north side of the house Tessa was leaning from her window conversing in low tones with a blond, fair haired and sturdy young man on horseback.

"Tom, do you know my father? He is not the careless, warm hearted man you may suppose. I must admire his ability, but that is all. I warn you, Tom, there never was a more dangerous man. He may be where he hears every word you say, though if he is he will not speak to you or me about it. But if he knew you cared for me he would be your enemy. He has other plans for me. He wants me to marry for money."

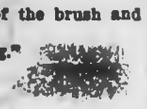
Tom Warren had once been the schoolteacher in the mountain district, miles away, where Tessa had been one of his pupils. Thrown upon his own resources from his childhood, he had developed a strong, earnest character and was already so popular in the county that he had just been elected sheriff, though the youngest man on the ticket.

While Tessa and her lover were talking a scene of a different nature was being enacted on the south side of the old adobe, which overlooked a deep ravine and a camp of five or six men in a field below. For several years these men had spent their summers there, ostensibly hunting, fishing and exploring the country with their dogs and guns. Every one knew them, and most persons liked them. Tessa did not.

Stoner, though it was midnight, sat in the moonlight on an old rawhide chair outside the door smoking his pipe and meditating—a tough, sinewy, grizzled night owl of a man.

"That infernal knucklehead at the camp ought to have reported before now," he thought to himself as he smoked.

A man came out of the brush and spoke deferentially.



"Cap'n, good evening."

"You're late."

"Dick was shot."

"Well?"

"Just as the driver throwed off the box. Shot by a passenger in the neck and shoulder."

"He mustn't stay here to get us into trouble. Take a boat and carry him to the point and leave him in the cave there."

"Yes, cap'n."

"How much aboard?"

"About $2,000 for the Josephine miners."

"Send it over the cliff before morning, and I'll divide it up soon. But you be extra careful—that new sheriff is a smart one."

"All right, cap'n. "And the man went back to camp.

A moment later, just as Stoner was going into the house, there was a low thud of horse's hoofs, and Tom Warren, the young sheriff, rode down the trail around the corner of the old adobe building into the country road that led to the west. He had at last yielded to Tessa's entreaties to "Go, go, this minute, Tom."

Impassive as Stoner was he felt a little startled by the sight.

"Where in the devil did you come from, sheriff? Anything up in this part of the country?"

"Oh, no, not a particle. I've been visiting my old school in the mountains and took the trail home down Cayucus."

This was plausible enough, for there was a blind trail that entered the canyon just east of the angle of the house. Stoner felt a little relieved.

"Won't you put up and stay with us all night?"

"No, Mr. Stoner; I must go down to Kestral to see my friends there. It's only an hour's ride."

"That settles it," thought Stoner. "Plenty of stout fellows to use as sheriff's deputies there. He has probably stumbled on traces and is going for help." He sat and smoked and slipped his hand back under his coat. "Easy to shoot the fellow," he said to himself.

"Well, goodby, Stoner," said Warren suddenly. "I suppose the beach road is as good as ever?"

"Perfectly safe, only when you cross Toro creek keep on the sand bar. It's as hard as iron. I crossed there today."

"Thank you. Adios."

Simple, smiling speech, those words of Stoner, and yet they were intended to send Warren to his death more surely and safely than by bullet of pistol or pellet of secret poison.

Stoner took an extra swig of brandy and went to his rest. Warren rode down the rugged hill to the bottom of the ravine, then turned seaward, and at last the wide gulch opened broadly to the shore of the Pacific.

The cliffs were from 50 to 300 feet high and full of wave worn caves. Warren drew rein on the beach and for fully ten minutes watched the ocean sway and rise. His thoughts throbbed with dreams of Tessa. He would take her away from her narrow and hurtful surroundings. He would force Stoner's consent, marry her and make her happy.

He rode rapidly south, and in half an hour the mouth of the Toro appeared in the midst of sand dunes, breakers rolling in and the steady river rolling out. Here was the long sand bar, ten feet wide and stretching across hardly an inch higher than the water surface.

Warren was beginning to have some suspicions of Stoner, but not such as to lead him to doubt the simple directions he had received. The sand bar looked safe, but within a few days the sea, as Stoner knew, had swept it mightily, torn out the long compacted bar and placed instead a quivering mass of quicksand so treacherous that not even a light footed rabbit could cross without being swallowed up and dragged bodily down. Warren rode swiftly forward. He had crossed sand bars hundreds of times. Some horses would have been wiser, but the animal he rode had been bred in the valley.

The approach to the bar was hard for a few rods, and he galloped on. Suddenly, in one heartbreaking, breathless descent, noiseless but unutterably dreadful, Tom Warren's horse went down, down, and the soft, slimy sand came up to his mane. He shrieked out that ghastly cry of appeal and agony that a desperate, dying horse will sometimes utter.

Tom knew the peril. He had drawn his feet from the stirrups and lifted them up at the first downward throb, but the sand began to grab at him also. He threw himself flat on his breast and tore himself loose from the poor animal, over whose back the mingled sand and water were running, as it rolled from side to side in ineffectual struggles to escape.

Tom spread himself out over as much surface as possible, but slowly, resistlessly, the mighty force drew him downward. The hard beach was only ten feet distant, but practically the chasm was impassable. He felt his horse sink out of sight. The sand gripped his own knees and arms, his thighs and shoulders. Two inches more, and the end by suffocation was inevitable. Up to this time he had not shouted; only his horse's wild death scream had told of the tragedy. What was the use? Who would be passing along that lonely road? Then he thought of Tessa and of life. He raised his voice in a clear, strong shout for help, again and again repeated.

Far off along the deep ravine there came a cry in response and a horse's hurrying feet, and hope awoke in his heart. The margin of life was five minutes now—not longer. Faster, faster, oh, fearless rider!

"Tom, where are you?"

"Here, Tessa. Don't come too near."

But the mountain girl knew the danger. Creeping down stairs for a drink of water, she had heard her father's words to Warren, had thrown a shawl about her shoulders and run to the pasture. There she caught her pet horse, sprang upon his unsaddled back, seized a riatta as she passed the stable and galloped at the utmost speed down the ravine, hoping against hope, for many minutes had necessarily elapsed since Warren started.

She sprang to the ground and tossed the rawhide rope to the one arm he held above the sand. She folded her shawl and put it over her horse's shoulders and tied the riatta round like a collar. Then she led him slowly away from the quicksands, and Warren thought his arm would break, but slowly, reluctantly, painfully, the sand gave up its prey.

"Your father told me to take this road, Tessa," said the young sheriff.

"Yes, I know that, and I heard one of the men tell him today that the bar was swept out."

There was a long silence between them.

"Tessa, go with me to San Luis," said Warren, "and let us get married."

And Tessa went.

Old Stoner heard the news a few days later. Within an hour he had "retired from business." The camp was broken up, the hunters disappeared, mysterious lights flashed at intervals all night from the points of the cliff, and the next day old Stoner himself disappeared, leaving his family, the ranch and the live stock. It was said that he made the best of his way to Mexico and finally to South America. The world is large as yet, and men who have money can ramble over a good deal of it without finding a past they wish to escape from. But Tessa lives in her San Luis Obispo cottage, with orange trees over it and La Marque roses on the porch, and she thinks herself the happiest woman in California.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

Lame for Two Years

It is not necessary for a man to meet with an accident to become lame pr otherwise physically impaired. Friends of Mr. Samuel Donaldson, Pittsburg, Postmaster at Dufferin, Ont., postoffice, have wondered for some time what could be the matter with him, and when told that his crippled condition was due to rheumatism, could hardly believe it. But such was the case, however. Mr. Donaldson was lame with rheumatism for two years, and during that time suffered internal pain and experienced the greatest difficulty in getting out of a rig. Mr. Donaldson used liniments and mixtures of all kinds to no purpose. At last he tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure on the suggestion of a friend, who had been cured of a similar complaint, and after taking one bottle of this wonderful preparation the pain disappeared, and now he is as well as ever.

DREAMLAND'S DEMON

NIGHTMARE, THAT REALISTIC TORMENT OF SLUMBER.

The Causes of the Distressing Trouble and the Methods of Avoiding It Some Popular Beliefs on the Ugly Affliction.

According to the Bavarian popular belief, the nightmare is a woman who appears in the morning asking to borrow something. To keep her away at night they promise her the three white gifts if she will come for them the next morning, and when she does come, as she surely will, she is given a handful of flour, a handful of salt and an egg. In Morocco it is customary to place a dagger under the pillow at night to ward off the nightmare, and in Greece a black handled knife is supposed to have the same effect. The ancient Germans believed that nightmare was due to a demon who during sleep seated himself upon the chest of the sleeper and oppressed his breathing.

The symptoms of nightmare are variable, though they may be always extremely disagreeable. It may be a realistic sensation of falling from a high place, such as the summit of a steep precipice, or one may suffer all the horrors of a flood or fire or a struggle with enemies superior in force and number. Frantic animals may attack or spring upon the sleeper, and with all these visions there is an inexpressible anguish and pain, with a sense of imminent danger, escape or defense seeming impossible, while the victim is unable to cry out for assistance or in the always present struggle at last utters a groan or two which may awake him.

Nightmare is especially distinguishable from dreams by the sensation of depression and suffocation. It is, in fact, a true temporary miniature delirium. Sometimes, long after awakening, it leaves the subject a prey to nervous anxiety, violent palpitation and unusual debility. In fact, it has a marked analogy with insanity, and if it is constantly recurring it may be of serious portent, pointing to some affection of the brain or mind. Not that nightmare causes nervous disease or insanity, but that nervous disease pre-existing causes, on the contrary, this special disposition of the brain to temporary delirium.

From this it can be understood why nightmare is often hereditary, just as abnormal nervous impressionability may be inherited. The child, too, sensitive to the slightest impression, a living bundle of nerves, is more especially subject to night terrors, even while awake, owing to the power of the mind to project ideas into space and with the eye to see them as actualities imbued with life. Next in susceptibility are women and some men whose brains have remained in the infantile state properly called simple minded. Anæmia, fever, disturbance of the circulation caused by diseases of the heart of the large blood vessels, disturbed respiration due to asthma or a full stomach are the most frequent predisposing causes and are as powerful as nervous disturbances, such as hysteria and hypochondria, in causing nightmare.

Sometimes nightmare is due to prolonged wakefulness, a radical change in diet or faulty position of the body, such as lying upon the back or face. Sometimes it is due to some mechanical interference, such as an aneurism or even swollen tonsils.

In nervous persons emotional in character nightmare may be caused by grewsome tales or woeful spectacles, grief, discouragement, hatred, anger, etc. In fact, the most intense nightmare is due to exaltations of passion due to the loss of dearly loved relatives or friends, sudden and extreme reverse of fortune, disappointed ambition, the fear of disease or even a shock to one's self love and esteem.

The treatment of nightmare consists in awakening the subject and if there is perturbation of mind giving some mildly sedative potion, such as warm water sweetened with sirup of lettuce. Following this, care should be taken to remove the supposed cause to prevent recurrence of the nightmare. In the case of children intense moral impressions, weird stories and grewsome tales should be avoided, especially before bedtime.

The child should be put to bed early to avoid the exciting environment of the social circle, of animated conversation and convivial jollity. The evening meal should be a light one both as to quantity and quality of food and drink, avoiding highly spiced relishes and stimulating drinks. The chamber should be spacious and well ventilated, the bed not too soft and without too much bedclothing. Perfect muscular relaxation, avoidance of false positions and perfect freedom, all compression interfering with respiration or circulation, must be avoided. The feet ought to be warm and lower than the head. The body should be extended and not cuddled up into a ball.

The bed ought to be slightly inclined from head to foot, but the proper elevation of the head varies according to temperament. Anæmic people need to have the head quite low, but full blooded people rest easier if the head is higher. An excitable, congested brain may be relieved by warm baths, tonics and antispasmodics like the bromides and valerian. If there is a tendency to palpitation, the person should lie upon the right side. If the liver is disordered by chronic digestive troubles, the person should lie on the left side. The stomach should be in good condition, especially if there is flatulence due to gastric torpidity, leading to fermentation of food, and dilation of the stomach should be energetically treated.

In Bacon's "Natural History," which is quaintly worded and based on very crude knowledge of natural history as it is understood today, the author says, with a grain of truth, "Mushrooms cause the incubus or mare in the stomach." The same might be said of Welsh rabbits and similar indigestible delicacies eaten just before retiring. These lie hard on the stomach and cause more horrible dreams in those not hardened to such gormandism. But it is equally erroneous to go to the opposite extreme and prohibit all food before retiring, for often a light repast is a most excellent nightcap and the pleasantest and safest remedy against insomnia and in fact against nightmare, for an empty stomach may cause it just much as an overloaded one.

Children's Colds What's the use of dosing your child's stomach with all sorts of mixtures when it gets a cold; the trouble is not there at all. If you would just rub its little chest, throat, and back between the shoulders with Griffiths' Menthol Liniment you would cure it quicker. It penetrates and goes directly to where all the inflammation is.

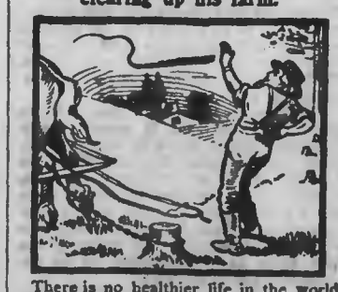
Farmer compelled to stop clearing up his farm.



There is no healthier life in the world than that of the farmer—yet as a rule farmers work too hard. They toil early and late, through the broiling sun of the summer and the blizzard blasts of the winter, and they have to suffer for it because the kidneys cannot stand the strain put on them and backache often follows. Here is what Mr. Job Costain of Mininegash, P.E.I., has to say about what Doan's Pills have done for him:

"In the Spring of 1900 I started to clear up a piece of land, but had not worked many days before I was taken with a very lame back, and of course was compelled to stop work. The trouble seemed to be down in the centre of my back and my right side and I could not stoop over. I got a box of Doan's Pills and before I had taken the whole box I was completely cured and was able to proceed with my work, and I take great pleasure in recommending them to all farmers who are troubled as I was."

Similar, but Different.

Great is Texas. Her vast cotton crops and marvellous oil discoveries amaze the world. Now follows the startling statement of the wonderful work at Cisco, Tex. of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. "My wife contracted a severe lung trouble," writes editor J. J. Eager, "which caused a most obstinate cough and finally resulted in profuse hemorrhages, but she has been completely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery." The Slav and Woman.

Abhorrent even to the strongest "Slavophile" is the position occupied by woman in the family and in social life. To escape the charge of prejudice I shall quote a few proverbs current among the southern Slavs—a few out of many hundreds:

The man is the head; the woman is grass.
One man is worth more than ten women.
A man of straw is worth more than a woman of gold.
Let the dog bark, but let the woman keep silent.
He who does not beat his wife is no man.
"What shall I get when I marry?" asks a boy of his father. "For your wife a stick; for your children a switch."
Twice in his life is a man happy—once when he marries and once when he buries his wife.

And the woman sings, in the Russian folksong which I have freely translated,

Love me true and love me quick,
Pull my hair and use the stick.

Although there are love songs of another kind, in which woman is praised for her charms, she becomes virtually a slave as soon as she marries, and the little poetry of the folksong does not accompany her even to the marriage altar. She is valued only for the work she can do in a household and for the children she can bear, and should this latter blessing be denied her her lot becomes doubly pitiable, and she often seeks release by suicide.

Strewous Age.

"Blitherby's restaurant has the slowest service I ever saw," said the gentleman with the gloomy brow.

"How's that?" asked the individual with the overworked smile.

"I ordered some eggs there once, and I had to wait so long that they brought me"—

"Chickens?"

"No; eggs that had been laid by the chickens hatched from the eggs I had ordered."

The Truth at Last.

"Oh, doctor, is it very dangerous to swallow cement?"

"Very dangerous, indeed."

"And gutta percha, doctor?"

"Very serious."

"And porcelain—oh, doctor, is it very poisonous?"

"Excuse me, madam; have you attempted suicide?"

"No; I've swallowed one of my false teeth."—Pearson's.

Off Again, on Again.

"Very well," said she in a huff; "all is over between us. I'll thank you to return my letters."

"All right," said he; "I'll send them to you the first thing in the morning."

"Oh, there's no killing hurry! Suppose you—er—bring them with you when you call tomorrow evening."

THE PLUS ULTRA IN HAMS.

Only Two or Three of Them Found In a Hundred Thousand.

"No, this is not really ham," said a New Orleans epicure, who was taking breakfast with a couple of friends at a restaurant the other day. "Of course it is what is known commercially as ham," he continued, prodding the pink substratum which supported a pair of neatly poised eggs, "and I dare say it is a very excellent article of its kind; but, compared to the highest achievements in ham, it scarcely belongs to the same family. The delicacy of which I speak is not to be procured in open market for love or money, and I confess that my own acquaintance with it is due entirely to fortunate chance.

"Some years ago I was of assistance in a slight way to a young fellow from Chicago, who had become involved in trouble through no particular fault of his own and seemed likely to suffer simply because he was a stranger. I got him out of the scrape, and he returned home extravagantly grateful. Soon afterward I received a letter of thanks from his brother, who is foreman of a large packing house in Chicago, and with the letter came a ham, swathed in as many wrappings as an Egyptian mummy and boxed up for shipment as carefully as a diamond necklace. That was the first real ham I ever tasted or, in fact, ever saw. When I sampled it—but, pshaw, I might as well attempt to describe the aroma of a carnation. In delicacy, flavor, tenderness and a dozen other qualities it so far transcended any other hams in my experience that they were not fit to be named in the same parish. How it was secured I learned later on.

"In all large packing houses, so I am told, the inspectors who examine the finished product keep their eyes open for phenomenally choice pieces of meat for the personal use of the chief employees. Thousands upon thousands of hams pass under their eyes every day, and now and again they see one that their experience tells them is a miracle of perfection—a rara avis upon which nature has freakishly done her level best. We encounter such abnormalities in everything, you know—in flowers, fruits, precious stones, pearls—something above high water mark in which there is accidentally a perfect equilibrium of all the elements of excellence, and it is exactly the same with hams. When the inspector spots the paragon, he immediately grabs it and lays it aside, and it was one of the gems from this culling extraordinary which I received."

Is Conversation a Lost Art?

Conversation calls for training of two kinds. A talker presupposes a listener. Now, listening is a platonic occupation out of fashion on this side of the Atlantic. Watch carefully a group of our compatriots chattering together, and you will notice that the speaker is rarely allowed to finish a sentence. His companions will snap the thread of talk away from him, unconscious of any incivility—just from sheer nervous inability to listen to the end. Having "caught on" to the drift of an idea, they can no more listen placidly to its development than they can wait until a play is over or a cable car stopped to make their exit.—Eliot Gregory in Harper's Bazar.

Feather In His Cap.

The Hungarians, during several centuries, were in almost constant warfare with the Turks, and a custom arose of a warrior decorating his cap with one feather for every Turk he killed. No one was allowed to wear a feather until he had slain a Turk in fair fight, and the greater the number of feathers the greater the prowess. The expression came to England late in the sixteenth century and is found in many authors subsequent to that time.

Sometimes nightmare is due to prolonged wakefulness, a radical change in diet or faulty position of the body, such as lying upon the back or face. Sometimes it is due to some mechanical interference, such as an aneurism or even swollen tonsils.

In nervous persons emotional in character nightmare may be caused by grewsome tales or woeful spectacles, grief, discouragement, hatred, anger, etc. In fact, the most intense nightmare is due to exaltations of passion due to the loss of dearly loved relatives or friends, sudden and extreme reverse of fortune, disappointed ambition, the fear of disease or even a shock to one's self love and esteem.

The treatment of nightmare consists in awakening the subject and if there is perturbation of mind giving some mildly sedative potion, such as warm water sweetened with sirup of lettuce. Following this, care should be taken to remove the supposed cause to prevent recurrence of the nightmare. In the case of children intense moral impressions, weird stories and grewsome tales should be avoided, especially before bedtime.

The child should be put to bed early to avoid the exciting environment of the social circle, of animated conversation and convivial jollity. The evening meal should be a light one both as to quantity and quality of food and drink, avoiding highly spiced relishes and stimulating drinks. The chamber should be spacious and well ventilated, the bed not too soft and without too much bedclothing. Perfect muscular relaxation, avoidance of false positions and perfect freedom, all compression interfering with respiration or circulation, must be avoided. The feet ought to be warm and lower than the head. The body should be extended and not cuddled up into a ball.

The bed ought to be slightly inclined from head to foot, but the proper elevation of the head varies according to temperament. Anæmic people need to have the head quite low, but full blooded people rest easier if the head is higher. An excitable, congested brain may be relieved by warm baths, tonics and antispasmodics like the bromides and valerian. If there is a tendency to palpitation, the person should lie upon the right side. If the liver is disordered by chronic digestive troubles, the person should lie on the left side. The stomach should be in good condition, especially if there is flatulence due to gastric torpidity, leading to fermentation of food, and dilation of the stomach should be energetically treated.

In Bacon's "Natural History," which is quaintly worded and based on very crude knowledge of natural history as it is understood today, the author says, with a grain of truth, "Mushrooms cause the incubus or mare in the stomach." The same might be said of Welsh rabbits and similar indigestible delicacies eaten just before retiring. These lie hard on the stomach and cause more horrible dreams in those not hardened to such gormandism. But it is equally erroneous to go to the opposite extreme and prohibit all food before retiring, for often a light repast is a most excellent nightcap and the pleasantest and safest remedy against insomnia and in fact against nightmare, for an empty stomach may cause it just as much as an overloaded one.

Children's Colds What's the use of dosing your child's stomach with all sorts of mixtures when it gets a cold; the trouble is not there at all. If you would just rub its little chest, throat, and back between the shoulders with Griffiths' Menthol Liniment you would cure it quicker. It penetrates and goes directly to where all the inflammation is.

Farmer compelled to stop clearing up his farm.

There is no healthier life in the world than that of the farmer—yet as a rule farmers work too hard. They toil early and late, through the broiling sun of the summer and the blizzard blasts of the winter, and they have to suffer for it because the kidneys cannot stand the strain put on them and backache often follows. Here is what Mr. Job Costain of Mininegash, P.E.I., has to say about what Doan's Pills have done for him:

"In the Spring of 1900 I started to clear up a piece of land, but had not worked many days before I was taken with a very lame back, and of course was compelled to stop work. The trouble seemed to be down in the centre of my back and my right side and I could not stoop over. I got a box of Doan's Pills and before I had taken the whole box I was completely cured and was able to proceed with my work, and I take great pleasure in recommending them to all farmers who are troubled as I was."

Similar, but Different.

The Slav and Woman.

Abhorrent even to the strongest "Slavophile" is the position occupied by woman in the family and in social life. To escape the charge of prejudice I shall quote a few proverbs current among the southern Slavs—a few out of many hundreds:

The man is the head; the woman is grass.
One man is worth more than ten women.
A man of straw is worth more than a woman of gold.
Let the dog bark, but let the woman keep silent.
He who does not beat his wife is no man.
"What shall I get when I marry?" asks a boy of his father. "For your wife a stick; for your children a switch."
Twice in his life is a man happy—once when he marries and once when he buries his wife.

And the woman sings, in the Russian folksong which I have freely translated,

Love me true and love me quick,
Pull my hair and use the stick.

Although there are love songs of another kind, in which woman is praised for her charms, she becomes virtually a slave as soon as she marries, and the little poetry of the folksong does not accompany her even to the marriage altar. She is valued only for the work she can do in a household and for the children she can bear, and should this latter blessing be denied her her lot becomes doubly pitiable, and she often seeks release by suicide.

Slowest Yet.

"Blitherby's restaurant has the slowest service I ever saw," said the gentleman with the gloomy brow.

"How's that?" asked the individual with the overworked smile.

"I ordered some eggs there once, and I had to wait so long that they brought me"—

"Chickens?"

"No; eggs that had been laid by the chickens hatched from the eggs I had ordered."

The Truth at Last.

"Oh, doctor, is it very dangerous to swallow cement?"

"Very dangerous, indeed."

"And gutta percha, doctor?"

"Very serious."

"And porcelain—oh, doctor, is it very poisonous?"

"Excuse me, madam; have you attempted suicide?"

"No; I've swallowed one of my false teeth."—Pearson's.

Off Again, on Again.

"Very well," said she in a huff; "all is over between us. I'll thank you to return my letters."

"All right," said he; "I'll send them to you the first thing in the morning."

"Oh, there's no killing hurry! Suppose you—er—bring them with you when you call tomorrow evening."

THE PLUS ULTRA IN HAMS.

Only Two or Three of Them Found In a Hundred Thousand.

"No, this is not really ham," said a New Orleans epicure, who was taking breakfast with a couple of friends at a restaurant the other day. "Of course it is what is known commercially as ham," he continued, prodding the pink substratum which supported a pair of neatly poised eggs, "and I dare say it is a very excellent article of its kind; but, compared to the highest achievements in ham, it scarcely belongs to the same family. The delicacy of which I speak is not to be procured in open market for love or money, and I confess that my own acquaintance with it is due entirely to fortunate chance.

"Some years ago I was of assistance in a slight way to a young fellow from Chicago, who had become involved in trouble through no particular fault of his own and seemed likely to suffer simply because he was a stranger. I got him out of the scrape, and he returned home extravagantly grateful. Soon afterward I received a letter of thanks from his brother, who is foreman of a large packing house in Chicago, and with the letter came a ham, swathed in as many wrappings as an Egyptian mummy and boxed up for shipment as carefully as a diamond necklace. That was the first real ham I ever tasted or, in fact, ever saw. When I sampled it—but, pshaw, I might as well attempt to describe the aroma of a carnation. In delicacy, flavor, tenderness and a dozen other qualities it so far transcended any other hams in my experience that they were not fit to be named in the same parish. How it was secured I learned later on.

"In all large packing houses, so I am told, the inspectors who examine the finished product keep their eyes open for phenomenally choice pieces of meat for the personal use of the chief employees. Thousands upon thousands of hams pass under their eyes every day, and now and again they see one that their experience tells them is a miracle of perfection—a rara avis upon which nature has freakishly done her level best. We encounter such abnormalities in everything, you know—in flowers, fruits, precious stones, pearls—something above high water mark in which there is accidentally a perfect equilibrium of all the elements of excellence, and it is exactly the same with hams. When the inspector spots the paragon, he immediately grabs it and lays it aside, and it was one of the gems from this culling extraordinary which I received."

Is Conversation a Lost Art?

Conversation calls for training of two kinds. A talker presupposes a listener. Now, listening is a platonic occupation out of fashion on this side of the Atlantic. Watch carefully a group of our compatriots chattering together, and you will notice that the speaker is rarely allowed to finish a sentence. His companions will snap the thread of talk away from him, unconscious of any incivility—just from sheer nervous inability to listen to the end. Having "caught on" to the drift of an idea, they can no more listen placidly to its development than they can wait until a play is over or a cable car stopped to make their exit.—Eliot Gregory in Harper's Bazar.

Feather In His Cap.

The Hungarians, during several centuries, were in almost constant warfare with the Turks, and a custom arose of a warrior decorating his cap with one feather for every Turk he killed. No one was allowed to wear a feather until he had slain a Turk in fair fight, and the greater the number of feathers the greater the prowess. The expression came to England late in the sixteenth century and is found in many authors subsequent to that time.

Michigan Cities Find it Best Suited.

AFTER AN INVESTIGATION.

Findings of a Committee in Hillsdale Which may Well be Considered in Town.

A committee was appointed recently at Hillsdale, Mich., to visit the different cities in the State of Michigan for the purpose of examining the pavement in use, and to ascertain their cost, relative merits as to durability, practicability, desirability, etc.

Mayor H. C. Blackman, chairman of the committee, states in the report that owing to the streets having been covered with snow during the period of their investigations they did not visit the cities, but obtained by correspondence a valuable fund of information on the subject of pavements from mayors, clerks and city engineers, which so far as it relates to the kind of pavement used, is as follows:

Kalamazoo—Uses brick, asphalt, block and macadam. Advises use of brick on business portions.

Coldwater—Uses brick and considers it best for towns of its size.

Munroe—Uses repressed brick and considers it good.

Big Rapids—Uses cedar blocks.

Saginaw—Uses brick and asphalt. City engineer considers asphalt, the best known pavement when in proper condition but very expensive to keep it so in our climate. Renders it an expensive luxury. Brick more durable and less expensive and for these reasons preferable on business streets.

Jackson—Uses brick and considers it best.

Pontiac—Uses asphalt block and considers it best.

Benton Harbour—Cedar block and brick, considers brick or asphalt best.

Ypsilanti — Uses metropolitan shale brick.

St. Joseph—Uses brick and considers it best for business portion of city.

Owosso—Uses asphalt with brick gutters.

Adrian—Uses brick.

Lansing—Uses brick and regards it best for streets with heavy traffic.

Ionia—Uses cedar block, but considers brick best and most practicable.

Mt. Clemens—Has replaced cedar block with brick and considers it best.

Grand Haven—Uses gravel on account of its convenience.

Manistee—Uses cedar blocks and some crushed stone on streets less used. Will replace with brick.

West Bay City—Uses brick.

Bay City—Uses brick and cedar block. Considers brick best.

Flint—Uses brick in business portions. Considers brick best.

Battle Creek—Uses brick and asphalt block. Considers brick best and most practicable.

There appears to be no crushed stone or macadam used on business streets of any city in Michigan, and I therefore corresponded with a few Ohio towns, where it has been used. Briefly summarized the information adduced is as follows:

Van Wert—Paved two streets some years ago with crushed or macadam. Was not satisfactory on business streets. Soon wore in spots, making "chuck holes," was muddy in wet weather and disagreeably dusty in dry. Main street now paved with brick and considered best and most practicable. The side streets are still paved with macadam, and are satisfactory for light driving.

Stryker—Side streets paved with macadam, main street with brick. Does not recommend stone for business streets.

WILL INTEREST HUNTERS.

Serious Charge Against the Reeve of Glamorgan.

The Lindsay Post publishes the following item concerning the finding of two missing canoes on the property of Mr. John Maxwell, Reeve of Glamorgan:

"A great deal of annoyance has been given to our local sportsmen owing to the lawless manner in which they have been treated by some of the inhabitants of the north country. Last fall the White-Lytle party had two valuable canoes stolen and four dogs poisoned while hunting near Bark Lake, Glamorgan Township. Early this spring Mr. Joe Lytle undertook to probe the matter and deserves great credit for finally locating the canoes, where they were stored away upstairs in an old house on the property of Mr. John Maxwell, Reeve of Glamorgan. Mr. Lytle, with his solicitor, Mr. Kenny, went out on Monday last to attend the investigation before Magistrate Fielding at Irondale. The evidence showed that the canoes had been hid in an old barn on Maxwell's property, and that after the roof had been blown off the barn they were removed to an old house, which was also on Maxwell's property. When the paddles were found Maxwell immediately accused the constable of having been there before, but yet the Magistrate could see no evidence against the accused. Mr. Kenny strongly urged that Maxwell be put on trial in Lindsay, where he said all parties would get fair play before His Honour Judge Dean, and he insisted on his client being bound over to prosecute the matter before the Grand Jury. This was granted and a jury will decide whether or not John Maxwell is guilty of theft."

Although the evidence is not published in the Post, it seems out of the question that a man of Mr. Maxwell's standing would be guilty of theft.

SPAIN'S LABOR TROUBLES.

The Barcelona Riots Have Made the Situation Grave—An Enormous Number in the Trouble.

Nendaye, France, May 10.—Further advices from Barcelona, Spain, show that more persons were killed and many were wounded there Wednesday. The situation is grave. The garrison numbers 6,000 men. Advices from Bilbao say there is great agitation in the mining region.

From Madrid it is reported that an enormous crowd of people participated in the riot at Barcelona. The rioters endeavored to stop work in the factories, which resulted in collisions with the troops. A number of soldiers are among the wounded. Over a hundred arrests of Anarchists, Socialists and extreme Catalanists have been made. Twenty-one notorious Anarchists, including Chiefs Bofarull and Foncuberts, have been placed on board the warship Pelayo.

The latest despatches yesterday say order has been restored. The Cabinet has decided that all the agitators are to be tried by court-martial. The foreign Anarchists will be expelled from the country.

The Franco-Canadian Line.

Quebec, May 10.—A contract has been drawn up between the Government and the Franco-Canadian Steamship Company for the establishment of a line of steamers between Canada and France, with the right to call at Mediterranean ports. The contract has not yet been signed, but it will in all probability receive the necessary signatures in the course of the next few days. A subsidy of $100,000 will likely be voted by the House for this service, but this sum will not be earned unless there are at least 30 trips made each year.

The Golfer's Fun.

'At a recent auction sale one of the paintings had for a subject a gayly attired golf girl making a long drive. The bidding on this opened very brisk—$60, $65, $70 and finally $72.

"Seventy-two, two, two, two!" cried the auctioneer.

"Fore!" shouted some one in the rear.

With the exception of the golfer in the front row, who immediately "ducked," the joke passed unnoticed.

"Four," repeated the auctioneer. "Do I hear five?"

He did not hear "five," and a cold sweat broke out on the brow of the last bidder as now, for the first time, the possibility of having to buy that picture occurred to him. Seventy-four dollars for making a pun! He made a solemn vow then and there that he would never attempt another as with a sickly grin he thought of unpaid bills. The attendant was standing at his elbow; the auctioneer had raised his hammer. "One—two—th"—

"Five!"

The ordeal was past. The auction proceeded, with the crowd unaware that the punster had received proper punishment.

For the benefit of those who do not play golf a diagram of the pun is furnished. "Fore" is the warning shouted by the player when about to drive.

How Accidents Become Habits.

'As to our mannerisms, says a writer in the Baltimore Sun, at first they are accidents, and afterward they become habits. It is singular how easy it is to convince a credulous public that a misfortune is a gift, just as an eccentricity is a mark of genius. Your correspondent knows a lady who was asked in marriage by several gentlemen (for where one pastures others will follow), although she was neither beautiful nor clever nor rich, but because she was affected with a trembling of the lids. In her inmost heart she who addresses you believes the trembling began with nervousness, but it was universal, and after a little what was curious began to be regarded as fascinating. At any rate I know a well established, portly lady, married to a man who secured her, not without difficulty, whose only sorrow is the necessity of keeping up the girlish habit which procured her a spouse. He is not a sentimentalist, but he wants what he paid for. He married her because her eyelids trembled, and not unnaturally he wishes to be possessed of the same treasure.

Loss of Appetite.

A person that has lost appetite has lost something besides—vitality, vigour, tone. The way to recover appetite and all that goes with it is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion and makes eating a pleasure. Thousands take it for spring loss of appetite and everybody says there's nothing else so good as Hood's

Taking No Chances.

A young man took his gold watch to a fashionable Chestnut street jewelry establishment to have the photograph of a young woman placed in the case. He just wanted it pasted in. "Why don't you have it photographed directly on the inside of the case?" asked the salesman. "We can have it done for you for $5, and it is so much more artistic."

No; the young man didn't want that. He thought it would be well enough to have it pasted in. "You see, you can't always tell about these things," he finally said, in a burst of confidence. "You can't always tell how they are going to turn out or how long they are going to last. A friend of mine had his girl's picture photographed on his watch, and then, after awhile, the whole thing was declared off. It put him to a lot of trouble, embarrassment and expense. When it's just pasted in, if anything happens all you have to do is just scrape it off. I guess I'll have this pasted in."

FEW PEW DOORS LEFT.

Common In the Old Times, They Are Now Counted Obsolete.

"In old times," said a dealer in church fittings and equipments, "it was a common thing to have doors on the pews in churches. Fifty years ago in most Protestant churches there were pew doors. While used in Catholic churches also, they were not so common.

"In those days the pew door was an institution. Now it is pretty nearly obsolete. There are still some in use. They will be found here and there yet in some of the old Protestant churches, as they may be occasionally, too, in some old Catholic churches, but they constitute no part of the equipment of any new church, and in many old churches the pew doors have been taken off as unnecessary and in the way.

"There are various reasons for this. Conditions have changed for one thing. In the old days pews were more commonly rented entire. Now there are more free churches, more free pews, and there are rented nowadays a greater number of individual sittings.

"In such conditions a pew door is not in any degree a necessity. It might indeed be undesirable in itself. Partly opened or closed the door was in the way. It might squeak. It was likely to be slammed in opening or closing. It was a quite unnecessary expense. It was really a surplusage, and in all new churches its use was everywhere discontinued whether the pews were rented or not.

"In Catholic churches, where it is still the common, prevailing custom to rent the pews and where there might still be some need for a pew door, its place is now to some extent taken by a modern attachment called a pew guard. This is a simple but sightly strip of stitched leather attached at one end to the inner side of the upper part of the end piece of the pew next the aisle, the other end, when the guard is not in use, hanging down over the pew arm.

"If all the regular occupants of a pew are not yet in it and it is desired to hold their places for them, the pew guard is put up across the open end of the pew, the free end of the guard being then secured in a holder made to receive it fixed on the inner side of the upper part of the end piece of the pew in front. Not in use, the pew guard, hanging loosely over the arm of the pew to which it belongs, occupies practically no room at all and is in nobody's way.

"And so the pew door, once in common use and commonly considered an essential adjunct in the fittings of a church, has now, by common consent, virtually disappeared from use.'

ATTACK ON THE KING.

The Reasons Given For Seizing "The Irish People."

CARDINAL VAUGHAN ABUSED.

Motion for Adjournment in the British Commons Defeated—Mr. Wyndham Declined to Read the Article in the House—He Describes Its Character in Strong Invective—The Police Work.

Dublin, May 11.—The police of Cork, Limerick and other towns of Ireland seized all the copies of Mr. William O'Brien's weekly paper, The Irish People, found at a newsdealer's yesterday morning. The offending articles, it now appears, were abusive attacks on King Edward, Cardinal Vaughan, and the address to the King, which the paper declares was such as might have been presented to a Legree half a century ago. The article finds consolation in the fact that the presentees were English Catholics, "who are repudiated by the only really Catholic nation now in existence. The loyalists represented England only, and if the English Catholic chose to acknowledge themselves superstitious idolators it is no fault of ours."

William O'Brien began life as a reporter on The Cork Daily Herald. He subsequently wrote for The Freeman's Journal, and founded United Ireland in 1880. He founded a new agrarian movement in 1898, styling it the "United Irish League," and starting The Irish People newspaper as its advocate. O'Brien has been prosecuted nine times for political offences, and has spent more than two years in prison. He has been a member of Parliament for North Cork since the election of 1900.

IMPERIAL HOUSE.

The Seizure of "The Irish People" Discussed—Mr. Heaton's Questions.

London, May 11.—Mr. Henniker Heaton, Conservative, in the House of Commons yesterday drew attention to the annual loss of £700,000 in the telegraph service, aggregating £8,300,000 since the Government took over the lines, and asked how the Government proposed to remedy this.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, admitted the correctness of the figures. The reason of the loss was that the public was more eager for rapid communication than the revenue warranted. Unproductive extensions must be discouraged.

Mr. Henniker Heaton also asked if the Government was prepared to lease the telegraph lines to a private company. The Chancellor of the Exchequer did not reply.

Seizure of "The Irish People."

At the conclusion of the questions in the House of Commons yesterday, John Dillon (Nationalist) moved the adjournment of the House, in order to call attention to the seizure of The Irish People.

Mr. Dillon complained that the action of the authorities was grossly illegal, and asked whether it was due to the attack on Mr. Wyndham, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, or to the attack on the King. Mr. Wyndham replied that it was owing to the attack on the King.

Mr. Dillon said he was not concerned to defend the violence of the attack, but any seizure should have been done through the courts. Far more violent attacks on Queen Victoria had been made in the English papers without their being seized. The present action was a blow to the liberty of the press.

Mr. William Redmond (Nationalist) seconded the motion, characterizing the article complained of as a very proper and patriotic attack on the conduct of the Chief Secretary.

Mr. Wyndham, in defending the seizure, declined to "soil his lips with reading the attack on the King, which constituted seditious libel, nor wound the feelings of millions by propagating the outrageous, gross and scurrilous lies of the article."

After Mr. Redmond had commented on the impolicy of Government's action in seizing the paper, which would simply have the effect of fastening attention on he article of The Irish People, many copies of which were in the pockets of members then in the House, and many of which had gone to America, Mr. Balfour, the Government leader, denied that the Government was attacking either the freedom of the press or legitimate Irish agitation. He asked: Was the publication of an obscene libel a necessary weapon for the Nationalists? No epithets he could employ were too strong to describe this foul and poisonous article. No man in that House could expect any Government to allow an act of such gross indecency to be committed with impunity.

John Burns (Socialist) expressed the opinion that if the article had been submitted to the King he would have smiled and thrown it into the waste paper basket.

The motion for an adjournment was defeated by a vote of 252 to 64.

THE PANIC OVER.

The Causes Which Produced the Normal Conditions on the Stock Markets After the Big Flurry.

Toronto, May 11.—Yesterday witnessed a remarkable recovery of Wall street from the wild panic into which it had been thrown on Wednesday and Thursday. The deliverance was brought about by two circumstances, In the first place, the Associated Banks came to the rescue of the "street" by advancing money in plenty, and call loans soon ruled at 6 per cent., instead of at 60 per cent., as on the day before. In the second place, J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. decided to "let out" the Northern Pacific shorts by allowing them to settle at 150.

This easing of the money market, and this closing of the N. P. corner relieved the apprehension of speculators, and the market resumed a normal tone. In the morning, many bargain hunters appeared in the field, and prices advanced, closing in some cases not far from previous high marks.

The losses during the two-day panic must have been enormous, chiefly among people of small fortune. Not many Toronto dealers are thought to have been hit hard.

And now, after all the struggle between Harriman and Hill for control of N. P., it is not clear which has come out on top. This will not be known until it has been ascertained how much of the stock recently bought by either side can actually be delivered to them.

There was considerable general buying yesterday, accompanied by rapid advances in many stocks,

HEARING IN PARTON CASE.

An Important Crown Witness Is Ill and Could Not Attend.

Parry Sound, Ont., May 11.—At the Parton murder case yesterday morning, Chief Constable Williams testified that Parton, on the morning after the fire, said that he and his wife had to crawl out of the building on their hands and knees to effect their escape from the burning building.

This corroborates the evidence of another witness as to Parton's story, but is not in accordance with the statements of the surviving members of the family on the scene.

Later Parton, when officially notified by Williams that there would be an inquest, said they could make nothing of it.

At the conclusion of the constable's evidence the Crown Attorney announced that he had a material witness who was indisposed and at his home in the country and could not then appear.

Mr. Powell pressed to close the proceedings on the ground that as the Assizes were to be held here next Monday, it was necessary, in case of committal, to have the case ready. He asked, however, for a dismissal.

The Crown Attorney stated that he had sent after his witness and hoped to be able to produce him by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. On this understanding the court adjourned until that time.

The witness failed to appear in the afternoon when the proceedings were resumed. The name of this witness and the nature of his evidence has not yet been revealed, but it is supposed that he is important for the Crown's case. An official of the bank was summoned yesterday to prove that since the time of the inquest Parton had drawn money for the benefit of his wife and sons, presumably, from the Crown's view of the case, that the money might influence their evidence in his behalf. The court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

AN EMPTY CHAIR.

At the Board Meeting of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co.

At the last meeting of the directors of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. the following resolution was passed in reference to the death of the late William Cluxton:—

"The death of William Cluxton, Esquire, since the last meeting of this Board, leaves to-day an empty chair and a vacancy in the Board. Mr. Cluxton's careful conscientious and intelligent consideration of all matters of the Company were of great value, and his absence will be keenly felt in the deliberations of this Board.

"Mr. Cluxton's life was an exemplification of a high ideal. In manners he was ever courteous and refined; in business, pains-taking and scrupulously honest; so that during a long, active and successful life, in which he transacted an immense business, he ever maintained the confidence and respect of merchants and the respect and good will of the community.

"His death, universally regretted, removes from us an able and upright man, whose place will not readily be filled.

"In further expression of respect, it is directed that this resolution be inscribed in the Company's minutes and a copy thereof sent to his son, Mr. W.H.Cluxton."

AUTOMOBILE TRANSIT.

Chemong Will yet be Reached in a More Convenient Way.

For some time past a number of Peterborough gentlemen have been interesting themselves concerning automobiles with the object of ascertaining if a rapid transit line could be operated between the town and Chemong Park. Mr. W. H. Meldrum, who is understood to be one of the capitalists willing to back the scheme, was seen the other day by an Examiner reporter in reference to the matter and stated that he had been in correspondence with a number of American firms, as well as with the Canada Cycle and Motor Company, with the object of purchasing several automobiles to run between the points indicated, but that the scheme was not feasible at present owing to the fact that none of the factories are turning out machines of the size required to make the line a success. Experiments, so far, have been confined, it seems, to the lighter class of vehicles and have not reached a stage when large coaches or carryalls can be turned out and guaranteed to do satisfactory work. The idea, therefore, of forming a company to operate such a stage line as was contemplated, will have to be postponed until next season, by which time the Park residents can expect with considerable confidence to be placed in closer connection with the town.

MR. SAUL'S GRIEVANCE

Refused Work on Royal Military College Building.

HE IS A NON-UNION WORKMAN.

The Supplementary Estimates Brought Down—Provision for the Royal Reception and the New Mint—Cottage Hospitals in the Northwest—Harbor Improvements and Other Public Works.

Ottawa, May 11.—Good progress was made with Government business yesterday, several Government bills being advanced a stage in the afternoon, and in the evening a large amount of supply was voted. Mr. John Charlton took the hour devoted to private bills in discussing the Manitoba Railway bill, which retains its place on the order paper, and will again be the subject of discussion on Monday, when the whole day will be devoted to the consideration of private legislation.

A Non-Union Man's Complaint.

Mr. Clarke Wallace called the attention of the acting Minister of Labor to a letter received by Mr. Bell (Addington) from Mr. Robert W. Saul (Camden East), stating that he went to work on the Kingston Royal Military College to build an addition, but was stopped by the International Union unless he had $25 to join the union. He offered to join if the union would accept the regular price, but refused to pay $25, and consequently he was at home and had nothing to do. He had a large family to support, is a Canadian, and cannot get work on a Canadian contract let by the Canadian Government. A foreigner could, however, come in here from the United States if he was a member of the union and go to work, while he (Mr. Saul) might sit and starve. If there were to be unions he asked that they be Canadian ones, controlled by the Government, so that they could not coerce any man by extortion, but be fair and honest in their dealings.

Mr. Wallace said it appeared this was a matter that should receive the attention of the Minister of Labor, in the hope that he would see that justice was done to the Canadian citizen, who deserves to have a fair show at work under a contract given by the Canadian Government. Canadian citizens should not be compelled to become members of a union. There should be, and he presumed were, safeguards placed by the Government in the contracts, so that any Canadian citizen, whether a member of the union or not, is placed on even terms with any other Canadian, and on better terms than any American citizen.

Will Be Investigated.

Mr. Sutherland feared that the act establishing the Labor Bureau would not cover the grievance complained of, but promised to have the matter investigated, and, if it was possible, to find some way of doing justice in the case.

Mr. Fielding gave notice that he would on Monday move the House into committee upon the resolution authorizing the advance of $1,000,000 to Harbor Commissioners of Montreal for constructing grain elevators and equipping the port.

Lieut.-Col. Hughes asked that the Premier communicate to the House the telegram of congratulation he had no doubt sent to Australia.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, stated that the Government had not yet sent any telegram, for the reason that the Government had no official, or, for the matter of that, unofficial intimation as to the date Parliament was to be opened, but Mr. Mulock had been sent to represent the Government, and he was sure he would discharge his duty properly.

Pension Bill Passed.

The bill providing pensions for the permanent force was read a third time, and passed.

In committee on the Senate bill to amend the Yukon Territory Act, Mr. Sifton moved amendments, which were passed.

The House then went into committee on the bill respecting the packing or sale of certain staple commodities.

Mr. Smith (Ontario) moved an amendment that every box of berries or currants offered for sale, and every berry box manufactured for sale, shall be plainly marked with and contain the following quantities: Four-fifths of a quart, or two-fifths of a quart; baskets to be 15 quarts, 11 quarts, 6½ quarts or 2 2-5 quarts. If not up to one of these standards, the basket must be marked "short."

In regard to binder twine, Mr. Bernier proposed this amendment:

"That every manufacturer or importer of binder twine who neglects to place a mark upon each ball of twine, stating its quantity, weight and length, shall forfeit 25 cents for each ball unmarked. Also, if the length of a ball shows more than 5 per cent. shortage of the marked length, the penalty shall be $1 to $25."

After discussion, the clause was further amended, to provide that the act shall not come into force until Oct. 1, 1901. The bill was then passed as amended.

The bill to further amend the General Inspection Act was also read a third time.

Mr. Charlton again talked out the hour for private bills on the Manitoba Railway bill.

The House spent the evening in supply, and adjourned at 11 o'clock.

SUPPLEMENTARIES.

Estimates for Various Services Which Make a Total of $8,369,241.

Supplementary estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, were tabled by the Minister of Finance during the afternoon. They amount altogether to $8,369,241, of which $4,382,003 is chargeable to consolidated fund and $3,699,237 to capital, while $838,000 is credited to the Halifax provisional garrison. The main estimates for the current fiscal year, including the sum chargeable to capital, amount to $50,398,828, and adding to them the present supplementaries it gives a total estimated expenditure for 1902 of $58,768,064. Seemingly this is a big increase of expenditure, but the increase is apparent rather than actual, because several of the items are revotes. These are some of the chief items brought down:

For cold storage and trial shipments of Canadian produce, $48,000 is asked.

For the Pan-American Exhibition another $20,000.

The sum of $300,000, is asked for Port Colborne harbor improvements.

For a new hydraulic dredge on the St. Lawrence, $250,000.

New dredge in British Columbia, $200,000, and for Ontario dredge, $100,000.

Fort Arthur breakwater, $78,000.

Repairs to the Governor-General's car, which will be used by the Duke and Duchess of York, are estimated to cost $2000.

The votes for the Yukon Territory include maintenance of prisoners, additional, $20,000; public building at Dawson, $100,000; for roads, bridges and trails, $10[illegible],597.

To provide cottage hospitals in the Northwest, $6000.

To provide for six train porters under the postoffice regulation, $2400.

For winter steam navigation in the St. Lawrence, below Quebec, $12,000 is appropriated.

The sum of $5000 is to be revoted for Toronto Junction public building, and $4500 for repairs to the Toronto postoffice, and $4515 (revote) for customs house pavement.

By provinces the vote for harbors and rivers is: Ontario, $462,000; Quebec, $764,450; New Brunswick, $120,950; Prince Edward Island, $43,450; Nova Scotia, $179,799; British Columbia, $41,799.

Nurses' Bill Reported.

Ottawa, May 11.—At the Private Bills Committee yesterday morning, the bill to incorporate the Canadian Nurses' Association was reported, with some important amendments. The bill gives the nurses exclusive power to conduct the affairs of the association, but they are not permitted to say who shall become members. Candidates must pass an examination, before the president of each Provincial Medical Council.

THE SENATE.

Ottawa, May 11.—Hon. Mr. Mills moved amendments to the bill to amend the act respecting the safety of ships in the Senate. They were concurred in, and Hon. Mr. Scott's bill to amend the Franchise Act, 1898, was read a second time.

ENGLAND'S WILD BEASTS.

Elephants, Rhinoceroses and Tigers Were Once Plentiful There.

A correspondent sends an account of interesting proceedings in which Mr. Martin A. C. Hinton explained to the members of the Birkbeck Natural History Society the results of the work done by himself and other geologists in examining the strata of England. Mr. Hinton, on Saturday, pointed out to the members the spots in a section of the contorted drift in "the Cauliflower" brickyard at Ilford where he and others had unearthed parts of the skeletons of bears, elephants and rhinoceroses.

The lecture in the evening was devoted to giving a summary of the results of all the workers in this line of research. The remains of the Barbary ape, now found alive in Europe in Gibraltar, have been unearthed at Grayes, in Essex, John Hunter found the skeletons of the Arctic grizzly and brown bears in Norfolk as far back as 1794. Spotted hyenas were once common in Yorkshire and Kent. Bones of the wolf and of a large dog, which were very closely allied, can be seen at the geological museum in Jermyn street, which seems to indicate that the numerous kinds of dogs now living can trace their ancestry back to the wolves which once roamed about England. The Arctic fox, the glutton, and the polecats have also left behind them evidence of their past existence in this "tight little island." A curious tiger, with large, sabrelike tusks, once hunted the deer, while the elephants tramped through our primeval forests. The lecturer humorously observed that St. Christopher ought to be the patron saint of the geologist, considering the large number of bones of the elephant which are exhibited in many churches of England as the sacred relics of the giant men of former days.

Dyspepsia

Is difficult digestion, due to a weakened condition of the stomach and its inability to properly churn the food; or to unhealthy condition of the gastric juice, too much or too little acid, too much or too little pepsin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla relieves all the distressing symptoms of dyspepsia because it promotes the muscular action of the stomach and intestines, aids nature in the manufacture of her own digestive secretions, which are far better than any artificial pepsin, unlocks the bowels, stimulates the kidneys and tones up their mucous membranes.

So prompt is its effect in many cases that it seems to have almost a magic touch.

Begin to take it NOW.

Suffered Everything—"I was troubled with dyspepsia, suffered everything but death, could not eat without terrible distress. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I can [illegible] and feel well." Mrs. Theresa Howard, Bellamy, Conn.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

The remains of a great herd of hippopotamuses show that in Cambridgeshire many of them must have become imbedded in the mud of an ancient lake. The wild boar, reindeer, antelope, bison and rhinoceros have also left behind them undoubted evidence of their past existence in this ancient realm of England.

The latter part of the lecture was exceedingly interesting, inasmuch as Mr. Hinton then dealt with his own special researches. By means of slight differences in structure of their teeth—which arose through mice giving up the soft, nutritious food of the field for harder and coarser provender—the geologist can connect in almost an unbroken chain the descent of the different kinds of voles, through the harvest mice to the aboriginal wild woodmouse.—London News.

Marshal Objected.

There was a little dinner once given to William Marconi, of which one incident is still remembered by some of the guests. An oratorical member of the company, growing enthusiastic over a toast to the inventor of wireless telegraphy, made this climax to his peroration: "Gentlemen, I give you Marconi, the Franklin, the Faraday and the Helmholtz of Italy." When the toast had been drunk, the distinguished guest thanked the party for the honor and added, "But I must protest against the action of the preceding speaker in making me triplets."

Earthquakes.

In 1881 the isles of Ischia and Scio suffered terribly from an earthquake, losing about 4,000 to 5,000 people. Ischia was again visited in 1883, but did not get off as easily as before, coming out of the wreck with 10,000 dead and missing. The great calamity of the nineteenth century was the great convulsion in Java in 1883, which is said to have killed not less than 120,000 persons.

For over twenty years Vapo-Cresolene has received the unqualified support of the medical profession; we feel very proud of this. Physicians everywhere realize the importance of this direct way of treating all throat affections. It is the doctor's prescription now for whooping cough, frequently curing it in a few days.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra bottles of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. Vapo-Cresolene Co., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Marine Engineers and United States Steel Corporation Cannot Agree.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 11.—Another conference was held yesterday between officials of the United States Steel Corporation vessel interests and the striking marine engineers, with a view to settling the long pending strike. When the conference ended, President Usher of the Engineers' Association said the end of the struggle seemed as far away as ever. The steel corporation officials said they would grant all demands except putting a third man in the engine room of all first-class boats and discharging what men have already been employed.

The engineers would not concede a point, standing flatly upon their schedule for third men, and demanding that all non-union men on boats be discharged and old men put back on the boats in which they sailed last year.

RICH, RED BLOOD.

ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY TO HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

Through the Blood Every Organ, Every Nerve and Every Tissue in the Body is Nourished—If the Blood is Impure Disease Takes Possession of the System.

If you want to be well take care of the blood. The blood is aptly termed the vital fluid, and it is through it that every tissue of the body is nourished. If the blood becomes impoverished, the entire system is in danger of a breakdown, and what is termed anæmia, general debility, or even consumption, may be the result. Prudent people occasionally take a tonic for the purpose of keeping the blood pure, but the ill-well are those to whom this article is chiefly value, as it will point out an easy and speedy means to renewed health. Mrs. Joseph Herbert, who keeps a grocery at the corner of St. German and and Hermoine streets, St. Sauveur, Que., tells the following story of broken health and renewed vigor: "I suffered for many months," said Mrs. Herbert, "from an impoverished condition of the blood, coupled with extreme nervousness. I was very pale and felt languid and indisposed to exertion. A dizzy sensation on arising quickly from a chair, or coming down stairs, often troubled me. The least exercise would leave me almost out of breath and my heart would palpitate violently, while at other times I would feel a smothering sensation. Often my face and arms would swell and puff, and the arms became almost useless. I doctored more or less for the trouble, but did not get any real benefit until I began the use of Dr. William's Pink Pills. I had been using the pills only a few weeks when I found myself growing stronger and better in every way. I continued taking the pills for nearly three months—for I was determined the cure would be thorough—but sometime before I discontinued using them I felt in better health than I had enjoyed for years before. My sleep is now healthful and refreshing, my appetite excellent, and I feel that I owe all this to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and it will always give me pleasure to recommend them."

It is the mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to make rich, red blood, nourish the nerves, tissues and various organs of the body, and thus by reaching the root of the trouble drive disease from the system. Other medicines act only upon the symptoms of the disease and when such medicines are discontinued the trouble returns—often in an aggravated form. If you want health and strength be sure you get the genuine with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. If your dealer cannot supply you the pills will be sent post paid at 50c a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

There was quite a moderate run of live stock at the Cattle Market to-day—61 carloads all told, composed of 974 cattle, 913 hogs, 188 sheep and 65 calves.

Trade was more than brisk. Many seasons have elapsed since there was such an exciting time as was witnessed on the market to-day. So anxious were many of the dealers to obtain supplies that they contracted for loads of cattle before selling them. One dealer bought 160 cattle before the market opened. In fact nearly all the fat cattle were bought up before 9 o'clock in the morning.

Fluttering of the Heart For Twelve Years.

People all over the universe are troubled with fluttering, throbbing and palpitating hearts.

Causing sleeplessness, weakness, nervousness, faint and dizzy spells.

Here is what one lady writes us:

SAULT STE MARIE,
Jan. 9th, 1901.

THE T. MILBURN CO., LTD.,
Toronto, Ont.

"I take great pleasure in endorsing Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled for twelve long years with my heart fluttering. I was also very nervous and could not sleep.

I tried numerous remedies but found them of little or no use. I saw that Milburn's Pills were good for my trouble so procured two boxes.

I could not do my own work before I commenced taking them, but now I am perfectly cured and cannot recommend them too highly."

MRS. M. A. WYANT.

Convincing Reasons Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

Was Run Down.

Mr. Bert Reid, of Mr. F. J. R. Mitchell's staff, met with an accident yesterday, which resulted in giving him a bad fall and quite a shaking up. He was riding a wheel and as he was turning off George street to Hunter, a bicyclist riding north on George street at a very fast clip, caught his hind wheel and caused a mixup. A town bylaw is badly needed to regulate the speed at which bicyclists may ride on the business streets.

MR. HOLST'S SOUVENIR.

The Employees of the Armature Dept. of the C. G. E. Present Him with a Cane.

A very pleasant surprise awaited Mr. E. W. Holst at noon, yesterday, when as he was about to leave his office in the Armature Dept. of the Canadian General Electric Works, he was held up by the employees and presented with a suitably inscribed gold-headed ebony cane. The appended address, which was read by Mr. David Patterson, is a most pleasing testimony to the nature of the relations which have existed between Mr. Holst and his staff:

Mr. Holst.

It is with deep regret that we, the employees of the Armature Department, over which you have for the past two years had charge, learn of your intention to leave town and undertake a journey to the distant land of your birth.

We felt that we could not allow the ties existing between us as foreman and employees to be severed without conveying to you the regret we felt and we could not allow you to leave without expressing the respect and regard in which you are held. Our associations have been pleasant and we would prefer that they should have continued.

But you are parting in your own interests and as you go we desire that you shall carry with you some small testimony of our feelings towards you and the esteem in which you are held by those over whom you have presided. Whenever your future lot may be cast our sincere hope is that good health and success will be yours. We know that your genial disposition and excellencies of character will commend you to new circles wherever you go but we ask you not to forget your employees of your old department in the C. G. E. To help your memory in this we ask you to accept this cane, which we hope you will be long spared to carry, even to support your steps in the days of a good old age. Signed:—Messrs. R. Morrison, J. Wilson, G. Quinn, J. Palmer, A. Thompson, S. Kowalski, T. Gillies, A. Morrison, F. Derocher, W. Neil, D. Patterson, H. Jeffries, E. Davis, W. Houston, F. Adlum, R. Moher, W. O'Neil, W. Sherwood, P. Scott, H. Drummond. Misses E. Lockington, M. Crowley, M. Bunton, M. Booth, A. Crowley, S. Young, M. Martin, I. Sanderson, T. Woods, M. Heap, M. Dunlop, D. O'Brien' E. Pedlar, T. Martin, H. Doris, C. Henry, B. Corbman, A. Pedlar, J. Holland, A. Sanderson, F. Kirk, C. Noyes, K. Christie, M. Jones, A. Hobbins.

The presentation was made by Miss F. Kirk and was briefly acknowledged by Mr. Holst, who, though greatly surprised, was able to express his regret at leaving, most feelingly.

LATE W. G. HETHERINGTON.

He Passed Away at the Nicholls Hospital Last Night.

Mr. W. G. Hetherington, the widely known general insurance agent of Millbrook, died at the Nicholls Hospital last night, after an illness extending over five or six weeks.

Mr. Hetherington's disease was of a chronic nature, and about two weeks ago he was removed to the Nicholls Hospital here. On Thursday an operation was performed, and for a time the patient's condition was rather hopeful. However, the end came last night, and the news of his death will come as a great surprise to his many friends.

The late Mr. Hetherington was about 57 years of age, and had for a long time conducted a general fire insurance business throughout Cavan, Monaghan and the adjoining townships

He leaves to mourn his demise a family of two, a son and a daughter, both quite young. Deceased was widely connected in Peterborough, being a brother of Mrs. William Might, George street, Mrs. E. B. Wilson, McDonel street, Mrs. R. C. Thompson-Currie, Water street, and Mrs. W. J. Tully, of Smith.

BOTH HANDS BLOWN OFF.

George Forbes of Cordova was the Victim.

Caused by the Premature Explosion of a Stick of Dynamite—In St. Joseph's Hospital.

An accident that was attended with horrible results occurred at the Cordova Mines yesterday, the victim being George Forbes, a young man about seventeen years of age.

Forbes was handling a stick of dynamite, when by the premature explosion of the same, both his hands were terribly shattered, besides his face and body being more or less lacerated.

A Havelock physician dressed the wounds temporarily, and the patient was taken to Havelock, from where he was brought by train to Peterborough, arriving here yesterday evening.

At St. Joseph's Hospital both of the unfortunate young man's hands were amputated at the wrists, the attending surgeons being Dr. Moher and Dr. Halliday.

This morning Forbes was resting quite easily, considering the awful pain he has suffered as a consequence of the accident.

RICE LAKE WHARVES.

In the supplementary estimates laid on the table at the House yesterday there is a revote of $10,000 towards rebuilding the Chemong bridge, and $500 is set apart for rebuilding the wharf at Harwood with another $1,000 for a wharf at Robins' Landing, Rice Lake.

Yesterday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A., the last of the Boys' Gospel Meetings was held, when an address appropriate to the occasion was delivered by Rev. J. P. Wilson, who gave the boys something to think about during the summer months. The subject of the address was "The Last Call," and he referred to the last days of school. how the boys were full of glee, but the last of some things is not so pleasant. He hoped that they would all be spared to attend the meetings when they resumed in the fall. The devotional exercises were conducted by the officers of the Boys' Department.

A CLUB HOUSE.

A Joint Stock Company May Purchase a Fine Property.

Peterborough has for many years felt the need of having a club house, and though at times apartments have been secured and clubs have been organized in connection therewith, they have, as a rule, been short lived. The establishment of the Peterborough Club last fall, however, apparently marked a new era in club life, and under wise and judicious management it has grown and prospered until it has perfectly filled out the niche occasioned by the absence of such an organization in a town the size of Peterborough.

The pleasant apartments which were secured, though cosy and comfortable, are ound at times to be hardly large enough to accommodate all of the members, especially on such occasions as when out of town guests of note are present. Longing eyes have been cast for some time on the residence formerly occupied by Mr. James Stevenson, ex-M.P., on Simcoe street, and though the club members do not feel warranted in undertaking the purchase of the property themselves, it is understood that the formation of a joint stock company is contemplated, by a number of local capitalists for the purpose of acquiring the place, which will in turn be leased to the club. Of course the scheme is in an incipient stage at present, but in the event of the deal being consummated, the Peterborough Club would have sumptuous quarters.

Pupils of the Ashburnham Public School Read an Address to Rev. Dr. Symonds.

For about eight years Rev. Dr. Symonds has paid weekly visits to the Ashburnham public school to conduct exercises in religious instruction. A half hour on Fridays is set apart for this purpose, the pupils as far as possible assembling in one room.

At the close of the exercises on Friday the reverend gentleman was pleasantly surprised when Miss Laura Smithson stepped forward and read the appended address.

Rev. Dr. Symonds replied, expressing his appreciation of the kind feelings expressed therein, and at the same time giving the pupils some very useful and kindly advice.

Ashburnham, May 10, 1901.

To Rev. Dr. Symonds,—

Dear Teacher,—We are very much pleased to be able to address you thus—pleased because of the honourable distinction recently conferred upon you, and which you so well deserve, and pleased because it has been our privilege for so many years to have your services as a religious teacher from week to week.

Your example as an earnest stuent cannot fail to stimulate us, and the sytematic way in which your work is conducted cannot but be a lesson to us as we arrange our work in life.

We desire to extend to you our hearty congratulations, and to express the hope that you may long be spared to enjoy the honour you have received, and to continue your weekly visits to our school.

MR. COCHRANE'S TRIP WEST.

Prisoner Abbott Located on the Pacific Coast.

He is Wanted Here on a Charge of Forgery—Mr. Cochrane's Clever Work.

High County Constable Cochrane left this morning for the Pacific Coast from where he will bring back with him, to Peterborough, W. T. Abbott, who is wanted on a charge of forgery.

Abbott is now under arrest at New Westminster on the strength of a warrant issued by County Magistrate Edmison and forwarded out west for execution by High County Constable Cochrane. The warrant has been issued for some time but it was with great difficulty that Abbott was located and this was accomplished only after a clever piece of work on the part of the High County Constable. Abbott, until last fall, resided on a fifty acre farm in Smith, just opposite Mr. John Carnegie's place, and owned by Mrs. James Brumwell. He quit the farm and left this part of the country. Shortly afterwards, Mrs. Brumwell received a notice from the Ontario Bank that her note of $80.00 in in favour of Abbott would fall due on a certain date. She was naturally much surprised, as she could not recollect having ever signed such a document. It was upon further investigation decided to be a forgery. The note in question was dated Nov. 26th, 1900, was drawn for $80 in favour of Abbott, and at three months. Investigation, it is alleged, showed that Abbott had been in the habit of forging these notes, and had, as a rule, redeemed them by floating still another, and so on, until things reached a climax.

As above stated, a warrant was issued for his arrest, and he was located in a small place near New Westminster.

High County Constable Cochrane received a telegram yesterday from the Chief of Police of New Westminster stating they had arrested the accused. County Constable Cochrane therefore left on his long westward journey this morning.

PETERBOROUGH'S BOXERS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Last night at about ten o'clock four rowdies had the temerity to throw a stone from across the street through the screen door of the Chinese laundry in Patterson's block on Hunter street in the full glare of the electric light, and in view view of two citizens who were standing close by.

These offences are becoming of frequent occurrence, and it is high time that some attempt was made to ferret out these vandals. Already inmates of both the Chinese laundries have suffered bodily from such acts, besides the destruction of property, and I say it is a crying shame for our authorities to stand idly by while these crimes are being perpetrated, when a detective worthy of the name could bring the guilty parties to justice.

Without some move is made it will bring discredit upon the fair name of our town and be a blot upon our twentieth century civilization.

Yours, etc.,
Civis.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

GOLF.

Quite a number went out to the golf links yesterday, to witness the match between Messrs. J. W. Garvin and E. W. Holst. The contest was the result of a wager of a chair for the club house between Mr. G. W. Hatton and Mr. Garvin, in which the former pitted Mr. Holst's skill against that of Mr. Garvin, the loser of the wager having to pay for the chair. The result of the match proved that Mr. Hatton's estimate of Mr. Holst's prowess was correct, as Mr. Garvin was beaten by two up and one to play. Mr. Burnham officiated as referee and of course was most impartial in his decisions. The match was at first arranged to take place in September but on account of Mr. Holst being about to leave town Mr. Garvin courteously consented to decide the contest yesterday.

A DESPERATE DUEL.

NO SURGEONS NOR SECONDS IN ATTENDANCE AT THIS FIGHT.

The Story of How "Bulldog" Kelly and Mahone the Stockman Settled Their Little Affair of Honor on the Lonely Plains.

If Frenchmen thirsting for each other's gore really wish to know how to fight for honor's sake, let them visit Medicine Hat and hear the story of how "Bulldog" Kelly and Mahone the stockman fought for theirs. It is only necessary to say of Kelly that once in his life he figured in a celebrated international law controversy which the then secretary of state, Thomas F. Bayard, ended. His mother was a friend of John A. Lough. Mahone was nothing more nor less than a frontier cattleman. He and Kelly first at Calgary, where in a dispute over cards an enmity arose between them. Subsequently they clashed in the Medicine Hat country, and Mahone wrongfully accused Kelly of stealing stock. Kelly would have killed him then and there but for the interference of the Canadian mounted police. Subsequently one of these policemen suggested to him that he challenge Mahone to a duel and that they have it out alone. Kelly evidently thought well of the suggestion, for a day or two later, meeting Mahone in that isolated and abused town, Medicine Hat, he quietly told him that he would meet him the next morning as the sun rose on the Tortured trail, and drop to him with a gun that he was not a thief. Mahone nodded his head in acceptance of the defiance, and that was all there was to the challenge.

Kelly slept in a roadhouse that night but was up before dawn saddling his horse. He carried for arms only six shooters and a thick-woven deer knife. He rode away from the ranch in the misty darkness before daybreak, headed for the Tortured trail. He was a six footer, sandy haired, heavy jawed and called "Bulldog" because he had once pitted himself against an outlaw for that title and whipped him in a free fight. His courage was extreme from the brute point of view. To illustrate his years before he had been known as the "Bulldog" of the Bar U ranch. He was instructed by his attorney to kill one of the witnesses against him in the courtroom if he attempted in his examination.

"You listen to him," said the attorney, "and if he tries to testify as to certain things let him have it."

Kelly, as a prisoner, entered the courtroom with a knife up his sleeve, and he sat through all the proceedings with his eyes on the man he was to watch. The latter never realized and which he took the stand broke down completely and did not give the prosecution a point. He slipped without knowing it that it he testified as the prosecution believed he would Kelly would then and there end him. And this all took place not in a frontier court, but in a court of the United States government.

Well, Kelly rode down the trail as gay in spirit as a man of his nature could be. He did not whistle, for whistling men are rarely brutes. But he abused his horse and swore at everything that he felt well. He watched the dark hang closer and closer to the plain grasses, the stars grew less brilliant until suddenly in the east it was as if a curtain was drawn up and the day came with the call of wild birds and a [illegible] from the west to meet the sun. He pressed toward Medicine Hat and from that point, out of the plain and spirit of the hour, rode Mahone, dreamed as his opponent was. They were a mile apart when they recognized each other. [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] Mahone [illegible] Medicine Hat was asleep. Mahone drew nearer, moving a little to the left, as if to circle about Kelly. The latter suddenly dropped under his horse's neck and fired. His bullet just grazed the mane of Mahone's horse. Mahone gave a wild whoop and fired back, riding, as Kelly was, Indian fashion and looking for an opening. Both horses [illegible] Shots came thick and fast. Kelly's animal went down first, screaming from a bullet through its head. His rider intrenched behind him. Mahone made a charge and lost his own horse, besides getting a bullet through his left arm. He, too, intrenched. In a few moments one of his shots left a red streak across the forehead of Kelly and filled his eyes with blood. He wiped himself off and tied a handkerchief over the mark.

Each was afraid to start out from his horse, but in the course of half an hour their ammunition was exhausted, and then they threw their pistols from them and came toward each other through the grass with their knives out. Kelly now had two good wounds and Mahone had been shot three times. They visibly staggered as they neared for the first chance to close in. At last the knives crossed, and Kelly got the first thrust and missed, for which awkwardness Mahone gave him a savage cut. They hacked and stabbed at each other until neither could move, and the small population of Medicine Hat, getting wind of what was going on, rode out and brought them in for medical attendance. Kelly, besides his bullet wounds, had 14 knife cuts and Mahone had 18. They were put to bed in the same room, and the same doctor attended both. For days they lay almost touching each other, and neither spoke. Medicine Hat had been unable to decide which had the better of the fight, and it seemed as if it would be resumed if both lived to recover. But one morning Mahone raised himself painfully from his mattress, and he put out his hand to Kelly and said:

"You ain't no thief. You're game."

And Kelly covered the hand with his own, and they shook. That settled their feud. They were under the doctor's care for three months, but when able to get out rode away to Medicine Hat together, the best of friends.

That was a real fight, the only kind of a fight that a real man goes into if he is going to fight at all—it was a pity that Kelly did not hold his courage afterward for better uses. His brother figured in one of the most brutal murders known to the Calgary region, escaped the hangman's noose by technicalities and finally in Nebraska or Wyoming fell off a box car one night and was ground to pieces by the wheels of a transcontinental freight.

Mahone never fought again.

Not Entirely Alone.

As he entered the car he saw at a glance that there was one seat with a young lady in it, and he marched straight down the aisle, deposited his overcoat, sat down and familiarly observed:

"I entirely forgot to ask your permission."

"That's of no consequence," she replied.

"Thanks. Just arrived in the city, I presume," he ventured to remark as he glanced at the bundles and grips on the floor near by.

"Not exactly."

"You're all alone, eh?"

"Almost, but not quite. My husband is the conductor on this car, the motorman is my cousin and my father and a brother are in the seat back of us."

"Aw! Aw! I see," gasped the man, and the floor of the car suddenly became so redhot that he lit out without another word.

BEWARE! CONSUMPTION FOLLOWS CATARRH.

No One Can Afford to Treat Catarrh Lightly—Catarrh is More Than a Cold in the Head—The Seeds of Consumption are There.

The Steps are These: (1) The Head. (2) The Throat. (3) The Lungs. (4) The Grave.

Head off These Diseases by Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, Indorsed by Senators, Members of the Commons, University Chancellors and Scores of Canada's Best Known Clergymen.

The serious blunder made by thousands, and only realized when too late, is due to their indifference to a cold in the head.

This develops in little time to catarrh and each added cold in the head aggravates the catarrhal trouble and soon make it chronic.

The catarrh does not stay in the head, uncomfortable and dangerous as this may be.

The throat is next attacked, and then comes this continual dropping into the throat, distributing the germs of disease.

This second step is bad enough, for with it comes shattered health, the power of speech is affected and a general broken-up feeling prevails all the time.

From the throat these droppings pass into the lungs, and once there seeds of consumption have to be counted in the battle.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder will give instant relief in the most desperate cases. But why leave results until they become desperate?

Have you a cold in the head? Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder will give instant relief. It will clear the throat and purify the lungs.

We repeat again, take this trouble in its incipient stages and banish it from the system by the use of this wonderful medicine, Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, which has received the endorsement of Canadian citizens as has no other medicine of the kind. We have long lists of members of the Senate, House of Commons and prominent clergymen that we can send to anyone asking for corroborative testimony.

Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills are really the most effective. 40 doses for 10c.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives relief within thirty minutes, and has cured the most desperate cases of heart trouble.

Dr. Agnew's Ointment cures eczema and all stubborn skin diseases. 35 cents.

PEN, PENCIL AND BRUSH.

James Whitcomb Riley says he travels slowly now. "The bones of many a lecturer," he adds, "bestrew the northern prairie because of the thoughtless rush of some professional manager."

It is stated that the first issue of Scott's "Guy Mannering" in the original boards and uncut is almost as scarce as "Waverley," of which a copy was sold something less than two years ago for $750.

Arnold Boecklin, the great Swiss painter, died recently at Fiesole at the age of 74 years. He was best known by his romantic, mythological pictures. A few months ago his son was convicted of a murderous assault on a woman and is now in prison.

Hendrik Willem Mesdag, the painter, celebrated his seventieth birthday the other day at The Hague. Although he did not begin to paint until he was 35 years old, he advanced so rapidly to fame that in 1870 he gained the gold medal at the Paris exhibition. He then settled at The Hague, and his ample fortune enabled him to gather together one of the richest collections of modern art in Europe.

All Eyes on Texas.

Great is Texas. Her vast cotton crops and marvellous oil discoveries amaze the world. Now follows the startling statement of the wonderful work at Cisco, Tex. of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. "My wife contracted a severe lung trouble," writes editor J. J. Enger, "which caused a most obstinate cough and finally resulted in profuse hemorrhages, but she has been completely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery." It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Jas. Lynch's Drug Store.

Terrible Effects of Bad Air.

At every moment of the human life the air which we breathe goes coursing through the most delicate and sensitive of the wonderfully constructed organs of the human system to purify and reinvigorate the vital currents of life. But what if the purifier shall itself be unclean, and laden with the seeds of pollution? Having once done its work and come forth tainted and foul, what if it shall again and again be called to perform the task for which it is no longer fitted? The natural and inevitable deduction is not far to reach. The blood is no longer purified, but it goes coursing through the body, the source of disease and corruption instead of being the fountain of pure, perfect healthfulness.

Other organs by sympathy or by direct contagion become affected. The imagination is too often influenced as well, anticipation conjures up dire evils, and the sufferer, who is now in such earnest, flies from one "blood purifier" or "tonic" to another, gaining perhaps temporary and questionable relief at the expense of a system loaded with poisonous and harmful drugs, whose reaction may be expected at any time and in almost any horrible form.

Humors of all kinds are prolific of worse troubles. They may be entirely expelled by a thorough course of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A Fierce Fire.

When fire, as it often does, catches in a cargo of lime, the only way which ever avails to extinguish it is to stop up every crack in the vessel with soap, so that no air can reach the lime. Vessels have been known to burn several months, and it is instant death to go inside such a burning vessel.

Usually the Case.

A Quick Retort.

A leading counsel for the defendant in an accident damage case where the injury had been occasioned by a jet of steam scalding the complainant's back and neck as he was driving past the defendant's place argued to the jury that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence and should have looked up to avoid the accident. The quick witted counsel for the complainant retorted: "Oh, no. If he had looked up, instead of suing for damage to the back of our head we should have had to charge you for the loss of both eyes."

Opening of the First Federal Parliament of Australia.

BY H. R. H. DUKE OF CORNWALL.

The Duke Worked the Telegraph Key Which Flashed the Opening Signal Throughout the Commonwealth, and Caused the Union Jack to Float Simultaneously in Every Settlement.

Melbourne, May 10.—The opening of the first Federal Parliament at noon yesterday was a most impressive ceremony. The capacity of the Exhibition Building, the scene of the ceremony, is 12,000 persons, and the available space was taxed to the utmost. The decorations consisted of regimental standards, trophies of arms and floral festoons.

The doors were opened to the ticket holders at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and by 11 o'clock the auditorium was filled, except the royal dias. This was located beneath the great dome. It held a single row of chairs, the largest in the centre being surmounted by a small gold Imperial crown. The whole was overhung with the Royal Standard.

In front of the royal chair was a small table, on which was a telegraph key, by which the Duke of Cornwall and York was to flash the opening signal throughout the Commonwealth, when the Union Jack was to be simultaneously raised in every settlement of the Federation.

The majority of the audience was composed of ladies, mostly clad in mauve-colored costumes. Brilliant scattered groups of army and navy uniforms gave color to the scene. A great orchestra enlivened the antemeridian hour with operatic airs.

The formal proceedings were begun at 11.54 a. m., with the reading of the proclamation, summoning the Senate and representatives. Noon was signalized by a fanfare of trumpets from the military band outside.

The royal party then entered, and was conducted to the dias, the orchestra playing the National Anthem. The Duke, who wore an admiral's uniform, wore the ribbon of the Order of the Garter, through Black Rod, summoned the two Houses, in accordance with the strict formula of the British Parliament, and the members filed in. The C. Psalm was sung, with all present standing, and the Earl of Hopetoun read a prayer, after which the Duke of Cornwall and York made a lengthy address and declared Parliament open.

The Duke of Cornwall and York in his address at the opening of the Australian Federal Parliament, yesterday, referred to the wishes of the late Queen, who before her death signed his commission to open Parliament. He paid a tribute to the generous aid rendered by the colonies in the South African war, the splendid bravery of the troops and the services of the squadron in China, and expressed the interest taken by King Edward VII. in the Australian people. It was his earnest prayer that the union, so happily achieved, would prove an instrument for the further advancing of the welfare of the Australian subjects of the King, and the consolidation of the Empire.

The Duke then read the following telegram from King Edward VII.:

"My thoughts are with you upon this august occasion. I wish the Commonwealth of Australia every happiness and prosperity."

Prolonged cheering greeted the conclusion of the speech and was renewed when the telegram from King Edward was read. The members then took the oath and subscribed their names to the roll. At the conclusion of the ceremony the Earl of Hopetown dismissed them to their respective Houses to elect officers.

The entire audience thereupon rose as the first bars of the Hallelujah chorus were played by the orchestra, and the chorus was sung by an opera company. "Rule Britannia" followed, and, finally, the whole assemblage joined in singing "God Save the King." A fresh blare of trumpets followed, the royal party retired and the ceremony was over.

RED IN THE BLOOD

is the sign of life, of vital force, of the force that life has, of the force that life is.

When the red is lacking, life is weak, the spirits are weak, the body is weak.

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil puts red in the blood and life in the body.

It's the food you can turn into muscle and bone and nerve. It gives you the mastery over your usual food—you want that. What is life worth if you've got to keep dosing yourself as an invalid?

Red in the blood! get red in the blood!

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

FIVE DIED IN ALL.

The Montfort Reached Her Destination With Lessened List.

Ottawa, May 10.—Two more deaths from pneumonia have occurred among the Canadian contingent, South African Constabulary, making five up to date. The information respecting the last two deaths was contained in the following cablegram received by the Governor-General:

"Johannesburg, May 7.—Regret to inform you that following casualties reported on Montfort: Corp. Gerald Stewart Racey, pneumonia, April 27; next of kin A. G. Racey, 147 Manze street, Montreal. Trooper Percy Frank Tabb, pneumonia, April 26; next of kin, Mrs. Tabb, Sherbrooke. (Signed) Milner."

The fact that Sir Alfred Milner's cablegram is sent from Johannesburg is taken to indicate that the Canadians have arrived there.

Trousers For a Legless Man.

"I have an aunt, a dear old soul, who does the most remarkable things in the name of charity," said a Philadelphian. "She always has some starving family to attend to. She would be quite at a loss without a starving family. Sometimes I know she is dreadfully imposed upon, but you couldn't convince her of that.

"One day she came to me and said, 'Nephew, have you an old pair of trousers you don't want?'

"'What do you want a pair of trousers for?' I asked.

"'To give to a poor man who hasn't any legs,' she replied.

"It was all I could do to keep from laughing in her face, but I controlled myself and said, 'Why, yes, I can let you have an old pair of trousers and an old pair of shoes too!' Even then the absurdity of it didn't strike her. 'Oh, you are so good!' she exclaimed, and she went away with the trousers and shoes for the poor man who didn't have any legs."

The Metric System.

The standard meter was constructed in 1799 by an international commission representing France, Holland, Sweden, Switzerland, Denmark, Spain, Savoy and the Roman, Cisalpine and Ligurian republics. It was made of platinum and was deposited in the Palace of Archives in Paris to be the definite basis of the metric system forever. The meter is the primary base or unit from which the other units of the system are formed. When the system was adopted by France, the meter was estimated to be the ten-millionth part of the quadrant of the meridian passing through Barcelona and Dunkerque. The unit of length is the "meter," which is equal to 39.37 inches. The unit of surface is the "are," which is equal to 119.60 square feet. The unit of capacity is the "liter," which contains 61.027 cubic inches. The unit of weight is the "gram," which is equal to 15.432 grains.

The Marseilles Dockers.

The dockers at Marseilles mostly belong to a race which is quite distinct from the French inhabitants of the town. They speak and write a language of their own, which is a curious medley of Provencal and a degenerate Greek, with a thin strain of modern French. They live almost exclusively in the old part of the town and proudly cherish and protect their language. Marseilles was founded by the Phocaeans from Asia Minor 600 years before Christ and up to the end of the fourth century A. D. was a center of Greek civilization. This fact accounts for the strange patois.—London Chronicle.

THE VANISHING HANDKERCHIEF

A Chemical Reaction That Astounded a Washerwoman.

"The facetious chemist took an ordinary cotton handkerchief and soaked it in nitric and sulphuric acids," says Harvey Sutherland in Ainslee's. "Then, after so long a time, he took it out and rinsed it carefully so as to remove the free acid. It looked then like any other cotton handkerchief. It went to the washerwoman, who put it through all the waters that handkerchiefs go through, hung it out on the line and took it in again when it was dry. She spread it out on the ironing board, put the hot iron on it, and—it went away. There was a flash, a puff of smoke, and that—no handkerchief, not even the ashes of one.

"When you consider how frightened the poor washerwoman must have been at such goings on in the broad, open daylight, how worried she must have been lest the gentleman should think she had stolen his handkerchief, for she was an honest woman, I make no doubt whatever, at least as far as cheap cotton handkerchiefs are concerned, and of course she thought he wouldn't believe her when she told him what had become of it, you will see at once that this is really a very fine joke indeed.

"What happened to the handkerchief was what happens to the manufacture of gun cotton. The sulphuric acid takes the water out of the cellulose, and the nitric acid makes an arrangement whereby a certain amount of nitryl gets to take the place of it, so that when fire is applied it all burns at once. Starch is the same thing chemically as cotton, same proportions of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen, only the patterns, so to speak, of the molecule is different, and out of that law abiding box of white grains at this moment in the left hand corner of your kitchen cupboard, sandam, could be made enough nitro starch to wreck your happy home while you are saying 'Jack Robinson.' The molasses jug is just as potent for destruction, and an explosive is now marketed that is made from straw nitrated in the same way as cotton.

"Of course you have heard that glycerin, which is so good for chapped hands, can be turned into the most powerful explosive known by the same combination of acids. It is so powerful that it has to be diluted with infusorial earth, each tiny particle of which long years ago was the shell of a little animal that never dreamed it was going to assist in torpedoing an oil well. It seems to me a queer use of this terrible destructive that it should be a medicine, a heart stimulant. If anybody is desirous of getting a headache without a gay evening to precede it, he has only to taste a tiny drop of the yellow, sweetish, oily liquid, and he will think every beat of his heart is a whack of a sledge hammer on the back of his neck."

The Blue Danube.

Among the most important rivers in Europe is the Danube; in fact, it is the second river. It has a length of 1,700 miles; it and its tributaries drain a valley having an area of over 300,000 square miles. Many nations live along its banks and those of the rivers which flow into it, and nearly 30 dialects are spoken from its source to its mouth. It rises in the Black forest to the north of Switzerland and almost in sight of the French frontier. Through Bavaria and Austria is its course, through Hungary, past Servia and Bulgaria, Roumania and Roumelia, while tributaries flow in from Bosnia and Macedonia on the south and Poland on the north, so that practically the valley of the Danube comprises the most important portion of eastern Europe.

It runs through the battleground of civilization and savagery. Here the Romans contended with the Scythians and the Huns; here the Greek empire strove to maintain its supremacy over the hordes or savage tribes which came down from the steppes of Russia; here, after the empire of the east faded away, Charlemagne contended with savage tribes of semi-Asiatics; here all Europe fought the Turks for generation after generation, until by a great battle fought under the walls of Vienna the flood of the Mohammedan invasion was rolled back toward Asia.

Rev. C. A. Coakwell's Statement of His Cure By Powley's Liquified Ozone.

"May God Bless You and Your Ozone, as I Believe it to be a Great Boon to Suffering Humanity."

(Copy.)

Toronto, March 26, 1901.

THE OZONE CO., LIMITED, TORONTO, ONT:

Dear Sirs—I must express my thanks to you for your valuable Ozone. It has been a great blessing to me. Six months ago I suffered with a disordered stomach, indigestion and dyspepsia. My face became covered with blotches, and at times was raw as beefsteak, which was very obnoxious, to say nothing of what I suffered.

I shall always feel very grateful to the friend who advised me to call on you for Ozone.

In all, I have taken five bottles. The indigestion, dyspepsia and blotches have all disappeared, and I feel like a different man. I rejoice also in the fact of having gained eighteen pounds during the time of treatment.

May God bless you and your Ozone, as I believe it to be a great boon to suffering humanity.

The several bottles you gave me for free distribution among the needy have done excellent service.

I am, very truly yours,

(Signed), (Rev.) C. A. Coakwell

Pastor of Wychwood Church of Christ. 1059 Bathurst Street, Toronto.

PARK STREET BAPTISTS.

Rev. O. C. Elliot Will go to Belleville.

Mr. J. H. Hanna Will be His Successor —Many Reports.

The annual member's tea and roll call in connection with the annual business meeting of Park street Baptist church was held Thursday night. After the tea the roll was called, the members responding by an appropriate text of Scripture. This was followed by the reading of the minutes of the business meetings held during the past three months.

The church clerk, Mr. W. J. Rome, then reported showing that there had been the following additions to the membership during the year: By baptism, 12; by letter, 9; by experience, 4; making a total of 25. One had been dismissed to unite with another church, making the net gain for the year 24.

The treasurer's report was read by Mr. W. C. Barrie, showing the receipts to have been $851.29, and expenditures to the same amount.

This was followed by the report of the Financial Committee showing liabilities amounting to $100 with assets of $40, leaving an unprovided liability of $60.

Mr. Herbert Martin read the report of the Sunday School, being secretary of the same. The work had not been quite as satisfactory this year as in former years owing to the large amount of sickness prevailing. At present there are 186 scholars on the roll. The average attendance 142. There had been contributed by the Sunday School $119.78, expended $118.33, leaving a balance of $1.45.

The Young Peoples' Society report was read by Miss Mary Booth. Forty-five meetings were held during the year, with an average attendance of 30. There are 57 members, 13 of whom had joined during the year. The Young People had contributed $16.04, and the expenditure had been $7.50, leaving a balance on hand of $8.54.

Miss Maggie Mann read the report of the Woman's Mission Circle. Eight regular meetings had been held, with an average attendance of 7. Present membership 17; receipts for year, $19.50; expenditure, $18.21; balance on hand, $1.29.

Miss Mabel Doten read the report of the Mission Band, showing the present membership to be 30. Receipts for year, $3.59; expenditure, $2.61; balance, 98c.

The Dorcas Society report by Mrs. Geo. Benton, showed a membership of 14, receipts for the year, $46, which had been given to the treasurer to apply to the church edifice loan.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Clerk—W. J. Rome.

Treasurer—W. C. Barrie.

Finance Committee—Messrs. T. G. Gillespie, W. C. Barrie, W. J. Rome, W. Kempt, David Holt.

Mr. Thos. Jewett, selected deacon, filled the place caused by the removal from town of Mr. A. L. Grover. Mr. F.E. Hunt was re-elected to the board of trustees for the ensuing five years.

Ushers—Herb. Martin, W. C. Anderson, Geo. Goheen and Wm. Manley.

The appointment of an organist was left to a committee composed of Messrs. L. C. Barrie, W. Kempt and Miss Maggie Mann.

The pastor's resignation was then considered. On motion of Mr. Barrie, seconded by Mr. Holt, the resignation was accepted, the mover and seconder, of course, expressing their regret that Rev. Mr. Elliott was about to leave them. On consideration of the appointment of his successor, it was decided to invite Mr. J. H. Hanna, B.A., who has just completed his studies at McMaster University, to take charge of the pastorate on June 18th.

The meeting then closed with the Doxology.

The Druggists are Busy.

Druggists report great demand for the new 25c cent size of Catarrhozone, and today's sales almost cleared out their stock. They explain this rapid run on Catarrhozone by the fact that it gives better satisfaction than any other remedy on the market. Druggists say that Catarrhozone is the only remedy that really does cure Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma. It relieves quickly, is pleasant and convenient to use, and guaranteed to cure or your money refunded. Readers suffering from Irritable Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, etc., are strongly advised to try Catarrhozone. It never fails to cure even the worst cases.

ASHBURNHAM CIVIC ASSO,

Some Live Topics to be Discussed at a Meeting to be Held on May 14th.

The last regular meeting for the season of the Ashburnham Civic Association will be held on Tuesday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock, in the council chambers. There will be no regular meetings in the summer months of June, July, August and September.

At the next meeting, matters in connection with the recent Arbour Day celebration will be arranged, and there will be discussion on the extension of the waterworks system, the introduction of the new industries, public park, the numbering of the houses, etc. As a canvas is now being made for a new directory of Peterborough and Ashburnham for 1901-2, it would be a great advantage to have the houses numbered so as to have the numbers in the new directory.

All male residents and property owners in the village are cordially invited to the meetings of the association.

It is possible a union village picnic will be arranged for the association this summer.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—As regards sinister forebodings of further riots among the students, those youths whose chief grievance appears to be that they are not allowed to "paint the town red" without let or hindrance, seem perfectly calmed by the appointment of General Vannovsky, who is making a tour of the universities in Russia.

Subjects Mentioned in the Governor's Speech to Parliament.

Melbourne, May 13.—Earl Hopetoun, the Governor of the Australian Commonwealth, made a speech before the Federal Parliament of Saturday, in which he referred to Thursday's ceremony as the culmination of the efforts toward the attainment of national representation and the essential progress of Australia.

The Governor then proceeded to outline the measures which would be introduced in the Parliament. He said they would include the constitution of a high court with extensive appellate and federal jurisdiction, and bills to create an interstate commission for the purpose of regulating affairs between the states of the federation; restricting Asiatic immigration and the importation of labor from the South Sea Islands; providing for arbitration in industrial disputes, and for the adult suffrage. The Governor also stated that steps had already been taken for the purpose of selecting a federal capital.

The Duke of Cornwall and York, who opened the Federal Parliament of the Australian Commonwealth, sent the following cable to the King:

"I have just delivered your message and read your kind telegram of good wishes, which were deeply appreciated by your loving Australian subjects, and were received with great enthusiasm."

THE TROLLEY STRIKE.

Albany, Five Other Cities and Two Villages Affected.

BOARD AND MEN AT VARIANCE.

The Outlook Is Not Reassuring—Despite a Long Conference on Saturday the End of the Trouble Is Not Yet in Sight—Directorate's Manifesto on the Question of Arbitration.

Albany, N. Y., May 13.—The strike on the United Traction Company's lines, which affects five cities and two villages in this immediate vicinity, promises to be indefinitely prolonged, because of the decision of the company's directorate not to discharge the ten non-union men, and because of the determination of the strikers not to return to work unless the road is unionized and the demand acceded to. The company's notice to the men to return to work on Monday at 9 a. m. has resulted in a canvas of union men and President Sheehan of the strikers' organization said last night that not one of the union men will return to work.

The fifth day of the great street surface railway strike closed in a drenching downpour, compelling the people of the five cities affected to suffer much inconvenience.

The directors of the Traction Company and representatives of the strikers from each city, held a three hours' conference Saturday night without reaching an agreement. The meeting was held subsequent to the publication by the company of a statement in which it declared that "the arbitration of the question of whether we shall discharge ten unoffending and faithful men because they refuse to join an association of our employes is as impossible as would be the arbitration of the ten commandments. We might as justly discharge them for not belonging to a particular church or political party."

The company likewise notified the men that if they did not return to work by 9 a. m. Monday they would be discharged and the superintendents of the roads to commence operations on that morning.

Moncton Without Street Cars.

Moncton, N. B., May 13.—The Street Railway Company will take up its rails as the electors have declined to purchase the company's property. The plant and rails have been sold to outside parties.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 13.—The carpenters who struck at the Exposition grounds, refusing to work on "unfair" lumber, which was being used in the construction of a booth in the Manufacturers' and Liberal Arts building, for an exhibitor, and those who went out in sympathy, returned to work Saturday morning, the objectionable lumber having been removed from the grounds.

Humors of all kinds are prolific of worse troubles. They may be extirely expelled by a thorough course of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Advertising in the Examiner pays.

Dyspepsia

Is difficult digestion, due to a weakened condition of the stomach and its inability to properly churn the food; or to unhealthy condition of the gastric juice, too much or too little acid, too much or too little pepsin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla relieves all the distressing symptoms of dyspepsia because it promotes the muscular action of the stomach and intestines, aids nature in the manufacture of her own digestive secretions, which are far better than any artificial pepsin, unlocks the bowels, stimulates the kidneys and tones up their mucous membranes.

So prompt is its effect in many cases that it seems to have almost a magic touch.

Begin to take it NOW.

WONDERS OF WATCHMAKING

Queer Timepieces Owned by Two of England's Queens.

Among the treasures of a Swiss museum, inserted in the top of an old fashioned pencil case, is the tiniest watch ever constructed. It is only three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, and its little dial not only indicates hours, minutes and seconds, but also the days of the month. So perfectly formed is this lilliputian watch that it keeps excellent time and is a marvelous piece of mechanical workmanship.

Two of the most elaborate and curious watches which the world has ever seen belonged to Queen Elizabeth and her unfortunate contemporary, Mary, queen of Scots. Good Queen Bess had a watch made for her in the form of a duck, with beautifully chased feathers, the lower part of which opened. The face was of silver, with an elaborate gilt design, and the whole was kept in a case of brass, covered with black leather thickly studded with big silver knobs.

The ill fated Mary was the possessor of a watch in the form of a skull. The dial was introduced where the palate should have been, and the works occupied the place of brains in the cranium. In the hollow of the skull, moreover, was a bell which had works of its own and by means of which a hammer struck out the hours upon it.

One of the choicest rarities of the Bernal collection was a book shaped watch. This curious time indicator was made by order of Boglslaus XIV, Duke of Pomerania, in the time of Gustavus Adolphus. On the face of the book, where the dial of the watch is set, there is an engraved inscription of the duke and his titles and armorial bearings, together with the date, 1027. On the back the engravings are also very finely and skillfully executed, among them being the portraits of two gentlemen of the seventeenth century. The dial plate is of silver, chased in relief, while the insides are beautifully chased with figures of birds and foliage. The watch has two separate movements and a large, sweet toned bell. At the back, over this bell, the metal is ornamentally pierced in a circle, with a dragon and other devices, while the sides are pierced and engraved with a complicated design of beautiful scroll work.—London Tit-Bits.

THE FATE OF REBELS

IMPROVEMENT IN WORLD'S TREATMENT OF NOTABLE PRISONERS.

In Former Times They Obtained Short Shrift, but Now They Are Maintained at Government Expense—Some Illustrious Examples.

Recent discussion of the fate of Emilio Aguinaldo, captured while openly defying the authority of the United States, has aroused much interest as to the former fate of such captives. In other years, in "the good old times," there was not the least doubt as to their fate. Short shrift was granted to any one fighting against an established government, and if he obtained the privilege of remaining imprisoned for the remainder of his days the boon was accounted an extraordinary manifestation of grace.

Nowadays all that is changed. The world seems to have grown more merciful, and it seems that rebels, if they are captured instead of being killed in battle, must be particularly fortunate persons. Almost a . of the examples of this class within the past century have obtained the advantages of a pleasant residence and support by their captors, with the certainty of pardon in the end.

With this class of captives may be placed Napoleon, although the great Corsican was not by any means a rebel. Had he not died within six years after his surrender at a comparatively early age, there is little doubt that he would have been released as soon as the possibility of his raising any disturbance in Europe had passed. At any rate the English furnished him with a residence and maintenance at St. Helena.

St. Helena, it seems, is to be used in perpetuity as a strong box for England's captives, for there are kept Cronje and other prominent Boers who were captured while resisting Britain's authority in South Africa. When that struggle is terminated, as seems inevitable, in favor of the British, probably Cronje and the others will be free to return to their land. In the meantime no complaints of their treatment by the British are coming from their prison island.

Uncle Sam has in Guam, our little Pacific possession, a second St. Helena, for there are kept Mabini, one of the ablest of Filipinos, and others of the islanders. It probably will not be very long before this "right hand man of Aguinaldo" will tread Filipino soil again.

Of recent captives none illustrates better the modern frame of mind concerning

EMILIO AGUINALDO.

them than Arabi Pasha. In 1881 Arabi, at the head of the Egyptian army, was practically dictator of Egypt and as such defied the power of both France and England. Warships of both these countries were sent to overawe the rebels and to make a prisoner of Arabi Pasha. After a stubborn resistance and the decisive defeat of the latter at Tel-el-Kebir he was captured by the British troops, together with his staff. Arabi was placed on trial on a charge of high treason. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced, together with his staff, to banishment to the island of Ceylon. This was in 1882, and Arabi was only about 42 years of age. He has lived in Ceylon ever since, a welcome guest at the houses of the British authorities on the island. He has received a large allowance from the British government. At 42 he was a savage. At 60 he is a venerable and gentle old man. A few months ago he was pardoned. No one even suggests that the British government has lost anything by its humane treatment of Arabi, and yet a century or two ago the suggestion that rebels should be maintained for 10 years at the expense of the government capturing them would have been received with derisive scorn. Surely, "the world do move."

A strong contrast to the British treatment of Arabi Pasha is furnished by the manner in which Napoleon disposed of Toussaint L'Ouverture just about a century ago. L'Ouverture was the famous negro slave, soldier, statesman and, according to most accounts, patriot, who founded the republic of Santo Domingo. He at first took the oath of allegiance to the French republic, and then, dissatisfied with French treatment of the island, he assumed control. After losing many thousands of men the French subdued Toussaint, and he was treacherously seized and imprisoned. His transfer to France and his confinement in a cold and dismal dungeon followed. He suffered from lack of food and illness, dying at the end of ten months' imprisonment of consumption and starvation.

France's most recent captive of the sort is Ranavalona, queen of Madagascar. The French have claimed this large island for about two centuries, and when the enterprising queen was detected in a plot to overthrow French authority they decided to send her into exile. She was taken first to a little island, but this proved ineffective to stop the spirit of revolt. It was then decided to transport Ranavalona to Algeria. A fine villa has been given her for a residence, and she has a staff of servants and an allowance of $5,000 a year. It is said that she thoroughly enjoys existence.

Compare with Ranavalona's fate that of the young, beautiful and accomplished Lady Jane Grey, who about three centuries ago plotted to become queen of England. She was sent to the Tower and then beheaded.

The improvement in the treatment of captives is only in line with the general humanization of warfare. It is pleasant to recall that our government has been a leader in these respects. We made an enthusiastic friend out of an enemy in the case of Admiral Cervera by our courteous treatment of that brave old Spaniard.

CURIOUS PRIVILEGES.

Some of the Prerogatives Which Embassadors May Exercise.

A curious privilege of an embassador is that he and be alone when dismissed may turn his back to the sovereign to whose court he is accredited. The mode of procedure is as follows:

When the embassador's audience is over, he waits to be dismissed by the sovereign. When dismissed, the embassador bows, retires three paces, bows again, retires another three paces, bows a third time, turns on his heels and walks to the folding doors. But it is felt that more polite methods should obtain when the reigning sovereign is a woman. To turn his back is to be discourteous, to walk backward is to resign a privilege. The embassador retires sideways, like a crab. He keeps one eye on the sovereign and with the other tries to see the door. He thus shows politeness to the sovereign and at the same time retains one of his privileges. As the embassador is usually an old gentleman, often short sighted, he sometimes fails to reach the door and comes in collision with the wall.

Another privilege of embassadors is the right of being ushered into the royal presence through folding doors, both of which must be flung wide open. No one except an embassador can claim this privilege. The most any nonembassadorial person can expect is that one of the leaves shall be opened to him. The reason for this privilege is not known. There are certain irreverent suggestions that have been made, but we prefer to be silent with regard to them.

Another privilege, capable of causing great inconvenience, is the embassador's right of admission to the sovereign at any hour of the day or night. Thus the minister representing some little bankrupt state could go down to Windsor and demand an audience at 4 o'clock in the morning. The audience would have to be granted, though it could be delayed by the exercise of ingenuity.

Great is Texas. Her vast cotton crops and marvellous oil discoveries amaze the world. Now follows the startling statement of the wonderful work at Cisco, Tex. of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. "My wife contracted a severe lung trouble," writes editor J. J. It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Jas. Lynch's Drug Store.

BOLTON'S LAST YEAR.

The Way He Spent It Preparing For His Death.

"Billy Bolton, the Lansingburg brewer, was a very rich man and one with a host of friends," said an up state man to the New York Sun. "His brewery in Lansingburg was a profitable concern, and he practically owned about all the saloons in that town.

"One day after a consultation his physicians told him that he had Bright's disease and that he surely would not live more than a year. Billy took their word for it and made up his mind to make the fur fly while life was left. He had never traveled much, and so he decided to go around the world.

"He took with him a congenial friend and plenty of money, and away they went. They left a trail of fire and ashes through all the capitals of Europe and the queer and strange places of Asia and Africa. After nine months they came back, and Bolton brought with him the most marvelous collection of souvenirs and presents that any man not a professional collector ever brought into this country. The duties amounted to $3,000.

"Arrived in Lansingburg, Billy hired the town hall, sent his packing boxes filled with these oriental and European treasures up to the hall and had them all taken out and put on exhibition as though for a church fair. Upon each article he marked the name of some friend whom he wished to remember with a gift. There were hundreds in this category, but Billy had presents for them all.

"On the day appointed for the presentation he invited his army of friends to the town hall. To each he turned over the present selected for him, and amid the cheers of his grateful and admiring fellow townsmen the hall was stripped of its beautiful things.

"When the last present had been placed in the hands of its recipient, Billy went back to his home and lay down to die. Within the year his physicians' prophecy came true, and the town gave him the finest funeral that any man ever had."

THE SHOTE WAS THERE.

Why One Old Farmer Thinks He Would Make a Good Detective.

"Guess I wouldn't have much trouble gittin on the 'tective staff in Detroit ef I wanted ter make appercia-tion," and the old farmer kicked a log in the open fireplace so that he could see his neighbors better. They were assembled to hear him tell all about it.

"When I missed that shote outen the pen, next mornin it jest came ter me sudden as lightnin that it had been stole by that ther George Washington Pepperville what had been workin fur me. He knowed the dog, so it wouldn't bother him none, and he was the powerfulest man fur fresh pork I ever see. So I goes inter town and tells the head man of the 'tectives, and he puts a couple of fellers on the job, and they reports that they was no shote about Pepperville's shanty, and they was no case ag'in him. I 'lowed I might be follerin the wrong track, but I kim home here and sot my own stakes, and I was to Pepperville's afore sunup.

"'Wash,' I says, 'why didn't you keep that hog when you had him? Wasn't he fat 'nough yit ter suit you?'

"'Who you talkin to?' he muttered. 'I'll hab de law on you ef you make me any mo' trouble 'bout dat hawg.'

"'Now, Wash,' says I, 'don't git your dander up. That there shote kim home in the night and went ter squealin ter git inter the pen. I put ole Rastus on the scent, and he landed me right here.'

"'Dog gone dat Rastus,' he shouted, 'I'll flay dat dog alibe!'

"And he sprung ter the middle of the room and ripped up the floorin, and there was the shote. Wash would have jumped on me, but I jest kivered him with that ole muzzle loadin pistol of mine and tole him ter go gentlelike.

"Well, sir, he begged and whined so I let him off, him agreein ter tote the pig home in a bag and ter chop wood fur me three days fur my trouble."

There is a cause for it. Perhaps it is gas on the stomach, or may be cramps or diarrhœa. Don't lose sleep—anticipate such contigences by always keeping handy a bottle of Polson's Nerviline. The True Mission of Luxury.

No luxury is justifiable that ends in simple enjoyment. It must be turned to good account by adding to our powers of usefulness. If we enjoy reading, are we enthusiastic for the public library? If we enjoy outdoor life, are we anxious for parks and pleasure grounds for the people? If we revel in art or music, do we long that picture galleries be thrown open or good music be attainable by all? Do we strive whenever possible to share our luxuries, whatever they may be, with those less favored than ourselves, or are we satisfied with our own enjoyment as an end instead of using it as a means to bettering the lives of others also? Truthful answers to those questions will speedily tell us also whether our own special luxuries are building up character and life or whether they are the means of lowering the one and narrowing the other.

Convincing Reasons Founded on Figures

We have put forward the statement that we sell the best of Boots and Shoes at cost to the customer, probably the lowest in Peterborough. This contention would be of no value were it not founded on fact. But on solid fact it stands.

We buy for eight stores—eight branches. That means that we buy eight times the stock that one regular store would require. Do you think we miss the opportunity to use the lever of large buying to secure a lower price from the manufacturer? That lowest price we get. No other retail firm in Ontario buy so large as we do—because we have eight stores to take the goods.

In buying for eight stores we have to consult and defer to the preferences of eight different towns. This impels us to buy a large variety, and this is where we are able to carry so excellent and yet diverse a stock and to give so wide a choice. Nearly every desirable thing in boots and shoes or rubber goods can be had from us. And in season, right up to date, the very latest styles and newest things.

That means a fresh stock replacing one quickly turned over, and an almost unlimited choice to the customer.

The motto is—"Buy at Neill's."

THE ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Rev. Mr. Murray in St. Andrew's Church.

He Occupied the Pulpit Both Morning and Evening, Preaching Two Excellent Sermons.

The anniversary services in connection with St. Andrew's church were continued yesterday, when two excellent sermons were delivered by Rev. James Murray, M. A., B. D., of Erskine church, Toronto. The attendance on both occasions was very large.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Murray took for his text the first eight verses of Luke xix, "The Conversion of Zacchaeus." In the course of his remarks he said we have in this story a very good illustration of the beginning of the work of grace in the human heart, and at least some of the fruits of that work of grace. It is more than an illustration—it is a genuine incident or instance of that change we call conversion. Of Zacchaeus previous to this we learn four things: First, that he was a publican, not in the sense of an innkeeper, but in the sense of a tax collector or customs officer, a position that was despised by the Jews in the days of our Saviour; second, that he was chief among the publicans, that is, he had entered into a contract with the Imperial Government at Rome to collect the taxes in a certain district. The third thing we learn is that he was a rich man, and the chances are that much of his wealth was ill-gotten gain. Taxes were not collected in those days as they are now. To-day a man knows just what his taxes will be, and what he ought to pay according to law. In those days a man paid so much to the Government for the privilege of collecting taxes, and then set to work to make just as much money out of it as he could, which opportunity Zacchaeus no doubt took advantage of.

The fourth thing we learn about Zacchaeus is that he was a Jew. His name indicates that, and Jesus states he was a son of Abraham; and yet Zacchaeus the Jew was a publican. Zacchaeus the Jew had become Zacchaeus the publican for the sake of the money he could make out of the transaction. He went back on the traditions of his religion and country for the sake of the almighty dollar—like a good many people to-day, who are going back on their convictions for the sake of worldly advantage. They are for sale; you can buy them for so many dollars. But a better dawned for Zacchaeus, with the desire to see Jesus. Zacchaeus had often heard about Jesus. He had even heard there was a difference of opinion concerning the young prophet, but Zacchaeus suspended his judgment and waited until he should have an opportunity to see for himself.

There are two opinions of Christ to-day as conflicting as those of 1900 years ago. Some say the religion of Christ is just like the religion of China and India—no better, no worse—that Jesus was merely a good man; while others say "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." The question is, have we been as fair as Zacchaeus in waiting until we have an opportunity of judging for ourselves?

With the desire to see Jesus comes the opportunity. Every good desire and every right resolution that is born in the human heart is born of the spirit of God, and God will see that the opportunity to carry it out will come, whether we embrace that opportunity or not. If you desire to do right you will have the opportunity, but with the opportunity comes difficulty. Zacchaeus could not see Jesus for the press and he was little of stature. Just as soon as a man resolves to be right and do right he will find his way hedged about. But Zacchaeus was persevering and persistant so he ran before and climbed a sycamore tree. Dignity, decorum, self-respect, everything, gives way to his Heaven-born desire to see Jesus. Some people are very dignified and decorous in matters of religion, but in matters of politics or business they trample everything under their feet, an example of which may be had by a visit to the Stock Exchange of New York. So Zacchaeus in his desire to see Jesus trampled under his feet all the obstacles and difficulties in his way, and when Jesus came to him and bade him come down, Zacchaeus received him joyfully. Some one has said that Zacchaeus was converted somewhere between the branches and the ground.

There is a time, I know not when;
There is place, I know not where;
That marks the destiney of man
For glory or despair,

Here was the place where Zacchaeus' destiny was settled. He recieved Him joyfully. So many people have the impression that when they give themselves to God they have to bid good-bye to everything that is bright and joyous, and glad and gay, and have to be sad and gloomy and despondent. This marks the turning point or conversion of Zacchaeus. We know this by the facts submitted. Look at the evidence, "Behold the half of my goods I give to the poor, and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation I restore him four fold." He had thought of the poor before but only to see how much money he could wring out of them. Now the question is how much can he do for them. There are some people to-day who are charitable, but not just. They give large contributions and then try to take it out of some person else. Others are just but not charitable.

This explanation of the change is contained in the words "He received Him." Christ took possession of his life. The mind of Christ and the spirit of Christ was in him now. This is an instance of the "expulsive power of a new affection." Christ comes to us to-day as he did to Zacchaeus, and we must do one of two things, refuse or accept Him. There is no neutral ground, and upon what we do with Jesus Christ now will depend what Jesus Christ will do with us bye and bye.

OBITUARY.

Demise of Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald on Saturday Evening.

The death of Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, civil engineer, took place on Saturday evening at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he has been lying for some time in a critical condition, being a sufferer from Bright's disease.

The late J. W. Fitzgerald was born at Cork, Ireland, on the 28th of December, 1827, and was educated at Cork and Dublin. In 1849 he won a scholarship of forty pounds and a year's tuition in the School of Engineering at Queen's College, Cork. In 1852 he served on the Ordnance survey of Ireland under Sir Richard Griffith, and on resigning that position he served under William Dargan, the great Irish railway Engineer and contractor, on the Dublin docks, the Irish Exhibition building and on the Dublin and Wicklow Railway. Coming to Canada in 1856 Mr. Fitzgerald was articled to Col. J. S. Dennis, of Toronto, who was afterwards Surveyor-General of the Dominion. He was admitted as P.L.S. in 1857, and at once appointed by Hon. Philip Vankoughnet, Commissioner of Crown Lands, to survey the township outlines in the Haliburton country, north of Peterborough. In 1857 he made a sub-division survey of Minden, and the plans and field notes of that township have since that date been adopted as the system for recording the returns of surveys in the Crown Lands office. Mr. Fitzgerald settled in Peterborough in 1858. He has been steadily employed in surveying for either the the Canadian or the Ontario Governments ever since, except from 1870 to 1875, when he was resident engineer in charge of a section of the Intercolonial Railway in New Brunswick.

The late Mr. Fitzgerald was a thorough Irishman and was almost necessarily a man of warm heart and generous impulses. He had, however, great force of character and possessed strong convictions, and had the courage to express the sentiments founded upon them when occasion required. He was an enthusiastic Home Ruler and one of the most devoted sons of the Emerald Isle, was an untiring advocate of her cause as he understood it, and was also generous in contributing of his means for its promotion. He was a well educated gentleman, in a broader sense than the academic. A wide range of elevating reading contributed to the unusual mental culture he possessed. Like all men he had his faults, but these were largely the outcome of his warm nature and strong convictions, and were far more than counterbalanced by his many generously good qualities. He passes away leaving behind him the memory of a long, busy and useful life.

The members of a grown-up family of six sons and one daughter, who are surviving the late J. W. Fitzgerald are:—Miss Mary Fitzgerald, of Lynn, Mass.; Messrs. D. J. Fitzgerald, of the Montana Ore Purchasing Co., Butte, Man.; W. H. Fitzgerald, Dawson City, Yukon; Dr. Fitzgerald, of Coboconk; John Oliver Fitzgerald, Great Falls, Mont.; J. W. Fitzgerald, civil engineer, and Edward Fitzgerald, both of town.

The funeral will leave the family residence, Smith street, at nine o'clock tomorrow, Tuesday, and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, and from thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT'S BIG CLAIM

On the Electors in Support of It's Vigorous Policy of Development.

STRONGLY STATED CASE.

By the Provincial Secretary—London Asylum Infirmary—Splendid Convention at Ailsa Craig.

(From The London Advertiser.)

Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, was in the city Thursday, returning from the Liberal convention at Ailsa Craig, which he addressed, and at which Mr. W. H. Taylor was unanimously nominated the Liberal candidate for North Middlesex.

In reply to an inquiry of a representative of the Advertiser, Mr. Stratton said that the new infirmary building connected with the London Asylum, was progressing satisfactorily. The foundation walls were built and material ready for the further prosecution of the work, which might perhaps be more rapidly pushed if it were not felt that it was desirable to utilize the labour of those of the inmates of the asylum, and there were many of them, who were able and willing and would be benefitted by being employed on the work. The estimated cost of the building, which is $40,000, will be lessened to the extent to which the labour of the inmates is utilized. It was, Mr. Stratton said, the desire of the premier that this hospital should, in the matter of excellence of construction and completeness of arrangement and equipment, be second to none on the continent, and when the present plans were carried out, the new buildings would fully meet this

The Political Outlook Bright.

Naturally Mr. Stratton was asked regarding the political situation, and the prospects in relation to the elections, which will come on next year. He said that the political situation was eminently satisfactory to the Liberals and to the government, which awaited with confidence an appeal to the people. It was a fighting, as well as a working government, and would vigorously contest the right to carry on and out its policy of making the most of the natural resources of the province, and giving the people the accompanying advantages. As had been announced, the members of the government would soon address a series of public meetings in the different parts of the province and set forth the work that had been done during their term of office. The government rejoiced in an opportunity of doing this; they had a good record and were not afraid of having it presented to, and criticised by the people. They had come before the country in 1898 with a well-defined policy of progressive administration and legislation, and, as far as time had permitted the programme of work outlined by Hon. G. W. Ross in assuming office in the fall of that year had been almost literally carried out. The work of the past session had been of a practical character, and though the past was only the second session held under the premiership of Hon. Mr. Ross, it showed how much could be accomplished by skilled administrative ability applied earnestly and energetically to the guidance of our provincial affairs.

Promises Made and Fulfilled.

A general promise made by Mr. Ross, which included several details, was that of developing the resources of New Ontario. How that had been filled was demonstrated by the most gratifying practical evidence. The pulp concessions granted to the Clergue syndicate by a former government had in their initial working out called for railway facilities to meet the demands which the expanding needs of the pulp industry showed were necessary for the supply of adequate raw material. This led to the land grant agreement of last session with the Algoma Central Railway Company, and the result had been the expenditure of about nine millions of dollars in merely making a beginning, and an expenditure of nine additional millions would be necessary to complete the ambitious programme of the syndicate that had been the outcome of the prudently liberal aid granted by the Government. Besides the effect in developing heretofore dormant resources and providing large employment of labour, the enterprise has sent hundreds of thousands of dollars—to be followed by other thousands—to older Ontario, to purchase farming and other supplies, in this way giving increasing business to our merchants and manufacturers, and spreading an all-round shower of benefits. This was followed last session by a land grant to the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway, which started at Meaford in Grey County, and passed through Owen Sound and Wiarton, through the Bruce Peninsula, northward across Manitoulin Island, into the Algoma District, straight into the unbroken wilderness of the north country, bringing its immense resources, agricultural, timber and mineral, into direct connection with older Ontario through the two great railway systems, which would bring the newly-developed trade direct to the towns and cities of the longer settled portions of the Province. By this line millions of acres of good farming lands, rich mineral lands and splendid timber, would be put in close touch with the commercial and manufacturing centres of the Province, bringing the trade that would be developed about 80 miles nearer the factories and wholesale houses of London and the whole western peninsula.

A New Departure.

But this was not all. Last session the government made a beginning in the government construction and ownership of railways, when $10,000 was voted to make surveys for a railway from North Bay or Mattawa to Lake Temiscaming district, to be built as a government line. This would open up an immense and rich agricultural region for settlement, and while giving Ontario the trade, which is in danger of being diverted eastward, it will at the same time make homes accessible for our farmers' sons and prevent the flocking to the city, which oversupplies the labour market, reducing wages and making employment more difficult to obtain. It was easy to see, Mr. Stratton said, how the conditions that would be created by building this road would benefit older Ontario, while the government ownership of the road would insure its being run and operated in the interests of the people and not to enrich a wealthy railway corporation.

Advance On Similar Lines.

Mr. Stratton, returning to the pulpwoods matter, remarked that the great results coming from the first pulp concession granted and the results promised from the others, had encouraged the government to grant another concession—to the Keewatin Pulp Company in the most western part of the province. The conditions of the grant were that the company will need to spend at least a million and a half of money in developing water power and erecting buildings and plant before a single pound of pulp or paper can be manufactured. Besides the Spanish River Pulp Company had given orders for machinery, etc., to the amount of three quarters of a million, nearly all of which would be left in Ontario. One could easily understand to what extent this would contribute to the activity of Ontario manufacturing concerns and to the increased employment of labour, and this would be increased as the other pulp companies which had been given concessions, developed them. The action of the Government not only helped older Ontario indirectly in the ways indicated, but it had been given specific attention.

Aiding the Farmers Also.

The Good Roads Act of Premier Ross was deservedly popular. By it a million dollars was set apart, to be apportioned to counties in proportion to their assessed areas, to help in the construction of county road systems, one dollar of the provincial fund being given to every two dollars spent by counties for this purpose. This represented a total expenditure of the large sum of $3,000,000 to improve the roads of the Province. The effect of this Act was helped in several counties by another act facilitating the acquirement of toll-roads by municipalities. Mr. Stratton said that, as he had pointed out before, this expenditure was perhaps more important to the farmer than that put upon railways, for good macadam roads were the first necessity to enable them to get easy access to and fullest benefits of railways. Then there was the sugar beet legislation, by which $225,000 was devoted to bonusing the products of factories manufacturing refined sugar from beets, for which the farmers were guaranteed $4 per ton for the first year of a factory's operation, and for the following years whatever price the sugar percentage of beets would bring, which would be from $4.50 to $5 per ton. In this way the farmer was benefitted. He was guaranteed a sure market for a new crop which, on the authority of Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, was five or six times as profitable as wheat, and besides farmers' sons and others would find profitable employment in the fall and winter when the factories were necessarily operated.

Mining Interests Promoted.

The interests of mining and of mining development by Ontario brains were promoted and assisted by the Government taking upon itself the expense of conducting the Science Department of the University, including instruction in mineralogy, geology, etc., and by undertaking the construction of a new building for the School of Practical Science. Thus at the same time the question of University aid was dealt with, and the facilities provided for training in our own province our young men in mining engineering, etc., instead of importing mining engineers from foreign countries or sending our sons abroad to be trained. A grant of $112,500 was also made to the School of Mining at Kingston to further assist in this direction.

Our Finances Sound.

The present government has well maintained the splendid traditions of financial management of previous administrations. Last year there was a surplus of nearly $200,000 on the current transactions of the year and besides our funded assets had been improved to the extent of nearly $170,000 and we now had a surplus of assets of $2,850,000, of which over a million was cash in the bank. That was not a bad record for a government that had out of an expenditure of $107,000,000 since confederation devoted about $30,000,000 to public services, which had relieved the municipalities of the necessity of taxing themselves to meet the services to which the government had contributed.

A Satisfactory Session.

The session had been a most useful one, and had promoted very practically and decidedly the forward policy of the Ross Government, which all the more strongly appealed to the popular favour when contrasted with the standstill and retrograde one of the Conservative opposition, led by Mr. Whitney, which failed to enlist public sympathy or even hold the confidence of some of his followers. Mr. Marter, the former leader of the Opposition, broke squarely from his party and voted with the Government, because, as he declared, the policy of the Government, and not that of his party, was in the public interests, and he could not vote with his party against a measure that would promote the prosperity of the Province. When one of the most prominent and able members of the Conservative party felt that he was compelled to break the political associations of years on this account, no stronger condemnation of the slow-going stationary policy of the Opposition could be afforded. No wonder that Mr. Marter, in intimating his position to a Toronto World interviewer, said, that although he was a Conservative still, in matters of policy he should like to know "what in heaven were the matters of policy.,, Regarding the Elections.

In answer to a question as to the date of the elections, Mr. Stratton said the Government was prepared to meet whatever issues they involved. In addition to the abstract claims of the Government upon the electors by virtue of its course and policy, there was abundant evidence that the Government stood high in the favour of the electors. The people of the Province were an enterprising people. they wanted to see things moving, and they could look only to the Ross Government for a live, energetic and go-ahead policy and practice. There was nothing in the Opposition policy of scold and petty criticism. Peanut politics stood no chance as against live oak politics. Hon. Geo. W. Ross had, Mr. Stratton concluded, shown himself to be a strong leader, and the colleagues he had about him were in full sympathy with his great plans for infusing life and energy into provincial development, and realizing the rich harvest of results which the splendid natural resources of the province, under an energetic policy of development, is sure to yield. This was an age of progress and the government that would live up to the times must keep things moving, as the Ross Government is doing, has been doing and will continue to do.

The nomination of Mr. Taylor, Mr. Stratton said, was unanimous and enthusiastic, the resolutions of confidence in the Ross Government and the candidate were very cordially adopted, and the spirit of the convention was confident and aggressive, and there was every reason to hope that the three Middlesexes and London would send a solid phalanx of supporters as the result of the next elections.

"You have said nothing about London. I understand that there is a vacancy there due to the resignation of Col. Leys f"

Mr. Stratton said he had seen the statement that the Colonel had resigned. He personally had no official knowledge of it. However, similar rumours current heretofore have proved groundless and he predicted the same result in this case. The Colonel was a stalwart Liberal, whose many friends, regardless of his own personal wishes, would insist that he should for years to come remain in active public life as the very popular representative of London.

HORSES AND THEIR DRIVERS.

Just How the Animals Know What to Do Is a Wonder.

The man who had never handled horses sat down beside me in front of the store and began to ask questions.

"These horses are most interesting creatures, and you drive them everywhere, they say."

"Oh, yes, almost anywhere!"

"Is it hard to control them?"

"No, quite easy if you understand them."

"How do you force them to do what you want?"

"Oh, you don't have to force them; just let them know what you want!"

"Indeed! How do you communicate your wants to them?"

"By the use of reins attached to a bit in their mouths and by words which they get to understand, such as a cluck or a chirrup to start and the word 'whoa' to stop, the word 'back' to go backward, etc."

Just at this point a man came slashing up in front of the store with a horse and wagon and, calling "Back!" jumped out, and the horse stopped.

"Why doesn't the horse go backward?" asked my friend.

"Well, the driver didn't want him to."

"But he said 'Back!'"

"Yes, I know, but the horse knew he didn't mean it."

"But what does he say when he means go 'backward?'"

"The same thing."

"Does the horse do it? How does he know when he means 'back' and when 'stop?'"

"I don't know, I am sure."

"Well, this must be a very dull man and a very bright horse."

"Not at all; both about the average."

"This is most peculiar. What does the man do when he wants the horse to start?"

"He has several ways of speaking to him."

"Does the horse always start?"

"Sometimes he does not start very quickly."

"Then what does the man do?"

"He pulls on the reins."

"Does that always mean to 'go ahead?'"

"Well, no; not always. Of course he pulls on them when he wants him to stop too."

"What? The same thing for stopping and starting?"

"Well, not exactly the same, but much the same."

"Well, well! And what is the result of such an outrageously mixed code of signals? I don't see how they get along together."

"Well, I don't know just how the horse reasons it out, but they get on surprisingly well. The horse just takes it for granted that all pulls mean 'go ahead' till he gets such a long and strong pull that he wonders if that is intended for 'stop,' and then he stops, and if he doesn't get a cut of the whip he concludes he must have guessed right."

"In the name of common sense, are there any more complications for the poor horse to figure out?"

"Well, yes; there are a few more, of course. They usually pull on both reins when they want to urge him on, but sometimes they jerk on one."

"But that means 'turn.'"

"Yes, but he mustn't turn when the jerk is not intended for 'turn,' or he will get a harder jerk on the other rein."

"How does he manage it?"

"Well, he supposes that all ordinary jerks mean 'go ahead,' but when he gets an extra hard and long one he tries turning, and if nothing happens he knows that was what was meant."

"Doesn't this guessing policy make driving unpleasant?"

"Yes, both unpleasant and difficult. The driver has to use about twice the strength necessary and does not accomplish the results he wants nearly as quickly or easily, and it is much harder and more unpleasant for the horse."

"Well, why do they keep it up then?"

"I am sure I do not know."

"Well, well! Do many people use this method of driving?"

"Yes, most people."

"What explanation do they give?"

"When they give any they say, 'It is easier.'"

"Then I suppose it must be."

"No, it is not."

"Are you sure?"

"Sure."

"Well, well! I must make a note of this. It is most interesting."

What Ma Didn't Forget.

"Pa."

"Yes."

"That Mrs. Flipley was here today, and guess what she said about you?"

"Oh, I can't!" the old gentleman replied, beginning to get interested. "What was it?"

"She told ma she thought you were such a handsome looking man and held your age so well."

"She did, eh?" he replied, pushing out his chest and pretending that it didn't make any particular difference to him what she had said.

"But," the sweet child continued, "ma told her she ought to see you in the morning before you put in your false teeth and get the side hair slicked up over your bald spot."

Hunting For Titles.

A woman preacher inveighing against Christianity in the name of botany and biology and mineralogy and all the other "ologies" she could copy from the dictionary reminded one disgusted man of a negro he once knew who anounced himself as a "doctor of medistrology." The negro, fond of an assumption of learning, used big words, of which his favorite was "interstransubstantiationabieness."

"Why, doctor," the negro was asked, "you don't even know the meaning of that word."

"P'raps not, sah; but in doubtful places when speakin, sah, I've used that word with spontaneous effervescence."

BOAST OF A LANDED GENTRY.

Mexicans Cling With Wonderful Tenacity to Their Broad Acres.

The tenacity with which the great estates of Mexico are maintained intact by the old families of this country appears all the more remarkable when it is considered how generally all lines of industry, aside from that of the farmer, are in the hands of foreigners. The dry goods trade of Mexico is controlled by the French, the Spaniards of Mexico are the country's grocers, the Germans do the hardware business, the railroads are controlled by Americans and English, the bank stock of Mexico is largely owned in France, Germany and England, and a large percentage of the industrial concerns of the country belong to foreigners. Not so, however, the agricultural resources of Mexico.

During recent years a great deal of American capital has entered the republic for investment in tropical plantations, particularly in southern Mexico, but the great bulk of Mexico's rural land is held in the form of extensive haciendas or ranches, often hundreds of thousands of acres in extent. Some of these estates have been handed down in the same families for nearly 400 years, not a few titles tracing their origin back to the first grants from the king of Spain after the conquest. The aristocracy of Mexico is counted among these landed proprietors, many of whom enjoy princely incomes from their plantations, which often produce a great variety of products and embrace several manufacturing plants.

It is largely due to the fact that the tax upon land of this character is comparatively very light that these estates have so long remained undivided, as in most instances only a small per cent of their area is under cultivation. As in many states the levy is practically only a tax upon products the unused acres are no great burden. They are naturally those who desire to see these tracts taxed so that the owners will be forced to sell at least portions of them and the land of the country divided among a larger number of small proprietors. Such a measure would be vigorously opposed by the wealthy landed proprietors, and such is the number and importance of this class that no active measure of this kind has ever been promulgated. The ancient estates of Mexico are so large that few individuals can purchase them entire and the owners can rarely be prevailed upon to divide their holdings in any manner. Occasionally now one of them is bought by a syndicate or company for development or for subdivision and sale. In this way smaller holdings are becoming more common than formerly, though the old order of things is not likely to be greatly altered in Mexico for many years to come.

CANNOT SAY ENOUGH.

Common Remark in Reference to Gratitude Felt for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—Miss G. V. Campbell in that Position.

No class is more universally grateful than the multitude restored to health by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

To such people Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have made all the difference between misery and happiness.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are arousing unspeakable gratitude in thousands of homes throughout Canada, creating a feeling so deep and sincere that ordinary words of thanks sound cheap and insufficient.

Miss Gusty V. Campbell of Little Shippegan, N. B., is a case in point. She is one of those whom Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have gratified beyond the measure of words.

Suffering from the acutest pangs of indigestion, she found herself utterly helpless. Nothing she could do would afford her any relief. Her food fermented in the stomach, and all the usual pain and distress followed. In spite of the medicines she was prescribed, instead of better she grew steadily worse.

Consequently, it is with more than ordinary gratitude that Miss Campbell regards Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They restored her digestive system to the natural, wholesome, healthy condition where food is perfectly assimilated, and good rich blood sent to build up tissues and nerves. They gave the glow of vigorous health to her cheeks, and the spring of energy to her step.

"I cannot," she writes, "say enough in favour of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Looking through one of Dodd's almanacs, I saw the reasonableness of the claims made for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and determined to test them. I am glad I did so. That was the first step towards regaining the health which I had lost, and which, thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, I now again enjoy.

"I can honestly recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to any of my friends who are suffering from Dyspepsia."

A CONNACHT LOVE SONG.

[In the meter of the original.]

Little charmer over there,
To my prayer, oh, turn not cold!
Child, whose locks unto the flowers
Fall in showers of languid gold;
Child, beneath whose brows of jet
Eyes deep set of dreamy gray
Through the darkness haunt and haunt me,
Daunt and daunt me all the day.

Like the swan thy bosom shows;
Pert thy nose and round thy chin;
Small thy mouth of smiling red;
Bright the bed of pearls therein.
Oh, thy white hand's gentle gestures!
Oh, thy vesture's floating flow!
Oh, to hear thy voice and bless it,
Then to miss it, ah, the woe!

Oh, the snowy fluttering blossom
Of thy bosom, branch of May,
While thy steps go dancing by me
Down the thymy meadow way!
Pity now I'm not with thee
